(e) A petition for a hearing provided in paragraph (d) filed by the affected person within ten days of receiving notice of the department's action shall operate to stay the suspension of the department for the period provided for the said hearing. If the trial court fails to afford said hearing within the time herein prescribed, the suspension shall not take place until such time as the person has been granted such hearing. If within the said prescribed hearing period the person affected requests a continuance of the hearing to a date beyond the expiration of the said prescribed hearing period, the suspension shall become effective on the day immediately following the said prescribed period, or immediately upon receipt of the court's notice that said request for continuance has been granted, whichever is the later. In every event the court shall forthwith rule on the question herein prescribed.

(f) If such court determines upon such hearing that the suspension herein provided is according to law and should be sustained, such person's driving privileges shall forthwith be suspended by order of such court, and his license shall forthwith be delivered to the court or to the Department of Public Safety.

(g) Any person arrested for any offense allegedly committed while the person was driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcoholic beverages may request the arresting officer to have a chemical test made of the arrested person's breath, blood, saliva, or urine for the purpose of determining the alcoholic content of such person's blood, and, if so requested, the arresting officer shall have the test performed.

(h) Warning of the consent provision of this section shall be printed above the signature line on each new or renewed driver's license issued after the effective date of this act.

(i) By applying for a driver's license and by accepting and using a driver's license, the person holding the driver's license shall be deemed to have expressed his consent to the provisions of this section.

(j) A nonresident or any other person driving in a status exempt from the requirements of the driver's license law shall by his act of driving in such exempt status be deemed to have expressed his consent to the provisions of this section.

(2)(a) The test determining the weight of alcohol in the defendant's blood shall be administered at the direction of the arresting officer in accordance with rules and regulations which shall have been adopted by the department. Such rules and regulations shall be adopted after public hearing, and shall specify precisely the test or tests which are approved by said department for reliability of result and facility of administration and shall provide an approved method of administration which shall be followed in all tests given under this section.

(b) Only a physician, registered nurse, or duly licensed clinical laboratory technologist or clinical laboratory technician, acting at the request of a peace officer, may withdraw blood for the purpose of determining the alcoholic content therein. Such withdrawal of blood shall be performed only at a hospital, clinic, or other medical facility. This limitation shall not apply to the taking of breath, urine, or saliva specimens.

(c) The person tested may, at his own expense, have a physician, registered nurse, duly licensed clinical laboratory technologist or clinical laboratory technician or any other person of his own choosing administer a test, in addition to a test administered at the direction of a peace officer, for the purpose of determining the amount of alcohol in his blood at the time alleged as shown by chemical analysis of his blood, breath, or urine. The failure or inability to obtain an additional test by a person shall not preclude the admissibility in evidence of the test taken at the direction of a peace officer.

(d) Upon the request of the person tested, full information concerning the test taken at the direction of the peace officer shall be made available to him or his attorney.

(e) No physician, registered nurse, or duly licensed clinical laboratory technologist or clinical laboratory technician shall incur any civil or criminal liability as a result of the proper administering of a blood test when requested in writing by a peace officer to administer such a test.

(f) If the test given under subsection (1) is a chemical test of urine, the person tested shall be given such privacy in the taking of the urine specimen as will insure the accuracy of the specimen and at the same time maintain the dignity of the individual involved.

History.—§1, ch. 67-308.

Note.—§322.261 was added by §1, ch. 67-308, to become effective July 1, 1968.

*322.262 Presumption of intoxication; testing methods.—

(1) It is unlawful and punishable as provided in this chapter and in §317.201 for any person who is under the influence of alcoholic beverages when affected to the extent that his normal faculties are impaired to drive or be in actual physical control of any motor vehicle within this state.

(2) Upon the trial of any civil or criminal action or proceeding arising out of acts alleged to have been committed by any person while driving or in actual physical control of a vehicle while under the influence of alcoholic beverages when affected to the extent that his normal faculties were impaired, the results of any test administered in accordance with this act shall be admissible into evidence where otherwise admissible, and the amount of alcohol in the person's blood at the time alleged as shown by chemical analysis of the person's blood, urine, breath, or other bodily substance shall give rise to the following presumptions:

(a) If there was at that time 0.05 per cent or less by weight of alcohol in the person's blood, it shall be presumed that the person was not under the influence of alcoholic beverages to the extent that his normal faculties were impaired.

(b) If there was at that time in excess of 0.05 per cent but less than 0.10 per cent by weight of alcohol in the person's blood, such fact shall not give rise to any presumption that the person was or was not under the influence of alcoholic beverages to the extent that his normal faculties were impaired, but such fact may be considered with other competent evidence in determining whether the person was under the influence of alcoholic beverages to the extent that his normal faculties were impaired.

(c) If there was at that time more than 0.10 per cent by weight of alcohol in the person's blood, it shall be prima facie evidence that the person was under the influence of alcoholic beverages to the extent that his normal faculties were impaired.

(d) Per cent by weight of alcohol in the blood shall be based upon milligrams of alcohol per one hundred cubic centimeters of blood.

(e) The foregoing provisions of this subsection shall not be construed as limiting the introduction of any other competent evidence bearing upon the question whether the person was under the influence of alcoholic beverages to the extent that his normal faculties were impaired.

(3) Chemical analyses of the person's blood, urine, breath, or other bodily substance, to be considered valid under the provisions of this section, shall have been performed according to methods approved by the State Board of Health and by an individual possessing a valid permit issued by the State Board of Health for this purpose. The State Board of Health is authorized to approve satisfactory techniques or methods, to ascertain the qualifications and competence of individuals to conduct such analyses, and to issue permits which shall be subject to termination or revocation at the discretion of the State Board of Health.

(4) Any person charged with driving while under the influence of alcoholic beverages to the extent that his normal faculties were impaired shall be entitled to trial by jury according to the Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure.

History.—§§2, 3, ch. 67-308.

*Note.—§322.262 was added by §§2, 3, ch. 67-308, to become effective July 1, 1968.

322.27 Authority of department to suspend or revoke license.—

(1) The department is hereby authorized to suspend the license of an operator or chauffeur without preliminary hearing upon a showing of its records or other sufficient evidence that the licensee:

(a) Has committed an offense for which mandatory revocation of license is required upon conviction; or,

(b) Has been convicted of a violation of any traffic law which resulted in an accident that caused the death or personal injury of another or property damage in excess of fifty dollars; or,

(c) Is incompetent to drive a motor vehicle; or

(d) Has permitted an unlawful or fraudulent use of such license or has knowingly been a party to the obtaining of a license by fraud or misrepresentation or to display, or represent as one's own, any operator or chauffeur license not issued him. Provided, however, no provision of this section shall be construed to include the provisions of §322.32(1).

(e) Has committed an offense in another state which if committed in this state would be grounds for suspension or revocation.

(f) Has been convicted in any state or municipal court having jurisdiction over offenses committed under this chapter or any other law of this state regulating the operation of a motor vehicle on the highways upon recommendation when the court feels that the circumstances surrounding the conviction warrant the suspension of the licensee's driving privilege.

(2) There is established a point system for evaluation of convictions of violations of motor vehicle laws or ordinances for the determination of the continuing qualification of any person to operate a motor vehicle. The Department of Public Safety is authorized to suspend the license of any operator or chauffeur upon showing of its records or other good and sufficient evidence that the licensee has been convicted of violation of motor vehicle laws or ordinances amounting to twelve or more points as determined by the point system. The suspension shall be for a period of not more than one year.

(a) When a licensee accumulates twelve points within a twelve-month period, the period of suspension shall be for not more than thirty days.

(b) When a licensee accumulates eighteen points, including points upon which suspension action is taken under paragraph (a), within an eighteen-month period, the suspension shall be for a period of not more than three months.

(c) When a licensee accumulates twenty-four points, including points upon which suspension action is taken under paragraphs (a) and (b), within a thirty-six month period, the suspension shall be for a period of not more than one year.

(d) The point system shall have as its basic element a graduated scale of points assigning relative values to convictions of the following violations:

1. Reckless driving willful and wanton—2-6 points.

2. Leaving the scene of an accident resulting in property damage of more than fifty dollars—3-7 points.

3. Passing a stopped school bus—2-4 points.

4. Unlawful speed—2-4 points.

5. Improper equipment (brakes, lights, steering)—1-3 points.

6. All other moving violations (including parking on a highway outside the limits of a municipality)—1-3 points.

7. Any such moving violation covered above resulting in an accident—2-4 points.

(e) In computing the total number of points, any conviction which occurred more than thirty-six months preceding the last conviction shall not be considered; provided, that any point computed at half value at the time this act takes effect shall not be affected.

(f) A conviction in another state of a violation therein which, if committed in this state, would be a violation of the traffic laws of this state, except a violation of §322.26, may be recorded against a driver on the basis of one half the number of points received had the conviction been made in a court of this state.

(g) In computing the total number of points, when the licensee reaches the danger zone, the department is authorized to send the licensee a warning letter advising that any further convictions may result in suspension of his driving privilege.

(h) Any court having jurisdiction over traffic arrests in this state shall assess points to violators from the minimum to the maximum as provided above; provided, however, if the court having jurisdiction fails to record or specify the number of points on the conviction report at the time of conviction, the department shall assign the median points provided above for the violation committed.

(i) The department shall administer and enforce the provisions of this law and may make rules and regulations necessary for its administration.

(3) Any points assigned to any person prior to the passage of this act shall remain at the full value assigned for the period of time provided before the passage of this act.

322.271 Authority to modify revocation or suspension.—

(1) Upon the suspension, cancellation or revocation of the driver's license of any person as authorized or required in this chapter, the department shall immediately notify the licensee, and upon his request shall afford him an opportunity for a hearing as early as practical within not to exceed thirty days after receipt of such request, in the county wherein the licensee resides, unless the department and the licensee agree that such hearing may be held in some other county. Upon such hearing a duly authorized agent of the department may administer oaths and may issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant books, papers, and may require a re-examination of the licensee.

(2) Upon such hearing the person whose license has been suspended, cancelled or revoked, may show that such cancellation, suspension or revocation of his license causes a serious hardship and precludes his carrying out his normal business occupation, trade, or employment, and that the use of his license in the normal course of his business is necessary to the proper support of himself or his family. The department may require letters of recommendation from respected business men in the community, law enforcement officers or judicial officers in determining whether such person should be permitted to operate a motor vehicle on a restricted basis for business use only and in determining whether such person can be trusted to so operate a motor vehicle.

(3) Upon such hearing the department shall either suspend, affirm or modify its order and may restore to the licensee the privilege of driving on a limited or restricted basis, for business or employment use only.

History.—§8, ch. 59-278.

322.272 Supersedeas.—The filing of a petition for certiorari to the circuit court shall operate as a supersedeas of such suspension, revocation or cancellation, except when same is based on the offense of driving or being in actual physical control of a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs.

History.—§7, ch. 59-278; §5, ch. 61-457.

322.273 Penalty.—The penalty for violation of the terms or conditions of a license so restricted by the department of public safety shall be the same as the penalty for driving while such license is revoked, cancelled or suspended.

History.—§8, ch. 59-278.

322.28 Period of suspension or revocation.—

(1) The department shall not suspend a license for a period of more than one year, and upon revoking a license, in all cases except in prosecutions for the offense of driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, shall not in any event grant a new license until the expiration of one year after such revocation; except as provided herein.

(2) In prosecutions for the offense of driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, the following provisions shall apply:

(a) Upon conviction of a driver, the court, along with imposing sentence, shall revoke the driver's license or driving privilege of the person so convicted and shall prescribe the period of such revocation in accordance with the following provisions:

1. Upon first conviction, the driver's license or privilege shall be revoked for not less than three months nor more than twelve months.

2. Upon a second conviction within a period of five years from the date of a prior conviction for said offense, the driver's license or privilege shall be revoked for not less than six months nor more than twenty-four months.

3. Upon a third or subsequent conviction within a period of ten years from the date of conviction of the first of three or more convictions for said offense, the driver's license or privilege shall be revoked for not less than one year nor more than five years.

(b) If the period of revocation shall not be specified by the court at the time of imposing sentence or within thirty days thereafter, the department shall forthwith revoke the driver's license or privilege for the maximum period applicable under subsection (2)(a). The driver may, within thirty days of such revocation by the department, petition the court for further hearing on the period of revocation and the court shall be authorized in such case at its discretion to reopen the case and to determine the period of revocation within the limits specified in said subsection (2)(a).

(c) Any person having his license revoked or suspended by the department of public safety may during the period of said revocation or suspension apply to the department of public safety for review of said revocation or suspension and restoration of his driving privileges. Upon receipt of said application the department of public safety shall provide for a hearing after notice to said applicant within thirty days and may after said hearing and such investigation as may be made, restore the driving privileges subject to such conditions and restrictions as the department may deem proper which shall not extend beyond the original period of revocation or suspension.

(d) The forfeiture of bail bond, not vacated within ten days, in any prosecution for the offense of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor to the extent of depriving the defendant of his or her normal faculties, shall be deemed equivalent to a conviction for the purposes of this paragraph and the department shall forthwith revoke the defendant's driver's license or privilege for the maximum period applicable under subsection (2)(a); provided, if the defendant shall subsequently be convicted of said charge, the period of revocation for such conviction shall not exceed the difference between the applicable maximum under subsection (2)(a) and the period imposed under this subsection that shall have actually expired.

(e) When any driver's license or privilege has been revoked pursuant to the provisions of this section, the department shall not grant a new license until the expiration of the period of revocation so prescribed.

History.—§1, ch. 67-176.

322.44 Driver license compact.—The driver license compact is hereby enacted into law and entered into with all other jurisdictions legally joining therein in the form substantially as follows:

ARTICLE I

FINDINGS AND DECLARATION OF POLICY.—

(1) The party states find that:

(a) The safety of their streets and highways is materially affected by the degree of compliance with state laws and local ordinances relating to the operation of motor vehicles;

(b) Violation of such a law or ordinance is evidence that the violator engages in conduct which is likely to endanger the safety of persons and property;

(c) The continuance in force of a license to drive is predicated upon compliance with laws and ordinances relating to the operation of motor vehicles, in whichever jurisdiction the vehicle is operated.

(2) It is the policy of each of the party states to:

(a) Promote compliance with the laws, ordinances, and administrative rules and regulations relating to the operation of motor vehicles by their operators in each of the jurisdictions where such operators drive motor vehicles;

(b) Make the reciprocal recognition of licenses to drive and eligibility therefor more just and equitable by considering the overall compliance with motor vehicle laws, ordinances and administrative rules and regulations as a condition precedent to the continuance or issuance of any license by reason of which the licensee is authorized or permitted to operate a motor vehicle in any of the party states.

ARTICLE II

DEFINITIONS.—As used in this compact:

(1) "State" means a state, territory or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia, or the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

(2) "Home state" means the state which has issued and has the power to suspend or revoke the use of the license or permit to operate a motor vehicle.

(3) "Conviction" means a conviction of any offense related to the use or operation of a motor vehicle which is prohibited by state law, municipal ordinance or administrative rule or regulation, or a forfeiture of bail, bond or other security deposited to secure appearance by a person charged with having committed any such offense, and which conviction or forfeiture is required to be reported to the licensing authority.

ARTICLE III

REPORTS OF CONVICTION.—The licensing authority of a party state shall report each conviction of a person from another party state occurring within its jurisdiction to the licensing authority of the home state of the licensee. Such report shall clearly identify the person convicted; describe the violation specifying the section of the statute, code or ordinance violated; identify the court in which action was taken; indicate whether a plea of guilty or not guilty was entered or the conviction was a result of the forfeiture of bail, bond or other security; and shall include any special findings made in connection therewith.

ARTICLE IV

EFFECT OF CONVICTION.—

(1) The licensing authority in the home state, for the purposes of suspension, revocation or limitation of the license to operate a motor vehicle, shall give the same effect to the conduct reported, pursuant to Article III, as it would if such conduct had occurred in the home state, in the case of convictions for:

(a) Manslaughter or negligent homicide resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle, as provided by §§860.01 and 322.26;

(b) Driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcoholic beverages or a narcotic drug, or under the influence of any other drug to a degree which renders the driver incapable of safely driving a motor vehicle, as provided by §§860.01 and 317.201;

(c) Any felony in the commission of which a motor vehicle is used, as provided by §322.26;

(d) Failure to stop and render aid in the event of a motor vehicle accident resulting in the death or personal injury of another, as provided by §322.26.

(2) As to other convictions, reported pursuant to Article III, the licensing authority in the home state shall give such effect to the conduct as is provided by the laws of the home state.

ARTICLE V

APPLICATIONS FOR NEW LICENSES.—

Upon application for a license to drive, the licensing authority in a party state shall ascertain whether the applicant has ever held, or is the holder of, a license to drive issued by any other party state. The licensing authority in the state where application is made shall not issue a license to drive to the applicant if:

(1) The applicant has held such a license, but the same has been suspended by reason, in whole or in part, of a violation and if such suspension period has not terminated;

(2) The applicant has held such a license, but the same has been revoked by reason, in whole or in part, of a violation and if such revocation has not terminated, except that after the expiration of one year from the date the license was revoked, such person may make application for a new license if permitted by law. The licensing authority may refuse to issue a license to any such applicant if, after investigation, the licensing authority determines that it will not be safe to grant to such person the privilege of driving a motor vehicle on the public highways;

(3) The applicant is the holder of a license to drive issued by another party state and currently in force unless the applicant surrenders such license.

ARTICLE VI

APPLICABILITY OF OTHER LAWS.—Except as expressly required by provisions of this compact, nothing contained herein shall be construed to affect the right of any party state to apply any of its other laws relating to licenses to drive to any person or circumstance, nor to invalidate or prevent any driver license agreement or other cooperative arrangement between a party state and a nonparty state.

ARTICLE VII

COMPACT ADMINISTRATOR AND INTERCHANGE OF INFORMATION.—

(1) The head of the licensing authority of each party state shall be the administrator of this compact for his state. The administrators, acting jointly, shall have the power to formulate all necessary and proper procedures for the exchange of information under this compact.

(2) The administrator of each party state shall furnish to the administrator of each other party state any information or documents reasonably necessary to facilitate the administration of this compact.

ARTICLE VIII

ENTRY INTO FORCE AND WITHDRAWAL.—

(1) This compact shall enter into force and become effective as to any state when it has enacted the same into law.

(2) Any party state may withdraw from this compact by enacting a statute repealing the same, but no such withdrawal shall take effect until six months after the executive head of the withdrawing state has given notice of the withdrawal to the executive heads of all other party states. No withdrawal shall affect the validity or applicability by the licensing authorities of states remaining party to the compact of any report of conviction occurring prior to the withdrawal.

ARTICLE IX

CONSTRUCTION AND SEVERABILITY.—

This compact shall be liberally construed so as to effectuate the purposes thereof. The provisions of this compact shall be severable, and if any phrase, clause, sentence or provision of this compact is declared to be contrary to the constitution of any party state or of the United States or the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstance is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this compact and the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstance shall not be affected thereby. If this compact shall be held contrary to the constitution of any state party thereto, the compact shall remain in full force and effect as to the remaining states and in full force and effect as to the state affected as to all severable matters.

History.—§2, ch. 67-176.

322.45 Department of Public Safety; duty.

—As used in this act, the term "licensing authority," with reference to this state, shall mean the Department of Public Safety. This section shall apply with like effect to the transfer of control of a corporate certificate holder through transfer of stock ownership or otherwise.

(2) When any such certificate is proposed to be sold, assigned or transferred, or when stock of a corporate certificate holder is proposed to be assigned, sold, transferred or purchased and such will effect a transfer of control of the corporation, all of the parties, nominal and actual, to such transaction shall jointly file an application with the commission, upon forms, and according to rules governing form and substance thereof adopted by such commission. Such application shall set forth the details of the transaction, specifying the consideration and method of payment, the date such assignment, sale or transfer is desired to be consummated, the financial statement of the transferee, the certificate authority, if any, held by the transferee from any regulatory commission of this state, of the United States, or of any state or district of the United States, and any other pertinent facts. In such application the proposed transferee shall agree to pay all taxes, assessments and obligations which may be due or owing to this state by the transferror to the date of the entry of the order by the commission approving such transfer, as a condition precedent to such approval. Upon the filing of such petition, the commission shall issue and serve upon all railroads and all certificate holders operating under certificates of the commission authorizing transportation in the territory involved of any commodities included in the certificate sought to be assigned or transferred, a written notice which notice shall contain the general pertinent facts of such application. Said notice shall require any objections or protests to such transfer to be filed in writing with the commission by a date to be fixed in such notice, and the same shall be accompanied by a filing fee of three hundred dollars to be placed in the general revenue fund. Any objection or protest filed shall state fully the basis therefor. In the event no such written protest is filed with the commission within the time fixed in such notice, then and in that event, the commission may consider said petition and act upon the same as an ex parte matter without the necessity of public hearing, and for the purpose of such consideration, the commission may require either or both of the parties to such proposed transfer to appear before it for the purpose of giving testimony, or to produce any such records or information as the commission may direct and find necessary to consider in passing upon said petition. If no protests or objections are filed within the time fixed in such notice, there shall be refunded to the applicants the sum of three hundred dollars. In the event protests or objections are filed and hearings held, as above provided, and such protests or objections are found by the commission to be valid and the application for transfer is denied, the three hundred dollar filing fee shall be refunded to the protestant or protestants; however, should the commission, after hearing, find that such protests or objections are so lacking in merit as to render them invalid, and the application is granted, the sum of three hundred dollars shall be refunded to the applicants and the filing fee of protestants or objectors shall be retained by the commission and placed in the general revenue fund.

(3) In the event one or more written protests stating grounds therefor are filed with the commission as herein provided within the time fixed in said notice, then the commission shall cause a public hearing to be held, and shall issue and serve upon the applicants and all persons who have filed such protests a notice of such hearing, containing the general pertinent facts of such application, the date of such hearing to be not less than fifteen days following the date of such notice. At such public hearing, persons who have filed written protests as aforesaid shall have the right to appear and be heard, and to offer testimony and evidence in support of or in protest to the granting of such application. Following such hearing, if the commission finds and determines that such sale, assignment, or transfer, is not contrary to the public interest, and that the certificate has not been dormant for more than six months, it shall enter an appropriate order in the premises. The commission shall have no power or authority, directly or indirectly, to grant or issue any temporary or interim approval of a sale, assignment, or transfer as aforesaid, but shall have power only to approve or disapprove same, finally, and after hearing if protests are filed as aforesaid and hearing is requested.

(4) A certificate may be divided as to route or territories, and part thereof transferred, sold, or assigned, provided the commission finds that such routes or territories are clearly severable and the division thereof does not permit the creation of duplicate operating rights. No division of certificate rights, by sale, transfer or assignment based upon the class or classes of property authorized to be transported shall be approved, unless it appears to the satisfaction of the commission that the part of the operating rights sought to be transferred, sold or assigned is, because of a difference in the nature or type of the service rendered, considering the type of vehicle and characteristics of the customers served, clearly distinguishable and severable from the remaining operating rights; provided, however, certificates which authorize transportation of general freight or of a specified general class of freight which class would include other classes as an integral part thereof may not be severed as to any commodity or class falling within such overall general class specified in the certificate.

(5) When the transfer of any certificate, or the sale of capital stock of a corporate certificate holder, as herein provided, is approved by the commission, the commission is hereby empowered to reasonably alter, restrict or modify the terms and provisions of such certificate, or impose restrictions on such transfer where the public interest may be best served thereby, or the existing transportation facilities within the territory or on the route involved may be safeguarded or improved in the public interest.

(6) The order of the commission approving any sale, assignment, or transfer shall direct immediate cancellation of the certificate and reissuance thereof to the transferee unless alterations, restrictions or modifications of the terms and provisions of such certificate are imposed in conjunction with such approval. In such latter event the commission order of approval shall require the transferee to notify it in writing within a period of time fixed by the commission whether or not it will accept the certificate as so altered or restricted. If such notification is not given, or if given in the negative, the commission shall enter its order canceling and revoking its approval, otherwise the commission shall thereafter cancel the certificate and reissue it to the transferee.

(7) Notwithstanding any of the provisions hereof, any executor, administrator, receiver, trustee in bankruptcy or in reorganization, or other court officer, shall be entitled, as judicial assignee, to operate the business of the certificate holder, without the approval of the commission, upon filing with the commission a certified copy of this order of appointment, but any sale, transfer, or assignment by any such judicial officer shall be subject to the terms and conditions hereof.

323.042 Multiple transportation authority prohibited.—No motor carrier shall acquire or hold a common carrier certificate and a contract carrier certificate or a for hire permit at the same time, or a contract carrier certificate and a for hire permit at the same time, unless the commission shall first find after a public hearing that such dual authority or multiple authority is not contrary to the public interest; provided, however, that this prohibition shall not apply to motor carriers holding such dual or multiple authority on May 26, 1959.

History.—§1, ch. 59-146; §1, ch. 63-496.

323.05 Permit to operate motor vehicle for hire.—

(1) No motor carrier shall operate any for hire motor vehicle on any public highway in this state in the transportation of persons or property for compensation without first having obtained from the commission a permit, which permit shall issue as a matter of right and of course when the provisions of this part and the laws of the state touching such motor vehicle operation have been complied with by the applicant.

(2) The permit so issued shall subject the applicant to the rules and regulations of the commission respecting the operation of such motor vehicle over state highways for compensation, and it shall also subject such applicant to the road tax imposed by this part, which road tax shall be collected by the state comptroller and distributed by him in the same manner and for the same purposes as motor vehicle auto license taxes are distributed. Provided, however, in lieu of such road tax, all motor carriers operating taxicabs under this part shall procure a permit therefor from the commission and shall pay to said commission at the time application is made for said permit a tax of twenty-five dollars per annum. Said permit shall entitle such motor carrier to which it is issued to register any number of taxicabs for operation under this part upon the payment of an annual tax to said commission of five dollars for each such taxicab so registered. For hire permits and registrations thereunder for the operation of taxicabs shall expire on June 30, annually, but may be renewed upon proper application and the payment of the annual tax provided for herein. In the event any application is denied the annual tax accompanying said application may be refunded. Provided, further, that the term taxi-

*This section shall not affect the validity of any permit specifically authorizing for hire or charter carriage approved for issuance or issued by the commission prior to May 15, 1949, but any such permit so issued may not hereafter be extended or expanded beyond its original terms and limitations except in accordance with the provisions of §§323.01, 323.05, 323.14.

cab as used herein shall be construed to include every motor vehicle of nine passenger capacity or less, including the driver, subject to municipal regulation, engaged in the general transportation of persons for hire, not on regular schedule or between fixed termini or over regular routes, but over the streets generally of said municipality, with occasional unsolicited trips beyond the boundaries thereof. Any and all annual taxes so collected shall be paid to the state treasurer to the credit of the general revenue fund. Such taxes shall be deemed to be compensatory for the use of the public highways of this state just as road taxes under §323.25.

(3) No such permit shall be required in respect to the operation of for hire motor vehicles wholly within the limits of any incorporated city or town and the suburban territory immediately adjacent thereto, when such for hire carriage is regulated by the legislative body of such city or town. The ordinances, rules or regulations adopted by the legislative body of such city or town shall be applicable to for hire motor vehicles within the suburban territory immediately adjacent thereto and such cities and towns shall have police power to enforce such ordinances, rules or regulations in such suburban territory immediately adjacent thereto, over the roads and highways in such territory to the same extent as if the territory was within the corporate limits of such towns or cities. No such permit shall be required in respect to the private carriage or distribution of his own goods, wares or merchandise over public highways by any person using his own motor vehicles in such carriage.

(4) For hire carriage of passengers shall not be permitted or authorized by the commission under this section or under this part in motor vehicles of a greater passenger-carrying capacity than nine, including the driver, and all for hire permits in passenger carriage issued by the commission hereunder shall specifically limit the authority so granted to such motor vehicles. In the interest of safety on the highways and safety of the traveling public, all carriage of passengers over public highways, for compensation, in groups of more than eight and in charter carriage as defined in this part, in a single motor vehicle, shall be deemed to be charter carriage and shall be authorized and permitted only in motor buses and as a part of the common carrier service of common carriers of passengers operating under certificates of public convenience and necessity issued under the provisions of this part and the rules and regulations of the commission applicable to common carriers of passengers.

(5) Application by a motor carrier for a permit to operate for hire over the public highways of this state shall be in writing verified by the applicant and shall specify among other things the following matters:

(a) The name and address of the applicant and the names and addresses of its officers, if any.

(b) A brief description of each vehicle which the applicant proposes to operate and the for hire license tag therefor issued or to be issued as to such vehicles.

(c) An agreement on the part of the applicant to keep such records as may be prescribed by the commission, and to abide by the terms of the permit issued and by the rules and regulations of the commission as to type and size of equipment, safety appliances and devices, and regulations as to load which may be reasonably prescribed by the commission from time to time, within the limits prescribed by law as to such motor vehicles.

(6) Upon the filing of such application for permit the commission shall issue the same as of course and without notice of public hearing; provided, the commission may prescribe such reasonable rules, regulations and restrictions in such permit as it may deem necessary for the safety and conservation of the highways and the protection and preservation of transportation facilities as a whole in the territory involved. In its consideration of such questions the commission may require public hearing on the application and in such hearing may consider questions of public convenience and necessity and the effect of the proposed service or carriage, if granted, on existing transportation facilities and on transportation as a whole within the territory proposed to be served and may deny or restrict or modify the proposed service if the same is found to be contrary to the public interest. Such permit shall be subject to suspension or revocation at any time by the commission upon hearing when it shall appear that the holder thereof has failed to keep records as prescribed by the commission, and to comply with the laws of the state touching motor vehicle operations or with the rules and regulations of the commission as to the operation of such vehicles over public highways.

(1) A motor carrier may apply for a for hire permit to transport for compensation road building and construction aggregates between all points within a single county, which permit shall issue as a matter of right and of course when the provisions of this part and laws of the state touching such motor vehicle operation have been complied with by the applicant.

(2) The permit so issued shall subject the applicant to the rules and regulations of the commission respecting operations of such motor vehicle, over state highways for compensation, except that said motor carrier shall pay a permit fee of one hundred dollars and an annual road tax of fifty dollars on each vehicle in lieu of any road tax imposed by §323.15, and with the same immunity from paying any additional taxes as provided in §323.031.

(3) The permit so issued shall restrict the applicant's equipment used in transporting road building and construction aggregates between all points within one county named in the permit.

(4) The permit shall require that each piece of equipment registered by the permit holder shall carry an auto license plate with the county designation on the license plate the same as the county in which the permit holder is authorized to operate, except as may be provided by the rules of the commission in event of purchase of second hand equipment with a different county license plate.

(5) Any motor carrier holding a for hire permit under this section for single county operations shall not be granted any other permit for any other county, and shall not be allowed to use its equipment in any other county, except by lease to a limited common carrier of road building and construction aggregates provided that on such vehicle so leased there shall be paid one hundred dollars per vehicle, so as to comply with the road tax herein imposed on vehicles of limited common carriers.

(6) All motor vehicles and trailers of holders for hire permits authorizing a single county operation shall have the name and address, including the county of the permit holder, lettered on the sides of the aforesaid equipment, under appropriate rules of the commission.

(7) This section shall not apply to motor vehicles having a load capacity of ten tons or less.

(1) The commission shall, at the time of granting a certificate or permit to any motor carrier for transporting persons or property, fix and determine the amount of the bond to be given by the applicant for the protection, in case of passenger vehicle, of the passengers and baggage carried in said vehicle and of the public against injury caused by negligence of the person or corporation operating the said vehicle, and in case of the vehicle transporting freight, for the protection of the said freight so carried if in common carriage, and of the public against injuries received through negligence of the person or corporation operating said freight-carrying vehicle; the applicant shall procure and file with the commission the said bond for liability and property damage, including loss of baggage when same has been checked in accordance with the rules prescribed by the commission, giving the said bond or bonds in a surety company authorized to do business in the state, or deposit, in lieu of said surety, bonds of the United States government or of any city or county in the state approved by the said commission.

(2) The said bonds shall be conditioned to indemnify passengers and the public receiving personal injuries by any act of negligence, and for damages to property of any person other than the assured; and such bonds shall contain such conditions, provisions and limitations as the commission may prescribe, and said bonds shall be payable to the governor of the state, or his successor in office, and shall be for the benefit of and subject to action thereon by any person or persons who shall have sustained an actionable injury protected thereby, notwithstanding any provisions in said bond to the contrary, and every bond or insurance policy given shall be conclusively presumed to have been given according to and to contain all of the provisions of this part.

(3) And no certificate or permit shall be valid until such bond has been filed and approved, and no such bond so accepted shall be canceled by the company issuing the same except upon thirty days notice to the commission and upon such notice being given by the company issuing said bond or bonds, the certificate or permit of the person or the corporation giving bond shall be revoked, unless a new bond shall be filed and accepted before the date for the cancellation of the said bond; provided, however, that the applicant may, in the discretion of the commission, be allowed to file in lieu of bond an insurance policy, which shall be approved by the commission, with some casualty or insurance company authorized to do business in the state; and provided, further, that no motor carrier shall be required to file a bond or insurance policy under this section if such company shall be found by the commission in its reasonable discretion to be qualified to act as self-insurer under rules and regulations prescribed by the commission permitting motor carriers to become self-insurers on a showing of continued net worth sufficient to reasonably protect the public against loss or damage for which the company may be liable. Applications to become self-insurers shall be accompanied by a filing fee of five hundred dollars to be placed in the general revenue fund.

Hearings may be held before the commission, a commissioner designated by the commission or a hearing examiner of the commission at its offices in Tallahassee or at any other point in the state. The commission, in the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred upon it by this part may make orders and prescribe rules and regulations affecting such motor carriers, notwithstanding the provisions of any ordinance or permit of any incorporated city or town, city and county, or county, or village, and in case of conflict between any such order, rule or regulation, and such ordinance or permit, the order, rule or regulation of the commission shall in each instance prevail. No municipality shall have the right to require any such motor carrier to furnish any bond or insurance policy, or pay any license, fee or tax except as herein provided.

The commission shall require each such motor carrier to keep open for public inspection at designated offices so much of said schedules, rates, fares, charges and classifications, if any, as well as time schedules, as it deems necessary for the public information. All rate applications filed under this part shall be accompanied by a filing fee of five hundred dollars; and all tariff filings required or permitted under this part shall be accompanied by a filing fee of ten dollars to be placed in the general revenue fund.

(2) Whenever such rates or fares or time schedules are found to be unreasonable, the commission, upon its own motion, or upon complaint, shall upon hearing as herein provided, prescribe reasonable rates and time schedules to take the place of those found unreasonable, and such new rates shall be filed in place of the rates and schedules superseded. No rates or time schedules filed with the commission shall be changed by any such motor carrier without an order of the commission sanctioning the same. It is unlawful for any motor carrier to collect or receive a greater or less rate or charges for any service rendered by it than the transportation charge shown in the schedules on file with the commission, and no new rates shall take effect until the date named by the commission.

(3) (a) The provisions of subsections (1) and (2) of this section and §323.19, shall not be applicable to common carrier armored car services now or hereafter holding certificates of public convenience and necessity authorizing the transportation of money, securities, and other valuables; and such carriers, because their transportation is more or less incidental to the protective services afforded, require separate negotiation with each person desiring to make use of their services, shall be termed limited common carriers, and such carriers shall not be restricted with requirements for domiciling equipment, when their equipment is used in transportation that is under the jurisdiction of the commission.

(b) The words "money, securities and other valuables" as used in this subsection and in any certificate of public convenience and necessity now or hereafter issued by the commission to any common carrier armored car service shall include, but not be limited to, money, currency, coin, bullion, precious metals, silverware, jewelry, precious stones, paintings, negotiable and nonnegotiable securities, and negotiable and nonnegotiable bank checks.

(1) Whenever any motor carrier is found to be violating the provisions of this part or any of the rules or regulations prescribed by the commission, or any of the laws of the state touching motor vehicle operation over the public highways, the commission may, upon complaint or upon its own motion, issue its orders to the said motor carrier notifying it to appear before the commission at a fixed time and place at which time and place the commission shall investigate such violations, and if it shall be satisfied after such hearing that said motor carrier has violated or refused to observe the laws of this state touching motor vehicle operations or any of the terms of the certificate or permit issued to such motor carrier, or any of the commission's orders, rules or regulations, the commission may suspend, revoke, alter or amend any certificate or permit issued to such motor carrier, or said commission may in its discretion, impose a penalty for each such offense of not more than $5,000.00; provided, either one or more of such impositions may be imposed alternately or cumulatively, which penalty shall constitute a lien upon real and personal property of said motor carrier, prior to all other liens except those for taxes due the state, enforceable by the commission as statutory liens under chapter 85, the proceeds of which shall be deposited to the credit of the commission to be used in the administration of this part; provided, that the holder of said certificate or permit shall have the right of review by the supreme court upon filing therewith a petition for issuance of a writ of certiorari in the manner and within the time prescribed by the Florida appellate rules.

(2) If the commission shall determine that the holder of any such certificate or permit has failed to keep correct mileage books and records, or to make correct mileage reports of the mileage traveled over public highways in carriage authorized by its certificate or permit, or to pay road taxes as hereinafter provided, the commission shall forthwith issue citation against such motor carrier requiring it to appear before the commission at a fixed time and place and show cause, if any, why it should not have penalty imposed against it or its certificate or permit revoked or suspended for a fixed period, as hereinbefore provided, in the discretion of the commission.

(3) The failure of the certificate holder to report and pay the road tax levied and prescribed for such operation for such period of six months shall be deemed prima facie evidence of the failure of said certificate holder to operate over such route or schedule or to such terminals for such period; provided, however, that the payment of such road tax shall not create any presumption of actual operation, and the burden of proof shall always be upon the certificate holder, when challenged hereunder, to establish by records and testimony the continuity of bona fide service during the period in question.

(4) Upon the entry of such foregoing order, the commission shall send a copy of same by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, to the certificate holder at his last address shown by the commission files and said certificate holder may file a formal written petition with the commission requesting a hearing upon such order, but no such petition may be filed or request made after the expiration of ninety days immediately subsequent to the date of mailing of such order.

(5) Before the commission shall have jurisdiction to consider such petition, it shall require the petitioning certificate holder to pay to it the sum of one hundred dollars toward the costs of the public hearing hereinafter provided. Upon the filing of such petition, the commission shall cause a public hearing to be held and shall cause written notice of such hearing to be mailed in the usual manner to all holders of certificates of public convenience and necessity issued by the commission, at least fifteen days prior to the date of such hearing. Following such hearing the commission may reinstate such certificate if good and sufficient cause be shown, or shall affirm its order of revocation.

cense shall be issued to any applicant therefor, who is found to be qualified, as hereinafter provided, to perform the transportation brokerage services proposed in his application and who is found to have complied with the provisions of this section and the requirements, rules and regulations of the commission thereunder; otherwise, such application shall be denied. Upon the filing of the application and the payment of the fees hereinafter provided, the commission shall set a time for a public hearing and shall at the same time give written notice thereof to each transportation broker holding a license to do business anywhere in the state. At such public hearing the applicant will be required to establish by substantial evidence the statements made in his application as well as the fact that the issuance of a license to him would be consistent with the public interest.

(3) APPLICATION, FEES.—

(a) Application for such transportation brokerage license shall be in writing verified by the applicant and shall specify the name and address of applicant and the names and addresses of its officers or partners, if any, the locality or location within the state from which the applicant desires to operate and the kind of transportation which the applicant intends to sell, provide, procure, contract or arrange for. In addition, the application shall show that the applicant is qualified in the following particulars:

1. He has had a minimum of one year of experience in the office of a licensed transportation broker or one year of experience as a truck owner or driver in the field of motor transportation.

2. He has not been convicted of engaging in the business of transportation brokerage without a proper license in the past twelve months; and no legal proceedings are pending against him for violation of this section.

3. He has not been engaged as the owner, partner, officer, or director of a predecessor company operating as a transportation broker within the past twelve months which has become insolvent, been adjudged as bankrupt, or has unsatisfied judgments against it.

4. He has attached to his application as a part thereof a current financial statement prepared and signed by a certified public accountant showing a minimum net worth of five thousand dollars and adequate financial means to operate successfully as a transportation broker.

(b) Each application shall be accompanied by a fee of seven hundred fifty dollars to be placed in the general revenue fund; provided, however, that four hundred dollars shall be refunded if the license is not issued. All licenses issued hereunder, including those licenses now in effect, shall be renewed annually by the payment of an annual license renewal fee of five hundred dollars per license which shall be due on December 31 of each year. If such fee is not paid in advance of such due date, it must be received by the commission on or before January 31 of the next year in order for the renewal of the license to be effective. All moneys received hereunder shall be deposited in the general revenue fund.

(c) Localities or locations from which the applicant desires to operate shall be stated as precisely as possible and if possible shall be stated by reference to a particular incorporated municipality. License shall be issued according to the localities or locations stated in the application therefor and shall authorize the applicant to do business only from the localities or locations stated. Nothing herein contained shall be interpreted as preventing any transportation broker from holding licenses to do business from more than one locality or location but a separate license shall be required for each locality or location from which business is done; provided, however, upon application to and approval by the commission, licensed transportation brokers engaged exclusively in procuring transportation for seasonal commodities, may, upon terminating seasonal operations in a given locality, move to another locality and continue such seasonal operations without procuring an additional license or licenses for such subsequent places of business.

(4) SUSPENSION OF LICENSE AND REVOCATION.—The public service commission may suspend a transportation broker's license if it finds that the licensee has either:

(a) Suffered a money judgment to be entered against him upon which execution has been returned unsatisfied; or

(b) Made false charges for services rendered by himself or by any motor carrier which he represents; or

(c) Failed to account properly and promptly, or to make settlement with any motor carrier; or

(d) Made any false or misleading statement as to services rendered by himself or by any motor carrier which he represents; or

(e) Been guilty of a fraud in the attempt to procure or the procurement of a license; or

(f) Arranged for transportation of property subject to this part and not exempt under the provisions of §323.29 with other than an authorized carrier; or

(g) Become not fit, willing and able properly to perform the service authorized by his license, for any other good and sufficient reason.

(5) HEARING BEFORE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION.—Before the commission shall suspend or revoke a license, it shall fix a time and place for a public hearing and give the applicant or licensee notice thereof, by registered mail, placing in the notice the grounds upon which the proposed suspension or revocation is based. Such notice shall be mailed not more than sixty or less than twenty days prior to the date set for hearing. At such hearing the licensee shall be privileged to appear in person or by or with counsel and to produce witnesses.

(6) ASSIGNMENT OF LICENSE.—No transportation brokerage license issued under the provisions of this section may be assigned or transferred without the consent of the commission authorizing such transfer. Applications shall be filed jointly by the assignor and the assignee and shall be subject to the same provisions as to hearing and notice as original applications for licenses. The commission may reasonably alter, restrict or modify the terms and provisions of any such license or impose restrictions on such transfer where the public interest may be best served thereby. Such joint applications shall be accompanied by a filing fee of two hundred fifty dollars to be placed in the general revenue fund.

(7) RULES AND REGULATIONS; BOND OR OTHER SECURITY REQUIRED.—The commission shall prescribe reasonable rules and regulations for the protection of shippers by motor vehicle and motor carriers, to be observed by any person, firm, company or association holding a transportation brokerage license. No such license shall be issued or remain in force unless such person, firm, company or association shall have furnished a bond or other security approved by the commission, in such form and amount as will insure financial responsibility. Such bond shall be conditioned upon the payment of all obligations to motor carriers or shippers, and the supplying of authorized transportation in accordance with all contracts, agreements, or arrangements with both motor carriers and shippers. In no event shall the total of all recoveries exceed the amount of such bond or security.

(8) INSPECTION OF ACCOUNTS AND RECORDS.—The commission and its clerks and inspectors shall have the same authority as to accounts, reports, and records, including inspection and preservation thereof, of any person, firm, company or association holding a transportation brokerage license under the provisions of this section, that they have under this part with respect to the motor carriers subject thereto.

(9) EMERGENCY PERMITS.—On a satisfactory showing of an emergency requiring transportation brokerage services in the movement of perishable commodities, the commission may grant a temporary transportation brokerage license pending a public hearing on application for a permanent license and said commission may also grant temporary authority to any licensed transportation broker in the state to furnish such brokerage services in the emergency area during the pendency of such emergency. Applications for such emergency permits shall be accompanied by payment of a one hundred dollar permit fee to be cf.—§1.01 (13) defines registered mail to include certified mail with return receipt requested.

323.33 Fees required to be paid on miscellaneous applications.—All other applications filed hereunder for which no specific fee is prescribed in this part, and which require formal commission action, shall be accompanied by the payment of a ten dollar filing fee to be placed in the general revenue fund.

History.—§12, ch. 67-319.

323.35 Penalties.—Every officer, agent or employee of any corporation, and every other person who violates or fails to comply with, or who procures, aids or abets in the violation of any provisions of this part, or who fails to obey, observe or comply with any order, decision, rule or regulation, direction, demand or requirement, or any part or provision thereof, or who fails to observe any regulations as to maximum speed of operation or maximum weight of load, of the commission, or who procures, aids or abets any person in his failure to obey, observe or comply with any such order, maximum speed of operation, maximum weight of load, decision, rule, direction, demand, or regulation, or any part or provision thereof, is guilty of a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine not exceeding $500.00 or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding 1 year.

323.36 Carriers; unlawful agreements.—

(1) Any part of any agreement, arrangement or other device entered into shall be unlawful and void which as a condition to the transportation of property requires or permits a regulated for hire carrier of property, freight forwarder, private carrier or other carrier or shipper or association or group of shippers to pay a charge, allowance, assessment or compensation to any person or organization if such charge, allowance, assessment or compensation is dependent or contingent upon the use of another mode of transportation in addition to motor transportation for movement of such property.

(2) Should any person, firm, partnership, organization or association of persons violate any of the provisions of this section, they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than $100.00 nor more than $500.00, or by imprisonment for not less than 30 days nor more than 90 days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.52 Definitions.—In addition to the definitions set forth in §323.01 in part I of this chapter the following words when used in this part II shall have the following meanings unless otherwise clearly apparent from the context:

(1) The words "freight forwarder" mean any person, firm or corporation, which otherwise than as a motor common carrier holds itself out to the general public as a common carrier to transport or provide transportation of property, or any class or classes of property, for compensation, and which, in the ordinary and usual course of its undertaking, assembles and consolidates or provides for assembling and consolidating shipments of such property, and performs or provides for the performance of break-bulk and distributing operations with respect to such consolidated shipments; and assumes responsibility for the transportation of such property from point of receipt to point of destination; and utilizes, for the whole or any part of the transportation of such shipments, the services of a carrier or carriers subject to regulation by the Florida Public Service Commission.

(2) The term "service subject to this part" means any or all of the service in connection with the transportation which any person undertakes to perform or provide as a freight forwarder or which such person is authorized or required by or under the authority of this part to perform or provide.

(3) Wherever reference is made to "control" (in referring to a relationship between any person or persons and another person or persons), such reference shall be construed to include actual as well as legal control, whether maintained or exercised through or by reason of the method of or circumstances surrounding organization or operation, through or by common directors, officers, or stockholders, a voting trust or trusts, a holding or investment company or companies, or through or by any other direct or indirect means; and to include the power to exercise control.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.53 Declaration of public policy.—Upon investigation, the legislature of this state has determined that the rates, services and operations of intrastate freight-forwarding companies are affected with the public interest and it is hereby declared to be the policy of this state to provide fair regulation of freight-forwarding companies in the interest of the public; to promote adequate, economical and efficient freight-forwarding service to citizens and residents of this state; to provide just and reasonable rates and charges for freight-forwarding services without unjust discrimination, undue preferences or advantages or unfair or destructive competitive practices; to encourage and promote harmony between freight-forwarding companies and certificated motor and other common carriers, and shippers and receivers of this state; and, to these ends, to vest authority in the commission to regulate freight-forwarding companies generally and their rates, services and operations in the manner and in accordance with policies set forth in this part.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.54 Certificate of public convenience and necessity; proviso; application; notice; hearing; issuance.—

(1) No person or organization shall hereafter engage in freight-forwarding services without first obtaining from the commission a certificate that the present or future public convenience and necessity require or will require such operations; provided, however, that any person, firm or corporation, or its predecessors in interest, that was in a bona fide continuous operation as a freight forwarder within the meaning of this part on and before June 1, 1967, and since that date shall, upon proof of said operations in accordance with commission rules and regulations, be entitled to the issuance of a certificate of public convenience and necessity as a matter of right, subject, however, to compliance by said applicant with the requirements of §§323.62, 323.63 and 323.64; any such application must be filed with the commission on or before September 1, 1967.

(2) The application for such certificate of public convenience and necessity for freight-forwarding service made by any applicant shall be in writing verified by the applicant and shall specify the following matters:

(a) The name and address of applicant and the names and addresses of its officers, if any.

(b) The municipality or territory or municipalities or territories within which or between which the applicant desires to conduct such operations.

(c) The type of freight-forwarding service in which applicant intends to engage, together with a brief description of terminal facilities and each vehicle which applicant proposes to use including a description of any storage or warehouse facilities, if any, which applicant proposes to utilize in connection with such operations.

(d) The proposed schedules of operations between the municipalities or territories involved if such service is to be pursuant to schedules.

(e) An agreement on the part of the applicant to conform with and abide by all tariffs and classifications as to freight-forwarding services which may be prescribed by the commission from time to time.

(f) Any such application shall be accompanied by payment of a fee of five hundred dollars to be placed in the Florida Public Service Regulatory Trust Fund.

(3) Upon filing of said application and payment of said fee, the Florida Public Service Commission shall fix a time for hearing on said application which shall not be less than twenty days nor more than sixty days subsequent to the filing of said application, and no application shall be granted or certificate of public convenience and necessity issued without a hearing by the commission. Notice of such hearing shall be given to the applicant and to all certificated motor and rail common carriers serving any part of the route or territory proposed to be served by the applicant and to such other parties in interest as the commission may deem necessary. The commission shall also cause notice of the application to be published at least fourteen days prior to the hearing in some newspaper of general circulation in the affected territory or territories.

(4) After such hearing, the commission may issue to the applicant a certificate of public convenience and necessity in a form to be prescribed by it or may refuse to issue the same or may issue it for only partial exercise of the operation sought or may attach to the exercise of the right granted by the certificate such terms, limitations and conditions which it deems the public interest may require. The certificate shall include a description of the territory in which the freight-forwarding operation is to be conducted, extended, operated or acquired.

(5) In determining whether a certificate shall be issued, the commission shall take into consideration, among other things, the public need for the proposed service, the suitability of the applicant to conduct the proposed operations, the financial responsibility of the applicant and the ability of the applicant to perform efficiently the operations for which authority is requested; provided, that the commission in granting any such certificate shall take into consideration the effect that the granting of such certificate may have on transportation facilities within the territory sought to be served by said applicant, and also that effect upon transportation as a whole within said territory including the effect, if any, upon certificated motor and rail common carriers.

(6) Any certificate of public convenience and necessity issued under the provisions of this section shall contain, among other things, the following:

(a) The name of the grantee.

(b) The municipality or territory in which or between which the grantee is permitted to operate.

(c) A statement of the exact terminals or territories to be served including the specific points at which the forwarding operation is to be originated and the precise points or terminals at which the distribution under such operations is to take place.

(d) Such additional terms, conditions, provisions or limitations as the commission shall deem necessary or proper in the public interest or in the interest of transportation facilities already existing in the territory sought to be served.

(7) No such certificate of public convenience and necessity may be transferred, assigned or encumbered unless such transaction is first approved by the commission consistent with the procedures outlined in §323.041.

(8) The commission may, after affording the holder an opportunity to be heard, revoke, suspend or alter any such certificate of public convenience and necessity for the violation of any provision of this part or the rules and regulations or orders of the commission made under the authority of this part or for other reasonable cause.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.55 General jurisdiction of commission.—

(1) The commission shall have the power and jurisdiction to supervise and regulate every freight-forwarding operation operating within this state and its property, property rights, equipment, facilities, contracts, certificates and franchises, so far as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this part and to do all things, whether herein specifically designated or in addition thereto, which are necessary or convenient in the exercise of such power and jurisdiction. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the commission is authorized to adopt and enforce such reasonable rules and regulations and orders as it may deem necessary with respect to rates, charges and classifications, issuance of certificates, territory of operation, abandonment or suspension of service, adequacy of service, prevention or elimination or unjust discrimination between shippers and receivers, between freight forwarders and certificated motor and rail common carriers, financial responsibility, insurance covering personal injury and property damage, uniform system of accounts, records, reports, safety of operations and equipment, and to otherwise accomplish the purposes of this part and to implement its provisions.

(2) The commission shall, from time to time, inspect the places of business of freight forwarders and other premises and examine the records and facilities of all freight-forwarding companies to ascertain if all rules and regulations and orders of the commission have been complied with, and shall have the power to examine all officers, agents and employees of such freight-forwarding companies and all other persons, under oath and to compel the production of papers and the attendance of witnesses to obtain the information necessary for administering the provisions of this part.

(3) The commission or other aggrieved party shall have the right to institute or to intervene as a party in any action in any court of competent jurisdiction seeking mandamus, injunctive or other relief to compel compliance with any provisions of this part or of any rule, regulation or order adopted thereunder or to restrain or otherwise prevent or prohibit any illegal or unauthorized conduct in connection therewith.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.56 Rates.—The commission shall prescribe just and reasonable rates, charges and classifications for the services rendered by a freight-forwarding company and the tariffs therefor shall be in such form and shall be filed and published in such manner and on such notice as the commission may prescribe and shall be subject to change on such notice and in such manner as the commission may prescribe. The commission, in the exercise of its power to prescribe such just and reasonable rates, charges and classifications, may use such standards, formulas, criteria or methods as the commission may determine in order to enable the freight-forwarding company, under honest economic and efficient management, to render the service deriving a reasonable profit therefrom and at the same time give consideration to the rates, charges and classifications in effect for the account of certificated motor or rail common carriers operating in or between the territories involved.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.57 Duties of freight-forwarding companies.—

(1) Each freight-forwarding company shall provide safe and adequate service, equipment and facilities for the operation of its services.

(2) No freight-forwarding company shall demand or receive a greater or less or different compensation for providing freight-forwarding service than the rates and charges specified in the tariff in effect at the time which has been filed with and approved by the commission.

(3) All rates, charges and classifications for the services rendered by a freight-forwarding company shall be just and reasonable, and any such rate, charge or classification that is unjust or unreasonable is hereby declared to be unlawful. No freight-forwarding company shall make any unjust or unreasonable discrimination in rates, charges, classifications, practices, regulations, facilities or services for or in connection with like service, directly or indirectly, by any means or device, or make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, class of persons or locality, or subject any particular person, class of persons or locality to any undue or unreasonable prejudicial disadvantage.

(4) Every freight-forwarding company shall obey and comply with every rule and regulation and order adopted by the commission under the provisions of this part.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.58 Approval of mergers.—No freight-forwarding company shall combine, merge or consolidate with or acquire control of another forwarding company or motor common or rail carrier without first obtaining the approval of the commission, which shall be granted only after an investigation and finding that such proposed combination, merger, consolidation or acquisition is in the public interest.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.59 Agreements with other freight forwarders.—It shall be unlawful for any freight forwarder to enter into an agreement with another freight forwarder for the joint loading of traffic between points in transportation subject to this part.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.60 Motor and rail carriers not prohibited from maintaining same rates as freight forwarders.—Nothing in this part shall be construed to make it unlawful for motor or rail common carriers to establish and maintain assembling rates or charges and/or distribution rates or charges, and classifications, rules, and regulations with respect thereto, applicable to freight forwarders and others who employ or utilize the instrumentalities or services of such common carriers under like conditions, which differ from other rates or charges, classifications, rules, or regulations, which contemporaneously apply with respect to the employment or utilization of the same instrumentalities or services if such difference is justified by difference in the respective conditions under which such instrumentalities or services are employed or utilized. For the purposes of this section the term "assembling rates or charges" means rates or charges for the transportation of less-than-truckload or less-than-carload shipments into a point for further movement beyond as a part of a truckload or carload shipment, and the term "distribution rates or charges" means rates or charges for the transportation of less-than-truckload or less-than-carload shipments moving from a point into which such shipments have moved as a part of a truckload or carload shipment. The provisions of this section shall not be construed to authorize the establishment of assembling rates or charges or distribution rates or charges covering the line-haul transportation between the principal concentration point and the principal break-bulk point.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.61 Freight forwarders; contracts with motor carriers.—Nothing in this part shall be construed to prevent freight forwarders subject to this part from entering into contracts with motor common carriers governing the utilization by such freight forwarders of the services and instrumentalities of such motor common carriers and the compensation to be paid therefor; provided, that in the case of line-haul transportation between concentration points and break-bulk points in truckload lots where such line-haul transportation is for a total distance of one hundred miles or more, such contracts shall not permit payment to motor common carriers of compensation which is lower than would be received under rates or charges established by such motor common carriers in tariffs filed with and approved by this commission.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.62 Freight forwarders prohibited from engaging in transportation.—Certificates issued under this part shall not authorize the holder thereof to conduct any direct railroad, water or motor common carrier operations except motor vehicle operations in transportation which, pursuant to the provisions of this part, are considered to be motor vehicle operations within the exempt municipal territory as defined by §323.29.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.63 Freight forwarders prohibited from controlling motor carrier.—It shall be unlawful for a freight forwarder or any person controlling, controlled by or under common control with a freight forwarder to acquire control of a motor common carrier subject to jurisdiction under this part.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.64 Persons not eligible to be freight forwarders.—It shall be unlawful for any person whose principal business is that of manufacturing and selling and/or buying and selling articles or commodities, and/or warehousing such articles or commodities, and whose business operations are of such a character that services of a freight forwarder or forwarders (or similar assembling, consolidating and shipping operations performed by such person for itself) are commonly used in connection with the transportation of such articles or commodities, or for any person controlling, controlled by, or under common control with such person, to engage in service subject to this part; provided, however, that any such person who was engaged in business as a freight forwarder at the time this part becomes effective shall have the same authority to continue to engage in service subject to this part.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.65 Bills of lading.—Notwithstanding any of the provisions of this part or of the rules and regulations of the commission pertaining to bills of lading, when the services of a motor common carrier are utilized by a freight forwarder for the receiving of property from a consignor in service subject to this part, such carrier may, with the consent of the freight forwarder, execute the bill of lading or shipping receipt for the freight forwarder. When the services of a motor common carrier are utilized by a freight forwarder for the delivery of property to the consignee named in the freight forwarder's bill of lading, shipping receipt, or freight bill, the property may, with the consent of the freight forwarder, be delivered on the freight bill, and receipted for on the delivery receipt of the freight forwarder.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.66 Allowance to shippers for transportation service.—If the owner of property transported in service subject to this part directly or indirectly renders any service connected therewith, or furnishes any instrumentality used therein, the charge and the amounts therefor, to such owner, shall be published in tariffs filed in the manner provided in this part and shall be no more than is just and reasonable and the commission may, after hearing on a complaint or on its own initiative, determine what is a reasonable charge as the maximum to be paid by the freight forwarder or forwarders for the services so rendered or for the use of the instrumentalities so furnished, and fix the same by appropriate order.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.67 Utilization of carrier services by freight forwarders.—It shall be unlawful, except in the performance within terminal areas which are declared to be exempt under §323.29 of transfer, collection or delivery services, for freight forwarders to employ or utilize the instrumentalities or services of any carriers other than certificated common carriers by rail, motor vehicle or water that are subject to the jurisdiction of this commission.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 67-358.

323.68 Unlawful acts and penalties.—

(1) Any person who knowingly and willfully violates any provision of this part or any rule, regulation, requirement or order thereunder, or any term or condition of any certificate, for which no penalty is otherwise provided, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as provided by law.

(2) Any freight forwarder or any officer or agent, employee or representative thereof who by any device or means shall knowingly and willfully assist or shall willingly suffer or permit any person to obtain service subject to this part at less than the rates or charges lawfully in effect shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as provided by law.

(3) Any person who shall by any device or means whether with or without the consent or connivance of any freight forwarder or its officer, agent, employee or representative, knowingly and willfully obtain service subject to this part at less than the rates or charges lawfully in effect or shall knowingly and willfully, directly or indirectly, by false claim, false billing, false representation or other device or means, obtain or attempt to obtain any allowance, refund or repayment in connection with or growing out of such service whether with or without the consent or connivance of such freight forwarder, or its officer, agent, employee or representative, whereby the compensation of such forwarder for such service either before or after payment shall be less than the rates or charges lawfully in effect, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as provided by law.

(2) When a nonresident's operating privilege is suspended pursuant to this chapter, the commissioner shall transmit a certified copy of the record of such action to the appropriate official of the reciprocating state in which such nonresident resides, if the law of such other state provides for action in relation thereto similar to that provided for in subsection (3) of this section.

(3) Upon receipt of such certification that the operating privilege of a resident of this state has been suspended or revoked in any such other reciprocating state pursuant to a law providing for its suspension or revocation for failure to deposit security for the payment of judgments arising out of a motor vehicle accident, under circumstances which would require the commissioner to suspend a nonresident's operating privilege had the accident occurred in this state, the commissioner shall suspend the license of such resident if he was the operator, and all of his registrations if he was the owner of a motor vehicle involved in such accident. Such suspension shall continue until such resident furnishes evidence of his compliance with the law of such other state relating to the deposit of such security.

(4) In the event such nonresident shall at the time have in effect an insurance policy or surety bond issued by any insurance company or surety company not authorized to do business in this state, the commissioner may reinstate such nonresident upon said company furnishing him with power of attorney to accept service of process.

Upon receipt of evidence that an automobile liability policy, motor vehicle liability policy, or surety bond was in effect at the time of the accident or conviction case, the commissioner shall forward by United States mail, postage prepaid, to the insurer or surety insurer a copy of such information and shall assume that such policy or bond was in effect unless the insurer or surety insurer shall notify the commissioner otherwise within twenty days from the mailing of the notice to the insurer or surety insurer; provided that if the commissioner shall later ascertain that an automobile liability policy, motor vehicle liability policy, or surety bond was not in effect and did not provide coverage for both the owner and the operator, he shall at such time take such action as he is otherwise authorized to do under this chapter. Proof of mailing to the insurer or surety insurer may be made by the commissioner or any employee of his office by naming the insurer or surety insurer to whom such mailing was made and specifying the time, place and manner of mailing.

(2) Each insurer doing business in this state shall immediately give notice to the commissioner of each motor vehicle liability policy when issued to effect the return of a license which has been suspended under §324.051(2); and said notice shall be upon such form and in such manner as the commissioner may designate.

(2) If the judgment creditor consents in writing, in such form as the commissioner may prescribe, that the judgment debtor be allowed license and registration or nonresident's operating privilege, the same may be allowed by the commissioner, in his discretion, for six months from the date of such consent and thereafter until such consent is revoked in writing notwithstanding default in the payment of such judgment, or any installments thereof prescribed in §324.141, provided the judgment debtor furnished proof of financial responsibility as provided in §324.031, such proof to be maintained for three years.

(2) The commissioner shall not suspend a license, registration or a nonresident's operating privilege, and shall restore any license, registration or nonresident's operating privilege suspended following nonpayment of a judgment, when the judgment debtor gives proof of financial responsibility and obtains such an order permitting the payment of such judgment in installments, and while the payment of any said installment is not in default.

(3) In the event the judgment debtor fails to pay any installment as specified by such order, then upon notice of such default, the commissioner shall forthwith suspend the license, registration or nonresident's operating privilege of the judgment debtor until such judgment is satisfied, as provided in this chapter.

(2) The provisions of this section shall not be applicable to any automobile liability policy unless and until it is furnished as proof of financial responsibility for the future pursuant to §324.031, and then only from and after the date said policy is so furnished.

325.01 Vehicle equipment safety compact, execution authorized.—The governor of this state is hereby authorized and directed to execute the following compact on behalf of this state with such other states as may enter into a compact, legal joining therein in the form substantially as follows:

VEHICLE EQUIPMENT SAFETY COMPACT

FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.—

- (1) The party states find that:
 - (a) Accidents and deaths on their streets and highways present a very serious human and economic problem with a major deleterious effect on the public welfare.
 - (b) There is a vital need for the development of greater interjurisdictional cooperation to achieve the necessary uniformity in the laws, rules, regulations and codes relating to vehicle equipment, and to accomplish this by such means as will minimize the time between the development of demonstrably and scientifically sound safety features and their incorporation into vehicles.

Only one bond shall be required for all motor vehicle registration but the amount of such bond shall be fixed by the director and shall be in proportion to the amount of accountability which is likely to arise in such capacity, the said amount to be fixed by the director.

Each tax collector shall keep a full and complete record and account of all certificates of registration or other properties received by him from the director or from any other source, and shall make prompt remittance of moneys collected by him at such times and in such manner as rules and regulations promulgated by the director in that behalf may prescribe.

Each day in which the aircraft is operated without an effective certificate shall constitute a separate offense. The time for the operation of any aircraft for the current year may be extended by the governor from January 15 of the current year for a period of thirty days, if within his judgment and discretion an emergency exists justifying the thirty days extension period.

Upon the filing of such statement, such vendee shall, in case the vehicle is to be used by the new owner for private use, pay to said director a fee of two dollars upon receipt of which the said director shall file such statement and note upon his registration book or index the fact of such change of ownership. In the case of the sale of such aircraft already registered for private use, but to be used by the new owner for hire, the new owner shall return to said director such original registration certificate, and shall make and file the statement above mentioned and pay said director the amount of the registration fee required for such aircraft for hire less such amount as has been heretofore paid for such aircraft upon original registration. (1) SITE APPROVALS; REGULATIONS, ISSUANCE OF CERTIFICATES, FEES, STANDARDS.—Except as provided in subsection (5) of this section, the board is authorized to provide for the approval of airport sites and the issuance of certificates of such approvals. A charge not to exceed fifty dollars shall be made for any such approval, and certificates of such an approval may be issued to all persons requesting them. Upon the promulgation of a rule or regulation providing for such approvals, any municipality or person desiring or planning to construct or establish an airport shall, prior to the acquisition of the site or prior to the construction or establishment of the proposed airport, make application to the board for approval of the site. The board shall with reasonable dispatch grant approval of a site if it is satisfied:

(a) That the site is adequate for the proposed airport;

(b) That such proposed airport, if constructed or established, will conform to minimum standards of safety; and

(c) That safe air traffic patterns could be worked out for such proposed airport and for all existing airports and approve airport sites in its vicinity.

(2) SAME; EFFECTIVE PERIOD, REVOCATION, EXISTING AIRPORTS.—An approval of a site may be granted subject to any reasonable conditions which the board may deem necessary to effectuate the purposes of this section, and shall remain in effect, unless sooner revoked by the board, until a license for an airport located on the approved site has been issued pursuant to subsection (3) of this section. The board may, after notice and opportunity for hearing to holders of certificates of an approval, revoke such approval when it shall reasonably determine:

(a) That there has been an abandonment of the site as an airport site; or

(b) That there has been a failure within the time prescribed, or if no time was prescribed, within a reasonable time, to develop the site as an airport or to comply with the conditions of the approval, or

(c) That because of change of physical or legal conditions or circumstances the site is no longer usable for the aeronautical purposes for which the approval was granted. No approval shall be required for the site of any existing airport.

(3) LICENSES; REGULATIONS, ISSUANCE OF LICENSE, RENEWALS, FEES, STANDARDS, REVOCATION, UNLAWFUL OPERATION.—

(a) Except as provided in subsection (5) of this section, the board is authorized to provide for the licensing of airports and the annual renewal of such licenses. It may charge license fees not exceeding fifty dollars for each original license, and not exceeding fifty dollars for each renewal thereof. Upon the promulgation of a rule or regulation providing for such licensing, the board shall with reasonable dispatch, upon receipt of an application for an original license and the payment of the duly required fee therefor, issue an appropriate license if it is satisfied that the airport conforms to minimum standards of safety and that safe air traffic patterns can be worked out for such airport and for all existing airports and approved airport sites in its vicinity. All licenses shall be renewable annually upon payment of the fees prescribed. Licenses and renewals thereof may be issued subject to any reasonable conditions that the board may deem necessary to effectuate the purposes of this section. The board may, after notice and opportunity for hearing to the licensee, revoke any license or renewal thereof, or refuse to issue a renewal, when it shall reasonably determine:

1. That there has been an abandonment of the airport as such, or

2. That there has been a failure to comply with the conditions of the license or renewal thereof; or

3. That because of change of physical or legal conditions or circumstances the airport has become either unsafe or unusable for the aeronautical purposes for which the license or renewal was issued.

(b) Except as provided in §§330.28-330.36, 330.38, 330.39 it shall be unlawful for any municipality or officer or employee thereof, or any person to operate an airport without an appropriate license for such, as may be duly required by rule or regulation issued pursuant to this subsection.

(4) OPTIONAL PUBLIC HEARINGS.—In connection with the grant of approval of a proposed airport site or the issuance of an airport license under subsections (1) and (3) of this section, the board may, on its own motion or upon the request of an affected or interested person, hold a hearing open to the public as provided in §330.32.

(5) EXEMPTIONS.—The provisions of this section shall not apply to airports owned or operated by the United States. The board may, from time to time, to the extent necessary, exempt any other class of airports, pursuant to a reasonable classification or grouping, from any rule or regulation promulgated under this section or from any requirement of such a rule or regulation, if it finds that the application of such a rule, regulation or requirement would be an undue burden on such class and is not required in the interest of public safety. Provided, that the board shall make no charge to any municipality for a certificate of approval or for a license and the annual renewal of such license in connection with any municipally-owned airport.

In every case where notice and opportunity for hearing are required under the provisions of §§330.27-330.36, 330.38 and 330.39 the order of the board shall, on not less than ten days' notice, specify a time when, and a place where the person affected may be heard or the time within which he may request hearing, and such order shall become effective upon the expiration of the time for exercising such opportunity for hearing, unless a hearing is held or requested within the time provided, in which case the order shall be suspended until the board shall affirm, disaffirm or modify such order after hearing held or default by the person affected. To the extent practicable, hearings on such orders shall be held in the county where the affected person resides or does business. chapter 74. It shall not be precluded from abandoning the condemnation of any such property in any case where possession thereof has not been taken.

(3) In the event any exercise of power under any section of this chapter by a municipality requires the removal, relocation or reconstruction of any structure located in, on, under or across any private property, public street or highway, or other public or private places, then such municipality shall reimburse the owner of such structure for the estimated or actual expense of said removal, relocation or reconstruction prior to the incurring of such expense by such owner.

(b) Provided, where a county operates one or more airports, its regulations for the government thereof shall be by resolution of the board of county commissioners, shall be recorded in the minutes of the board and promulgated by posting a copy at the courthouse and at every such airport for four consecutive weeks or by publication once a week in a newspaper published in the county for the same period. Such regulations shall be enforced as are the criminal laws. Violation thereof shall be a misdemeanor.

(3) To lease for a term not exceeding thirty years such airports or other air navigation facilities, or real property acquired or set apart for airport purposes, to private parties, any municipal or state government or the national government, or any department of either thereof, for operation; to lease or assign for a term not exceeding thirty years to private parties, any municipal or state government or the national government, or any department of either thereof, for operation or use consistent with the purposes of this chapter, space, area, improvements, or equipment on such airports; to sell any part of such airports, other air navigation facilities or real property to any municipal or state government, or the United States or any department or instrumentality thereof, for aeronautical purposes or purposes incidental thereto, and to confer the privileges of concessions of supplying upon its airports goods, commodities, things, services, and facilities; provided, that in each case in so doing the public is not deprived of its rightful equal and uniform use thereof.

(4) To sell or lease any property, real or personal, acquired for airport purposes and belonging to the municipality, which, in the judgment of its governing body, may not be required for aeronautic purposes, in accordance with the laws of this state, or the provisions of the charter of the municipality, governing the sale or leasing of similar municipally owned property.

(5) To exercise all powers necessarily incidental to the exercise of the general and special powers herein granted, and is specifically authorized to assess and shall assess against and collect from the owner or operator of each and every airplane using such airports a sufficient fee or service charge to cover the cost of the service furnished airplanes using such airports, including the liquidation of bonds or other indebtedness for construction and improvements.

333.01 Definitions.—For the purpose of this chapter, the following words, terms, and phrases shall have the meanings herein given, unless otherwise specifically defined, or unless another intention clearly appears, or the context otherwise requires:

(1) Aeronautics means transportation by aircraft; the operation, construction, repair, or maintenance of aircraft, aircraft power plants and accessories, including the repair, packing, and maintenance of parachutes; the design, establishment, construction, extension, operation, improvement, repair, or maintenance of airports, restricted landing areas, or other air navigation facilities, and air instruction.

(2) Airport means any area of land or water designed and set aside for the landing and taking off of aircraft and utilized or to be utilized in the interest of the public for such purpose.

(3) Airport hazard means any structure or tree or use of land which obstructs the airspace required for the flight of aircraft in landing or taking off at an airport or is otherwise hazardous to such landing or taking off of aircraft.

(4) Airport hazard area means any area of land or water upon which an airport hazard might be established if not prevented as provided in this chapter.

(5) Person means any individual, firm, co-partnership, corporation, company, association, joint-stock association, or body politic, and includes any trustee, receiver, assignee or other similar representative thereof.

(6) Political subdivision means any county, city, town, village, or other subdivision or agency thereof, or any district, port commission, port authority, or other such agency authorized to establish or operate airports in the state.

(7) Structure means any object, constructed or installed by man, including, but without limitation thereof, buildings, towers, smokestacks, utility poles, and overhead transmission lines.

(8) Tree includes any plant of the vegetable kingdom.

History.—§1, ch. 23079, 1945.

333.02 Airport hazards contrary to public interest.—

(1) It is hereby found that an airport hazard endangers the lives and property of users of the airport and of occupants of land in its vicinity and also, if of the obstruction type, in effect reduces the size of the area available for the landing, taking off and maneuvering of aircraft, thus tending to destroy or impair the utility of the airport and the public investment therein. Accordingly, it is hereby declared:

(a) That the creation or establishment of an airport hazard is a public nuisance and an injury to the community served by the airport in question;

(b) That it is therefore necessary in the interest of the public health, public safety, and general welfare that the creation or establishment of airport hazards be prevented; and

(c) That this should be accomplished, to the extent legally possible, by the exercise of the police power, without compensation.

(2) It is further declared that both the prevention of the creation or establishment of airport hazards and the elimination, removal, alteration, mitigation, or marking and lighting of existing airport hazards are public purposes for which political subdivisions may raise and expend public funds and acquire land or property interests therein, or air rights thereover.

History.—§2, ch. 23079, 1945.

333.03 Power to adopt airport zoning regulations.—

(1) In order to prevent the creation or establishment of airport hazards, every political subdivision having an airport hazard area within its territorial limits may adopt, administer, and enforce, under the police power and in the manner and upon the conditions hereinafter prescribed, airport zoning regulations for such airport hazard area, which regulations may divide such area into zones, and, within such zones, specify the land uses permitted and regulate and restrict the height to which structures and trees may be erected or allowed to grow.

(2) Where an airport is owned or controlled by a political subdivision, and any airport hazard area appertaining to such airport is located wholly or partly outside the territorial limits of said political subdivision, the political subdivision owning or controlling the airport and the political subdivision within which the airport hazard area is located, may, by ordinance or resolution duly adopted, create a joint airport zoning board, which board shall have the same power to adopt, administer and enforce airport zoning regulations applicable to the airport hazard area in question as that vested in subsection (1) of this section in the political subdivision within which such area is located. Each such joint board shall have as members two representatives appointed by each political subdivision participating in its creation and in addition a chairman elected by a majority of the members so appointed.

History.—§3, ch. 23079, 1945.

333.04 Comprehensive zoning regulations; most stringent to prevail where conflicts occur.—

(1) INCORPORATION.—In the event that a political subdivision has adopted, or hereafter adopts, a comprehensive zoning ordinance regulating, among other things, the height of buildings, structures and natural objects, and uses of property, any airport zoning regulations applicable to the same area or portion thereof, may be incorporated in and made a part of such comprehensive zoning regulations, and be administered and enforced in connection therewith.

(2) CONFLICT.—In the event of conflict between any airport zoning regulations adopted under this chapter and any other regulations applicable to the same area, whether the conflict be with respect to the height of structures or trees, the use of land, or any other matter, and whether such regulations were adopted by the political subdivision which adopted the airport zoning regulations or by some other political subdivision, the more stringent limitation or requirement shall govern and prevail.

333.05 Procedure for adoption of zoning regulations.—

(1) NOTICE AND HEARING.—No airport zoning regulations shall be adopted, amended, or changed under this chapter except by action of the legislative body of the political subdivision in question, or the joint board provided in §333.03(2) by the bodies therein provided and set forth, after a public hearing in relation thereto, at which parties in interest and citizens shall have an opportunity to be heard. At least fifteen days' notice of hearing shall be published in an official paper, or a paper of general circulation, in the political subdivision or subdivisions in which is located the airport hazard area to be zoned.

(2) AIRPORT ZONING COMMISSION.—Prior to the initial zoning of any airport hazard area under this chapter the political subdivision or joint airport zoning board which is to adopt the regulations shall appoint a commission, to be known as the airport zoning commission, to recommend the boundaries of the various zones to be established and the regulations to be adopted therefor. Such commission shall make a preliminary report and hold public hearings thereon before submitting its final report, and the legislative body of the political subdivision or the joint airport zoning board, shall not hold its public hearings or take any action until it has received the final report of such commission, and at least fifteen days shall elapse between the receipt of the final report of the commission and the hearing to be held by the latter board. Where a city plan commission or comprehensive zoning commission already exists, it may be appointed as the airport zoning commission.

History.—§5, ch. 23079, 1945.

333.06 Airport zoning requirements.—

(1) REASONABLENESS.—All airport zoning regulations adopted under this chapter shall be reasonable and none shall impose any requirement or restriction which is not reasonably necessary to effectuate the purposes of this chapter. In determining what regulations it may adopt, each political subdivision and joint airport zoning board shall consider, among other things, the character of the flying operations expected to be conducted at the airport, the nature of the terrain within the airport hazard area, the character of the neighborhood, and the uses to which the property to be zoned is put and adaptable.

(2) NONCONFORMING USES.—No airport zoning regulations adopted under this chapter shall require the removal, lowering, or other change or alteration of any structure or tree not conforming to the regulations when adopted or amended, or otherwise interfere with the continuance of any nonconforming use, except as provided in §333.07(1) and (3).

History.—§6, ch. 23079, 1945.

333.07 Permits and variances.—

(1) PERMITS.—

(a) Any airport zoning regulations adopted under this chapter may require that a permit be obtained before any new structure or use may be constructed or established and before any existing use or structure may be substantially changed or substantially altered or repaired. In any event, however, all such regulations shall provide that before any nonconforming structure or tree may be replaced, substantially altered or repaired, rebuilt, allowed to grow higher, or replanted, a permit must be secured from the administrative agency authorized to administer and enforce the regulations, authorizing such replacement, change or repair. No permit shall be granted that would allow the establishment or creation of an airport hazard or permit a nonconforming structure or tree or nonconforming use to be made or become higher or become a greater hazard to air navigation than it was when the applicable regulation was adopted or than it is when the application for a permit is made.

(b) Whenever the administrative agency determines that a nonconforming use or nonconforming structure or tree has been abandoned or is more than eighty per cent torn down, destroyed, deteriorated, or decayed, no permit shall be granted that would allow said structure or tree to exceed the applicable height limit or otherwise deviate from the zoning regulations; and, whether application is made for a permit under this subsection or not, the said agency may by appropriate action, compel the owner of the nonconforming structure or tree, at his own expense, to lower, remove, reconstruct, or equip such object as may be necessary to conform to the regulations. If the owner of the nonconforming structure or tree shall neglect or refuse to comply with such order for ten days after notice thereof, the said agency may report the violation to the political subdivision involved therein, which subdivision, through its appropriate agency, may proceed to have the object so lowered, removed, reconstructed, or equipped, and assess the cost and expense thereof upon the object or the land whereon it is or was located, and, unless such an assessment is paid within ninety days from the service of notice thereof on the owner or his agent, of such object or land, the sum shall be a lien on said land, and shall bear interest thereafter at the rate of six per cent per annum until paid, and shall be collected in the same manner as taxes on real property are collected by said political subdivision, or, at the option of said political subdivision, said lien may be enforced in the manner provided for enforcement of liens by chapter 85.

(c) Except as provided herein, applications for permits shall be granted, provided the matter applied for meets the provisions of this chapter and the regulations adopted and in force hereunder.

(2) VARIANCES.—Any persons desiring to erect any structures, or increase the height of any structure, or permit the growth of any tree, or otherwise use his property in violation of the airport zoning regulations adopted under this chapter, may apply to the board of adjustment for a variance from the zoning regulations in question. Such variances shall be allowed where a literal application or enforcement of the regulations would result in practical difficulty or unnecessary hardship and the relief granted would not be contrary to the public interest but do substantial justice and be in accordance with the spirit of the regulations and this chapter. Provided, that any variance may be allowed subject to any reasonable conditions that the board of adjustment may deem necessary to effectuate the purposes of this chapter.

(3) HAZARD MARKING AND LIGHTING.—In granting any permit or variance under this section, the administrative agency or board of adjustment may, if it deems such action advisable, to effectuate the purposes of this chapter and reasonable in the circumstances, so condition such permit or variance as to require the owner of the structure or tree in question to permit the political subdivision, at its own expense, to install, operate and maintain thereon, such markers and lights as may be necessary to indicate to flyers the presence of an airport hazard.

333.08 Appeals.—

(1) Any person aggrieved, or taxpayer affected, by any decision of an administrative agency made in its administration of airport zoning regulations adopted under this chapter, or any governing body of a political subdivision, or any joint airport zoning board, which is of the opinion that a decision of such an administrative agency is an improper application of airport zoning regulations of concern to such governing body or board, may appeal to the board of adjustment authorized to hear and decide appeals from the decisions of such administrative agency.

(2) All appeals taken under this section must be taken within a reasonable time, as provided by the rules of the board, by filing with the agency from which appeal is taken and with the board, a notice of appeal specifying the grounds thereof. The agency from which the appeal is taken shall forthwith transmit to the board all the papers constituting the record upon which the action appealed from was taken, or properly certified copies thereof in lieu of originals, as the agency involved may elect.

(3) An appeal shall stay all proceedings in furtherance of the action appealed from, unless the agency from which the appeal is taken certifies to the board, after the notice of appeal has been filed with it, that by reason of the facts stated in the certificate a stay would, in its opinion, cause imminent peril to life or property. In such cases, proceedings shall not be stayed otherwise than by an order of the board on notice to the agency from which the appeal is taken and on due cause shown.

(4) The board shall fix a reasonable time for the hearing of appeals, give public notice and due notice to the parties in interest, and decide the same within a reasonable time. Upon the hearing, any party may appear in person or by agent or by attorney.

(5) The board may, in conformity with the provisions of this chapter, reverse or affirm wholly or partly, or modify, the order, requirement, decision, or determination appealed from and may make such order, requirement, decision, or determination as ought to be made, and to that end shall have all the powers of the administrative agency from which the appeal is taken.

History.—§8, ch. 23079, 1945.

333.09 Administration of airport zoning regulations.—All airport zoning regulations adopted under this chapter shall provide for the administration and enforcement of such regulations by an administrative agency which may be an agency created by such regulations or any official, board, or other existing agency of the political subdivision adopting the regulations or of one of the political subdivisions which participated in the creation of the joint airport zoning board adopting the regulations, if satisfactory to that political subdivision, but in no case shall such administrative agency be or include any member of the board of adjustment. The duties of any administrative agency designated pursuant to this chapter shall include that of hearing and deciding all permits under §333.07(1), deciding all matters under §333.07(3), as they pertain to such agency, and all other matters under this chapter applying to said agency, but such agency shall not have or exercise any of the powers herein delegated to the board of adjustment.

History.—§9, ch. 23079, 1945.

333.10 Board of adjustment.—

(1) All airport zoning regulations adopted under this chapter shall provide for a board of adjustment to have and exercise the following powers:

(a) To hear and decide appeals from any order, requirement, decision, or determination made by the administrative agency in the enforcement of the airport zoning regulations, as provided in §333.08.

(b) To hear and decide any special exceptions to the terms of the airport zoning regulations upon which such board may be required to pass under such regulations.

(c) To hear and decide specific variances under §333.07(2).

(2) Where a zoning board of appeals or adjustment already exists, it may be appointed as the board of adjustment. Otherwise, the board of adjustment shall consist of five members, each to be appointed for a term of three years by the authority adopting the regulations and to be removable by the appointing authority for cause, upon written charges and due notice and after public hearing.

(3) The concurring vote of a majority of the members of the board of adjustment shall be sufficient to reverse any order, requirement, decision, or determination of the administrative agency, or to decide in favor of the applicant on any matter upon which it is required to pass under the airport zoning regulations, or to effect any variation in such regulations.

(4) The board shall adopt rules in accordance with the provisions of the ordinance or resolution by which it was created. Meetings of the board shall be held at the call of the chairman and at such other times as the board may determine. The chairman, or in his absence the acting chairman, may administer oaths and compel the attendance of witnesses. All hearings of the said board shall be public. The board shall keep minutes of its proceedings, showing the vote of each member upon each question, or, if absent or failing to vote, indicating such fact, and shall keep records of its examinations and other official actions, all of which shall be immediately filed in the office of the board and shall be a public record.

333.11 Judicial review.—

(1) Any person aggrieved, or taxpayer affected, by any decision of a board of adjustment, or any governing body of a political subdivision or any joint airport zoning board, or of any administrative agency hereunder, which is of the opinion that a decision of a board of adjustment is illegal, may present to the circuit court, in the circuit in which the decision occurs, a verified petition for the issuance of a writ of certiorari setting forth that the decision is illegal, in whole or in part, and specifying the grounds of the illegality. Such petition shall be presented to the court in the manner and within the time provided by the Florida appellate rules.

(2) Upon presentation of such petition to the court, it may allow a writ of certiorari, directed to the board of adjustment, to review such decision of the board. The allowance of the writ shall not stay the proceedings upon the decision appealed from, but the court may, on application, on notice to the board, on due hearing and due cause shown, grant a restraining order.

(3) The board of adjustment shall not be required to return the original papers acted upon by it, but it shall be sufficient to return certified or sworn copies thereof or of such portions thereof as may be called for by the writ. The return shall concisely set forth such other facts as may be pertinent and material to show the grounds of the decision appealed from and shall be verified.

(4) The court shall have exclusive jurisdiction to affirm, modify, or set aside the decision brought up for review, in whole or in part, and if need be, to order further proceedings by the board of adjustment. The findings of fact by the board, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be accepted by the court as conclusive, and no objection to a decision of the board shall be considered by the court unless such objection shall have been urged before the board, or, if it was not so urged, unless there were reasonable grounds for failure to do so.

(5) In any case in which airport zoning regulations adopted under this chapter, although generally reasonable, are held by a court to interfere with the use and enjoyment of a particular structure or parcel of land to such an extent, or to be so onerous in their application to such a structure or parcel of land, as to constitute a taking or deprivation of that property in violation of the state constitution or the constitution of the United States, such holding shall not affect the application of such regulations to other structures and parcels of land, or such regulations as are not involved in the particular decision.

(6) No appeal shall be or is permitted under this section, to any courts, as herein provided, save and except an appeal from a decision of the board of adjustment, the appeal herein provided being from such final decision of such board only, the appellant being hereby required to exhaust his remedies hereunder of application for permits, exceptions and variances, and appeal to the board of adjustment, and gaining a determination by said board, before being permitted to appeal to the court hereunder.

History.—§11, ch. 23079, 1945; (1) §43, ch. 63-512.

333.12 Acquisition of air rights.—In any case which: it is desired to remove, lower or otherwise terminate a nonconforming structure or use; or the approach protection necessary cannot, because of constitutional limitations, be provided by airport regulations under this chapter; or it appears advisable that the necessary approach protection be provided by acquisition of property rights rather than by airport zoning regulations, the political subdivision within which the property or nonconforming use is located, or the political subdivision owning or operating the airport or being served by it, may acquire, by purchase, grant, or condemnation in the manner provided by chapter 73, such air right, navigation easement, or other estate, portion or interest in the property or nonconforming structure or use or such interest in the air above such property, tree, structure or use, in question, as may be necessary to effectuate the purposes of this chapter, and in so doing, if by condemnation, to have the right to take immediate possession of the property, interest in property, air right or other right sought to be condemned, at the time, and in the manner and form, and as authorized by chapter 74. In the case of the purchase of any property or any easement or estate or interest therein or the acquisition of the same by the power of eminent domain the political subdivision making such purchase or exercising such power shall in addition to the damages for the taking, injury or destruction of property also pay the cost of the removal and relocation of any structure or any public utility which is required to be moved to a new location.

333.13 Enforcement and remedies.—

(1) Each violation of this chapter or of any regulations, orders or rulings promulgated or made pursuant to this chapter, shall constitute a misdemeanor, and shall be punishable by a fine of not more than $500.00, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than 6 months, or by both fine and imprisonment, and each day a violation continues to exist shall constitute a separate offense.

(2) In addition, the political subdivision or agency adopting the airport zoning regulations under this chapter, may institute in any court of competent jurisdiction, an action to prevent, restrain, correct or abate any violation of this chapter, or of airport zoning regulations adopted under this chapter, or of any order or ruling made in connection with their administration or enforcement, and the court shall adjudge to the plaintiff such relief, by way of injunction (which may be mandatory) or otherwise, as may be proper under all the facts and circumstances of the case, in order to fully effectuate the purposes of this chapter and of the regulations adopted and orders and rulings made pursuant thereto.

History.—§13, ch. 23079, 1945.

333.14 Short title.—This chapter shall be known and may be cited as the airport zoning law of 1945.

History.—§15, ch. 23079, 1945.

334.01 Short title.—Chapters 334-339 may be cited as Florida highway code of 1955.

History.—§168, ch. 29965, 1955.

334.02 Declaration of legislative intent.—Recognizing that safe and efficient highway transportation is a matter of important interest to all the people in the state, the legislature hereby determines and declares that:

(1) An integrated system of roads and connecting urban streets is essential to the general welfare of the state.

(2) Providing of such a system of facilities, its efficient management, operation and control, is recognized as an urgent problem, and as the proper objective of highway legislation.

(3) Inadequate roads and streets obstruct the free flow of traffic; result in undue cost of motor vehicle operation; endanger the health and safety of the citizens of the state; depreciate property values and impede general economic and social progress of the state.

(4) In designating the highway systems of this state, as hereinafter provided, the legislature places a high degree of trust in the hands of those officials whose duty it shall be, within the limits of available funds, to plan, develop, operate, maintain and protect the highway facilities of this state, for present as well as for future use.

(5) To this end, it is the intent of the legislature to make the state road board custodian of the state highway system and to provide sufficiently broad authority to enable the board to function adequately and efficiently in all areas of appropriate jurisdiction, subject to the limitations of the constitution and the legislative mandate hereinafter imposed.

(6) The legislature intends to declare, in general terms, the powers and duties of the state road board, leaving specific details to be determined by reasonable rules and regulations which the board may promulgate. The legislature intends, by a general grant of authority to the state road board, to delegate sufficient power and authority to enable the board to carry out the broad objectives stated above.

(7) It is the further intent of the legislature to bestow upon local officials adequate authority with respect to the roads under their jurisdiction. The efficient management, operation and control of our county roads, city streets and other public thoroughfares are likewise a matter of vital public interest.

(8) The problem of establishing and maintaining adequate roads and streets, eliminating congestion, reducing accident frequency, providing parking facilities and taking all necessary steps to ensure safe and convenient transportation on these public ways is no less urgent.

(9) The legislature, recognizing the necessity of fixing responsibilities for the construction, maintenance and operation of the several systems of highways, intends that the state shall have an integrated system of all roads and connecting urban streets to provide safe and efficient highway transportation throughout the state. The authority hereinafter granted to the state road board and to counties and municipalities to assist and cooperate with each other and to coordinate their activities is therefore essential.

(10) The legislature hereby finds, determines, and declares that this code is necessary for the preservation of the public safety, the promotion of the general welfare, the improvement and development of transportation facilities in the state, including the most effective utilization of parkways, scenic drives, residential streets and roads, elimination of hazards at grade intersections, and other related purposes, and as a contribution to the national defense.

History.—§1, ch. 29965, 1955.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §348.01.

334.03 Definition of words and phrases.—The following words and phrases when used in this code shall, unless the context clearly indicates otherwise, have the following meanings:

(2) Board.—The state road board.

(3) Chairman.—The chairman of the state road board.

*(4) Commissioners.—Board of county commissioners.

(5) Department.—The road department of this state.

(6) Director.—Executive director of the state road department.

(1) The fiscal year of the department shall begin July 1 of each year beginning July 1, 1956 and end on June 30 of each succeeding year. Such fiscal year shall constitute a budget year of the department.

(2) Not later than May 1 of each year, the director shall prepare and file with the planning and budget director a full and complete budget of all anticipated expenditures for the administration and maintenance of the department for the next ensuing fiscal year, giving details as to the number and amounts to be paid employees and for necessary and regular administrative and maintenance expense, and providing for a contingency fund of five per cent of the total of the administrative and maintenance expenses anticipated. The planning and budget director shall examine said budget, and as soon as practicable shall transmit to the planning and budget commission his report thereon. The planning and budget commission shall examine the budget and the report of the planning and budget director and shall approve or amend and approve said budget. When approved, the planning and budget director shall certify the action of the planning and budget commission to the director and the budget as certified shall be the administrative budget for the department and shall be included as such in the annual budget prepared by the department for the next ensuing fiscal year.

(3) The director shall prepare a tentative budget and work program including the administrative budget provided for in subsection (2) hereof, and the board shall, at a meeting to be held at least sixty days prior to the beginning of its fiscal year, pursuant to such tentative budget and work program and administrative budget, prepare a budget to control the expenditures of all funds made available for administrative purposes and for road construction and maintenance purposes during the ensuing year. The board shall use the results of the rating of roads, pursuant to regulations previously adopted, in determining priorities, not otherwise provided by law, when preparing such budget. A separate budget shall be prepared for the unrestricted road fund, i.e., moneys made available for expenditure for road construction and maintenance; and a separate budget shall be prepared for the restricted road funds, i.e., moneys made available for expenditure as restricted by law or agreement for road construction and maintenance in any county or special district or for the payment of interest and principal on any obligations incurred for road construction and maintenance in any county or special district which are to be liquidated from moneys made available through the department for that purpose.

(4) Nature and scope of the budget:

(a) The budget shall present a complete, balanced financial plan for the ensuing budget year. The receipt side of the budget shall set forth all anticipated fund balances to be brought forward at the beginning of the budget year. The fund balance shall be the difference between the current assets and current liabilities and reserves, as commonly defined in accounting terminology, of each fund enumerated herein. It shall set forth all estimated revenues and receipts by source anticipated to be available during the ensuing year for which the budget is prepared; except that no anticipated receipts estimated to be received under the various federal aid road or highway acts of congress shall be budgeted in excess of the amount of state receipts set aside to match such federal aid, and the state money thus set aside to match federal aid money shall be used for no other purpose than the construction of roads under agreements entered into by and between the United States bureau of public roads and the department. Provided, however, the board shall prior to the preparation of the budget ascertain the amount of federal aid funds which shall be available to the department for expenditure in the fiscal year for which the budget is prepared, and shall budget sufficient appropriate funds for matching and other purposes, not to exceed one-half the receipts of the first (4-cent) gas tax, for expenditure on United States numbered highways, and funds so budgeted shall be used for no other purpose. Such highways shall be the United States numbered highways in accordance with the official log of the American association of state highway officials, as of January 1, 1955, and any subsequent extensions thereto and shall constitute a priority system until all such roads shall have a sufficiency rating of good, or better in accordance with regulations prescribed by the board.

(b) The expenditure side of the budget shall set forth all proposed expenditures of the department for the fiscal year, classified by the activities to be carried on by the department; it shall set forth all proposed expenditures for salaries and other current operating expenses of the department; it shall set forth all proposed expenditures for the construction and for the maintenance of roads; and it shall set forth proposed expenditures for the payment of obligations of the department and the payment of interest and principal on obligations incurred for road construction and maintenance purposes by any county or special district which are to be liquidated from moneys made available through the department for that purpose.

(c) The unrestricted fund budget shall be so planned as to exhaust the estimated resources of the department for the year with the exception of an estimated reserve, in such reasonable amount as the board may deem necessary, for the purpose of doing emergency work which may be found to be necessary to be done during the year in order to prevent the stoppage of travel over any road over which the department has jurisdiction and control, and a reserve for the cash working balance hereinafter provided for in subsection (8) (b). At any time during the last two months of the budget year, the emergency work reserve, or any portion of it may be appropriated for road construction or maintenance projects listed in the program of work provided for herein, upon approval of the board, which approval must be recorded in its minutes.

(d) The budget shall be balanced; that is, the estimate of expenditures to be made during the year plus reserves shall be equal to the total estimated receipts plus the fund balance estimated to be available at the beginning of the year.

(5) A tentative program of work to be undertaken during the ensuing budget year shall be prepared for each fund setting forth all construction and maintenance projects to be undertaken during the year under the budget for the unrestricted fund and under the budget for the restricted funds. The program of work for each fund may list projects, the sum total of the estimated cost of which may exceed the amount budgeted for construction and for maintenance set forth in the budget for each fund by fifty per cent in order to provide alternate projects in case any particular listed project in the program of work cannot be undertaken during the year for any reason; provided, that no construction or maintenance project costing more than ten thousand dollars shall be undertaken without the approval of the board as recorded in its minutes. The purpose of this section is to avoid the necessity of including an amount in the budget for construction and maintenance of roads which is greater than the resources available for that purpose during any budget year, and to make the program of work of the department flexible by providing alternate projects for road construction and maintenance.

(6) Publication of the budget and the program of work:

(a) The proposed budget and the program of work for the unrestricted fund, made up as aforesaid, shall be published once in one of the newspapers of general circulation in the state, published in each of the following cities: Jacksonville, Pensacola, Tampa, Orlando, and Miami, together with a notice of the time and place of the public meeting for considering such proposed budget and program of work.

(b) Two copies of the proposed budget and the program of work for the unrestricted fund, together with notice of public hearing above referred to, shall be furnished to each clerk of the circuit courts of the state, and said clerk shall post a copy of said budget and program of work and notice of hearing at the front door of the courthouse, and shall retain in his office one copy of said budget, program of work, and notice of hearing, which shall be, during his regular office hours, open to the inspection of the public.

(7) Adoption of the budget:

(a) The board shall appoint a time and place for the public hearing on the proposed budget and the program of work prepared for the unrestricted fund, at which time it shall hear all complaints and suggestions offered by the public as to any changes desired in such budget and program of work; such time of hearing shall be not less than thirty nor more than forty-five days before the beginning of the fiscal year for which the budget is prepared.

(b) Upon completion of such hearing, the board shall, not more than fifteen days prior to the beginning of the fiscal year, decide upon and make up a final budget and program of work for the ensuing year in accordance with the foregoing requirements, and no construction or maintenance work shall be undertaken by the department other than that set forth in such budget and program of work as adopted or amended; provided, however, the department may, during the year, do emergency work necessary to prevent stoppage of travel over any state road under its jurisdiction and control, not exceeding in cost the amount set aside for an emergency fund as above provided.

(8) Execution of the budget:

(a) The board shall not during any fiscal year expend any money or incur any liability, or enter into any contract which, by its terms, involves the expenditure of money in excess of the amounts budgeted as available for expenditure during such fiscal year. Any contract, verbal or written, made in violation of this section shall be null and void, and no money shall be paid thereon. The board shall require a financial report from the comptroller prior to the execution of any contract. Any contract executed in wilful violation of the provisions of this section shall become a liability against the bond of any board member voting to approve such contract; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the making of contracts for a period exceeding one year, but any contract so made shall be executory only for the amounts agreed to be paid for services to be rendered in succeeding fiscal years; and provided further, that the executory amounts of such contracts shall be limited as provided in paragraph (b) hereof.

(b) In the operation of its primary or unrestricted fund, the department shall have on hand at the close of business which closing shall be not later than the tenth calendar day of the following month at the end of each month of the fiscal year, an available cash balance equivalent to not less than ten per cent of the unpaid balance of all primary fund obligations outstanding at the close of such month.

1. At the close of business at the end of any month during the fiscal year as defined above, the unpaid balance of all primary fund obligations outstanding shall not exceed ten times the available primary fund cash balance at the close of such month.

2. In the event this cash position is not maintained at the close of business at the end of any month, no further primary fund construction contracts shall be awarded or executed until the proper cash position, as defined above, has been regained at the close of business of a subsequent month.

3. Any construction contract awarded or executed in wilful violation of this section shall become a liability against the bond of any board member voting to approve the same.

(9) Amendment of the budget:

(a) The board shall have the authority to amend its budgets at any time during the fiscal year as follows:

1. Transfer within the same funds of any unencumbered budget item, or any portion thereof, from one activity to another.

2. Transfer between the unrestricted fund and the restricted funds, within the provisions of the restrictions provided by law or by agreement as to the expenditure of said funds, any unencumbered balance budgeted for road construction and maintenance purposes or for debt services.

3. Budget and expend a receipt of a nature from a source not anticipated in the adopted budget, including but not limited to grants, donations, gifts, or reimbursements for damages, for the purpose for which received or for any other authorized purpose. Such receipt and budgeted expenditure shall be added to the budget of the proper fund.

4. Budget and expend any receipts in excess of the total anticipated receipts in the adopted budget, provided that the total of all receipts budgeted must first be exceeded before such excess receipts may be budgeted and expended.

5. Substitution of project in the work program of any fund: Provided, such substituted project, in the primary work program shall not exceed five per cent of the total of the original work program and in the secondary work program shall not exceed twenty-five per cent of the total of the original work program applicable to the specific county.

(b) All amendments to the budget shall be made as provided by law for the adoption of the annual budget of the department except such amendment as authorized by paragraph (a) subparagraph 5, of this section shall be made by resolution of the board, adopted in open session.

334.22 Biennial reports.—

(1) The board shall report to the governor not later than sixty days before the meeting of each session of the legislature such changes in the laws as the board may agree upon as being expedient to secure the best results in road construction and repair work.

(2) The board shall also file with the governor not later than thirty days prior to such meeting of each session of the legislature a report covering the operation of the department for the two preceding fiscal years, which shall include a summary statement of the financial operations of the department and any other fiscal information that the governor may request.

334.23 Annual audit by state auditor.—The state auditor shall make an audit of the books and accounts of the department not less than once each year. A copy of the annual state audit shall be filed with the secretary of the senate and the chief clerk of the house of representatives for the use and benefit of the members of the legislature.

(b) Investigate and collect data and information as to the best methods and materials for road building and repair;

(c) Investigate and gather information as to road building and repairing in the different localities in this state;

(d) Compile all such data and information, and furnish the same free, upon request, to the boards of county commissioners of the several counties;

(e) Keep on file at the department headquarters copies of same as a public record.

(2) The department is hereby authorized to enter into contracts from time to time with the universities of higher learning within the state for the training of engineers, making of engineering research studies and the furnishing of data concerning same in the fields of soil stabilization, properties of concrete and concrete aggregate, bituminous wearing surfaces and pavements, and other highway research fields which are needful and beneficial in the planning, construction and improvement of public highways. The department is authorized to pay for such services out of the state road trust fund.

335.01 Designation and classification of state roads.—

(1) All public roads open to travel by the public generally and dedicated to the public use, according to law or by prescription, and roads which are constructed out of public funds and dedicated for general public usage and all extensions thereof, and connections thereto are hereby designated and declared to be and are established as state roads.

(2) State roads shall be divided into four classes:

- (a) The state highway system;
- (b) The state park road system;
- (c) The county road systems; and
- (d) The city street systems.

History.—§25, ch. 29965, 1955.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §341.81.

cf.—§334.03 State roads, defined.

335.02 Authority to designate roads of the state highway system.—

(1) The board shall have authority to locate and designate certain roads as state roads in the state highway system and construct and maintain the same with funds which are now or which may hereafter become available from the state or from the state and federal government. No such federal or state roads shall be redesignated or relocated until after a public hearing held thereon by the board or a member thereof designated by the chairman in each county affected after reasonable notice published in a newspaper of such county and for opportunity to any interested party to be heard either in person or by counsel and to introduce testimony in their behalf at a public hearing to be held for that purpose. Such roads when so located and designated shall become the property of the state, and shall be under the jurisdiction and control of the board.

(2) The board may determine and fix the lines and locations of such roads between the cities and places thereon. The department may survey and locate the line or route of any road or section of any road, designated as part of the state highway system. Whenever such survey and location shall be made and adopted by the board, a map or plat of such survey and location, certified by the director, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of each county through which such state road, or section thereof, so surveyed and located, shall run.

335.03 Interstate highways; designation.—

(1) The board shall have the powers and authority to select, in cooperation with the state highway departments of adjoining states, routes of the national system of interstate highways.

(2) The board shall have the authority to make necessary special rules and regulations to enable and assure expeditious planning and construction of the federal interstate system of highways in Florida and to take full advantage of the federal highway act of 1956, and amendments thereto. Such regulations, to apply only to the federal interstate system of highways, may provide for the budgeting and expenditure of any funds now or to be available for the purpose including all necessary state matching funds.

History.—§27, ch. 29965, 1955; §1, ch. 57-85.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §341.621(4)(a).

335.04 Classification of roads; standards; distinctions.—

(1) The board shall by regulation adopt a classification plan for all roads in the state highway system, which shall be based upon standards relating to financing, design and service. The board shall not designate a road as part of the state highway system unless the route of such road meets the requirements herein, and complies with regulations of the board.

(2) The state highway system shall be divided into the primary road system and the secondary road system and the distinction between each system shall be as prescribed herein, and as prescribed by regulations of the board.

(3) The primary road system shall be divided into arterial highways and other primary roads and, excluding the interstate system, shall be limited to eleven thousand two hundred miles. The interstate system shall be entitled to all of the benefits and privileges of the state primary road system.

* (a) Arterial highways shall be such roads as are designated federal interstate highways and other roads connecting urban areas having a population in excess of ten thousand inhabitants and following a continuous and reasonably direct route between such areas, and municipal connecting links of such roads.

* (b) Other primary roads shall be all federal numbered highways not designated as arterial highways and such roads that connect the county seats of adjacent counties of the state and county seats of counties of the state with county seats of adjoining states in a reasonably direct route, and municipal connecting links of such roads.

* (c) Provided that the board shall have the power, at its discretion, after full public hearing, to designate any other highway on the state highway system carrying primarily through traffic and serving a need not of a local character and which would serve as an integral part of the primary system as a part of the state primary highway system.

* (d) Provided further that any roads heretofore maintained at any time as a primary road shall be maintained, constructed and reconstructed as a part of the primary road system.

(4) The secondary road system shall consist of such roads selected by resolution of the county commissioners of the several counties of the state and approved by the board. Provided, no road hereafter established shall be approved as a part of the state highway system by the board with a right of way width of less than fifty feet and provided that the board may establish parallel one-way sections with a minimum of fifty feet.

IX, of the state constitution. All such work, when requested and authorized by the state road department, shall be performed under the supervision of and to the specifications of the state road department. The maintenance of the roads, streets or highways and municipal connecting links constructed or reconstructed under this section shall be determined by a com-operative agreement between the boards of county commissioners and the state road department.

(2) The department shall keep a record of such municipal connecting links and feeder roads designated as part of the state highway system and shall furnish, as soon as practicable, to each affected community and county a list of such roads.

(3) The department is authorized, and required, to maintain under its control and supervision such designated municipal connecting links and feeder roads; and is authorized to enter into any and all contracts, inclusive of agreements with cities and towns, and with any federal agency of the United States, for such purposes; provided, nothing herein contained shall require the department to sweep, sprinkle or light said municipal connecting links or feeder roads.

(4) The department, whenever it constructs or reconstructs any state road in the state highway system which enters or passes through any city or town, shall construct or reconstruct the municipal connecting link of such road to conform to the standards of construction approved by the board. Provided, however, that whenever any such municipal connecting link is constructed or reconstructed, no obligation shall rest upon the department to remove or relay any public utility.

(5) The board is authorized to provide and maintain signs and markers for the regulation of traffic and shall prescribe regulations for traffic, including traffic signal lighting, minimum and maximum speeds, and parking upon such roads. Such regulations, when made and once published in a newspaper published and having a general circulation in such city or town or posted at the city hall when there is no such newspaper, shall supersede any and all regulations relating to such traffic made by such city or town, or any laws regulating traffic upon such roads. Such regulations shall have the force and effect of law and violation of any of said regulations shall be a misdemeanor. Such regulations shall be enforced by all law enforcement officers.

(6) Before any person shall enter upon such roads, or the rights of way thereof, for the purpose of laying conduits, pipes, poles or wires, or making any obstruction, or any excavation, which necessitates any change in the condition or structure thereof, a permit for any such purpose must be secured from the board with the concurrence of the affected city or town where such city or town is not itself making the application for the permit; and the board is hereby authorized to prescribe rules and regulations under which such permits will be issued, and to require indemnity for any damage occasioned by the issuance of any such permit.

- (a) Structural adequacy;
- (b) Safety; and
- (c) Service.

(3) The determination of rating accorded to such factors shall take into consideration the volume of traffic using the roads, and the minimum engineering standards required to safely accommodate such volume of traffic; age of roads; width of pavement and shoulders; number and degree of curves, both horizontal and vertical; ridability; and maintenance economy. In addition to the factors and considerations herein required, the board may prescribe by regulation other factors or considerations to be used in obtaining sufficiency rating.

Such system of marking shall correlate with, and, as far as possible, shall conform to the recommendations of the manual on traffic control devices as adopted by the American Association of State Highway Officials.

(2) The department may erect and maintain along the state highway system signs indicating the historical points of interest.

(3) On state maintained roads outside municipalities where no sidewalks are provided, the state road department shall, where practicable, erect signs warning pedestrians to walk on the left side of the road facing traffic.

338.13 Toll facilities; purchase, lease or rent of.—

(1) The department is authorized to purchase, lease or rent annually any ferry and any toll bridge or road, for use in connection with the roads of the state highway system or state park road system.

(2) The department shall have the exclusive right and privilege at any time after thirty years from the completion of any such toll facility and approaches thereto, to purchase and acquire the same from the owner, which option shall be retained by the terms and conditions of the contract between the contracting person and the department when the original contract is made.

(3) The department shall have the right at any time after the completion of any such toll facility and approaches thereto, to lease or rent annually the same from the owner, subject to the terms and conditions provided for in the contract between the contracting person and the department. Upon so entering into any lease or rental of any such toll facility and approaches thereto, the department may provide for a necessary sinking fund to retire the principal value and cost of construction of such facility and approaches thereto. The department shall also have the right to lease and rent annually any toll bridges and roads heretofore constructed on, or connecting any road of the state highway or state park road system subject to the provisions of this section with respect to the amount of annual rental which may be paid. Any moneys used for any of the purposes provided by this section shall come from funds allocated in the annual budget of the department for such purposes.

(4) The department may, at any time after the completion of any such toll facility, purchase and acquire the same from the owner subject to terms and conditions provided in the contract between the contracting person and the department, and may also purchase and acquire any toll road or bridge constructed under the laws of Florida. In no case shall the department be permitted to take over by purchase any such facility subject to bonded or mortgaged indebtedness, unless such bonded or mortgaged indebtedness shall have been created in favor of an agency of the federal government, in which event said purchase is expressly authorized, and providing further, however, that any moneys used for the purposes herein provided shall come from funds allocated in the annual budget of the department.

338.14 Department may contract with public project owners.—

(1) The department is authorized to enter into agreements with any municipal corporation, county, district authority, or any political subdivision, or any agency or commission of the state, each of which is hereafter referred to as the public project owner which has heretofore acquired or constructed any toll revenue-producing bridge, causeway, tunnel, ferry, toll road or any combination thereof hereafter referred to as the project or which has adopted, or may hereafter adopt proceedings pursuant to which such public project owner is to acquire or construct any toll revenue-producing bridge, causeway, tunnel, ferry, road, toll road or any combination thereof hereinafter referred to as the project, for the purpose of doing or agreeing to do any one or more of the following:

(a) Leasing from any public project owner any project or part thereof for such period of years and under such terms and provisions, including provisions for the operation and maintenance thereof either by the public project owner or by the department, as may be considered desirable and be specified in the lease or leases.

(b) Purchasing from any public project owner any project or part thereof under such terms and provisions, including provisions for the operation and maintenance thereof either by the public project owner or by the department, as may be specified in the purchase contract or contracts.

(c) Paying the cost or any part of the cost of the operation and maintenance of any project for such period as may be fixed in such agreement. The payment of such cost may be made a charge upon the general revenues of the department or may be made a charge solely on certain specified revenues, including revenues derived from the state gasoline tax, or may be made a charge partly upon such general gasoline tax revenues, and a charge partly upon such certain specified revenues.

(d) Entering into such agreements with the federal government and any of its branches or agencies and doing such things as may be necessary to secure federal aid money, and assistance in the acquisition, construction, improvement, repair, maintenance and operation of any project or part thereof.

(e) Constructing, improving, repairing, maintaining or operating any project or part of project.

(f) Making to the public project owner any grant of funds, materials, property, easements, or rights of way for use in the acquisition, construction, improvement, repair, maintenance or operation of any project or part thereof.

(g) Operating or maintaining any project or part thereof as a road of the state highway or state park road system or part thereof, and this in spite of the fact that title to such project or part thereof remains in the public project owner. The provisions of any existing law requiring title to the state roads to be vested in the state shall not be operative as to projects or parts of projects made roads of the state highway or state park road system or maintained and operated as such roads under the provisions of this section.

(h) Making available to any public project owner, for paying the cost or part of the cost of constructing, repairing, improving, maintaining or operating any project, any federal aid funds or any other funds under the control of the department which may properly be used for such purposes.

(2) Any such public project owner is hereby authorized to enter into an agreement or agreements with the department for the purpose of accomplishing any one or more of the purposes set out in subsection (1) and any such public project owner may use any funds available to it by authority of law for use on any such project to accomplish any such purposes covered by any such agreement or agreements, and the department is hereby authorized to use federal aid or any state funds appropriated or allocated to it for state road purposes to carry out said agreements with public project owners. Any public project owner which is a county may use any county road and bridge funds from whatever source derived for accomplishing any of said purposes for any such project which is a county purpose.

(3) The department may make any project, or part thereof, a part of the state highway or state park road system, and may make any road of which any project comprises a part, a road of the state highway or state park road system, and may do so either without the vesting of title to such project in the state or under such provision for the later vesting of title in the state as may be considered advisable by the department.

(4) When any agreement shall have been entered into or made under the provisions of this law, any public project owner which is a party thereto or the department shall be entitled and are hereby empowered to enforce the provisions of such agreement through appropriate action in any court of competent jurisdiction.

(5) Whenever any agreement is made for operation of any project or part thereof by the department under the provisions of this law, the department may either operate such project or part thereof free from tolls or may fix and collect such tolls for the use thereof as it may from time to time see fit as may be provided in such agreement, and if tolls are so charged and collected the department may dispose of such tolls for any purpose and in any manner which it may deem fit and which may be provided in such agreement.

338.15 Department may lease or rent toll bridges of counties and municipalities; exception.—

(1) When any toll bridge on the state highway or state park road system has been or may be constructed by or for any county or municipality, which county or municipality has issued its bonds or other obligations to pay all or a part of the costs of construction of such bridge, and which bridge is authorized by law to be operated by said county as a toll bridge only for the purpose of paying off the obligations of such county or municipality for the cost of construction of such bridge, upon which event the said bridge will by provision of law become the property of the state, the department shall have the right and privilege to rent or lease from such county or municipality and to take over, maintain and operate free of tolls such bridge upon paying to said county annually as rental therefor such sum as may be agreed upon between the department and the commissioners of such county or the governing body of such municipality, not to exceed the sum which shall be necessary to pay the interest and meet the requirements of the sinking fund created to retire the obligations of the county incurred in the construction of such bridge, and which rentals shall be applied to that purpose and no other; and which rentals the department may contract for and pay. Any moneys used by the department for the purposes of this section shall be paid out of funds allocated in the annual budget of the department to the district in which the bridge so rented or leased is located.

(2) The provisions of this section shall not apply to any toll bridge constructed by or for any county where the freeholders or qualified electors of such county or municipality shall have voted within two years prior to June 5, 1933, at any referendum election, however called or held, to retain tolls for any general or special county purpose; nor to toll bridges located wholly within the corporate limits of any city or town situated in any county having a population of more than one hundred thousand according to the last federal census.

338.16 Certain toll bridges and toll roads prohibited.—

(1) No person shall establish, build or complete any toll bridge over any stream or body of water on that state road extending from the Georgia state line, at a point on the St. Mary's river known as Wild's Landing, to Orlando, via Yulee, Jacksonville, Orange Park, Green Cove Springs, Palatka, East Palatka, Crescent City, DeLand, and Sanford heretofore declared, designated and established as a road of the state highway system by the board; nor shall any person establish, build or complete as a toll road any part of the aforesaid state road.

(2) No person shall charge toll for passage over any such toll bridge or toll road, on such state road.

(3) In any case where a toll bridge may be established, built or completed by any person at a point not directly on such state road but near thereto, and such bridge shall not be on any public road leading to any community not reached by such state road, but is on a road or way which is in fact only a detour from the state road to furnish passage for travel using such state road, it is unlawful to connect such toll bridge by any road or way leading from such bridge to such state road, and the department shall prevent such connection from being made, by placing and maintaining a fence or barrier on the right of way of such state road across such connecting way or road, and the department may resort to a court of equity to enjoin any one violating or attempting to violate the provisions of this section.

(4) Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to apply to toll roads or toll bridges heretofore or hereafter established or built on any road or roads which connect with such state road and lead to or serve any community, city or town in the state; and the provisions of this section shall not be construed to repeal or limit in any way any special act of the legislature providing for or governing the construction and operation of any toll road or bridge.

(5) The terms of this section shall apply in any case where the stream or body of water spanned by the bridge lies partly within the boundary of this state and partly within the boundary of an adjoining state, as well as in case the stream or body of water lies wholly within this state.

(6) Any one who violates any of the terms of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by fine not exceeding $100 or by imprisonment not exceeding ninety days.

338.17 Use of right of way for utilities subject to regulation; permit.—

(1) The department, commissioners, and authorities of municipalities or special districts hereinafter referred to as the authority having jurisdiction and control of public roads are authorized to prescribe and enforce reasonable regulations with reference to the placing and maintaining along, across, or on any road under their respective jurisdictions any electric transmission, telephone or telegraph lines, pole lines, poles, railways, ditches, sewers, water, heat, or gas mains, pipe lines, fences, gasoline tanks and pumps, or other structures hereinafter referred to as the utility.

(2) The authority may grant to any person, who is a resident of this state, or to any corporation organized under the laws of this state, or licensed to do business within this state, the use of a right of way for the utility in accordance with such regulations as the authority may adopt. No utility shall be installed, located, or relocated unless authorized by a written permit issued by the authority. Such permit shall be required when inspection or repair of the utility interferes with the normal flow of traffic.

(3) Nothing herein shall restrict the action of public authorities in extraordinary emergencies. And nothing in this law shall be construed as modifying or abridging the powers conferred upon the Florida public service commission in Title XXV, the intent of this section being that the power hereby granted to the authorities shall be exercised only in such manner as not to conflict with the valid exercise of powers granted to such commission.

When any public road is damaged or impaired in any way because of the installation, inspection or repair of any utility located thereon, the owner of the utility shall, at his own expense, restore the road to its original condition before such damage. If the owner fails to make such restoration, the authority is authorized to do so and charge the cost thereof against the owner under the provisions of §338.20.

338.19 Relocation of utility; expenses.—

(1) Any utility heretofore or hereafter placed upon, under, over or along any public road that is found by the state or other authority to be unreasonably interfering in any way with the convenient, safe or continuous use or maintenance, improvement, extension or expansion of such public road shall, upon thirty days written notice to the utility or its agent, by the state or other authority be removed or relocated by such utility at its own expense; provided, however, that if the relocation of utility facilities, as referred to in §111 of the federal aid highway act of 1956, public law 627 of the eighty-fourth congress, is necessitated by the construction of a project on the federal aid interstate system, including extensions thereof within urban areas, and the cost of such project is eligible and approved for reimbursement by the federal government to the extent of ninety per cent or more under the federal aid highway act, or any amendment thereof, then in that event the utility owning or operating such facilities shall relocate same upon order of the state road department, and the state shall pay the entire expense properly attributable to such relocation after deducting therefrom any increase in the value of the new facility and any salvage value derived from the old facility.

(2) If such removal or relocation is incidental to work to be done on such road, the notice shall be given at the same time the contract for the work is advertised for bids, or thirty days prior to the commencement of such work by the authority.

(3) Whenever an order of the authority requires such removal or change in the location of any utility from the right of way of a public road, and the owner thereof fails to remove or change the same at his own expense to conform to the order within the time stated in the notice, the authority shall proceed to cause the utility to be removed. The expense thereby incurred shall be paid out of any money available therefor, and shall, except in those cases where the state is required by subsection (1) of this section to pay the expense, be charged against the owner and levied and collected and paid into the fund from which the expense of such relocation was paid.

338.20 Removal or relocation of utility facilities; notice and order; court review.—

(1) Whenever it shall become necessary for the authority to remove or relocate any utility as provided in the preceding section, the owner of the utility, or his chief agent, shall be given notice of such removal or relocation and an order requiring the payment of the cost thereof, and shall be given reasonable time, which shall not be less than twenty nor more than thirty days, in which to appear before the authority to contest the reasonableness of the order. Should the owner or his representative not appear, the determination of the cost to the owner shall be final.

(2) A final order of the authority shall constitute a lien on any property of the owner and may be enforced by filing an authenticated copy of the order in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of the county wherein the owner's property is located.

(3) Within sixty days from the final order of the authority, the owner may obtain judicial review of the proceedings thereof by filing in the circuit court of the county in which the utility was relocated, or in the circuit court of Leon county when the board is the respondent, a petition for a writ of certiorari in the manner prescribed by the Florida appellate rules.

(2) Every railroad company maintaining a railway-highway crossing shall, upon reasonable demand and notice from the department, install, maintain and operate at such crossing an automatic flashing light signal, the design of which shall be mutually approved by the department and the railway company, so that it will give to the users of such road reasonable warning of approach of trains or cars on the tracks of said railroad company, the cost of such signals and the expense of installation to be paid from the moneys described in subsection (1).

(3) Any county, through its board of county commissioners, may make application to the Board of Trustees of the Highway Secondary Trust Fund for the investment of the highway secondary trust funds in fuel tax anticipation certificates to be issued by the State Road Department on behalf of said county in order to provide funds for the design, construction, right-of-way and other costs of road projects located within the county, on the primary and secondary road systems.

Whenever the authority shall determine that it is necessary that any such public utility facilities which now are, or hereafter may be, located in, on, along, over or under any project should be relocated in such project, or should be removed from such project, the public utility owning or operating such facility shall relocate or remove the same in accordance with the order of the authority provided, that the cost and expense of such relocation or removal, including the cost of installing such facilities in a new location, or new locations, and the cost of any lands, or any rights or interest in lands, or any other rights acquired to accomplish such relocation or removal, shall be ascertained and paid by the authority as a part of the cost of such project, excepting, however, cases in which such public utility facilities are located within the right of way of existing public roads being constructed, reconstructed, improved or which will become a part of any project under the provisions of this act, provided, however, that the above exception shall not apply to public utility facilities owned by a city, county or subdivision thereof. Providing that no rural electric cooperative or any communications company or any private or public utility shall be required to pay any of the costs and expenses of removing or relocating any facilities or installations belonging to any rural electric cooperative or communications company or private or public utility from or on any rights of way provided for in this chapter, and the authority created by this law shall relocate or remove same and shall pay the costs and expenses of relocating or removing same. In case of any such relocation or removal of facilities, as aforesaid, the public utility owning or operating the same, its successors or assigns, may maintain and operate such facilities, with the necessary appurtenances, in the new location or new locations, for as long a period, and upon the terms and conditions, as it had the right to maintain and operate such facilities in their former location or locations.

(6) The turnpike authority shall construct or provide underpasses or overpasses for the passage of livestock and vehicles under said turnpike at such intervals as it may deem necessary.

History.—§9, ch. 28128, 1953.

340.10 Eminent domain proceedings.—

(1) Upon the exercise of the power of eminent domain by the authority, which power is hereby granted the authority, eminent domain proceedings may be instituted and conducted in the name of the authority and the procedure shall be the same as is prescribed by chapter 73.

(2) In any such proceeding instituted by the authority, the authority may file in the cause with its petition, or at any time before judgment, a declaration of taking, signed by its duly authorized agent or attorney, declaring that said lands are thereby taken for the use of the authority, and thereafter the provision of §§74.011-74.121 shall be applicable to said cause in the same manner and to the same extent as said sections would apply and govern if such proceeding had been instituted in the name of the state road department; provided that in any proceeding authorized by this chapter, at the time of entry of the order fixing the amount of the deposit to be made and fixing the time within which, and the terms upon which, the parties in possession shall be required to surrender possession to the petitioner, the court shall by order set said cause for trial and try said cause not later than ninety days after the return date provided in chapter 73.

(3) Nothing contained in this law shall be construed to authorize the authority to acquire state owned property by the exercise of the power of eminent domain.

History.—§10, ch. 28128, 1953.

340.11 Taking of public road for feeder road.—Before taking over any existing public road for maintenance, repair and operation as a feeder road, the authority shall obtain the consent of any officials then exercising jurisdiction over said road, which are hereby authorized to give such consent by resolution. Each feeder road or portion thereof acquired, constructed, or taken over under this section for maintenance, repair and operation, in connection with a project by the authority shall for all purposes of this act be deemed to constitute a part of the project, except that no toll shall be charged for transit between points on such feeder road.

History.—§11, ch. 28128, 1953.

340.12 Revenues.—

(1) The authority is hereby empowered to fix, revise, charge and collect tolls and charges for the use of each project and the different parts or sections thereof, to contract with any person, partnership, association or corporation desiring the use of any part thereof for the purpose of providing any of the facilities comprehended in the term turnpike project as defined herein, when, in the opinion of the authority, such facilities are necessary or desirable, and to fix the terms, conditions, rates and charges for use; provided, that facilities for motor fuel and food shall be publicly offered for the operation thereof under rules and regulations to be established by the authority. Such tolls shall not be subject to supervision or regulation by any other commission, board or agency of the state.

(2) To afford users of any turnpike project a reasonable choice of motor fuels of different brands, each gasoline service station or site therefor shall be separately offered for lease upon sealed bids for private operation and, after at least four weeks notice of the offer has been published in a newspaper having general circulation in the state, each such lease shall be awarded to the highest responsible bidder therefor, who may provide for the operation of the service station by a third person, but no person shall be awarded or have the use of, nor shall motor fuel identified by the trademarks, trade names, or brands of any one supplier, distributor, or retailer of such fuel be sold at,

(a) Consecutive service stations along one side of the turnpike, or

(b) More than one service station if they constitute more than twenty per cent of the service stations on the turnpike project.

(3) Such tolls shall be so fixed and adjusted in respect of the aggregate of tolls on each turnpike project in connection with which the bonds of any issue shall have been issued as to provide a fund sufficient with other revenue from such turnpike project to pay the cost of maintaining, repairing and operating such turnpike project and the principal of and the interest on such bonds as the same shall become due and payable, and to create reserve for such purposes. The tolls and all other revenues derived from each turnpike project or sections thereof in connection with which the bonds of any issue shall have been issued, except such part thereof as may be necessary to pay such cost of maintenance, repair and operation and to provide such reserves therefor as may be provided for in the resolution authorizing the issuance of such bonds or in the trust agreement securing the same, shall be set aside at such regular intervals as may be provided in such resolution or such trust agreement in a sinking fund which is hereby pledged to, and charged with, the payment of the principal of and the interest on such bonds as the same shall become due, and the redemption price or the purchase price of bonds retired by call or purchase as therein provided. Such pledge shall be valid and binding from the time when the pledge is made; the tolls or other revenues or other moneys so pledged and thereafter received by the authority shall immediately be subject to the lien of such pledge without any physical delivery thereof or further act, and the lien of any such pledge shall be valid and binding as against all parties having claims of any kind in tort, contract or otherwise against the authority irrespective of whether such parties have notice thereof. Neither the resolution nor any trust agreement by which a pledge is created need be filed or recorded except in the records of the authority. The use and disposition of moneys to the credit of such sinking fund shall be subject to the provisions of this act and such regulations as the resolution authorizing the issuance of such bonds or such trust agreement may provide. Except as may otherwise be provided in such resolution or such trust agreement, such sinking fund shall be a fund for all such bonds without distinction or priority of one over another.

History.—§12, ch. 28128, 1953.

340.121 Payment of toll on toll facilities required; exemptions.—No persons except employees of the agency operating the toll project when using the toll facility on official state business, state military personnel as defined in §347.19 and persons exempt from toll payment by the authorizing resolution for bonds issued to finance the facility, shall be permitted to use any toll facility under lease agreement with or operated by the state road department without payment of tolls; and failure to pay the prescribed toll shall be considered a misdemeanor punishable as are other misdemeanors.

History.—§1, ch. 59-70.

340.13 Bonds not debt or pledge of credit of state.—Turnpike revenue bonds issued under the provisions of this chapter shall not be deemed to be a debt of the state or a pledge of the faith and credit of the state, but such bonds shall be payable exclusively from the fund pledged for their payment or authorized herein. All such bonds shall contain a statement on their face that the state is not obligated to pay the same or the interest thereon and that the faith and credit of the state is not pledged to the payment of the principal or interest of such bonds. The issuance of turnpike revenue bonds under the provisions of this chapter shall not, directly or indirectly or contingently, obligate the state to levy or to pledge any form of taxation whatever therefor, or to make any appropriation for their payment. State funds shall not be used, appropriated or expended to construct, reconstruct, maintain, service, repair, purchase or lease any toll road authorized hereunder or to pay the principal or interest of any revenue certificates or other evidences of indebtedness issued for any such purpose, and the legislature does herewith determine that any such use of state funds would violate the constitution of the state and all such bonds shall contain a statement on their face to this effect.

History.—§13, ch. 28128, 1953.

340.14 Pledge not to restrict certain rights of authority.—The state does pledge to and agree with the holders of the bonds issued pursuant to this chapter, that the state will not limit or restrict the rights hereby vested in the authority to construct, reconstruct, maintain and operate any project as defined in this law or to establish and collect such tolls or other charges as may be convenient or necessary to produce sufficient revenues to meet the expenses of maintenance and operation thereof and to fulfill the terms of any agreements made with the holders of bonds authorized by this act or in any way impair the rights or remedies of the holders of such bonds until the bonds, together with interest thereon, are fully paid and discharged.

History.—§14, ch. 28128, 1953.

340.15 Turnpike revenue bonds.—

(1) The authority is hereby authorized to provide for the issuance at one time or from time to time, of turnpike revenue bonds of the authority for the purpose of paying all or any part of the cost of any one or more turnpike projects. The principal of and the interest on such bonds shall be payable solely from the funds herein provided for such payment. The bonds of each issue shall be dated, shall bear interest at such rate or rates not exceeding five per cent per annum, shall mature at such time or times not exceeding forty years from their date or dates, as may be determined by the authority, and may be made redeemable before maturity, at the option of the authority, at such price or prices and under such terms and conditions as may be fixed by the authority prior to the issuance of the bonds.

The authority shall determine the form of the bonds, including any interest coupons to be attached thereto, and shall fix the denomination or denominations of the bonds and place or places of payment of principal and interest, which may be at any bank or trust company within or without the state. The bonds shall be signed by the chairman of the authority or shall bear his facsimile signature, and the official seal of the authority or a facsimile thereof shall be impressed or imprinted thereon and attested by the secretary-treasurer of the authority, and any coupons attached thereto shall bear the facsimile signature of the chairman of the authority. In case any officer or employee whose signature or a facsimile of whose signature shall appear on any bonds or coupons shall cease to be such officer or employee before the delivery of such bonds, such signature or such facsimile shall nevertheless be valid and sufficient for all purposes the same as if he had remained in office or been employed until such delivery. All bonds issued under the provisions of this chapter shall have and are hereby declared to have all of the qualities and incidents of negotiable instruments under the negotiable instruments law of the state. The bonds may be issued in coupon or in registered form, or both, as the authority may determine, and provision may be made for the registration of any coupon bonds as to principal alone and also as to both principal and interest, for the reconversion into coupon bonds of any bonds registered as to both principal and interest, and for the interchange of registered and coupon bonds. The authority may sell such bonds in such manner and for such price as it may determine will best effect the purposes of this act, provided, however, if said bonds are sold for less than par, the total amount of the discount shall be added to the total amount of interest to be paid over the life of the certificates at the rate of interest at which said certificates are to be sold and the total thereof shall be considered as interest and the interest actually to be paid by virtue of any discount shall then be computed and said bonds shall not be sold if the interest to be paid plus the discount exceeds five per cent.

(2) The proceeds of the bonds of each issue shall be used solely for the payment of the cost of the turnpike project or projects for which such bonds shall have been issued (subject to the power to invest and reinvest trust funds as provided by §340.18), and shall be disbursed and used as provided by this act and in such manner and under such restrictions, if any, as the authority may provide in the resolution authorizing the issuance of such bonds or in the trust agreement hereinafter mentioned securing the same.

The authority may also provide for the replacement of any bonds which shall become mutilated or shall be destroyed or lost.

Such trust agreement or resolution providing for the issuance of such bonds may contain such provisions for protecting and enforcing the rights and remedies of the bondholders as may be reasonable and proper and not in violation of law, including covenants setting forth the duties of the authority in relation to the acquisition of property and the construction, improvement, maintenance, repair, operation and insurance of a turnpike project or projects in connection with which such bonds shall have been authorized, the rates of toll to be charged, the custody, safeguarding and application of all moneys, and conditions or limitations with respect to the issuance of additional bonds. It shall be lawful for any bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of the state which may act as depository of the proceeds of bonds or of revenues to furnish such indemnifying bonds or to pledge such securities as may be required by the authority. Any such trust agreement may set forth the rights and remedies of the bondholders and of the trustee, and may restrict the individual right of action by bondholders. In addition to the foregoing, any such trust agreement or resolution may contain such other provisions as the authority may deem reasonable and proper for the security of the bondholders. All expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of such trust agreement may be treated as a part of the cost of the operation of the turnpike project or projects.

344.29 Anticipated surplus gasoline tax; issuance of certificates of indebtedness authorized.—

(1) BY COUNTY.—

(a) Any county, by resolution of its board of county commissioners, and upon certification by the state board of administration of adequate anticipated revenue from twenty per cent surplus gasoline tax to accrue to such county under the provisions of §16, Art. IX of the state constitution, may issue and sell interest bearing certificates of indebtedness to be paid from said twenty per cent surplus gasoline tax for the sole purpose of acquiring right of way or constructing state or county roads within such county, or for refunding any such certificates theretofore issued. Such certificates shall mature within thirty years from date of issue but not later than the year 1992, shall bear interest at not more than six per cent, and shall be construed not as a general county obligation but merely as an obligation of the board of county commissioners in its representative capacity and secured only by the specified twenty per cent surplus gasoline tax revenue. When approved as to fiscal sufficiency by the state board of administration and as to legal adequacy by the attorney general of the state, such certificates shall have all the qualities of negotiable instruments under the statutes of this state and the law merchant, shall be acceptable as collateral to secure state or county fund deposits, and be eligible as investments for such funds, sinking funds and public trust funds.

(b) The proceeds of such certificates shall constitute a trust fund to be used solely for the purpose or purposes described therein but may, at the discretion of the board of county commissioners of such county, be transferred to and used by the state road department in carrying out such purpose or purposes. Any balance of such proceeds remaining after fulfillment of the purpose for which the certificates were issued shall be deposited in the sinking fund established for their payment.

(2) BY STATE ROAD DEPARTMENT.—

(a) The state road department, by resolution of its board, and upon certification by the state board of administration of adequate anticipated eighty per cent surplus gasoline tax revenue to accrue to the department for use in any county in the state under provisions of §16, Art. IX of the state constitution, may issue and sell interest bearing certificates of indebtedness payable from said eighty per cent surplus gasoline tax, for the purpose of financing the acquisition of right of way or for the construction or reconstruction of roads and bridges on the state road system in the county where such eighty per cent surplus gasoline tax accrues, or for the purpose of refunding certificates theretofore issued, but only upon resolution of the board of county commissioners of said county. Such certificates shall mature within thirty years from the date of issue, but not later than the year 1992, shall bear interest at not more than six per cent, and shall not be construed as an obligation of the state or of any political subdivision thereof, but merely as an obligation of the department in its representative capacity, and payable solely from the specified eighty per cent surplus gasoline tax. When approved as to fiscal sufficiency by the state board of administration and as to legal adequacy by the attorney general of the state, the certificates shall have all the qualities of negotiable instruments under the laws of the state or of the law merchant, shall be acceptable as collateral to secure deposits of state and county funds, and shall be eligible as investments for any state, county, municipal or other public trust funds.

(b) The department shall adopt policies and procedures and enter into such covenants with the certificate holders regarding the terms and conditions of such certificates covering the issuance, sale, exchange, refunding, redemption features, execution and so forth, as are in accord with sound fiscal principles and as are not inconsistent with the provisions of this section; provided, however, that the sale thereof to the general public shall be made only on the basis of duly advertised public competitive bidding, but that such certificates may be sold by negotiation to any federal, state or county agency having public funds at its disposal for investment. Said certificates shall constitute an irrevocable agreement between the department and the holders of such certificates.

(c) The state board of administration is hereby authorized, upon request by resolution of the state road department, to act as its agent in the issuance, sale, management, payment and refunding of such certificates of indebtedness.

(d) The proceeds of such certificates of indebtedness shall constitute a trust fund to be kept separate from other funds of the department and shall be used only for the purpose or purposes described in the face of such certificate. Any balance of such trust fund remaining after the purposes described in the certificate have been carried out shall be deposited in the sinking fund set up to retire such certificates.

(3) This section shall be considered as alternate and cumulative to any other law regarding the use of surplus gasoline tax funds accruing under the provisions of §16, Art. IX of the state constitution.

History.—§10, ch. 3039, 1877; RS 645; GS 918; RGS 1702; CGL 2753.

347.21 County commissioners to grant franchise.—The county commissioners of any county in this state, whenever it shall have been made to appear to them that the convenience of the public requires the maintenance of a ferry for teams and passengers operated on regular schedules at frequent intervals across any river between any two points on opposite sides of the river in the same county, shall by resolution, grant a leave, license and franchise for the establishment, maintenance and operation of such ferry by a grantee or grantees named in the resolution, from a street or a public road on one side of the river to a street or a public road on the other side of the river; which leave, license and franchise shall vest in and be enjoyed by the grantee or grantees and the heirs, successors, and assigns thereof for the terms and on the conditions as in §§347.22-347.25 provided. The word grantee, as used in said sections, shall include the heirs, successors and assigns of the grantee, and the word franchise shall include leave, license, and all rights and privileges pertaining to ferries.

347.22 Condition under which franchise granted.—Such leave, license and franchise, for the maintenance and operation of such ferry as provided in §347.21, shall be given and granted by resolution upon the following terms and conditions:

(1) The grantee of such leave, license and franchise, shall before the taking effect of such leave, license and franchise, give to the county a good and sufficient bond in the sum of five thousand dollars, to be approved by the county commissioners, conditioned for the establishment, maintenance and operation of a ferry of character to meet the reasonable necessities of the public on regular schedule at such frequent intervals from each side of the river with a ferry boat suitable and safe for the transportation of passengers, vehicles and teams during the hours and on the schedules as fixed by the provisions of the resolution of the board of county commissioners granting the franchise. The county commissioners shall in and by the resolution giving and granting such franchise fix the schedule to be observed and the rate to be charged for ferriage, and the character and capacity of boats, and make such other regulations as may to them appear to be reasonable, to be in force and effect until changed as hereinafter provided.

(2) Such franchise, unless adjudged by the courts forfeited for failure to comply with the terms and conditions thereof, shall run and continue for the full term of and period of fifteen years, and thereafter until the county commissioners shall have terminated the said franchise in the manner herein provided. No leave, license or franchise shall be granted to any person for the operation of any ferry across such river from or to any point within one mile of either terminus of such ferry as fixed by the resolution granting the franchise, and no other ferry shall be established or maintained within one mile thereof; and no such leave, license or franchise shall be so given or granted as to impair or depreciate the value of any vested right or privilege of any person or corporation operating at the time of the passage of this chapter, a ferry for the transportation of passengers and teams at frequent and regular intervals across a river under the provisions of any resolutions of a board of county commissioners, granted under the provisions of existing laws.

(3) At the end of the third year after granting such leave, license or franchise, and at the end of each period of three years thereafter, the county commissioners and the grantee shall each have the right, by having given notice of the intention so to do thirty days prior to any such recurring period of three years, to have arbitrated with the other party any question or questions as to the reasonableness of any rate or rates allowed or charged, or as to the character and reasonableness or frequency of the service required or given, or as to any other matter or thing pertaining to the maintenance or operation of such ferry. For the arbitration of any such question or questions, the county commissioners shall name one arbitrator, and the grantee of the franchise shall name the other, and the two arbitrators shall, if possible, after investigation, decide the question or questions submitted to them, and render to the county commissioners and to the grantee a written decision signed by them. If the two arbitrators so named shall be unable to agree as to a proper decision on any question or questions, they shall mutually agree upon a third disinterested party, who shall investigate the contested question or questions, and the finding of two of the arbitrators shall then be a decision of the arbitrators. All parties shall be bound, and shall abide by and carry out for the ensuing three years the decision of the arbitrators. The county commissioners and the grantee of such franchise shall have the right at any time, without arbitration, to make by resolution of the county commissioners, approved by the grantee, any arrangement that they may deem mutually advantageous to all concerned affecting such ferry service, subject, however, to subsequent change by arbitration at the times and as herein provided.

(4)(a) The county commissioners of any county, wherein such ferry shall have been operated as herein provided, shall have the right to have submitted to the voters of the county, at the general election next preceding the expiration of the said term of fifteen years, the question as to whether or not the county commissioners shall purchase the property used and operate the ferry, and if the majority of the voters voting on the subject shall have voted for the purchase and operation of the ferry by the county, then the county commissioners and the grantee of the franchise shall each name an arbitrator, and the two arbitrators so named shall name a third, a disinterested person of high standing and integrity, and the three arbitrators, or two of them, if the three cannot agree, shall, after a thorough investigation, fix the amount to be paid by the county to the grantee; and the county commissioners shall thereupon pay to the grantee the amount fixed by the arbitrators, or a majority of them, and shall receive from the grantee a conveyance of all its property used for ferry purposes; and the county commissioners shall operate such ferry so long as its operation by them shall appear practicable, and the grantee of the franchise shall not thereafter, so long as the said ferry shall be operated by the county, operate any such ferry, and all rights of the grantee to operate such ferry shall, during the time of the operation thereof by the county, be withdrawn.

(b) Should the electors of the county at such election fail to approve the purchase and operation of such ferry, or should the county commissioners for any reason fail to make such purchase, the grantee shall have the right to continue the operation of such ferry with all the rights hereby granted and subject to all of the provisions of this chapter as to arbitration of questions of service, charges, etc., for an additional term of ten years, and until the county shall, by vote of its electors, have determined to purchase and operate such ferry, and shall have paid to the grantee the amount fixed by arbitration in the manner above provided.

History.—§2, ch. 5185, 1903; GS 920; RGS 1704; CGL 2755.

347.23 No person to maintain ferry unless authorized.—No person not authorized under the provisions of this chapter shall maintain any ferry for transporting persons or property for profit across any river from any point within one mile of a terminus of any ferry maintained under the provisions of this chapter to any point within one mile of such terminus.

347.24 Transporting persons for hire within one mile of ferry; penalty.—Any person who shall for profit or hire transport across any river from any point within one mile of any terminus of any ferry maintained under the provisions of law to any point within one mile of a terminus of any such ferry, unless duly authorized by law so to do, shall be punished by fine not exceeding $20.00 for the first offense and by fine not exceeding $50.00, or imprisonment not exceeding 5 days for each subsequent offense.

A vacancy occurring during a term shall be filled only for the balance of the unexpired term. Each appointed member of the authority shall be a person of outstanding reputation for integrity, responsibility and business ability but no person who is an officer or employee of any city or of Pinellas County in any other capacity shall be an appointed member of the authority. (d) To enter into and make leases for terms not exceeding forty years, as either lessee or lessor, in order to carry out the right to lease as set forth in this part.

(e) To enter into and make lease-purchase agreements with the State Road Department for terms not exceeding forty years, or until any bonds secured by a pledge of rentals thereunder, and any refundings thereof, are fully paid as to both principal and interest, whichever is longer.

Provided, however, that no portion of the Pinellas County gasoline tax funds shall be pledged for the construction of any project for which a toll is to be charged unless the anticipated tolls are reasonably estimated by the board of county commissioners, at the date of its resolution pledging said funds to be sufficient to cover the principal and interest of such obligations during the period when said pledge of funds shall be in effect.

2. The authority shall reimburse Pinellas County for any sums expended from said gasoline tax funds used for the payment of such obligations. Any gasoline tax funds so disbursed shall be repaid when the authority deems it practicable together with interest at the highest rate applicable to any obligations of the authority.

3. In the event that the authority shall determine to fund or refund any bonds theretofore issued by said authority or by said commission as aforesaid prior to the maturity thereof, the proceeds of such funding or refunding bonds shall, pending the prior redemption of the bonds to be funded or refunded, be invested in direct obligations of the United States, and it is the express intention of this part that such outstanding bonds may be funded or refunded by the issuance of bonds pursuant to this part, notwithstanding that part of such outstanding bonds will not mature or become redeemable until six years after the date of issuance of bonds pursuant to this part to fund or refund such outstanding bonds.

(h) To make contracts of every name and nature and to execute all instruments necessary or convenient for the carrying on of its business.

(i) Without limitation of the foregoing, to borrow money and accept grants from, and to enter into contracts, leases or other transactions with any federal agency, the state, any agency of the state, the County of Pinellas or with any other public body of the state.

(l) To do all acts and things necessary or convenient for the conduct of its business and the general welfare of the authority in order to carry out the powers granted to it by this part or any other law.

(3) The authority shall have no power at any time or in any manner to pledge the credit or taxing power of the state or any political subdivision or agency thereof, including the County of Pinellas, nor shall any of the authority's obligations be deemed to be obligations of the state or of any political subdivision or agency thereof, nor shall the state or any political subdivision or agency thereof, except the authority, be liable for the payment of the principal of or interest on such obligations.

(4) Anything in this part or any other provision of the law to the contrary notwithstanding, the consent of any municipality shall not be necessary for any project of the authority, whether or not said project lies within the boundaries of any municipality, either in whole or in part. However, the officials and residents of any municipality in which any project of the authority is to be located, in whole or in part, shall be given ample opportunity to discuss said project and advise the authority as to their position thereon, at a duly advertised public hearing. Advertisement of said public hearing shall be by way of a newspaper published in Pinellas County and circulated in the affected municipalities. Said legal advertisement shall be published once at least two weeks prior to said public hearing, and shall contain the time and place of said public hearing, and a short description of the subject to be discussed. (d) By action or suit in equity require the authority or the State Road Department to account as if it were the trustee of an express trust for the bondholders.

(e) By action or suit in equity enjoin any acts or things which may be unlawful or in violation of the rights of the bondholders.

(3) Any trustee, when appointed as aforesaid, or acting under a deed of trust, indenture or other agreement, and whether or not all bonds have been declared due and payable, shall be entitled as of right to the appointment of a receiver, who may enter upon and take possession of the Pinellas County Expressway System or the facilities or any part or parts thereof, the rates, fees, rentals or other revenues, charges or receipts from which are, or may be, applicable to the payment of the bonds so in default, and subject to and in compliance with the provisions of any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the State Road Department operate and maintain the same, for and on behalf of and in the name of, the authority, the State Road Department and the bondholders, and collect and receive all rates, fees, rentals and other charges or receipts or revenues arising therefrom in the same manner as the authority or the State Road Department might do, and shall deposit all such moneys in a separate account and apply the same in such manner as the court shall direct. In any suit, action or proceeding by the trustee, the fees, counsel fees, and expenses of the trustee, and said receiver, if any, and all costs and disbursements allowed by the court shall be a first charge on any rates, fees, rentals, or other charges, revenues or receipts, derived from the Pinellas County Expressway System, or the facilities or services or any part or parts thereof, including payments under any such lease-purchase agreement as aforesaid which said rates, fees, rentals, or other charges, revenues or receipts shall or may be applicable to the payment of the bonds so in default. Such trustee shall, in addition to the foregoing, have and possess all of the powers necessary or appropriate for the exercise of any functions specifically set forth herein or incident to the representation of the bondholders in the enforcement and protection of their rights.

(4) Nothing in this section or any other section of this part shall authorize any receiver appointed pursuant hereto for the purpose, subject to and in compliance with the provisions of any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the State Road Department, of operating and maintaining the Pinellas County Expressway System or any facilities or part or parts thereof, to sell, assign, mortgage or otherwise dispose of any of the assets of whatever kind and character belonging to the authority. It is the intention of this part to limit the powers of such receiver, subject to and in compliance with the provisions of any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the State Road Department, to the operation and maintenance of the Pinellas County Expressway System, or any facility, or part or parts thereof, as the court may direct, in the name and for and on behalf of the authority, the State Road Department and the bondholders, and no holder of bonds on the authority nor any trustee, shall ever have the right in any suit, action or proceeding at law, or in equity, to compel a receiver, nor shall any receiver be authorized or any court be empowered to direct the receiver to sell, assign, mortgage or otherwise dispose of any assets of whatever kind or character belonging to the authority.

348.072 Lease-purchase agreement.—

(1) In order to effectuate the purposes of this part and as authorized herein, the authority may enter into a lease-purchase agreement with the State Road Department relating to and covering the Pinellas County Expressway System.

(2) Such lease-purchase agreement shall provide for the leasing of the Pinellas County Expressway System, by the authority, as lessor, to the State Road Department, as lessee, shall prescribe the term of such lease and the rentals to be paid thereunder and shall provide that upon the completion of the faithful performance thereunder and the termination of such lease-purchase agreement, title in fee simple absolute to the Pinellas County Expressway System, as then constituted, shall be transferred in accordance with law by the authority, to the state, and the authority shall deliver to the State Road Department such deeds and conveyances as shall be necessary or convenient to vest title in fee simple absolute in the state.

(3) Such lease-purchase agreement may include such other provisions, agreements and covenants as the authority and the State Road Department deem advisable or required, including but not limited to, provisions as the bonds to be issued under and for the purposes of this part, the completion, extension, improvement, operation and maintenance of the Pinellas County Expressway System and the expenses and the cost of operation of said authority, the charging and collection of tolls, rates, fees and other charges for the use of the services and facilities thereof, the application of federal or state grants or aid which may be made or given to assist the authority in the completion, extension, improvement, operation and maintenance of the Pinellas County Expressway System, which the authority is hereby authorized to accept and apply to such purposes, the enforcement of payment and collection of rentals and any other terms, provisions or covenants necessary, incidental or appurtenant to the making of and full performance under such lease-purchase agreement.

(4) The State Road Department, as lessee under such lease-purchase agreement, is hereby authorized to pay, as rentals thereunder, any rates, fees, charges, funds, moneys, receipts or income accruing to the State Road Department from the operation of the Pinellas County Expressway System and the Pinellas County gasoline tax funds and may also pay, as rentals, any appropriations received by the State Road Department pursuant to any act of the legislature of the state heretofore or hereafter enacted; provided, however, that nothing herein nor in such lease-purchase agreement is intended to nor shall this part or such lease-purchase agreement require the making or continuance of such appropriations, nor shall any holder of bonds issued pursuant to this part ever have any right to compel the making or continuance of such appropriations.

(5) No pledge of said Pinellas County gasoline tax funds, as rentals under such lease-purchase agreement, shall be made without the consent of Pinellas County, evidenced by a resolution duly adopted by the board of county commissioners of said county at a public hearing held pursuant to due notice thereof published at least once a week for three consecutive weeks before the hearing in a newspaper of general circulation in the county. Said resolution, among other things, shall provide that any excess of said pledged gasoline tax funds which is not required for debt service or reserves for such debt service for any bonds issued by said authority shall be returned annually to the State Road Department for distribution to Pinellas County as provided by law. Before making any application for such pledge of gasoline tax funds, the authority shall present the plan of its proposed project to the Pinellas (County) Planning Council for its comments and recommendations. Said State Road Department shall have power to covenant in any lease-purchase agreement that it will pay all or any part of the cost of the operation, maintenance, repair, renewal and replacement of said system, and any part of the cost of completing said system to the extent that the proceeds of bonds issued therefor are insufficient, from sources other than the revenues derived from the operation of said system and said Pinellas County gasoline tax funds. Said State Road Department may also agree to make such other payments from any moneys available to said Pinellas County, in connection with the construction or completion of said system, as shall be deemed by said State Road Department to be fair and proper under any such covenants heretofore or hereafter entered into.

(6) Said system shall be a part of the state road system and said State Road Department is hereby authorized, upon the request of the authority, to expend out of any funds available for the purpose, such moneys, and to use such of its engineering and other forces, as may be necessary and desirable in the judgment of said State Road Department, for the operation of said authority and for traffic surveys, borings, surveys, preparation of plans and specifications, estimates of cost and other preliminary engineering and other studies; provided, however, that the aggregate amount of moneys expended for said purposes by said State Road Department shall not exceed the sum of five hundred thousand dollars.

History.—§7, ch. 67-48.

348.082 State Road Department may be appointed agent of authority for construction.—The State Road Department may be appointed by said authority as its agent, for the purpose of constructing improvements and extensions to the Pinellas County Expressway System and for the completion thereof. In such event, the authority shall provide the State Road Department with complete copies of all documents, agreements, resolutions, contracts and instruments relating thereto, and shall request the State Road Department to do such construction work, including the planning, surveying and actual construction of the completion, extensions and improvements to the Pinellas County Expressway System, and shall transfer to the credit of an account of the State Road Department, in the treasury of the state, the necessary funds therefor, and the State Road Department shall thereupon be authorized, empowered and directed to proceed with such construction and to use the said funds for such purpose in the same manner that it is now authorized to use the funds otherwise provided by law for its use in construction of roads and bridges.

History.—§8, ch. 67-48.

348.092 Acquisition of lands and property.—

(1) For the purposes of this part, the Pinellas County Expressway Authority may acquire private or public property and property rights, including rights of access, air, view and light, by gift, devise, purchase or condemnation by eminent domain proceedings, as the authority may deem necessary. The right of eminent domain herein conferred shall be exercised by the authority in the manner provided by law.

(2) In connection with the acquisition of property or property rights, as herein provided, the authority may, in its discretion, acquire an entire lot, block or tract of land, if by so doing, the interests of the public will be best served, even though said entire lot, block or tract is not immediately needed for the right-of-way proper.

The authority is hereby expressly authorized to make and enter into contracts, leases, conveyances and other agreements with any political subdivision, agency or instrumentality of the state and any and all federal agencies, corporations and individuals, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this part.

History.—§10, ch. 67-48.

348.112 Covenant of the state.—The state does hereby pledge to, and agrees, with any person, firm or corporation, or federal or state agency subscribing to, or acquiring the bonds to be issued by the authority for the purposes of this part that the state will not limit or alter the rights hereby vested in the authority and the State Road Department until all bonds at any time issued, together with the interest thereon, are fully paid and discharged insofar as the same affects the rights of the holders of bonds issued hereunder. The state does further pledge to, and agree with, the United States that, in the event any federal agency shall construct, or contribute any funds for the completion, extension or improvement of, the Pinellas County Expressway System, or any part or portion thereof, the state will not alter or limit the rights and powers of the authority and the State Road Department in any manner which would be inconsistent with the continued maintenance and operation of the Pinellas County Expressway System or the completion, extension or improvement thereof, or which would be inconsistent with the due performance of any agreements between the authority and any such federal agency, and the authority and the State Road Department shall continue to have and may exercise all powers herein granted, so long as the same shall be necessary or desirable for the carrying out of the purposes of this part and the purposes of the United States in the completion, extension or improvement of the Pinellas County Expressway System, or any part or portion thereof.

History.—§11, ch. 67-48.

348.122 Exemption from taxation.—The effectuation of the authorized purposes of the authority created under this part is, shall and will be in all respects for the benefit of the people of the state, for the increase of their commerce and prosperity, and for the improvement of their health and living conditions, and since such authority will be performing essential governmental functions in effectuating such purposes, such authority shall not be required to pay any taxes or assessments of any kind or nature whatsoever upon any property acquired or used by it for such purposes, or upon any rates, fees, rentals, receipts, income or charges at any time received by it, and the bonds issued by the authority, their transfer and the income therefrom, including any profits made on the sale thereof, shall at all times be free from taxation of any kind by the state, or by any political subdivision, or taxing agency or instrumentality thereof.

History.—§12, ch. 67-48.

348.132 Eligibility for investments and security.—Any bonds or other obligations issued pursuant to this part shall be and constitute legal investments for banks, savings banks, trustees, executors, administrators, and all other fiduciaries, and for all state, municipal and other public funds and shall also be and constitute securities eligible for deposit as security for all state, municipal or other public funds, notwithstanding the provisions of any other law or laws to the contrary.

History.—§13, ch. 67-48.

348.142 Pledges enforceable by bondholders.—It is the express intention of this part that any pledge by the State Road Department of rates, fees, revenues, Pinellas County gasoline tax funds or other funds, as rentals, to the authority, or any covenants or agreements relative thereto may be enforceable in any court of competent jurisdiction against the authority or directly against the State Road Department by any holder of bonds issued by the authority.

History.—§14, ch. 67-48.

348.152 Part I complete and additional authority.—

(1) The powers conferred by this part I shall be in addition and supplemental to the existing powers of said board and the State Road Department, and this part shall not be construed as repealing any of the provisions of any other law, general, special or local, but to supersede such other laws in the exercise of the powers provided in this part, and to provide a complete method for the exercise of the powers granted herein. The extension and improvement of said Pinellas County Expressway System, and the issuance of bonds hereunder to finance all or part of the cost thereof, may be accomplished upon compliance with the provisions of this part, without regard to or necessity for compliance with the provisions, limitations or restrictions contained in any other general, special or local law, and no approval of any bonds issued under this part by the qualified electors or qualified electors who are freeholders in the state or in said County of Pinellas, or in any other political subdivision of the state, shall be required for the issuance of such bonds pursuant to this part.

(2) This part I shall not be deemed to repeal, rescind or modify any other law or laws relating to said State Board of Administration, said State Road Department or said Florida Development Commission, but shall be deemed to and shall supersede such other law or laws as are inconsistent with the provisions of this part.

Thereafter, the term of each appointed member shall be for four years. Each appointed member shall hold office until his successor has been appointed and he has qualified. A vacancy occurring during a term shall be filled only for the balance of the unexpired term. Each appointed member of the authority shall be a person of outstanding reputation for integrity, responsibility and business ability; but no person who is an officer or employee of any city or of Brevard County in any other capacity shall be an appointed member of the authority. Each such original appointment shall be made within thirty days of the effective date of this part. Any member of the authority shall be eligible for reappointment.

(1) The authority created and established by the provisions of this part is hereby granted and shall have the right to acquire, hold, construct, improve, maintain, operate, own and lease in the capacity of lessor, the Brevard County Expressway System, hereinafter referred to as "system."

(2) It is the express intention of this part that the authority, in the construction of the Brevard County Expressway System, shall be authorized to construct any extensions, additions or improvements to said system or appurtenant facilities, including all necessary approaches, roads, bridges and avenues of access, with such changes, modifications or revisions of said project as shall be deemed desirable and proper.

(3) The authority is hereby granted, and shall have and may exercise all powers necessary, appurtenant, convenient or incidental to the carrying out of the aforesaid purposes, including, but without being limited to, the following rights and powers:

(b) To adopt, use and alter at will a corporate seal.

(c) To acquire, purchase, hold, lease as lessee and use any franchise, property, real, personal or mixed, tangible or intangible, or any interest therein, necessary or desirable for carrying out the purposes of the authority, and to sell, lease as lessor, transfer and dispose of any property or interest therein at any time acquired by it.

(d) To enter into and make leases for terms not exceeding forty years, as either lessee or lessor, in order to carry out the right to lease as set forth in this part.

(g) 1. To borrow money, make and issue negotiable notes, bonds, refunding bonds and other evidences of indebtedness or obligations, either in temporary or definitive form, hereinafter in this part sometimes called "bonds" of the authority for the purpose of financing all or part of the improvement or extension of the Brevard County Expressway System and appurtenant facilities, including all approaches, streets, roads, bridges and avenues of access for said Brevard County Expressway System and for any other purpose authorized by this part, said bonds to mature in not exceeding forty years from the date of issuance thereof, and to secure the payment of such bonds or any part thereof by a pledge of any or all of its revenues, rates, fees, rentals or other charges, including all or any portion of the Brevard County gasoline tax funds received by the authority pursuant to the terms of any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the State Road Department; and in general to provide for the security of said bonds and the rights and remedies of the holders thereof. Provided, however, that no portion of the Brevard County gasoline tax funds shall be pledged for the construction of any project for which a toll is to be charged unless the anticipated tolls are reasonably estimated by the board of county commissioners, at the date of its resolution pledging said funds to be sufficient to cover the principal and interest of such obligations during the period when said pledge of funds shall be in effect.

2. The authority shall reimburse Brevard County for any sums expended from said gasoline tax funds used for the payment of such obligations. Any gasoline tax funds so disbursed shall be repaid when the authority deems it practicable, together with interest at the highest rate applicable to any obligations of the authority.

3. In the event the authority determines to fund or refund any bonds theretofore issued by said authority, or by said commission as aforesaid prior to the maturity thereof, the proceeds of such funding or refunding bonds shall, pending the prior redemption of the bonds to be funded or refunded, be invested in direct obligations of the United States, and it is the express intention of this part that such outstanding bonds may be funded or refunded by the issuance of bonds pursuant to this part, notwithstanding that part of such outstanding bonds will not mature or become redeemable until ten years after the date of issuance of bonds pursuant to this part to fund or refund such outstanding bonds.

(h) To make contracts of every name and nature and to execute all instruments necessary or convenient for the carrying on of its business.

(i) Without limitation of the foregoing, to borrow money and accept grants from, and to enter into contracts, leases or other transactions with any federal agency, the state, any agency of the state, the County of Brevard or with any other public body of the state.

(j) To have the power of eminent domain, including the procedural powers granted under both chapters 73 and 74.

(l) To do all acts and things necessary or convenient for the conduct of its business and the general welfare of the authority in order to carry out the powers granted to it by this part or any other law.

(m) The authority is authorized to acquire the Canaveral Causeway, commonly known as the Bennett Causeway, from the Florida Development Commission upon such terms and conditions as the authority, the State Road Department, and the commission may agree upon with the approval of the State Board of Administration.

(n) The authority is specifically authorized to construct the following toll facilities in Brevard County:

1. Those improvements which may be required to provide four traffic lanes on the existing Canaveral Causeway.

2. A four lane causeway extending from State Road A-1-A across the Banana and Indian Rivers to US 1 and Interstate 95, between State Road 520 and the Eau Gallie Causeway at such location as is determined to be economically feasible by the authority.

(o) The authority shall obtain the approval of the Trustees of the Internal Improvement Trust Fund and the Florida Board of Conservation for construction of any improvements on or over submerged lands in which title is vested in the state.

(4) The authority shall have no power at any time or in any manner to pledge the credit or taxing power of the state or any political subdivision or agency thereof, including the County of Brevard, nor shall any of the authority's obligations be deemed to be obligations of the state or of any political subdivision or agency thereof, nor shall the state or any political subdivision or agency thereof, except the authority, be liable for the payment of the principal of or interest on such obligations.

(5) Anything in this part or any other provisions of the law to the contrary notwithstanding, the consent of any municipality shall not be necessary for any project of the authority, whether or not said project lies within the boundaries of any municipality, either in whole or in part. However, the officials and residents of any municipality in which any project of the authority is to be located, in whole or in part, shall be given ample opportunity to discuss said project and advise the authority as to their position thereon, at a duly advertised public hearing. Advertisement of said public hearing shall be by way of a newspaper published in Brevard County and circulated in the affected municipalities. Said legal advertisement shall be published once at least two weeks prior to said public hearing, and shall contain the time and place of said public hearing and a short description of the subject to be discussed. Said public hearing may be adjourned from time to time and set for a time and place certain without necessity for further advertisement.

Pending the preparation of definitive bonds, interim certificates may be issued to the purchaser or purchasers of such bonds and may contain such terms and conditions as the authority may determine.

(3) Any such resolution or resolutions authorizing any bonds hereunder may contain provisions which shall be part of the contract with the holders of such bonds, as to:

(4) No pledge of either the eighty per cent

surplus gasoline tax funds or the twenty per cent surplus gasoline tax funds under any such lease-purchase agreement shall be made without the consent of the county evidenced by a resolution duly adopted by its board of county commissioners, nor unless the revenues pledged under any such lease-purchase agreements are estimated by the authority to aggregate during the term of such lease-purchase agreements not less than the principal amount of the bonds secured thereunder plus interest thereon. Any such lessee may also agree to make such other payments from moneys available to the county, the city, the authority or the state road department in connection with the construction or completion of such system as shall be deemed by such lessee to be fair and proper under any such covenants heretofore or hereafter entered into.

(6) Any lease-purchase agreement may provide that the system shall be a part of the state road system. The state road department is hereby authorized, upon request of the authority, to expend out of any funds available for the purpose, such moneys, and to use such of its engineering or other forces, as may be necessary and desirable in the judgment of the state road department, for the operation of the authority and for traffic surveys, borings, surveys, preparation of plans and specifications, estimates of costs, preliminary engineering and other studies.

Such notice shall be deemed to have been given if given in writing, and deposited in a securely sealed post-paid wrapper, mailed at a regularly maintained United States post office box or station and addressed, respectively, to the chairman of the authority and to the State Road Commissioner at the principal office of the state road department.

In any suit, action or proceeding by the trustee, the fees, counsel fees, and expenses of the trustee, and said receiver, if any, and all costs and disbursements allowed by the court shall be a first charge on any rates, fees, rentals, or other charges, revenues or receipts, derived from the Orlando-Orange county expressway system, or the facilities or services or any part or parts thereof, including payments under any such lease-purchase agreement as aforesaid which said rates, fees, rentals, or other charges, revenues or receipts shall or may be applicable to the payment of part, the completion, extension, improvement, operation and maintenance of the Orlando-Orange county expressway system and the expenses and the cost of operation of said authority, the charging and collection of tolls, rates, fees, and other charges for the use of the services and facilities thereof, the application of federal or state grants or aid which may be made or given to assist the authority in the completion, extension, improvement, operation and maintenance of the Orlando expressway system, which the authority is hereby authorized to accept and apply to such purposes, the enforcement of payment and collection of rentals and any other terms, provisions or covenants necessary, incidental or appurtenant to the making of and full performance under such lease-purchase agreement.

(4) The state road department as lessee under such lease-purchase agreement, is hereby authorized to pay as rentals thereunder any rates, fees, charges, funds, moneys, receipts or income accruing to the state road department from the operation of the Orlando-Orange county expressway system and the Orange county gasoline tax funds and may also pay as rentals any appropriations received by the state road department pursuant to any act of the legislature of the state heretofore or hereafter enacted; provided, however, that nothing herein nor in such lease-purchase agreement is intended to nor shall this part or such lease-purchase agreement require the making or continuance of such appropriations, nor shall any holder of bonds issued pursuant to this part ever have any right to compel the making or continuance of such appropriations.

of said system and said Orange county gasoline tax funds. Said state road department may also agree to make such other payments from any moneys available to said commission, said county or said city in connection with the construction or completion of said system as shall be deemed by said state road department to be fair and proper under any such covenants heretofore or hereafter entered into.

(7) Said system shall be a part of the state road system and said state road department is hereby authorized, upon the request of the authority, to expend out of any funds available for the purpose such moneys, and to use such of its engineering and other forces, as may be necessary and desirable in the judgment of said state road department, for the operation of said authority and for traffic surveys, borings, surveys, preparation of plans and specifications, estimates of cost and other preliminary engineering and other studies; provided, however, that the aggregate amount of moneys expended for said purposes by said state road department shall not exceed the sum of three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars.

The state does further pledge to, and agree, with the United States that in the event any federal agency shall construct or contribute any funds for the completion, extension or improvement of the Orlando-Orange county expressway system, or any part or portion thereof, the state will not alter or limit the rights and powers of the authority and the state road department in any manner which would be inconsistent with the continued maintenance and operation of the Orlando-Orange county expressway system or the completion, extension or improvement thereof, or which would be inconsistent with the due performance of any agreements between the authority and any such federal agency, and the authority and the state road department shall continue to have and may exercise all powers herein granted, so long as the same shall be necessary or desirable for the carrying out of the purposes of this part and the purposes of the United States in the completion, extension or improvement of the Orlando-Orange county expressway system, or any part or portion thereof.

(1) GENERAL.—

(a) The authority created and established by the provisions of this chapter is hereby granted and shall have the right to acquire, hold, construct, improve, maintain, operate, own and lease in the capacity of lessor, the Jacksonville expressway system (hereinafter referred to as "system") heretofore partially constructed or acquired by Florida state improvement commission in the Jacksonville, Duval county, metropolitan area, as more specifically described in the proceedings of said commission which authorized the issuance of twenty-eight million dollars bonds of said commission for said purpose, and as hereafter completed or improved or extended as authorized by this chapter, and all appurtenant facilities, including all approaches, streets, roads, bridges and avenues of access for said Jacksonville expressway system, and to construct or acquire extensions, additions and improvements to said system and to complete the construction and acquisition of said system.

and other charges shall always be sufficient to comply with any covenants made with the holders of any bonds issued pursuant to this chapter; provided, however, that such right and power may be assigned or delegated, by the authority, to the state road department.

(g)1. To borrow money, make and issue negotiable notes, bonds, refunding bonds, and other evidences of indebtedness or obligations, either in temporary or definitive form, (hereinafter in this chapter sometimes called "bonds") of the authority, for the purpose of funding or refunding, at or prior to maturity, any bonds theretofore issued by said authority, or by Florida state improvement commission to finance part of the cost of the Jacksonville expressway system, and purposes related thereto, and for the purpose of financing all or part of the completion or improvement or extension of the Jacksonville expressway system, and appurtenant facilities, including all approaches, streets, roads, bridges and avenues of access for said Jacksonville expressway system and for any other purpose authorized by this chapter, said bonds to mature in not exceeding forty years from the date of the issuance thereof, and to secure the payment of such bonds or any part thereof by a pledge of any or all of its revenues, rates, fees, rentals or other charges, including all or any portion of the Duval county gasoline tax funds received by the authority pursuant to the terms of any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the state road department; and in general to provide for the security of said bonds and the rights and remedies of the holders thereof.

authority, including all or any portion of the Duval county gasoline tax funds received by the authority pursuant to the terms of any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the state road department, as security for all or any of the obligations of the authority.

History.—Comp. §4, ch. 29996, 1955.

349.05 Bonds of the authority.—

(1)(a) The bonds of the authority issued pursuant to the provisions of this chapter shall be authorized by resolution of the members thereof and may be either term or serial bonds, shall bear such date or dates, mature at such time or times, not exceeding forty years from their respective dates, bear interest at such rate or rates, not exceeding six per cent per annum, payable semiannually, be in such denominations, be in such form, either coupon or fully registered, shall carry such registration, exchangeability and interchangeability privileges, be payable in such medium of payment and at such place or places, be subject to such terms of redemption and be entitled to such priorities on the revenues, rates, fees, rentals or other charges or receipts of the authority including the Duval county gasoline tax funds received by the authority pursuant to the terms of any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the state road department, as such resolution or any resolution subsequent thereto may provide. The bonds shall be executed either by manual or facsimile signature by such officers as the authority shall determine, provided that such bonds shall bear at least one signature which is manually executed thereon, and the coupons attached to such bonds shall bear the facsimile signature or signatures of such officer or officers as shall be designated by the authority and shall have the seal of the authority affixed, imprinted, reproduced or lithographed thereon, all as may be prescribed in such resolution or resolutions.

(b) Prior to any sale of bonds the authority shall cause notice to be given by publication in some newspaper published in the county that the authority will receive bids for the purchase of the bonds at the office of the authority in the county. Said notice shall be published twice and the first publication shall be given not less than fifteen days prior to the date set for receiving the bids. Said notice shall specify the amount of the bonds offered for sale and shall state that the bids shall be sealed bids, shall give the schedule of the maturities of the proposed bonds and such other pertinent information as may be prescribed in the resolution authorizing the issuance of such bonds or any resolution subsequent thereto. Bidders may be invited to name the rate of interest which the bonds are to bear or the authority may name rates of interest and invite bids thereon. In addition to publication of notice of the proposed sale the authority shall also give notice in writing of the proposed sale enclosing a copy of such advertisement to the State Road Commissioner and to at least three recognized bond dealers in the state, such notice to be given not less than ten days prior to the date set for receiving the bids.

(c) All bonds and refunding bonds issued pursuant to this chapter shall be sold to the highest and best bidder at such public sale unless sold at a better price or yield basis within thirty days after failure to receive an acceptable bid at a duly advertised public sale, provided that the interest cost to the authority on such bonds shall not exceed six per cent per annum, and provided further, that the authority shall have the right to reject all bids and cause a new notice to be given in like manner inviting other bids for such bonds. In determining the highest and best bidder for bonds offered for sale, the net interest cost to the authority as shown in standard bond tables shall govern; provided, that the determination of the authority as to the highest and best bidder shall be final. Pending the preparation of definitive bonds, interim certificates may be issued to the purchaser or purchasers of such bonds, and may contain such terms and conditions as the authority may determine.

(d) The authority may require all bidders for said bonds to give security by bond or deposit to the authority to insure that the bidder shall comply with the terms of the bid, and any bidder whose bid shall be accepted shall be liable to the authority for all damages on account of the nonperformance of the terms of such bid or to a forfeiture of the deposit required by the authority.

(2) Any such resolution or resolutions authorizing any bonds hereunder may contain provisions which shall be part of the contract with the holders of such bonds, as to:

(a) The pledging of all or any part of the revenues, rates, fees, rentals, (including all or any portion of the Duval county gasoline tax funds received by the authority pursuant to the terms of any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the State Road Department, or any part thereof), or other charges or receipts of the authority, derived by the authority from the Jacksonville expressway system;

(b) The completion, improvement, operation, extension, maintenance, repair, lease or lease-purchase agreement of said system, and the duties of the authority and others, including the State Road Department, with reference thereto;

(h) Any other or additional agreements with the holders of the bonds which the authority may deem desirable and proper.

(3)(a) The State Board of Administration of Florida shall be the fiscal agent of the authority for any bonds issued by the authority pursuant to this chapter, and the authority may enter into any deeds of trust, indentures or other agreements with said fiscal agent, or with any bank or trust company within or without the state, with the consent of said board, as security for such bonds, and may, under such agreements, assign and pledge all or any of the revenues, rates, fees, rentals, or other charges or receipts of the authority, including all or any portion of the Duval county gasoline tax funds received by the authority pursuant to the terms of any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the state road department, thereunder. Such deed of trust, indenture or other agreement, may contain such provisions as is customary in such instruments or, as the authority may authorize, including, but without limitation, provisions as to:

349.06 Remedies of the bondholders.—

(1) The rights and the remedies herein conferred upon or granted to the bondholders shall be in addition to and not in limitation of any rights and remedies lawfully granted to such bondholders by the resolution or resolutions providing for the issuance of bonds, or by any lease-purchase agreement, deed of trust, indenture or other agreement under which the bonds may be issued or secured. In the event that the authority shall default in the payment of the principal of or interest on any of the bonds issued pursuant to the provisions of this chapter after such principal of or interest on said bonds shall have become due, whether at maturity or upon call for redemption, or the state road department shall default in any payments under, or covenants made in, any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the state road department, and such default shall continue for a period of thirty days, or in the event that the authority or the state road department shall fail or refuse to comply with the provisions of this chapter or any agreement made with, or for the benefit of, the holders of the bonds, the holders of twenty-five per cent in aggregate principal amount of the bonds then outstanding shall be entitled as of right to the appointment of a trustee to represent such bondholders for the purposes hereof; provided, however, that such holders of twenty-five per cent in aggregate principal amount of the bonds then outstanding shall have first given notice of their intention to appoint a trustee, to the authority and to the state road department. Such notice shall be deemed to have been given if given in writing, and deposited in a securely sealed postpaid wrapper, mailed at a regularly maintained United States post office box or station and addressed, respectively, to the chairman of the authority at the principal office of the authority and to the State Road Commissioner at the principal office of the State Road Department.

(2) Such trustee, and any trustee under any deed of trust, indenture or other agreement, may, and upon written request of the holders of twenty-five per cent (or such other percentages as may be specified in any deed of trust, indenture or other agreement aforesaid) in principal amount of the bonds then outstanding, shall, in any court of competent jurisdiction, in his or its own name:

(a) By mandamus or other suit, action or proceeding at law, or in equity, enforce all rights of the bondholders, including the right to require the authority to fix, establish, maintain, collect and charge rates, fees, rentals, and other charges, adequate to carry out any agreement as to, or pledge of, the revenues or receipts of the authority, and to require the authority to carry out any other covenants and agreements with or for the benefit of the bondholders, and to perform its and their duties under this chapter,

(b) By mandamus or other suit, action or proceeding at law, or in equity, enforce all rights of the bondholders under or pursuant to any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the state road department, including the right to require the state road department to make all rental payments required to be made by it under the provisions of any such lease-purchase agreement, whether from the

Duval county gasoline tax funds or other funds of the department so agreed to be paid and to require the State Road Department to carry out any other covenants and agreements with or for the benefit of the bondholders, and to perform its and their duties under this chapter,

(c) Bring suit upon the bonds,

(d) By action or suit in equity require the authority or the state road department to account as if it were the trustee of an express trust for the bondholders,

(e) By action or suit in equity enjoin any acts or things which may be unlawful or in violation of the rights of the bondholders.

(3) Any trustee when appointed as aforesaid, or acting under a deed of trust, indenture or other agreement, and whether or not all bonds have been declared due and payable, shall be entitled as of right to the appointment of a receiver, who may enter upon and take possession of the Jacksonville expressway system or the facilities or any part or parts thereof, the rates, fees, rentals, or other revenues, charges or receipts from which are, or may be, applicable to the payment of the bonds so in default, and subject to and in compliance with the provisions of any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the state road department operate and maintain the same, for and on behalf of and in the name of, the authority, the state road department and the bondholders, and collect and receive all rates, fees, rentals, and other charges or receipts or revenues arising therefrom in the same manner as the authority or the state road department might do, and shall deposit all such moneys in a separate account and apply the same in such manner as the court shall direct. In any suit, action or proceeding by the trustee, the fees, counsel fees, and expenses of the trustee, and said receiver, if any, and all costs and disbursements allowed by the court shall be a first charge on any rates, fees, rentals, or other charges, revenues or receipts, derived from the Jacksonville expressway system, or the facilities or services or any part or parts thereof, including payments under any such lease-purchase agreement as aforesaid which said rates, fees, rentals, or other charges, revenues or receipts shall or may be applicable to the payment of the bonds so in default. Such trustee shall, in addition to the foregoing, have and possess all of the powers necessary or appropriate for the exercise of any functions specifically set forth herein or incident to the representation of the bondholders in the enforcement and protection of their rights.

(4) Nothing in this section or any other section of this chapter shall authorize any receiver appointed pursuant hereto for the purpose, subject to and in compliance with the provisions of any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the state road department, of operating and maintaining the Jacksonville expressway system or any facilities or part or parts thereof, to sell, assign, mortgage or otherwise dispose of any of the assets of whatever kind and character belonging to the authority. It is the intention of this chapter to limit the powers of such receiver, subject to and in compliance with the provisions of any lease-purchase agreement between the authority and the state road department, to the operation and maintenance of the Jacksonville expressway system, or any facility, or part or parts thereof, as the court may direct, in the name and for and on behalf of the authority, the state road department and the bondholders, and no holder of bonds of the authority nor any trustee, shall ever have the right in any suit, action or proceeding at law, or in equity, to compel a receiver, nor shall any receiver be authorized or any court be empowered to direct the receiver to sell, assign, mortgage or otherwise dispose of any assets of whatever kind or character belonging to the authority.

(2) Such lease-purchase agreement shall provide for the leasing of the Jacksonville expressway system, by the authority, as lessor, to the State Road Department, as lessee, shall prescribe the term of such lease and the rentals to be paid thereunder and shall provide that upon the completion of the faithful performance thereunder and the termination of such lease-purchase agreement, title in fee simple absolute to the Jacksonville expressway system as then constituted shall be transferred in accordance with law by the authority, to the state and the authority shall deliver to the State Road Department such deeds and conveyances as shall be necessary or convenient to vest title in fee simple absolute in the state.

(3) Such lease-purchase agreement may include such other provisions, agreements and covenants as the authority and the State Road Department deem advisable or required, including, but not limited to, provisions as to the bonds to be issued under and for the purposes of this chapter, the completion, extension, improvement, operation and maintenance of the Jacksonville expressway system and the expenses and cost of operation of said authority, the charging and collecting of tolls, rates, fees and other charges for the use of the services and facilities thereof, the application of federal or state grants or aid which may be made or given to assist the authority in the completion, extension, improvement, operation and maintenance of the Jacksonville expressway system, which the authority is hereby authorized to accept and apply to such purposes, the enforcement of payment and collection of rentals and any other terms, provisions or covenants necessary, incidental or appurtenant to the making of and full performance under such lease-purchase agreement.

(4) The State Road Department, as lessee

under such lease-purchase agreement, is hereby authorized to pay as rentals thereunder any rates, fees, charges, funds, moneys, receipts or income accruing to the State Road Department from the operation of the Jacksonville expressway system and the Duval county gasoline tax funds and may also pay as rentals any appropriations received by the State Road Department pursuant to any act of the legislature of the state heretofore or hereafter enacted; provided, however, that nothing herein nor in such lease-purchase agreement is intended to nor shall this chapter or such lease-purchase agreement require the making or continuance of such appropriations, nor shall any holder of bonds issued pursuant to this chapter ever have any right to compel the making or continuance of such appropriations.

(5) No pledge of said Duval county gasoline tax funds as rentals under such lease-purchase agreement shall be made without the consent of the county of Duval evidenced by a resolution duly adopted by the board of county commissioners of said county, which resolution, among other things, shall provide that any excess of said pledged gasoline tax funds which is not required for debt service or reserves for such debt service for any bonds issued by said authority shall be returned annually to the state road department for distribution to Duval county as provided by law.

(6) Said State Road Department shall have power to covenant in any lease-purchase agreement that it will pay all or any part of the cost of the operation, maintenance, repair, renewal and replacement of said system, and any part of the cost of completing said system to the extent that the proceeds of bonds issued therefor are insufficient, from sources other than the revenues derived from the operation of said system and said Duval county gasoline tax funds. Said state road department may also agree to make such other payments from any moneys available to said commission, said county or said city in connection with the construction or completion of said system as shall be deemed by said state road department to be fair and proper under any such covenants heretofore or hereafter entered into.

(7) Said system shall be a part of the state road system and said State Road Department is hereby authorized, upon the request of the authority, to expend out of any funds available for the purpose such moneys, and to use such of its engineering and other forces, as may be necessary and desirable in the judgment of said state road department, for the operation of said authority and for traffic surveys, borings, surveys, preparation of plans and specifications, estimates of cost and other preliminary engineering and other studies; provided, however, that the aggregate amount of moneys expended for said purposes by said state road department shall not exceed the sum of three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars.

The state does further pledge to, and agree, with the United States and any federal agency that, in the event that any federal agency shall construct or contribute any funds for the completion, extension or improvement of the Jacksonville expressway system, or any part or portion thereof, the state will not alter or limit the rights and powers of the authority and the state road department in any manner which would be inconsistent with the continued maintenance and operation of the Jacksonville expressway system or the completion, extension or improvement thereof, or which would be inconsistent with the due performance of any agreements between the authority and any such federal agency, and the authority and the state road department shall continue to have and may exercise all powers herein granted, so long as the same shall be necessary or desirable for the carrying out of the purposes of this chapter and the purposes of the United States in the completion, extension or improvement of the Jacksonville expressway system, or any part or portion thereof.

(c) To make reasonable and just rates of charges for the use and transportation of all kinds of railroad cars conveying all kinds of freight to and from any and all points in this state.

(d) To make reasonable and just rules and regulations for the prevention of any unjust discrimination against persons or localities in charges or in furnishing facilities.

(2) And they shall have power:

(a) To make reasonable and just joint rates for all connecting carriers doing business in this state as to all traffic passing from the line of one common carrier to another, and to apportion such joint rates between said carriers participating therein.

(b) To compel all railroads and railroad companies crossing or meeting each other at any point, or serving the same city, town or locality, provided they be of the same gauge, to construct such switches, side tracks and connections as will enable them to transport cars to and from each other's lines. And in the event railroads or railroad companies required to construct such switches, side tracks and connections are unable to agree upon how the costs thereof shall be borne or apportioned, it shall then be the duty of the commissioners, upon a hearing after notice to each of the railroads or railroad companies between which such switches, side tracks and connections are to be constructed, to apportion the costs between them on a just and equitable basis, or, if justice requires, to impose the entire cost of construction upon one railroad or railroad company.

(c) To require railroads and water carriers serving any given point or community as common carriers of freight or passengers to provide such reasonable physical connection as may be necessary to properly facilitate the transfer of freight or passengers from one of said carriers to the other.

(d) To compel the interchange of traffic and cars between railroad companies under such rules and regulations as will secure due compensation for cars and the prompt return of cars to the railroad company from which they are received.

(e) To require the establishment of stations, including flag stations, at which trains may be required to stop, and the establishment of landings and wharves at which water carriers may be required to stop; to designate the location and require the erection of such freight and passenger depots, houses, platforms and wharves with all necessary conveniences as the safety, convenience and comfort of passengers and the proper handling, care, protection and prompt delivery and transportation of freight may require; to supervise, regulate and control all stations, depots, platforms, houses and wharves and to require a sufficient force of employees to be maintained therein and thereat to conduct in a proper manner the business of the carriers.

(f) To establish such schedules for the arrival and departure of all trains at stations and depots, and to order such connections in point of time to be made between common carriers, as the public convenience, comfort and interest may require, and to prescribe rules and regulations relating to and regulating the changing of time schedules of all common carriers and the bulletining by railroad companies of the arrival and departure of all regular passenger trains which may be late.

(g) To regulate, supervise and control all passenger, terminal or union depot companies, whether owned or operated by any railroad in connection with its main line or by separate company organized for that purpose and to require the admission into such union depot or terminal by the owner, lessee or operator thereof of any railroad company which may desire to enter such terminal or union depot or which may be required to do so by order of the said commissioners and to compel the person operating said depot or terminal to furnish to the railroad entering the same fair and equal participation in all the rights, privileges, connections, interchanges of traffic and other benefits of said depot or terminal and to prescribe and enforce just and reasonable rates for the use of such terminals or depots and the privileges thereof.

(h) To require two or more of the railroads entering the same town, city or point, to erect, operate and maintain a joint passenger or freight or a joint passenger and freight terminal or union depot and to provide for the interchange of traffic between said railroads.

Every rule, regulation, schedule or order heretofore or hereafter made by the commissioners shall be deemed and held to be within their jurisdiction and their powers, and to be reasonable and just and such as ought to have been made in the premises and to have been properly made and arrived at in due form of procedure and such as can and ought to be executed, unless the contrary plainly appears on the face thereof or be made to appear by clear and satisfactory evidence, and shall not be set aside or held invalid unless the contrary so appears. All presumptions shall be in favor of every action of the commissioners and all doubts as to their jurisdiction and powers shall be resolved in their favor, it being intended that the laws relative to the Florida public service commissioners shall be deemed remedial laws to be construed liberally to further the legislative intent to regulate and control public carriers in the public interest. If in any proceeding to enforce any rule, regulation, schedule or order, any part thereof shall be found invalid, the court shall proceed to enforce such portion thereof as may be valid if the same can be done.

Every railroad company shall operate over every part of its line not less than one passenger and one freight train each way daily except Sunday; provided if after hearing and investigation the Florida public service commissioners shall determine that the public need does not require such daily service they shall prescribe such service as in their opinion the public need does require and such service will be deemed sufficient until the commissioners shall otherwise order. However, nothing herein contained shall be held as limiting the right of the Florida public service commissioners to require of all railroads and common carriers such greater service as they shall deem to be to the best interest of the public.

(2) Such inspector shall be paid such compensation as said commissioners deem proper out of the funds available for the maintenance of the Florida Public Service Commission, and he shall report in writing the result of his inspection, investigations and estimations to the said commissioners at such times and in such manner as they shall direct.

Said commissioners shall also prescribe reasonable rules and regulations with respect to the stringing of wires, electric or otherwise, which cross over or under the tracks of any steam railroad, and with respect to the support, maintenance, repair and reconstruction thereof; provided, that before adopting such rules and regulations there shall be a public hearing before said commission, of which reasonable notice shall be given to all interested parties.

350.28 Penalty for violation of law; defense of carriers; recovery of penalty; pleadings; evidence; fine imposed illegal, etc.—

(1) If any railroad company or other common carrier, operating a railroad wholly or in part in this state, shall refuse to comply with any rate, rule, order or regulation provided or prescribed by the Florida Public Service Commissioners under the authority of §350.26 or shall violate the provisions of §350.27, such company or common carrier shall thereby incur a penalty for each offense of not more than $5,000.00 to be fixed, imposed and collected by said Florida Public Service Commissioners in the manner provided in this section. If any railroad, railroad company, or other common carrier doing business in this state shall by any officer, agent or employee be guilty of a violation or disregard of any order, rate, schedule, rule or regulation provided or prescribed by said commission, or shall fail to make any report required to be made under the provisions of this chapter or shall otherwise violate any provision of this chapter, such company or common carrier shall thereby incur a penalty for each such offense of not more than $5,000.00, unless otherwise provided, to be fixed and imposed by said commissioners after not less than ten days' notice of the charge of such violation or disregard of such order, rate, schedule, rule or regulation or failure to make report or other violation or disregard of the provisions of this chapter, and upon which charge such company or common carrier shall have had an opportunity to be heard by said commissioners.

(2) The common carrier charged shall file its defense or defenses in writing under oath, specifically setting forth each particular defense. The commissioners may permit amendments to charges and defenses upon such terms and conditions, and with such postponements of hearing, if any, as in their opinion the ends of justice may require. They may also adopt rules to regulate the proceedings before them.

(3) The said penalty in the amount so imposed, if not promptly paid to the State Treasurer, shall be recovered with interest thereon from the date of the order in a civil action brought by the said commissioners in the name of the state in any county in the state where such violation has occurred, or in any other county through or in which such common carrier runs or does business.

(4) The complaint shall be deemed sufficient if it recites fully or sets forth the said order on which the suit is brought, with an averment that the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff thereon in the amount of the penalty imposed with interest as aforesaid.

(5) In such cases there shall be no general issues, but the answer shall specifically set forth the particular defense or defenses to the action; and no defense which existed prior to the day of hearing before the commissioners, and which was not made before them, shall be permitted to stand as a defense in the action.

(6) The fact of the fixing and imposing of such fine by the commissioners shall constitute prima facie evidence of everything necessary to create the liability or require the payment of the fine or penalty as fixed and imposed, and to authorize a recovery thereon in any suit brought by the commissioners, and a copy of the entry in the minute book of the commissioners of the order fixing and imposing such fine or penalty, certified by the chairman of the board of Florida public service commissioners, shall constitute prima facie evidence of the fact that such fine or penalty was fixed and imposed by the commission.

(7) Every fine when imposed by the commissioners shall be a lien upon the railroad, equipment, boats and real property of the common carrier on which it is imposed except such real property as is not used in the business of transportation.

(8) If any railroad, railroad company or other common carrier doing business in this state shall claim that any penalty sought to be imposed upon it under the provisions of this section unlawfully deprives said railroad, railroad company or other common carrier of its property or property rights without due process of law, said railroad, railroad company or other common carriers shall have the right by answer to assert such defense in any suit brought under this section, and if the court shall find that the answer is well founded in law and fact it shall enter judgment for the defendant.

(9) An answer filed as a defense upon the ground that the enforcement of the penalty will unlawfully deprive the defendant of its property without due process of law shall be as full and particular in averment as would be essential if pleaded as in a suit in equity seeking an injunction to restrain the enforcement of the acts for which the penalty is sought to be imposed and the courts shall have the power to render such judgment in said action as might be necessary to give said defendant the full benefit of its constitutional rights in the premises.

(10) In all such cases the burden of establishing such last mentioned defense or defenses shall be upon the defendant and the same shall be required to be established by such defendant by a preponderance of the evidence.

(11) A proceeding under §350.36 shall be a bar to a like proceeding under this section and a proceeding under this section shall be a bar to a like proceeding under §350.36.

The commissioners shall have the right to suspend, reduce or remit any fine or penalty so imposed, and may suspend, reduce or remit the same on such terms or conditions as may be fixed by them.

350.30 May employ special counsel.—The Florida public service commissioners may employ special counsel to advise them and to conduct any or all litigation or proceeding of any character instituted by or against them, and such special counsel shall be paid such compensation as said commissioners deem proper out of the funds available for the maintenance of the Florida public service commission.

(1) If any railroad, railroad company or other common carrier, doing business in this state shall, in violation or disregard of any rule, rate or regulation provided by the commissioners aforesaid, inflict any wrong or injury upon any person, the Florida public service commissioners if requested by such injured person shall institute proceedings to compel restitution; and such action by the Florida public service commission shall preclude any settlement by the party or parties injured without the consent of the commission.

(2) If any railroad company or common carrier shall discriminate, by way of rebate or otherwise, directly or indirectly, in favor of any consignor or consignee of freights within this state, or allow him a reduction of the rate fixed by said commissioners as reasonable and just, any other consignor or consignee of freights within this state shall have a right of action against the said railroad company or common carrier, and the amount of his damages shall be fixed by a jury, unless a jury shall be waived, and the measure of damages shall be such sum or sums of money as will fairly compensate the injury done to said last mentioned consignor or consignee.

(3) In all such cases demand in writing on said railroad, railroad company or common carrier shall be made for the money damages sustained before suit is brought for recovery under this section.

(4) All suits under this chapter shall be brought within two years after the commission of the alleged wrong or injury, except in cases where the Florida Public Service Commissioners have heretofore been or shall hereafter be, by refusal of such railroad or common carrier to observe the rates, rules, schedules or regulations by the Florida public service commissioners, compelled to resort to suits to enforce such rates, rules, schedules or regulations, and in such cases suits for such loss, damage, or penalty may be brought within twelve months after the termination of such suits in favor of the Florida public service commissioners.

company or common carrier of any provisions of this chapter, shall have the right, by written demand, to require the commissioners to enforce recovery of his damages, or may upon failure of the commissioners to institute suit therefor within ninety days after such written demand, institute suit in his own name against any such company or common carrier in any court of competent jurisdiction in the county in which the cause of action arose, or in any county in the state through or in which such company or common carrier runs or does business; and any such person upon establishing his right of recovery, shall be entitled to recover the total amount of such overcharge or other pecuniary injury, with interest thereon, together with such additional amount as the jury may find necessary to reasonably compensate him for all expense, including the value of his own time and services, and all reasonable cost and attorneys' fees incurred in the recovery of such damages, and such right of action shall exist in the legal representatives or assignee of any such person.

(3) Such commissioners may unite in one action the claims of different persons by whom they may be requested to institute such suits where such claims are of the same character and against the same defendant.

The remedies hereby given the injured person shall be regarded as cumulative to the remedies now given by law against railroads, railroad corporations and common carriers, and this chapter shall not be construed as repealing any statute giving such remedies; provided, that making recompense to any person or corporation for wrongs or injuries done them by any railroad, railroad companies or other common carriers shall not prevent the commissioners from enforcing penalties for any violations of rules, regulations or rates.

(1) Every common carrier, railroad, street railroad, railroad corporation, street railroad corporation, express, telephone, telegraph, and terminal company or corporation within the state, and all other corporations, companies, or persons coming under the provisions of this section, or of any other law relating to the Florida public service commissioners, and any officers, agents, and employees of the same, shall obey, observe, and comply with every order made by the Florida public service commissioners under authority of law.

(2) Any common carrier, railroad, street railroad, railroad corporation, street railroad corporation, express, telephone, telegraph, or terminal company or corporation, or any other corporations, companies, or persons coming under the provisions of this section, which shall violate any provision of this section or the laws heretofore passed, or hereafter passed, or now in force, or which fails, refuses, or neglects to obey, observe and comply with any order, direction or requirement of the Florida public service commissioners heretofore or hereafter passed, shall forfeit to the state a sum of not more than five thousand dollars unless otherwise provided for each and every offense, the amount to be fixed by the presiding judge. Every violation of the provisions of this section or any preceding law, or of any such order, direction, or requirement of the Florida public service commission shall be a separate and distinct offense.

(3) An action for the recovery of such penalty may be brought in the county of the principal office of such corporation or company in this state, or in the county of the state where such violation has occurred and wrong shall be perpetrated, or in any county in this state through which said corporation or company operates, or, where the violation consists of an excessive charge for the carriage of freight or passengers or services rendered, in any county in which such charges are made or through which it was intended that such passengers or freight should have been carried or through which such corporation operates, and shall be brought in the name of the state by direction of the Florida public service commissioners.

(4) Any procedure to enforce such penalty shall be triable the first term of the court at which it is brought and shall be given precedence over other civil business by the presiding judge, and the court shall not be adjourned until such proceeding is legally continued or disposed of, without the consent of counsel representing the state as plaintiff.

(7) In such cases there shall be no general issues, but the answer shall specifically set forth the particular defense to the action, and no defense other than by answer specifically setting forth all of the facts to show a particular defense to the action shall be permitted in the action.

When a carrier for the purpose of shortening the distance as compared to the existing route, and for improvement in service to the public, shall have completed within the last five years, or may hereafter construct, a shorter route that does or will reduce the distance between any two or more points in the state not to exceed thirty miles and continues to operate both the new and the old routes such carrier shall be permitted to charge for the transportation of passengers and freight over said shorter route the same rates and fares as were theretofore legally applicable over the longer route, for a period of five years from the time said shorter route was placed in operation, and upon the expiration of said period of time the Florida public service commission may, in its discretion, permit said carrier to charge for the transportation of passengers or freight or both over the shorter route the same rates and fares as were theretofore legally applicable over the longer route, and where the distance between any two or more points in the state shall, subsequently to June 4, 1927, by the construction by any carrier of a shorter route, be reduced by more than thirty miles and said carrier continues to operate both the new and the old route, then, in that event the commissioners may, in their discretion, permit said carrier to charge for the transportation of passengers and freight over the last named shorter route the same rates and fares as were theretofore legally applicable over the longer route.

350.39 To furnish common carrier with schedule of rates; evidence; revision of rates.—Said commissioners shall make and furnish to each common carrier doing business in this state, as soon as practicable, a printed or written schedule of just and reasonable rates and charges for transportation of freights, passengers and cars on its transportation lines under its control or management, and such schedule, certified by the chairman of the commissioners, shall be admitted in evidence without necessity for other proof, and shall in all suits brought against any common carrier wherein is involved the rates of any common carrier for the transportation of freight of any description or charges for the transportation or use of any kind of car upon the tracks of any railroad or of any of the branches thereof, or for the transportation of passengers, or for any unjust discrimination, in relation thereto, be deemed and taken in all the courts of this state as prima facie evidence that the rates fixed in such schedule are just and reasonable rates of charges for the transportation of freight, cars and passengers upon the transportation lines of said carrier; and said commissioners shall, as often as circumstances may require, change or revise any schedule and furnish all common carriers doing business in this state with notice of such changes or revisions, and such notice shall state the time when such changes or revisions shall go into effect.

350.40 Notice to common carriers before changing rates.—The said commissioners, before changing, revising, fixing, adopting or allowing any such schedule or prescribing any such rules and regulations, shall give public notice of their intended action in such newspapers and for such time as shall be deemed fair and reasonable by said commissioners to all common carriers to be affected and to the public generally, of the times and places of their meetings and all common carriers and persons interested shall be entitled to a just and fair hearing before said commissioners, and whenever any full schedule shall have been made, changed or revised, adopted or allowed, or any rule or regulation prescribed as aforesaid, the commissioners shall in every instance give the date on which the same will go into effect.

The commissioners shall furnish to all of said railroad companies notice for the building of such freight and passenger depots, houses and platforms and to all said water carriers notice for the building of such landings, wharves and houses, and to all common carriers notice of such changes of schedule for the arrival and departure of all trains and boats as may in the judgment of the commissioners be required to secure close connection between railroads or between railroads and water carriers or between water carriers, for the convenience and comfort of the public, and all courts in this state shall only require proof that such notices were duly served.

The commissioners may require by order or subpoena the production within this state at such time and place as they may designate of any accounts, books, records and papers of any description kept by such common carriers in any office or place without the state, or verified copies in lieu thereof if the commissioners shall so order in order that an examination thereof may be made by the commission or under its direction.

All common carriers shall report, as required by the commissioners, all accidents, wrecks, derailments and explosions which occur on their respective lines, with such particulars and in such form as the commissioners may prescribe, but no such report shall be competent evidence in any court against the common carriers making it in any court.

(2) All common carriers shall also report, whenever so required to do by the commissioners, a verified list of all passes, tickets and mileage books issued free or for other than actual bona fide money consideration at full, established rates, together with the names of the recipients thereof, the reason for issuing the same, the points of origin and destination and the amounts received therefor or the consideration thereof. 366.01 Legislative declaration.—The regulation of public utilities as defined herein is declared to be in the public interest and this chapter shall be deemed to be an exercise of the police power of the state for the protection of the public welfare and all the provisions hereof shall be liberally construed for the accomplishment of that purpose.

History.—§1, ch. 26545, 1951.

366.02 Public utility defined.—The term public utility as used herein means and includes every person, corporation, partnership, association or other legal entity and their lessees, trustees or receivers, now or hereafter either owning, operating, managing or controlling any plant or other facility supplying electricity or gas (natural, manufactured or similar gaseous substance) to or for the public within this state, directly or indirectly for compensation; but the term "public utility" as used herein does not include either a co-operative now or hereafter organized and existing under the rural electrification cooperative law of the state nor a municipality nor any natural gas pipe line transmission company making only sales of natural gas at wholesale and to direct industrial consumers, nor a person supplying liquefied petroleum gas, in either liquid or gaseous form, irrespective of the method of distribution or delivery, unless such person also supplies electricity, manufactured or natural gas.

History.—§2, ch. 26545, 1951.

366.03 General duties of public utility.—Each public utility shall furnish to each person applying therefor reasonably sufficient, adequate and efficient service upon terms as required by the commission, provided, no public utility shall be required to furnish electricity or gas for resale. All rates and charges made, demanded or received by any public utility for any service rendered, or to be rendered by it, and each rule and regulation of such public utility, shall be fair and reasonable. No public utility shall make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any person or locality, or subject the same to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage in any respect.

History.—§3, ch. 26545, 1951.

366.04 Florida public service commission; jurisdiction.—In addition to its existing functions, the Florida public service commission shall have jurisdiction to regulate and supervise each public utility with respect to its rates, service and the issuance and sale of its securities except a security which is a note or draft maturing not more than one year after the date of such issuance and sale, and aggregating (together with all other then outstanding notes and drafts of a maturity of one year or less on which such public utility is liable) not more than five per cent of the par value of the other securities of the public utility then outstanding. In the case of securities having no par value, the par value for the purpose of this section shall be the fair market value as of the date of issue. The jurisdiction conferred upon said commission shall be exclusive and superior to that of all other boards, agencies, political subdivisions, municipalities, towns, villages, or counties, and in case of conflict therewith all lawful acts, orders, rules and regulations of the commission shall in each instance prevail.

366.041 Rate fixing; adequacy of facilities as criterion.—

(1) In fixing the just, reasonable, and compensatory rates, charges, fares, tolls, or rentals to be observed and charged for service within the state by any and all public utilities under its jurisdiction, the Florida Public Service Commission is authorized to give consideration, among other things, to the efficiency, sufficiency, and adequacy of the facilities provided and the services rendered, the value of such service to the public, and the ability of the utility to improve such service and facilities; provided that no public utility shall be denied a reasonable rate of return upon its rate base in any order entered pursuant to such proceedings. In its consideration thereof, the commission shall have authority, and it shall be the commission's duty, to hear service complaints, if any, that may be presented by subscribers and the public during any proceedings involving such rates, charges, fares, tolls, or rentals; provided however, that no service complaints shall be taken up or considered by the commission at any proceedings involving rates, charges, fares, tolls or rentals unless the utility shall have been given at least thirty days written notice thereof and any proceeding may be extended prior to final determination for such period; and provided further that no order hereunder shall be made effective until a reasonable time shall be given the utility involved to correct the cause of service complaints considering the factor of growth in the community and availability of necessary equipment.

(2) The power and authority herein conferred upon the Florida Public Service Commission shall not cancel or amend any existing punitive powers of the commission but shall be supplementary thereto and shall be construed liberally to further the legislative intent that adequate service shall be rendered by public utilities in the state in consideration for the rates, charges, fares, tolls, and rentals fixed by said commission and observed by said utilities under its jurisdiction.

(3) The term "public utility" as used herein means all persons or corporations which the Public Service Commission has the authority, power, and duty to regulate for the purpose of fixing rates and charges for services rendered and requiring the rendition of adequate service.

(4) Any order entered pursuant to the provisions of this section shall contain specific finding of law and fact upon which it is based and shall be fully reviewable by the supreme court as provided by law.

History.—§§1-4, ch. 67-326.

366.05 Powers.—

(1) In the exercise of such jurisdiction, the commission shall have power to prescribe fair and reasonable rates and charges, classifications, standards of quality and measurements, and service rules and regulations to be observed by each public utility; to prescribe uniform system and classification of accounts for all public utilities, which among other things shall set up adequate, fair and reasonable depreciation rates and charges; to require the filing by each public utility of periodic reports and all other reasonably necessary data; to require repairs, improvements, additions and extensions to the plant and equipment of any public utility reasonably necessary to promote the convenience and welfare of the public and secure adequate service or facilities for those reasonably entitled thereto; to employ and fix the compensation for such examiners, and technical, legal and clerical employees as it deems necessary to carry out the provisions of this chapter; to prescribe all rules and regulations reasonably necessary and appropriate for the administration and enforcement of this chapter; and to exercise all judicial powers, issue all writs and do all things, necessary or convenient to the full and complete exercise of its jurisdiction and the enforcement of its orders and requirements.

(2) Every public utility as defined in §366.02, who in addition to the production, transmission, delivery or furnishing of heat, light or power also sells appliances or other merchandise, shall keep separate and individual accounts for the sale and profit de-riying from such sales. No profit or loss shall be taken into consideration by the commission from the sale of such items in arriving at any rate to be charged for service by any public utility.

(3) The commission shall provide for the examination and testing of all appliances used for measuring any product or service of a public utility.

(4) Any consumer or user may have any such appliance tested upon payment of the fees fixed by the commission.

(5) The commission shall establish reasonable fees to be paid for testing such appliances on the request of the consumers or users, the fee to be paid by the consumer or user at the time of his request, but to be paid by the public utility and repaid to the consumer or user if the appliance be found defective or incorrect to the disadvantage of the consumer or user, in excess of the degree or amount of tolerance customarily allowed for such appliances, or as may be provided for in rules and regulations of the commission.

(6) The commission may purchase materials, apparatus, and standard measuring instruments for such examination and tests.

366.06 Rates; procedure for fixing and changing.—

(1) All rates being charged and collected by a public utility on May 9, 1951, shall be the lawful rates until changed in accordance with the rules, regulations or orders of the commission or court decree. Under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the commission every public utility shall, within ninety days after the effective date of such rules and regulations, file with the commission schedules showing all rates, classifications and charges for service of every kind furnished by it, and all rules and regulations relating thereto in effect on May 9, 1951. Thereafter current schedules shall be maintained on file with the commission on such forms and under such rules and regulations as the commission may prescribe.

(2) A public utility shall not, directly or indirectly, charge or receive any rate not on file with the commission for the particular class of service involved, and no change shall be made in any schedule. All applications for changes in rates shall be made to the commission in writing under rules and regulations prescribed, and the commission shall have the authority to determine and fix fair, just and reasonable rates that may be requested, demanded, charged or collected by any public utility for its service. The commission shall investigate and determine the actual legitimate costs of the property of each utility company, actually used and useful in the public service, and shall keep a current record of the net investment of each public utility company in such property which value, as determined by the commission, shall be used for rate-making purposes and shall be the money honestly and prudently invested by the public utility company in such property used and useful in serving the public, less accrued depreciation, and shall not include any good-will or going-concern value or franchise value in excess of payment made therefor.

(3) Whenever the commission shall find, upon request made or upon its own motion, that the rates demanded, charged or collected by any public utility company for public utility service, or that the rules, regulations or practices of any public utility company affecting such rates are unjust, unreasonable, unjustly discriminatory, or in any wise in violation of law, or that such rates are insufficient to yield reasonable compensation for the services rendered, or that such service is inadequate or cannot be obtained, the commission shall order and hold a public hearing, giving notice to the public and to the utility company, and shall thereafter determine just and reasonable rates to be thereafter charged for such service and to promulgate rules and regulations affecting equipment, facilities and service to be thereafter installed, furnished, and used; provided, however, that nothing in this chapter shall be construed to affect a rate in litigation and refund proceedings thereunder pending in the courts on April 3, 1951; provided, however, that a rate order of a duly constituted local regulatory board or authority entered before April 3, 1951 shall be deemed to be the lawful rates charged and collected by the public utility subject to such regulatory body, and should such rate order be challenged and/or such challenge is pending before the courts of this state or the United States, such rate order shall continue in full force and effect until final determination of such litigation, or until changed by an order of the commission, and the jurisdiction of said board to continue said litigation, and said rates, shall continue until such final determination by the courts, and the commission shall not interfere with the conduct of such litigation nor the jurisdiction of the board.

History.—§6, ch. 26545, 1951.

366.07 Rates; adjustment. — Whenever the commission, after public hearing either upon its own motion or upon complaint, shall find the rates, rentals, charges or classifications, or any of them, proposed, demanded, observed, charged or collected by any public utility for any service, or in connection therewith, or the rules, regulations, measurements, practices or contracts, or any of them, relating thereto, are unjust, unreasonable, insufficient, or unjustly discriminatory or preferential, or in any wise in violation of law, or any service is inadequate or cannot be obtained, the commission shall determine and by order fix the fair and reasonable rates, rentals, charges or classifications, and reasonable rules, regulations, measurements, practices, contracts or service, to be imposed, observed, furnished or followed in the future.

History.—§7, ch. 26545, 1951; §24, ch. 57-1.

366.08 Investigations, inspections; power of commission.—The commission or its duly authorized representatives may during all reasonable hours enter upon any premises occupied by any public utility and may set up and use thereon all necessary apparatus and appliances for the purpose of making investigations, inspections, examinations and tests and exercising any power conferred by this chapter; provided, such public utility shall have the right to be notified of and be represented at the making of such investigations, inspections, examinations and tests.

History.—§8, ch. 26545, 1951.

366.09 Incrimination at hearing of commission.—Any person called upon to testify before the commission or one of its examiners shall not be excused from answering on the ground or claim that his testimony would tend to incriminate himself; but no person having so testified shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing concerning which he may have testified or produced documentary evidence provided that no person so testifying shall be exempted from prosecution or punishment for perjury in so testifying.

History.—§9, ch. 26545, 1951.

366.10 Review of commission's orders. — Any public utility or any person in interest dissatisfied with any order of the commission may have it reviewed by the supreme court by certiorari.

History.—§10, ch. 26545, 1951.

366.11 Certain exemptions.—No provision of this chapter shall apply in any manner to utilities owned and operated by municipalities, whether within or without any municipality, or by cooperatives organized and existing under the rural electrification cooperative law of the state, nor to the sale of electricity, manufactured gas or natural gas at wholesale by any public utility to, and the purchase by, any municipality or cooperative under and pursuant to any contracts now in effect or which may be entered into in the future, where such municipality or cooperative is engaged in the sale and distribution of electricity, manufactured or natural gas, nor to the rates provided for in such contracts. Nothing herein shall restrict the police power of municipalities over their streets, highways and public places or the power to maintain or require the maintenance thereof, nor the right of a municipality to levy taxes on public services under §167.431, nor affect the right of any municipality to continue to receive revenue from any public utility as is now provided or as may be hereafter provided in any franchise, nor repeal §167.22.

History.—§11, ch. 26545, 1951.

366.12 Penalty.—If any public utility, by any authorized officer, agent or employee, shall knowingly refuse to comply with or wilfully violate any provision of this chapter or any lawful rate, rule or regulation, order, direction, demand or requirement prescribed by the commission hereunder, such public utility shall incur a penalty for each such offense of not more than five thousand dollars to be fixed, imposed and collected by the commission. Each day that said refusal or violation continues shall constitute a separate offense. Each penalty shall be a lien upon the real and personal property of the public utility, enforceable by the commission as statutory liens under chapter 85, the proceeds of which shall be deposited to the credit of the general revenue fund of the state.

366.13 Taxes; not affected.—No provision of this chapter shall in any way affect any municipal tax or franchise tax in any manner whatsoever.

367.015 Florida Public Service Commission; jurisdiction.—In addition to its existing functions, the Florida Public Service Commission shall have jurisdiction to regulate and supervise each public utility, as defined herein, with respect to its rates, service, and the issuance and sale of its securities maturing more than twelve months after date of issue.

History.—§1, ch. 67-496.

Note.—Section 1, ch. 67-496 purported to amend §367.01 but since the subject matter contained in the amendment was entirely different, the section was given a different number.

367.02 Definitions.—As used in this law the following words and terms shall have the following meanings:

(1) "Commission" shall mean and be limited to the Florida public service commission.

(2) "Governmental agency" shall mean a county, a public authority created by an act of the legislature of this state, an incorporated city, town or village in this state, or any taxing district created by such county, public authority, incorporated city, town or village.

(3) "Territory" shall mean any area in this state, whether within or without the corporate limits of any municipality.

(4) "Water system" shall mean and include any real estate, attachments, fixtures, impounded water, water mains, laterals, valves, meters, plant, wells, pipes, tanks, reservoirs, systems, facility, or other property real or personal, used or useful or having the present capacity for future use in connection with the obtaining, treatment, supplying and distribution of water to the public for human consumption, fire protection, irrigation, consumption by business or industry, and without limiting the generality of the foregoing definition shall embrace all necessary appurtenances and equipment and shall include all property, rights, easements and franchises relating to any such system and deemed necessary or convenient for the operation thereof, but shall not include property used solely for or principally in connection with the business of bottling, selling, distributing or furnishing bottled water, nor water systems owned by manufacturing plants primarily for the purpose of providing water in connection with its manufacturing operations.

(5) "Sewer system" shall mean and include any plant, system, facility or property used or useful or having the present capacity for future use in connection with the collection, treatment, purification or disposal of sewage and sewage effluent and residue for the public, and without limiting the generality of the foregoing definition shall embrace treatment plants, pumping stations, intercepting sewers, pressure lines, mains, laterals, and all necessary appurtenances and equipment and shall include all property, rights, easements and franchises relating to any such system and deemed necessary or convenient for the operation thereof; except municipally owned or operated sewer systems and systems for the collection, treatment, purification or disposal of industrial wastes for manufacturing plants owned or operated by such manufacturing plants.

(6) "Person" shall mean and include:

(a) Any natural person, firm, association, corporation, except municipal corporations, business, trust or partnership owning, leasing or operating any water system or sewer system or part thereof within this state; and

(b) Any cooperative, nonprofit corporation or association, membership corporation, or limited dividend or mutual association, now or hereafter created, with respect to that part or portion of its operations devoted to the ownership, leasing or operation of a water system or a sewer system within this state but shall not include the owners or operators of any industrial or manufacturing plants maintaining and operating water systems and sewer systems primarily in connection with its manufacturing operations.

(7) "Public utility" as used herein means and includes every person, corporation, partnership, association or other legal entity and their lessees, trustees or receivers, now or hereafter either owning, operating, managing, controlling or proposing construction of any water system or sewer system serving or proposing to serve four hundred or more connections for water or sewer service, or both, within this state, directly or indirectly for compensation; but the term "public utility" as used herein does not include any person selling, distributing or furnishing bottled water, any utility owned or operated by a municipality or other governmental agency, or the owner or operator of any manufacturing or industrial plant owning or operating water or sewer systems primarily in connection with its manufacturing or industrial operations; provided, however, that any person and any lessee, trustee or receiver now or hereafter owning, leasing, constructing, operating, or managing any water system or sewer system or both, in this state, serving or proposing to serve less than four hundred connections for compensation paid or received directly or indirectly shall upon application to the commission be classified as a public utility under the provisions of this law.

(8) Certificate shall mean and be limited to a certificate of public convenience and necessity issued under this law.

History.—§2, ch. 59-372; §1, ch. 63-279; §1, 65-52; §2, ch. 67-496.

367.03 Registration of public utilities; notice to registrants.—Every public utility shall register with the commission, within thirty days after the county wherein any such public utility operates is brought under the jurisdiction of said commission, by filing with the commission a written statement setting forth the full legal name of the public utility, its principal place of business and its mailing address. The commission shall give by mail to every public utility so registering and to every recipient of a certificate issued under this law at least ten days' written notice of every public hearing required by this law.

History.—§3, ch. 59-372; §3, ch. 67-496.

367.04 Certificate of public convenience and necessity required.—

(1) No public utility shall hereafter begin the construction or operation of any water or sewer system, or both, or any extension thereof, or acquire ownership or control thereof, either directly or indirectly, without first obtaining from the commission a certificate that the present or future public convenience and necessity require or will require such construction, operation or acquisition. No public utility shall be required to secure a certificate for an extension within any municipality within which the utility has heretofore lawfully commenced operations, for any extension within or to territory already served by such public utility, necessary in the ordinary course of business, or for substitute facilities within or to any municipality or territory already served by such public utility.

(2) Any public utility obtaining a certificate of convenience and necessity hereunder for any territory shall exercise said authority within a reasonable time. If such public utility fails or refuses to provide reasonably adequate service to such territory after notice and a reasonable opportunity to do so, the commission, in addition to other powers provided by law, shall have power to issue a certificate to any other person willing and able to provide reasonably adequate service to such territory.

History.—§4, ch. 59-372; §4, ch. 67-476.

367.05 Application for certificate.—The application for such certificate of convenience and necessity shall be under such rules and regulations as the commission may, from time to time, adopt or prescribe, and each such application shall be accompanied by a filing fee of five hundred dollars to be placed in the general revenue fund. Upon the receipt of any such application for such certificate, the commission shall cause notice thereof, stating a time and place for hearing, to be given by mail or personal service to the chief executive officer of the municipality or municipalities affected, if any, and to any public utility occupying the territory affected, and shall publish such notice once a week for three consecutive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation in each territory affected.

History.—§5, ch. 59-372; §14, ch. 67-319; §5, ch. 67-496.

Note.*—§14, ch. 67-319, which became law on July 6, 1967, purported to amend subsection (1) to increase the filing fee to five hundred dollars. §5, ch. 67-496, which became law on August 4, 1967, and which consolidated the existing subsections of §367.05 into a single paragraph, contained no reference whatever to a filing fee. The amended filing fee provision of §14, ch. 67-319 was therefore restored to the amended section by the editors.

367.06 Issuance of certificate; existing construction or operation.—Any public utility engaged in the construction or operation of any line, plant or system, or any extension thereof, on September 1, 1967, shall be entitled to receive a certificate of convenience and necessity from the commission authorizing such utility to continue the construction or operation of such line, plant or system, or extension thereof, in the territory professed to be served by such utility on such date if, within sixty days thereafter, such public utility applies therefor by filing maps with the commission showing its existing lines and facilities, its lines or extensions thereof under construction, and the territory professed to be served by such utility. Each such application shall be accompanied by a filing fee of five hundred dollars to be placed in the general revenue fund. Any public utility that has already been issued a certificate by the commission prior to the effective date of this act shall not be required to obtain another one under the terms of this section, and such existing certificates shall be deemed to have been issued hereunder.

History.—§7, ch. 59-372; §15, ch. 67-319; §6, ch. 67-496.

Note.*—§15, ch. 67-319, which became law on July 6, 1967, purported to amend subsection (1) by increasing the filing fee to five hundred dollars. §6, ch. 67-496, which became law on August 4, 1967, and which consolidated the existing subsections of §367.06 into a single paragraph, contained no reference whatever to a filing fee. The amended filing fee provision of §15, ch. 67-319 was therefore restored to the amended section by the editors.

cf.—§§350.78 and 350.79, deposit and disbursement of fees.

367.07 Same; powers of commission.—

(1) The commission shall have power, after hearing, to issue said certificate of convenience and necessity, as prayed for, to refuse to issue the same, or to issue it for the construction, operation or acquisition of a portion only of the contemplated line, plant or system or extension thereof.

(2) The commission shall not grant a certificate for a proposed plant, line or system, or for the extension of a system, which will be in competition with or duplication of any other plant, line or system, unless it shall first determine that such other facilities are inadequate to meet the reasonable needs of the public or that the person operating the same is unable or refuses or neglects, after hearing on reasonable notice, to provide reasonably adequate service.

History.—§7, ch. 59-372; §7, ch. 67-496.

367.08 Extensions of systems.—

(1) PERMISSIBLE EXTENSIONS.—Every public utility engaged on June 18, 1959, in the construction or operation of a water or sewer system, and every recipient of a certificate of public convenience and necessity issued under the provisions of this law may extend its facilities to any territory in which at the time of the extension any of its facilities are constructed or operated, and also may extend its facilities in the ordinary course of business within or to any territory which

(a) Is not receiving similar service from any public utility or municipality,

(b) Is not defined in any outstanding certificate, and

(c) Is contiguous to territory served by the extending public utility or to territory defined in its certificate; provided however that no extension shall be permitted in any area within a municipality of one hundred thousand or more population according to the last official census unless such municipality first grants a franchise for such extension.

(2) ANNUAL AMENDMENT OF CERTIFICATES.—Every recipient of a certificate of public convenience and necessity issued under the provisions of this law shall file with the commission on or before March 1 in every year, in compliance with such rules and regulations and in such form as the commission may adopt and prescribe from time to time, a description of all additional territory served by extensions of its facilities in the immediately preceding period of January 1 to December 31, inclusive, and the commission shall issue to it an amended certificate describing all territory which it had theretofore been authorized to serve, together with the additional territory served by such extensions. Each filing made pursuant hereto shall be accompanied by a filing fee of two hundred fifty dollars to be placed in the general revenue fund.

(3) PROHIBITED EXTENSIONS.—No public utility excluding utilities owned or operated by municipalities shall extend the facilities of its water system or sewer system or either, except as authorized in subsection (1), without obtaining for such extension a certificate of public convenience and necessity in accordance with the provisions of §367.05.

(4) INTERFERENCE WITH ANOTHER SYSTEM.—If any public utility in extending its water system or sewer system interferes unreasonably or is about to interfere unreasonably or competes or is about to compete with or duplicates or is about to duplicate, in whole or in part, the service or facilities of any other water system or sewer system, the commission, upon complaint, and after public notice and hearing, may with respect to such interference, competition and duplication or any thereof make such order and prescribe such terms and conditions in harmony with this law as are required by public convenience and necessity, and in so doing shall state its reasons therefor and make findings of the subsidiary facts on which its determination of public convenience and necessity is predicated.

cf.—§§350.78 and 350.79, deposit and disbursement of fees.

367.09 Unlawful construction or operation of public utility lines, plants or systems; powers of commission.—Whenever any person engages in, or is about to engage in, the construction, operation or acquisition of any line, plant or system without having secured a certificate of convenience and necessity, any interested person may file a complaint with the commission. The commission may, with or without notice, make its order requiring the public utility complained of to cease and desist from such construction, operation or acquisition until the commission makes and files its decision on said complaint or until the further order of the commission. The commission may, after hearing on reasonable notice, make such order and prescribe such terms and conditions with respect thereto as are just and reasonable.

367.10 Transfer of certificates.—

(1) If any recipient of a certificate issued under this law shall sell or otherwise transfer all of the physical property comprising its water system or sewer system, it also shall assign its certificate to the purchaser or transferee. Within ten days after such sale or transfer the purchaser or transferee shall surrender the assigned certificate to the commission, which thereupon shall issue to the purchaser or transferee a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the purchaser or transferee to serve the territory described in the surrendered certificate.

(2) If the recipient of a certificate issued under this law shall sell or otherwise transfer less than all of the physical property comprising its water system or sewer system it shall, within ten days after such sale or other transfer, surrender its certificate to the commission and file therewith descriptions of

(a) The territory served by the physical property not sold or otherwise transferred, and

(b) The territory served by the physical property sold or otherwise transferred. The commission shall thereupon issue

1. To the seller or transferor a new certificate authorizing it to continue serving the territory served by the physical property not sold or otherwise transferred, and

2. To the purchaser or transferee a new certificate authorizing it to serve the territory served by the physical property sold or transferred, provided, however, nothing in this section shall apply to utilities owned or operated by governmental agencies or utilities acquired by any governmental agencies.

(3) Joint applications for transfer of any water system or sewer system certificate of public convenience and necessity shall be accompanied by a fee of five hundred dollars. This requirement shall not apply when the transferee is a municipality or other governmental agency. Such fee shall be placed in the general revenue fund.

History.—§10, ch. 59-372; §17, ch. 67-319.
cf.—§§350.78 and 350.79, deposit and disbursement of fees.

367.11 General duties of public utility.—

(1) Each public utility shall furnish to each person applying therefor reasonably sufficient, adequate and efficient service upon terms as required by the commission; provided, that no public utility shall be required to furnish water or sewer service for resale.

(2) All rates and charges made, demanded or received by any public utility for any service rendered, or to be rendered, by it and each rule and regulation of such public utility shall be fair and reasonable. No public utility shall make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any person or locality or subject the same to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage in any respect.

(3) The foregoing provisions of this section relate and shall apply only to rates and charges for service after the installation and connection of the facilities of a public utility and shall not apply to nor affect any contract or agreement heretofore or hereafter made providing, in connection with an application for service, for the payment of reasonable sums of money for service availability, reasonable deposits guaranteeing compensatory revenues from the territory to be served, or reasonable contributions in aid of construction to help defray the cost of facilities which will be used and useful in furnishing service, or any combination thereof, or reasonable construction or other advances evidenced by refundable or nonrefundable agreements. Upon appropriate application by any party thereto, such contracts or agreements will be reviewed by the Public Service Commission.

History.—§11, ch. 59-372; §9, ch. 67-496.

367.12 Rates; procedure for fixing and changing.—

(1)(a) All rates being charged and collected on September 1, 1967, by a public utility not previously under the jurisdiction of the commission shall be the lawful rates until changed in accordance with the rules, regulations or orders of the commission or court decree. Under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the commission, every such public utility shall, within ninety days after the effective date of such rules and regulations, file with the commission schedules showing all rates, classifications and charges for service of every kind furnished by it and all rules and regulations relating thereto in effect on September 1, 1967. Thereafter, current schedules shall be maintained on file with the commission on such forms and under such rules and regulations as the commission may prescribe.

(b) All rates being collected on September 1, 1967, by public utilities which prior to such date were subject to the jurisdiction of the commission shall be the lawful rates for such public utilities until changed by the commission.

(2) A public utility shall not, directly or indirectly, charge or receive any rate not on file with the commission for the particular class of service involved, and no change shall be made in any schedule without the approval of the commission. All applications for changes in rates shall be made to the commission in writing under rules and regulations prescribed by said commission. The commission shall have authority to determine and fix the fair, just, compensatory and reasonable rates that shall be charged and collected by any public utility for its service.

(a) With respect to all utilities coming under the jurisdiction of the commission after September 1, 1967, the commission shall investigate and determine the fair value of the utilities' property used and useful in the public service as of September 1, 1967, and shall further investigate and determine the actual legitimate costs to the company of all net additions thereto subsequent to September 1, 1967, and in all rate proceedings shall allow to the utility a fair return on the fair value of the utility's property used and useful in the public service as of September 1, 1967, together with a fair return on the utility's actual cost of all net additions thereto subsequent to September 1, 1967. The commission shall keep a current record of the net investment of each public utility subsequent to September 1, 1967, and shall determine that such net investment shall be the money honestly and prudently invested by the public utility in property used and useful in serving the public, less accrued depreciation, and shall not include any contributions in aid of construction nor any good will or going concern value or franchise value in excess of payment made therefor.

(b) With respect to utilities operating in counties under the jurisdiction of the commission prior to September 1, 1967, the commission in all rate proceedings concerning said utilities shall investigate and determine the fair value of the utilities' property used and useful in the public service as of the date on which the county in which such utilities operate enacted a resolution declaring that the county is subject to the provisions of this act; and shall further investigate and determine the actual legitimate costs to said utilities of all additions thereto subsequent to such date on which the county became subject to the jurisdiction of the commission. In all rate proceedings concerning said utilities, the commission shall allow to the utilities a fair return on the fair value of the utility's property used and useful in the public service as of the date on which the county in which the utility is located became subject to the jurisdiction of the commission, together with a fair return on the utility's actual costs of all net additions thereto subsequent to said effective date. The commission shall determine that the net investment so computed shall be the money honestly and prudently invested by the public utility in property used and useful in serving the public, less accrued depreciation, and shall not include any contributions in aid of construction.

(3) Whenever the commission shall find, upon request made or upon its own motion, that the rates demanded, charged or collected by any public utility company for public utility service, or the rules, regulations or practices of any public utility affecting such rates, are unjust, unreasonable, unjustly discriminatory or in any way in violation of law, that such rates are insufficient to yield reasonable compensation for the services rendered, or that such service is inadequate or cannot be obtained, the commission shall order and hold a public hearing in the county wherein a majority of the service involved is furnished, giving reasonable notice to the public and to the public utility, and shall thereafter determine just and reasonable rates to be thereafter charged for such service and to promulgate rules and regulations affecting equipment, facilities and service thereafter to be installed, furnished and used.

367.13 Effective rates.—

(1) PRESENT SERVICE.—After the rates and charges provided for in subsections (1), (2) and (3) of §367.12 become effective no public utility excluding utilities owned or operated by governmental agencies shall charge or receive, directly or indirectly, any other rate or charge for any class of service provided for in the filings required by §367.12, unless and until such rates and charges shall be changed by the commission in accordance with the provisions of this law.

(2) NEW SERVICE.—If any application for the service of a public utility shall be for a new class of service not provided for in the filings required by §367.12, the public utility may furnish the new class of service applied for and fix just, fair, reasonable and compensatory rates and charges therefor. A schedule of any rates and charges so fixed shall be filed with the commission within ten days after the new class of service is furnished. The commission, after public hearing, may approve, increase or reduce such rates and charges as may be just, fair, reasonable and compensatory.

History.—§13, ch. 59-372.

367.14 Rates; adjustment; application fees.—

(1) Whenever there is filed with the commission by any public utility holding a certificate under the provisions of this law any notice of general increases in a schedule of rates and charges, the commission may, either upon complaint or of its own initiative and after public notice, enter upon a hearing to determine whether the proposed rates are just, reasonable, sufficient and compensatory, and said hearing shall be held and the order entered thereon within one hundred eighty days from the date the public utility filed with the commission its written notice showing the change or changes proposed.

(2) Applications made to the commission by any water or sewer utility for rate increases shall be accompanied by payment of the following application fees, based on number of connections served:

(a) Under 750 connections	$ 250.00
(b) 750 to 1500 connections	$ 500.00
(c) Over 1500 connections	$1,000.00

Such fees shall be placed in the general revenue fund.

History.—§14, ch. 59-372; §§1, 2, 3, ch. 61-477; §18, ch. 67-319; §11, ch. 67-496.

367.15 Powers of commission.—

(1) In the exercise of its jurisdiction, the commission shall have power:

(a) To prescribe fair and reasonable rates and charges, classifications, standards of quality and measurements, and service rules and regulations to be observed by each public utility;

(b) To prescribe uniform system and classification of accounts for all public utilities, which among other things shall set up adequate, fair and reasonable depreciation rates and charges;

(c) To require the filing by each public utility of periodic reports and all other reasonably necessary data;

(d) To require repairs, improvements, additions and extensions to the plant and equipment of any public utility reasonably necessary to promote the convenience and welfare of the public and secure adequate service or facilities for those reasonably entitled thereto, except that no public utility shall be required to extend its service or make additions to its plant or equipment unless the commission shall first, after a hearing, enter an order based upon findings establishing the financial ability of the public utility to make such additional investment without impairing its capacity to serve its existing customers and its ability to operate efficiently;

(e) To employ and fix the compensation for such examiners and technical, legal and clerical cal employees as it deems necessary to carry out the provisions of this chapter;

(f) To prescribe all rules and regulations reasonably necessary and appropriate for the administration and enforcement of this chapter; and

(g) To exercise all judicial powers, issue all writs and do all things necessary or convenient to the full and complete exercise of its jurisdiction and the enforcement of its orders and requirements.

(2) The commission shall provide for the examination and testing of all appliances used for measuring any product or service of a public utility.

(3) Any consumer or user may have any such appliance tested upon payment of the fee fixed by the commission.

(4) The commission shall establish reasonable fees to be paid for testing such appliances on the request of the consumers or users, the fee to be paid by the consumer or user at the time of his request, but to be paid by the public utility and repaid to the consumer or user if the appliance be found defective or incorrect to the disadvantage of the consumer or user in excess of the degree or amount of tolerance customarily allowed for such appliances, or as may be provided for in rules and regulations of the commission.

(5) The commission may purchase materials, apparatus and standard measuring instruments for such examinations and tests.

(6) The commission or its duly authorized representatives may during all reasonable hours enter upon any premises occupied by any public utility and may set up and use thereon all necessary apparatus and appliances for the purpose of making investigations, inspections, examinations and tests and exercising any power conferred by this chapter; provided, that such public utility shall have the right to be notified of and be represented at the making of such investigations, inspections, examinations and tests.

History.—§18, ch. 59-372.

367.19 Gross receipts tax.—Every public utility holding a certificate under the provisions of this law shall on or before March 15 in every year report to the comptroller of the state, under oath of its secretary or one of its other officers, the total amount of the gross receipts derived by it in the immediately preceding period of January 1 to December 31, inclusive, from business done within this state, and at the time of so reporting shall pay to the treasurer of the state a gross receipts tax in the amount of one dollar fifty cents for each one hundred dollars or fraction thereof of such gross receipts, provided, however, that whenever a purchase is made of any water and a tax is paid thereon by a public utility and such public utility resells the same directly to consumers such public utility shall be entitled and shall receive credit upon such taxes as may be due by it under this section to the extent of the tax paid or payable upon such water by the person, firm or corporation from whom such purchase was made. If any public utility fails to make such report and pay such tax, the comptroller, after giving at least five days written notice to the public utility, shall estimate the amount of such gross receipts from such information as he may be able to obtain from any source and shall add ten per cent of the amount of such tax as a penalty and shall proceed to collect such tax and penalty, together with all costs of collection thereof, in the same manner as other delinquent taxes are collected, provided, however, that no penalty shall be added to the tax in the event a return is made and the amount of the tax is paid before the expiration of the time fixed in the notice given by the comptroller. All such tax payments and penalties shall be placed in the general revenue fund. The comptroller may audit such reports and upon demand every public utility shall submit all of its records, papers, books and accounts to the comptroller or his representatives for audit.

(2) If any public utility, by any authorized officer, agent or employee, shall knowingly refuse to comply with or willfully violate any provision of this chapter or any lawful rate, rule or regulation, order, direction, demand or requirement prescribed by the commission hereunder, such public utility shall incur a penalty for each such offense of not more than $5,000.00 to be fixed, imposed and collected by the commission. Each day that said refusal or violation continues shall constitute a separate offense. Each penalty shall be a lien upon the real and personal property of the public utility, enforceable by the commission as statutory liens under chapter 85, the proceeds of which shall be deposited in the general revenue fund of the state.

History.—§1, ch. 59-304; §1, ch. 67-379.

*Note.—§368.01 as amended by §1, ch. 67-379 to become effective on March 1, 1968, reads as follows:

368.01 Short title.—This law may be known and cited as "The Gas Safety Law of 1967."

368.02 Definitions.—In construing this code, where the context permits, the word, phrase, or term:

(1) "Commission" means the Florida public service commission.

(2) "Pressure" unless otherwise stated is expressed in pounds per square inch above atmospheric pressure, i.e., gauge pressure. (abbreviation—psig)

(3) "Design pressure" is the maximum operating pressure permitted by this code, as determined by the design procedures applicable to the materials and locations involved.

(4) "Maximum allowable test pressure" is the maximum internal fluid pressure permitted by this code for testing for the materials and locations involved.

(5) "Maximum actual operating pressure" is the maximum operating pressure existing in

(6) "Maximum allowable operating pressure" is the maximum pressure at which a piping system may be operated in accordance with the provisions of this code. It is the pressure which is used in determining the setting of pressure relieving or pressure limiting devices installed to protect the system from accidental over-pressuring.

(7) "Standard service pressure" is the gas pressure which a utility undertakes to maintain on its domestic customers' meters, sometimes called the normal utilization pressure.

(8) "Pressure relief station" consists of equipment installed for the purpose of preventing the pressure on a pipeline or distribution system to which it is connected from exceeding by more than an established increment the maximum allowable operating pressure, by venting gas to the atmosphere whenever the pressure tends to rise too high. The following kinds of equipment generally are employed to provide this type of protection: liquid seals, dead weight mechanical seals, spring loaded relief valves and back pressure regulators used as relief valves. Included in the station are piping and auxiliary devices, such as valves, control instruments, control lines, the enclosure and ventilating equipment installed in accordance with this code.

(9) "Pressure limiting station" consists of equipment installed for the purpose of preventing the pressure on a pipeline or distribution system from exceeding the maximum allowable operating pressure, by controlling or restricting the flow of gas when abnormal conditions develop. While normal conditions prevail, the pressure limiting station may exercise some degree of control of the flow of gas or may remain in the wide open position. Should the pressure on the pipeline or distribution system exceed the normal operating pressure range or setting, due to malfunctioning regulator or other cause, the pressure limiting station will function, automatically, to prevent the pressure on the pipeline or system from exceeding its maximum allowable operating value. The following kinds of equipment generally are employed to provide this type of protection: monitoring regulators, series regulators and automatic shut-off devices. Included in the station are piping and auxiliary devices, such as valves, control instruments, control lines, the enclosure and ventilating equipment installed in accordance with the pertinent requirements of this code.

(10) "Pressure regulating station" consists of equipment installed for the purpose of automatically reducing and regulating the pressure in the downstream pipeline or main to which it is connected. Included are piping and auxiliary devices such as valves, control instruments, control lines, the enclosure and ventilating equipment.

(11) "Service regulator" is a regulator installed on a gas service to control the pressure of the gas delivered to the customer.

(12) "Monitoring regulator" is a pressure regulator set in series with another pressure regulator for the purpose of automatically taking over in an emergency the control of the pressure downstream of the station in case that pressure tends to exceed a set maximum.

(13) "Stress" is the resultant internal force that resists change in the size or shape of a body acted on by external forces. In this code "stress" is often used as being synonymous with unit stress which is the stress per unit area (psi).

(14) "Operating stress" is the stress in a pipe or structural member under normal operating conditions.

(15) "Hoop stress" is the stress in a pipe wall, acting circumferentially in a plane perpendicular to the longitudinal axis of the pipe and produced by the pressure of the fluid in the pipe.

(16) "Maximum allowable hoop stress" is the maximum hoop stress permitted by this code for the design of a piping system. It depends upon the material used, the location of the pipe, and the operating conditions.

(17) "Secondary stress" is stress created in the pipe wall by loads other than internal fluid pressure, such as backfill loads, traffic loads, beam action in a span, loads at supports and at connections to the pipe.

(18) "Nominal wall thickness" (abbreviation-t) is the wall thickness computed by the design equation in §368.28(6). Under this code pipe may be ordered to this computed wall thickness without adding an allowance to compensate for the under-thickness tolerances permitted in approved specification.

(19) "Temperatures" are expressed in degrees Fahrenheit (abbreviation-°F.) unless otherwise stated.

(20) "Ambient temperature" is the temperature of the surrounding medium, usually used to refer to the temperature of the air in which a structure is situated or a device operates.

(21) "Ground temperature" is the temperature of the earth at pipe depth.

(22) "Cold-springing" is the fabrication of piping to an actual length shorter than its nominal length; and forcing it into position, so that it is stressed in the erected condition; thus compensating partially for the effects produced by the expansion due to an increase in temperature. Cold spring factor is the ratio of the amount of cold spring provided, to the total computed temperature expansion.

(23) "Welding nomenclature" are types of welds and names of welded joints as used herein according to their common usage.

(24) "Yield strength" is the strength at which a material exhibits a specified limiting permanent set, or produces a specified total elongation under load. The specified limiting set or elongation is usually expressed as percentage of gauge length, and its values are specified in the various material specifications acceptable under this code.

(25) "Tensile strength" is the highest unit tensile stress (referred to the original cross-section) a material can sustain before failure (psi).

(26) "Specified minimum yield strength" is the minimum yield strength prescribed by the specification under which pipe is purchased from the manufacturer (psi).

(27) "Specified minimum tensile strength" is the minimum tensile strength prescribed by the specification under which pipe is purchased from the manufacturer (psi).

(28) "Specified minimum elongation" is the minimum elongation (expressed in per cent of the gauge length) in the tensile test specimen, prescribed by the specifications under which the material is purchased from the manufacturer.

(29) "Alloy steel" is steel considered to be alloy steel when the maximum of the range given for the content of alloying elements exceeds one or more of the following limits:

copper	.60%

or in which a definite range or a definite minimum quantity of any of the following elements is specified or required within the limits of the recognized field of constructional alloy steels:

- aluminum
- boron
- chromium up to 3.99%
- cobalt
- columbium
- molybdenum
- nickel
- titanium
- tungsten
- vanadium
- zirconium

or any other alloying element added to obtain a desired alloying effect.

(30) "Carbon steel" is steel considered to be carbon steel when no minimum content is specified or required for aluminum, boron, chromium, cobalt, columbium, molybdenum, nickel, titanium, tungsten, vanadium or zirconium, or any other element added to obtain a desired alloying effect; when the specified minimum for copper does not exceed 0.40%; or when the maximum content specified for any of the following elements does not exceed the percentages noted: manganese 1.65, silicon 0.60, copper 0.60.

In all carbon steels small quantities of certain residual elements, unavoidably retained from raw materials, are sometimes found which are not specified or required, such as copper, nickel, molybdenum, chromium, etc. These elements are considered as incidental and are not normally determined or reported.

(31) "Pipe" is a tubular product made as a production item for sale as such. Cylinders formed from plate in the course of the fabrication of auxiliary equipment are not pipe as defined here.

(32) "Pipeline or transmission line" is a pipe installed for the purpose of transmitting gas from a source or sources of supply to one or more distribution centers or to one or more large volume customers or a pipe installed to interconnect sources of supply. In typical cases pipelines differ from gas mains in that they operate at higher pressures, they are longer, and the distance between connections is greater.

(33) "Gas main or distribution main" is a pipe installed in a community to convey gas to individual services or other mains.

(34) "Gas service" is the pipe that runs between a main or a pipeline and a customer's meter.

(35) "Low-pressure distribution system" is a gas distribution piping system in which the gas pressure in the mains and services is substantially the same as that delivered to the customer's appliances. In such a system a service regulator is not required on the individual services.

(36) "High-pressure distribution system" is a gas distribution piping system which operates at a pressure higher than the standard service pressure delivered to the customer. In such a system a service regulator is required on each service to control the pressure delivered to the customer.

(37) "Length" is a piece of pipe of the length delivered from the mill. Each piece is called a length regardless of its actual dimension. This is sometimes called "joint" but "length" is preferred.

(38) "Cold expanded pipe" is seamless or welded pipe which is formed and then expanded in the pipe mill while cold so that the circumference is permanently increased by at least .50%.

(39) "Gas storage line" is a pipeline used for conveying gas between a compressor station and a gas well used for storing gas underground.

(40) "Instrument piping" is all piping, valves, and fittings used to connect instruments to main piping, to other instruments and apparatus, or to measuring equipment.

(41) "Control piping" is all piping, valves, and fittings used to interconnect air, gas, or hydraulically operated control apparatus or instrument transmitters and receivers.

(42) "Sample piping" is all piping, valves and fittings used for the collection of samples of gas, steam, water, or oil.

(43) "Private rights-of-way" as used in this code are rights-of-way that are not located on roads, streets or highways used by the public, or on railroad rights-of-way.

(44) (a) "Operating company" as used herein is the individual, partnership, corporation, public agency, or other entity that operates the gas transmission or distribution facilities.

(b) The term "operating company" as used herein means and includes every person, corporation, partnership, association, municipality, cooperative, gas district, or other legal entity and their lessees, trustees or receivers, now or hereafter either owning, operating, managing or controlling any facility supplying gas, natural, manufactured, or similar gaseous substance, except as to liquefied petroleum gases as defined in subsection (50) to or for the public within this State.

(45) "Proprietary items" are items made and marketed by a company having the exclusive right to manufacture and sell them.

(46) "Location class" is a geographic area classified according to its approximate population density and its other characteristics that are considered when prescribing types of construction and methods of testing pipelines and mains to be located in the area.

(47) "Construction type" is a construction specification for pipelines and mains that fixes the stress levels.

(48) "One mile population density index" is a number roughly proportional to population density, applicable to a specific one mile length of pipeline or main and used in some cases to determine design and/or test requirements.

(49) "Ten mile population density index" is a number roughly proportional to population density, applicable to a specific ten mile length of pipeline or main and used in some cases to determine design and/or test requirements.

(50) "Gas" as used in this code is any gas or mixture of gases suitable for domestic or industrial fuel and transmitted or distributed to the user through a piping system. However, this does not include liquefied petroleum gases in the vapor or liquid state. The common types are natural gas, manufactured gas, and liquefied petroleum gas distributed as a vapor with the admixture of air.

(51) "Customer's meter" is a meter which measures gas delivered to a customer for consumption on his premises.

(52) "Service shut-off" is a valve or cock readily accessible and operable by the customer, located in a service pipe between the gas main and the meter.

(53) "Curb shut-off" is a buried valve or cock installed in a service pipe at or near the property line and accessible through a valve box and cover and operable by a removable key.

(54) "Pipe container" is a gas-tight structure assembled in a shop or in the field from pipe and end closures.

(55) "Pipe-type holder" is any pipe-container or group of interconnected pipe-containers installed at one location, and used for the sole purpose of storing gas.

(56) "Bottled" as used in this code is a gas-tight structure completely fabricated from pipe with integral drawn, forged, or spun end closures and tested in the manufacturer's plant.

(57) "Bottled-type holder" is any bottle or group of interconnected bottles installed in one location, and used for the sole purpose of storing gas.

(58) "Stop valve" is a valve installed for the purpose of stopping the flow of fluid in a pipe.

(59) "Hot taps" are branch piping connections made to operating pipelines or mains or other facilities while they are in operation. The connection of the branch piping to the operating line and the tapping of the operating line is done while it is under gas pressure.

(60) "Leakage surveys" are systematic surveys made for the purpose of locating leaks in a gas piping system. Three types of surveys are referred to in this code. The significant difference between the three is the manner in which the presence of a leak is first detected. They all involve verification of the presence of a leak and its location, as for example, by the driving or boring of test holes in the vicinity of the leak and testing the atmosphere in these holes with a combustible gas detector or other suitable device. The three types of surveys are defined herein:

(a) "Vegetation surveys" are leakage surveys made for the purpose of finding leaks in underground gas piping by observing vegetation.

(b) "Gas detector surveys" are leakage surveys made by testing with a combustible gas detector the atmosphere in water meter boxes, street vaults of all types, cracks in pavements and other available locations where access to the soil under pavement is provided.

(c) "Bar test surveys" are leakage surveys made by driving or boring holes at regular intervals along the route of an underground gas pipe and testing the atmosphere in the holes with a combustible gas detector or other suitable device.

(61) "API" means American petroleum institute.

(62) "ASA" means American standards association.

(63) "ASME" means American society of mechanical engineers.

(64) "ASTM" means American society for testing materials.

(65) "AWS" means American welding society.

(66) "AWWA" means American water works association.

(67) "MSS" means manufacturers standardization society of the valve and fittings industry.

(68) "CIPRA" means cast iron pipe research association.

The jurisdiction conferred upon said commission shall be exclusive and superior to that of all other boards, agencies, political subdivisions, municipalities, towns, villages or counties, and in case of conflict therewith all lawful safety acts, orders, rules and regulations of the commission shall in each instance prevail.

(2) In the exercise of such jurisdiction, the commission shall have power to prescribe rules and regulations not inconsistent herewith to be observed by each operating company except municipalities for the enforcement of this code; to require the filing of periodic reports and all other data reasonably necessary to determine whether the safety standards of this code are being complied with; to require repairs and improvements to the gas transmission and distribution piping systems of any operating company except municipalities reasonably necessary under this code to promote the protection of the public; and to exercise all judicial powers, issue all writs and do all things necessary or convenient to the full and complete exercise of its jurisdiction and the enforcement of its safety orders entered under this code.

368.05 Commission jurisdiction, rules and regulations.—

(1) In addition to its existing functions, the Florida Public Service Commission shall have jurisdiction over all persons, corporations, partnerships, associations, public agencies, municipalities, or other legal entities engaged in the operation of gas transmission or distribution facilities with respect to their compliance with the rules and regulations governing safety standards established by the commission pursuant to this law. The jurisdiction conferred upon the commission hereby shall be exclusive of and superior to that of all other boards, agencies, political subdivisions, municipalities, towns, villages or counties; and in case of conflict therewith all lawful safety acts, orders, rules and regulations of the commission shall in each instance prevail.

(2) The commission shall have the power to perform any and all acts, and to prescribe, issue, make, amend and rescind such orders, rules and regulations not inconsistent herewith as it may find necessary or appropriate to the exercise of the authority granted under the provisions of this law. The commission may require the filing of periodic reports and all other data reasonably necessary to determine whether the safety standards prescribed by it are being complied with; may require repairs and improvements to the gas transmission and distribution piping systems subject to this law which are reasonably necessary to promote the protection of the public; and may exercise all judicial powers, issue all writs and do all things necessary or convenient to the full and complete exercise of its jurisdiction and the enforcement of its safety orders and rules and regulations adopted pursuant to this law.

368.06 Materials and equipment.—It is intended that all materials and equipment that will become a permanent part of any piping system constructed under this code shall be suitable and safe for the conditions under which they are used. All such materials and equipment shall be qualified for the conditions of their use by compliance with certain specifications, standards, and special requirements of this code or otherwise as provided herein.

History.—§4, ch. 59-304

Note.*—See note following chapter title.

368.07 Qualification of materials and equipment.—

(1) Materials and equipment fall into five categories insofar as methods of qualification for use under this code are concerned:

(a) Items which conform to standards or specifications listed in this code.

(b) Items that are important from a safety standpoint, of a type for which standards or specifications are listed in this code, but the specific item in question does not conform to a listed standard such as pipe manufactured to a specification not listed in this code.

(c) Items of a type for which standards or specifications are listed in this code but which do not conform to the standards and are relatively unimportant from a safety standpoint because of their small size or because of the conditions under which they are to be used.

(d) Items of a type for which no standard or specification is listed in this code such as a gas compressor.

(e) Unidentified or used pipe.

(2) Prescribed procedures for qualifying each of these five categories are:

(a) Items which conform to standards of specifications listed in this code may be used for appropriate applications, as prescribed and limited by this code, without further qualification.

(b) Important items which do not conform to specifications or standards listed in this code shall be qualified by one of the following means:

1. By petitioning the Florida public service commission for approval. If possible, the material shall be identified with a comparable material, and it should be stated in said petition that the material will comply with that specification except as noted. Complete information as to chemical composition and physical properties shall be supplied to the commission, and its approval shall be obtained before this material may be used.

2. Materials conforming to specifications which do not vary materially from a listed specification and which meet the minimum requirements of this code with respect to quality of materials and workmanship may be used. This shall not be construed to permit deviations which would tend to adversely affect weldability or ductility. If the deviations tend to reduce strength, full allowance for the reduction shall be provided for in the design.

(c) Relatively unimportant items which do not conform to listed standards or specifications may be used provided that:

1. They are tested or investigated and found suitable for the proposed service, and

2. They are used at unit stresses not greater than 50% or those allowed by this code for comparable materials, and

3. Their use is not specifically prohibited by the code.

(d) Materials and equipment not covered by standards or specifications listed in this code may be qualified by the user by investigation and tests (if needed) that demonstrate that the item of material or equipment is suitable and safe for the proposed service, and provided further that the item is recommended for that service from the standpoint of safety, by the manufacturer, and is approved by the commission.

(e) Reuse of pipe in existing line. Removal of a portion of an operating line, and reuse of the pipe in the same line, or in a line operating at the same, or lower pressure, is permitted, subject only to the restrictions of paragraph (g) 2. a., f., and i.

(f) Used pipe, unidentified new pipe, and low pressure pipe (hoop stress less than 6,000 psi) may be used for low-stress level service (hoop stress less than 6,000 psi) where no close coiling or bending is to be done, provided careful visual examination indicates that it is in good condition, free from split seams or other defects that would cause leakage, and provided further that, if the pipe is to be welded, it shall satisfactorily pass weldability tests prescribed in paragraph (g) 2. e.

(g) 1. Used pipe, unidentified new pipe, and low pressure pipe (hoop stress less than 6,000 psi) may be qualified for use at stress levels above 6,000 psi or for service involving close coiling or bending by the procedures and within the limits outlined in the table below.

2. The letters in the table refer to the corresponding subparagraphs following:

	Used, unidentified new, or low pressure pipe	Known used pipe, low pressure pipe excluded
Inspection	a.	a.
Bending properties	b.	b.

Thickness	c.	c.
Joint efficiency	d.	d.
Weldability	e.	e.
Defects	f.	f.
Yield strength	g.	g.
S Value	h.	h.
Test	i.	i.

a. Inspection.—All pipe shall be cleaned inside and outside, if necessary, to permit good inspection, and shall be visually inspected to insure that it is reasonably round and straight, and to discover any defects which might impair its strength or tightness.

b. Bending properties.—For pipe 2 in. and under the nominal diameter, a sufficient length of pipe shall be bent cold through 90°, around a cylindrical mandrel, the diameter of which is twelve times the nominal diameter of the pipe, without developing cracks at any portion and without opening the weld. For pipe larger than 2 in. in diameter, flattening tests shall be made and the pipe shall meet the requirements of this test. The number of tests required to determine bending properties shall be the same as required in subparagraph g. below, to determine yield strength.

c. Determination of wall thickness.—Unless the nominal wall thickness is known with certainty, it shall be determined by measuring the thickness at quarter points on one end of each piece of pipe. If the lot of pipe is known to be of uniform grade, size and nominal thickness, measurement shall be made on not less than 10% of the individual lengths, but not less than 10 lengths; thickness of the other lengths may be verified by applying a gauge set to the minimum thickness. Following such measurement, the nominal wall thickness shall be taken as the next commercial wall thickness below the average of all the measurements taken, but in no case more than 1.14 times the least measured thickness.

d. Joint efficiency.—If the type of longitudinal joint can be determined with certainty, the corresponding longitudinal joint factor "E" may be used. Otherwise, the factor "E" shall be taken as 0.60 for pipe four inches and smaller, or 0.80 for pipe over 4 in.

e. Weldability.—Shall be determined as follows: A qualified welder shall make a girth weld in the pipe. The weld shall then be tested.

From the completed test weld, the number of specimens cut will depend upon the size of the pipe and requirements of the company. Specimens should be cut from the completed weld in accordance with the table below:

Type and number of test specimens for welder qualification test
Pipe size:	Recommended
Outside diameter (inches)	number of specimens
4½ and smaller	4
6⅝ to 12¾, inclusive	6
14 and larger	12

Tensile	Nick break	Bends
		Root	Face
2	2	—	—
4	4	2	2

Specimens shall be removed and shall be spaced approximately equidistant around the pipe. Specimens shall be air-cooled to ambient temperature before testing.

The weld must be free of cracks, inadequate penetration, burn-through, and other obvious defects, and it must present a neat workman-like appearance. Undercutting adjacent to the final bead on the outside of the pipe shall not exceed 1/32 in. in depth.

Tensile-test specimens shall be approximately 1 in. wide; the weld reinforcements, both at the face and at the root of the weld shall not be removed. Specimens may be oxygen-cut and no additional machining or preparation will be necessary, provided the sides are parallel and free from notches or unevenness which may adversely affect the test results.

If two or more of the specimens tested break in the weld or at the junction of the weld and the parent metal, and also fail to develop the minimum specified tensile strength of the pipe metal, the welder shall be disqualified.

Nick-break test specimens may be oxygen-cut, and no other preparation will be necessary. The specimens shall be hacksaw-notched on both edges of the specimen at the center of the weld to cause failure in the weld metal, and shall be broken: By pulling in a suitable testing machine; by supporting the ends and striking the center of the specimen with a heavy hammer; or by supporting one end of the specimen in a vise and striking the other end with sharp hammer blows. The exposed area of the fracture shall have a minimum width of 1 in.

The nick-break test shall show complete penetration and fusion throughout the entire thickness of the weld specimen. If, in the opinion of the company representative, inadequate penetration occurring in one of the test specimens is not representative of the weld, the specimen may be replaced by another specimen cut adjacent to the specimen that was rejected. The exposed surface shall show no more than 6 gas pockets per square inch with the greatest dimension not to exceed 1/16 in. Slag inclusions shall be not greater than 1/32 in. in depth or 1/8 in. in width, and shall be separated by at least 1/2 in. of sound weld metal. The welder shall be disqualified if any one specimen shows defects exceeding these limitations.

Bend-test specimens shall be approximately 1 in. wide and may be oxygen cut. Both the cover and root bead reinforcement shall be removed flush with the pipe wall. Final removal of excess metal shall leave the surface free of deep scratches, and any remaining scratches shall be transverse to the weld.

Sharp edges shall be reduced to a smooth radius. One-half the number of specimens shall be subjected to face-bend tests, and the other half of the number of specimens shall be subjected to root-bend tests.

All bend-test specimens shall be tested in a guided-bend testjig. Each specimen shall be placed on the die with the weld at mid-span. Face-bend specimens shall be placed with the face of the weld directed toward the gap; root-bend specimens shall be placed with the root of the weld directed toward the gap. The plunger shall be forced into the gap until the curvature of the specimen is approximately u-shaped.

The bend-test shall be considered acceptable if:

- (I) No crack or other defect exceeding $\frac{1}{8}$ in. in any direction is present in the weld metal or between the weld and the pipe material after bending. (Cracks which originate along the edges of the specimen during testing and that are less than $\frac{1}{4}$ in. measured in any direction shall not be considered.) Welds in high-test pipe, which may not bend the full u-shape shall be qualified.
- (II) The specimen cracks or fractures during bending and the exposed surface shows: Complete penetration and fusion throughout the entire thickness of the weld specimen; no more than 6 gas pockets per square inch with the greatest dimension not to exceed $\frac{1}{16}$ in.; and no slag inclusions greater than $\frac{1}{32}$ in. in depth or $\frac{1}{8}$ in. in width and separated by at least $\frac{1}{2}$ in. of sound metal. If necessary, the specimen shall be broken apart to permit examination of the fracture.

Should one of the welder's bend-test specimens fail to meet these requirements, and, in the opinion of the company representative, lack of penetration occurring is not representative of the weld, the test specimen may be replaced by an alternative specimen cut adjacent to the one that failed. The welder shall be disqualified if the alternative specimen also shows defects exceeding the specified limits.

The welder may be recognized as qualified only if the test weld presents a neat appearance and the specimens are acceptable as to tensile strength and soundness.

If, in the mutual opinion of the company and contractor representatives, failure of a welder to pass the test was because of unavoidable conditions or conditions beyond his control, such a welder may be given a second opportunity to qualify. No further retests shall be given until the welder has submitted proof of subsequent welder training acceptable to the company.

At the option of the company, the qualification weld may be examined by radiographic inspection in lieu of the tests specified. The welder shall be disqualified if the test weld fails to meet requirements of radiographic inspection.

Radiographic inspection shall not be used for the purpose of locating sound areas or areas containing discontinuities and thereafter making destructive tests of such areas to qualify or disqualify a welder.

Each welder shall identify his work in the manner prescribed by the company. Steel-die stamping shall not be used except as permitted by the company.

The company shall maintain a record of the welders employed, until the line is placed in operation, showing the date and results of qualification tests and the identification mark assigned to each.

The qualifying weld shall be made under the most severe conditions under which welding will be permitted in the field and using the same procedure as to be used in the field. The pipe shall be considered weldable if the requirements set forth herein are met. At least one such test weld shall be made for each 100 lengths of pipe in sizes over 4 in. in diameter. On sizes 4 inches and under one test will be required for each 400 lengths of pipe. If, in testing the weld, the above requirements cannot be met, the weldability may be established by making chemical tests for carbon and manganese. The number of chemical tests shall be the same as required for circumferential weld tests, stated above.

f. Surface defects.—All pipe shall be examined for gouges, grooves and dents, and shall be qualified in accordance with the provisions of §368.28(24)-(30).

g. Determination of yield strength.—When the manufacturer's specified minimum yield strength, tensile strength or elongation for the pipe is unknown, and no physical tests are made, the minimum yield strength for purposes of design shall be taken as not more than 24,000 psi. Alternately, the tensile properties may be established as follows:

Number of tensile tests—
Lot of	all sizes
10 lengths or less	1 Set of tests from each length
11 to 100 lengths	1 Set of tests for each 5 lengths, but not less than 10
Over 100 lengths	1 Set of tests for each 10 lengths, but not less than 20

All test specimens shall be selected at random.

If the yield-tensile ratio exceeds .85, the pipe shall not be used except as provided in subsection (2) (f).

h. S value.—For pipe of unknown specification, the yield strength, to be used as S in the steel pipe design formula of §368.28(6), in lieu of the specified minimum yield strength shall be 24,000 psi. or determined as follows:

Determine the average value of all yield strength tests for a uniform lot. The value of S shall then be taken as the lesser of the following: 80% of the average value of the yield strength tests; the minimum value of any yield strength test, provided, however, that in no case shall S be taken as greater than 52,000 psi.

i. Hydrostatic test.—New or used pipe of unknown specification and all used pipe the strength of which is impaired by corrosion or other deterioration, shall be re-tested hydrostatically either length by length in a mill type test or in the field after installation before being placed in service, and the test pressure used shall establish the maximum allowable operating pressure subject to limitations described in §368.28 (10) (a) and (b).

History.—§5, ch. 59-304; §1, ch. 63-279; §1, ch. 65-52.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.08 Marking.—

(1) All valves, fittings, flanges, bolting, pipe and tubing, shall be marked in accordance with the marking sections of the standards and specifications to which reference is made in this code.

(2) Die stamping, if used, shall be done with dies having blunt or rounded edges to minimize stress concentrations.

History.—§6, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.09 Material specifications.—Standard specifications for various materials must comply with the requirements of this code.

History.—§7, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.10 Equipment specifications.—It is not intended to include in this code complete specifications for equipment, however, certain details of design and fabrication necessarily refer to equipment such as pipe hangers, vibration dampeners, electrical facilities, engines, compressors, etc. Partial specifications for such equipment items are given herein if they affect the safety of the piping system in which they are to be installed. In other cases where the code gives no specifications for the particular equipment item, the intent is that the safety provisions of the code shall govern insofar as they are applicable, and in any case the safety of equipment installed in a piping system shall be commensurate with that of other parts of the same system.

History.—§8, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.11 Welding.—

(1) This code concerns the arc and gas welding of pipe joints in both wrought and cast steel materials, and more specifically covers butt joints in pipe, valves, flanges and fittings, and fillet welded joints in pipe branches, slip-on flanges, socket weld fittings, etc., as applied in pipelines and connections to apparatus or equipment. When valves or equipment are furnished with welding ends suitable for welding directly into a pipeline, the design, composition, welding, and stress relief procedures must be such that no significant damage will be likely to result from the welding or stress relieving operation. This code does not apply to the welding of longitudinal joints in the manufacture of pipe.

(2) These standards apply to manual shielded metal arc and gas welding, automatic submerged arc welding, and for other manual and automatic welding where applicable.

(3) These standards are based on the principle that a welding procedure has been established and qualified for sound and ductile welds. In applying these standards, the welder is required to qualify under the procedure employed. These standards establish the groupings of materials that can be welded under a procedure which has been qualified with any one of the materials included in the group. The changes in material, filler metal, process or procedure that require requalification of either welding procedure or welder are set out in §368.14 (2) (a) or (b).

(4) The standards of quality for pipelines and mains to operate at 20% or more of the specified minimum yield strength are established under §368.20 and the methods of non-destructive and destructive examination are set out.

(5) All the welding done under the standards of this code shall be performed under a specification which at least embodies the requirements of this code.

History.—§9, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.12 Types of welds.—

(1) BUTT WELDS.—Butt joints may be of the single Vee, double Vee, or other suitable type of groove. Joints with equal internal diameters will not be made with an outside offset greater than 1/8 in., or .3 times the lesser wall thickness. Joints with equal external diameters shall not be made with an internal offset greater than 3/32 in. If the offset is greater than 3/32 in. double weld, or bevel. Joints where internal and external diameters are unequal shall be treated as required in the individual cases described in §368.11.

(2) FILLET WELD.—Fillet welds may be concave to slightly convex. The size of a fillet weld is stated as the leg length of the largest inscribed right isosceles triangle.

(3) SEAL WELDS.—Seal welding shall be done by qualified welders. Seal welding of threaded joints is permitted but the seal welds shall not be considered as contributing to the strength of joints.

History.—§10, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.13 Preparation for welding.—

(1) BUTT WELDS.—

(a) The welding surfaces shall be clean, and free of material that may be detrimental to the weld.

(b) 1. Up to 3/4 in. thickness weld ends may be prepared in one of the following ways:

a. Bevel from 30° to 35° with a 1/16 in. plus or minus 1/32 in. land.

b. Bevel 37-1/2° plus or minus 2-1/2° with a 1/16 in. plus or minus 1/32 in. land.

2. Thicknesses over $\frac{3}{4}$ in. will be beveled for the first $\frac{3}{4}$ in. as in (1) (b) above and the remainder of the thickness will be beveled 10° plus or minus 1° .

(c) The ends of pipe to pipe, or pipe to fitting joints shall be aligned as accurately as practicable giving consideration to existing commercial tolerances on pipe diameters, pipe wall thickness and out of roundness. Alignment shall provide the most favorable condition for the deposition of the root bead and shall be preserved during welding of the root bead.

(d) Root opening of the joint shall be as given in the procedure specification employed.

(2) FILLET WELDS.—Minimum dimensions for fillet welds used in the attachment of slip-on flanges, for socket welded joints, shall be not less than 1.4 times the wall thickness of the pipe used. Fillet welds used in outside welded branch connections shall be made at a minimum angle of 45° and a span dimension of not less than $\frac{3}{8}$ times the wall thickness of the branch but not less than $\frac{1}{4}$ in., and a minimum of $\frac{1}{16}$ in. and maximum of $\frac{1}{8}$ in. land spacing. Branch connections made to the inside of the header will be made in the same manner. Fillet welds used in branch connections with localized reinforcement shall follow the same requirements as mentioned above. When saddles are used, all fillet welds made on the reinforcing saddle shall have a span equal to the wall thickness of the saddle used but not greater than the wall thickness of the header. When pads are used, all fillet welds will have a span equal to one-half the thickness of the pad but not less than $\frac{1}{4}$ in.

All fillet welds will have equal leg dimensions and a minimum throat of .707 leg dimension.

History.—§11, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.14 Qualification procedures for welders.—

(1) Welders whose work is limited to the application of the oxy-acetylene or manual arc welding processes on piping operating at hoop stresses of less than 20% of the specified minimum yield strength, shall be qualified under any of the references given in subsection (2).

(2) REQUIREMENTS FOR QUALIFICATION OF PROCEDURES AND WELDERS ON PIPELINES TO OPERATE AT HOOP STRESSES OF TWENTY PER CENT OR MORE OF THE SPECIFIED MINIMUM YIELD STRENGTH.—

(a) Welding procedures and welders performing work under this classification must be qualified by meeting the requirements of §368.07 (2) (g) 2. e.

(b) When welders qualified under §368.07 (2) (g) 2. e. are employed on compressor station piping, their qualifying test shall have been based upon the guided bend test.

(c) For the purposes of this code all carbon steels which have a carbon content not exceeding 0.32% by ladle analysis and a carbon equivalent ($C + \frac{1}{4}Mn$) not exceeding 0.65% by ladle analysis, are considered to come under material grouping P1. Alloy steels having weldability and hardenability characteristics demonstrated to be similar to these carbon steels shall be welded, preheated and stress relieved as prescribed herein for such carbon steels. Other alloy steels shall be welded, preheated, and stress relieved.

(d) Welder requalification tests shall be required if there is some specific reason to question a welder's ability or the welder is not engaged in a given process of welding (i.e., arc or gas) for a period of six months or more.

(e) Records of the tests that establish the qualification of a welding procedure shall be maintained as long as that procedure is in use. The operating company or contractor shall, during the construction involved, maintain a record of the welders qualified, showing the date and results of tests.

History.—§12, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.15 Tests of welders who are limited to work on lines operating at hoop stresses of less than 20% of the specified minimum yield strength.—

(1) An initial test shall qualify a man for work and thereafter his work shall be checked either by requalification at one year intervals or by cutting out and testing production work at least every six months.

(2) The test may be made on pipe of any diameter 12 in. or smaller. The test weld shall be made with the pipe in a horizontal fixed position so that the test weld includes at least one section of overhead position welding.

(3) The beveling, root opening and other details must conform to the procedure specification under which the welder is qualified.

(4) The test weld shall be cut into four coupons and subjected to the root bend test. If, as a result of this test, a crack develops in the weld material or between the weld and base metal more than $\frac{1}{8}$ in. long in any direction, this shall be cause for rejection. Cracks occurring on the corner of the specimen during testing shall not be considered. If no more than one coupon is rejected, the weld is to be considered as acceptable.

(5) Welders who are to make welded service connections to mains should be required to satisfactorily pass the following tests:

(a) Weld a service connection fitting to a pipe section having the same diameter as a typical main. This weld should be made in the same position as this type of weld is made in the field. The weld should be rejected if it shows a serious undercutting or if it has rolled edges.

(b) The weld should be tested by attempting to break the fitting off the run pipe by an available means (knocking off). A sample shall be rejected if the broken weld at the junction of the fitting and run pipe shows incomplete fusion, overlap, or poor penetration.

(6) For the periodic checking of welders who work on small services only (2 in. or smaller in diameter), the following special field test may be employed. This test should not be used as a substitute for the original qualifying test.

(a) Two sample welds made by the welder under test should be taken from steel service pipe. Each sample shall be cut 8 in. long with the weld located approximately in the center. One sample shall have the ends flattened and the entire joint subjected to the tensile strength test. Failure must be in the parent metal and not adjacent to or in the weld metal to be acceptable. The second sample shall be centered in the guided bend testing machine and bent to the contour of the die for a distance of 2 in. on each side of the weld. The sample to be acceptable must show no breaks or cracks after removal from the bending machine.

When a tensile strength testing machine is not available, two bend test samples will be acceptable in lieu of one tension and one bending test.

(7) Personnel who are to work on copper piping should satisfactorily pass the following tests:

(a) A brazed copper bell joint should be made on any size of copper pipe used, with the axis of the pipe stationary and in the horizontal position. The joint so welded is to be sawed open, longitudinally at the top of the pipe. (The top being the uppermost point on the circumference at time joint is brazed.) The joint should be spread apart for examination. The bell end of the joint must be completely bonded. The spigot end of the joint must give evidence that the brazing alloy has reached at least 75% of the total area of the telescoped surfaces. At least 50% of the length at the top of the joint must be joined.

(8) Records shall be kept of the original tests and all subsequent tests conducted on the work of each welder.

History.—§44, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.16 Welding procedure.—

(1) The welding procedure followed during the qualifying tests shall be recorded in detail, and shall be adhered to during subsequent construction.

(2) Welding shall not be done when the quality of the completed weld would be likely to be impaired by the prevailing weather conditions including, but not limited to, airborne moisture, blowing sand, or high wind. Wind shields may be used when practicable.

History.—§13, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.17 Preheating.—

(1) Carbon steels having a carbon content in excess of 0.32% (ladle analysis) or a carbon equivalent ($C + 1/4Mn$) in excess of 0.65% (ladle analysis) shall be preheated. Steels having lower carbon or carbon equivalent may also be preheated when conditions exist that either limit the welding technique that can be used, or that tend to adversely affect the quality of the weld.

(2) When welding dissimilar materials having different preheating requirements, the material requiring the higher preheat shall govern.

(3) Preheating may be accomplished by any suitable method, provided that it is uniform and that the temperature does not fall below the prescribed minimum during the actual welding operations.

(4) The preheating temperature shall be checked by the use of temperature indicating crayons, thermocouple pyrometers or other suitable method to assure that the required preheat temperature is obtained prior to and maintained during the welding operation.

History.—§14, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.18 Stress relieving.—

(1) Carbon steels having a carbon content in excess of 0.32% (ladle analysis) or a carbon equivalent ($C + 1/4 Mn$) in excess of 0.65% (ladle analysis) shall be stress relieved. Stress relieving may also be advisable for steels having lower carbon or carbon equivalent when adverse conditions exist which too rapidly cool the weld.

(2) Welds in all carbon steels shall be stress relieved when the wall thickness exceeds 1-1/4 in.

(3) When the welded joint connects parts that are of different thicknesses but of similar materials, the thickness to be used in applying the rules in subsections (1) and (2) shall be:

(a) The thicker of the two pipes joined.

(b) The thickness of the pipe run or header in case of branch connections, slip-on flanges or socket weld fittings.

(4) In welds between dissimilar materials, if either material requires stress relieving, the joint shall require stress relieving.

(5) All welding of connections and attachments shall be stress relieved when the pipe is required to be stress relieved by the rules of subsection (3) with the following exceptions:

(a) Fillet and groove welds not over 1/2 in. in size (leg) that attach connections not over 2-in. pipe size.

(b) Fillet and groove welds not over 3/8 in. in groove size which attach supporting members or other non-pressure attachments.

(6) STRESS RELIEVING TEMPERATURE.—

(a) Stress relieving shall be performed at a temperature of 1100° F. or over for carbon steels, and 1200° F. or over for ferritic alloy steels. The exact temperature range shall be stated in the procedure specification.

(b) When stress relieving a joint between dissimilar metals having different stress relieving requirements, the material requiring the higher stress relieving temperature shall govern.

(c) The parts heated shall be brought slowly to the required temperature and held at that temperature for a period of time proportioned on the basis of at least 1 hour per in. of pipe wall thickness, but in no case less than 1/2 hour, and shall be allowed to cool slowly and uniformly.

(7) METHODS OF STRESS RELIEVING.—

(a) Heating the complete structure as a unit.

(b) Heating a complete section containing the weld or welds to be stress relieved before attachment to other sections of work.

(c) Heating a part of the work by heating slowly a circumferential band containing the weld at the center. The width of the band which is heated to the required temperature shall be at least 2 in. greater than the width of the weld reinforcement. Care should be used to obtain a uniform temperature around the entire circumference of the pipe. The temperature shall diminish gradually outward from the ends of this band.

(d) Branches, or other welded attachments for which stress relief is required, may be locally stress relieved by heating a circumferential band around the pipe on which the branch or attachment is welded with the attachment at the middle of the band. The width of the band shall be at least 2 in. greater than the diameter of the weld joining the branch or attachment to the header. The entire band shall be brought up to the required temperature and held for the time specified.

(8) EQUIPMENT FOR LOCAL STRESS RELIEVING.—

(a) Stress relieving may be accomplished by: Electric induction, electric resistance, fuel-fired ring burners, fuel-fired torch or other suitable means of heating provided that a uniform temperature is obtained and maintained during the stress relieving.

(b) The stress relieving temperature shall be checked by the use of thermo-couple pyrometers or other suitable equipment to be assured that the proper stress relieving cycle has been accomplished.

History.—§15, ch. 59-304.

Note.*—See note following chapter title.

368.19 Welding inspection and tests.—

(1) INSPECTION OF WELDS ON PIPING SYSTEMS INTENDED TO OPERATE AT LESS THAN 20% OF THE SPECIFIED MINIMUM YIELD STRENGTH.—The quality of welding should be checked visually on a sampling basis, and if there is any reason to believe that the weld is defective, it shall be removed from the line and tested in accordance with the specification or it may be subject to a nondestructive test as outlined in subsection (2).

(2) INSPECTION AND TESTS OF WELDS ON PIPING SYSTEMS INTENDED TO OPERATE AT 20% OR MORE OF THE SPECIFIED MINIMUM YIELD STRENGTH.—

(a) The quality of welding should be check-ed by nondestructive tests or by removing completed welds as selected and designated by the operating company. Nondestructive testing may consist of radiographic examination, magnetic particle testing, or other acceptable methods. The trepanning method of nondestructive testing is prohibited.

(b) When radiographic examination is employed, the number and location of welds examined shall be at the discretion of the operating company.

(c) Completed welds which have been removed for inspection shall, to be acceptable, successfully meet the testing requirements outlined under the welder qualification procedure, and in addition, shall meet the standards of acceptability contained in §368.20.

History.—§16, ch. 59-304.

Note.*—See note following chapter title.

The company may authorize repairs of defects in the root and filler beads, but any weld that shows evidence of repair work having been done without authorization by the company may be rejected.

(b) Minor cracks in the surface and filler beads may be repaired when so authorized by the company, but any crack penetrating the root bead or the second bead shall be cause for complete rejection of the weld. The entire weld shall then be cut from the pipeline and replaced. Minor cracks shall be defined as cracks visible in the surface bead and not over 2 in. in length.

(c) Before repairs are made, injurious defects shall be removed by chipping, grinding, or oxygen gouging to clean metal. All slag and scale shall be removed by wire brushing.

History.—§17, ch. 59-304.

Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.21 Piping system components and fabrication details.—

(1) The purpose of §§368.21-368.26 is to provide a set of standards for piping systems covering:

(a) Specifications for, and selection of, all items and accessories entering into the piping system, other than the pipe itself.

(b) Acceptable methods of making branch connections.

(c) Provisions to be made to care for the effects of temperature changes.

(d) Approved methods for support and anchorage of piping systems, both exposed and buried.

History.—§18, ch. 59-304.

Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.22 Piping system components.—

(1) All components of piping systems, including valves, flanges, fittings, headers, special assemblies, etc., shall be designed to withstand operating pressures, and other specified loadings, with unit stresses not in excess of those permitted for comparable material in pipe in the same location and type of service. Components shall be selected that are designed to withstand the field test pressure to which they will be subjected without failure or leakage, and without impairment of their serviceability.

(a) Valves shall be used only in accordance with the service recommendation of the manufacturer. Valves shall conform to standards governing minimum wall thickness, materials and dimensions, and may be used in accordance with their pressure-temperature ratings.

(b) Screw-end valves shall be threaded according to standard practices.

(c) Pressure-reducing devices shall conform to the requirements of this code for valves in comparable service conditions.

(2) FLANGE TYPES AND FACINGS.—

(a) The dimensions and drilling for all line or end flanges shall conform to standard practices. Flanges cast or forged integral with pipe, fittings or valves will be permitted in sizes and for the maximum service ratings, subject to the facing, bolting and gasketing requirements of this subsection and subsections (3) and (4).

(b) Screwed companion flanges which comply with standard practices will be permitted in allowable sizes and for maximum service ratings.

(c) Lapped flanges will be permitted in acceptable sizes and pressure standards.

(d) Slip-on welding flanges will be permitted in acceptable sizes and pressure standards. Slip-on flanges of rectangular section may be substituted for hubbed slip-on flanges provided the thickness is increased as required to produce equivalent strength.

(e) Welding neck flanges will be permitted in acceptable sizes and pressure standards. The bore of the flange should correspond to the inside diameter of the pipe used.

(f) Cast iron and steel flanges shall have contact faces finished.

(g) Nonferrous flanges shall have contact faces finished.

(h) 25 psi and class 125 cast-iron integral or screwed companion flanges may be used with a full-face gasket or with a flat ring gasket extending to the inner edge of the bolt holes. When using a full-face gasket, the bolting may be of heat-treated carbon steel, or alloy steel. When using a ring gasket, the bolting shall be of carbon steel, grade B, without heat treatment other than stress relief.

(i) When bolting together two class 250 integral or screwed companion cast-iron flanges, having 1/16-in. raised faces, the bolting shall be of carbon steel, grade B, without heat treatment other than stress relief.

(j) 150 psi steel flanges may be bolted to class 125 cast-iron flanges. When such construction is used, the 1/16-in. raised face on the steel flange shall be removed. When bolting such flanges together using a flat ring gasket extending to the inner edge of the bolt holes, the bolting shall be of carbon steel without heat treatment other than stress relief. When bolting such flanges together using a full-face gasket, the bolting may be heat-treated carbon steel or alloy steel.

(k) 300 psi steel flanges may be bolted to class 250 cast-iron flanges. When such construction is used, the bolting shall be of carbon steel, grade B, without heat treatment other than stress relief. The raised face on the steel flange should be removed, but also in this case, bolting shall be of carbon steel equivalent to grade B.

(3) BOLTING.—

(a) Bolts or bolt studs shall extend completely through the nuts. Standard screw threads, coarse thread series, shall govern bolt and nut threads for carbon steel bolting per grade B, and standard screw threads for high-strength bolting shall govern bolt, bolt-stud and nut threads for carbon steel bolting and alloy steel bolting. Bolt heads shall conform to the regular square head or heavy hexagon dimensions and nuts shall conform to the heavy hexagon dimensions for wrench-head bolts and nuts. For all flange joints where pressure exceeds 300 psi and temperatures are in excess of ordinary atmospheric temperature, alloy steel bolting material is recommended, but high strength carbon steel bolting material may be used. Carbon steel bolting grade B may be used for pressure 300 pounds or lower where the temperature does not exceed 450°. Alloy steel bolting material shall be used for insulating flanges, and for flanged piping in compressor stations, where flanges require a rating exceeding 300 pounds. Nuts shall be in accordance with specification for carbon and alloy steel nuts for bolts for high pressure and high temperature service. Nuts cut from bar stock in such a manner that their axis will be parallel to the direction of rolling of the bar may be used in all sizes for joints in which one or both flanges are cast iron and for joints with steel flanges where the pressure does not exceed 250 psi; they shall not be used for joints in which both flanges are steel and the pressure exceeds 250 psi, except for nut sizes 1/2 in. smaller, which are permissible in any case.

(b) 1/8-in. undersize bolting may be used on insulating flanges provided that alloy steel bolting material is used.

(4) GASKETS.—

(a) Material for gaskets shall be capable of withstanding the maximum pressure and of maintaining its physical and chemical properties, at any temperature to which it might reasonably be subjected in service.

(b) Gaskets used under pressure and at temperatures above 250° F. shall be of noncombustible material. Metallic gaskets shall not be used with 150 lb. standard or lighter flanges.

(c) Asbestos composition gaskets may be used as permitted in standard pipe line practices. This type of gasket may be used with any of the various flange facings except small male and female, or small tongue and groove.

(d) The use of metal or metal-jacketed asbestos gaskets (either plain or corrugated) is not limited as to pressure provided that the gasket material is suitable for the service temperature. These types of gaskets are recommended for use with the small male and female or the small tongue and groove facings. They may also be used with steel flanges with any of the following facings; lapped, large male and female, large tongue and groove, or raised face.

(e) Full-face gaskets shall be used with all bronze flanges, and may be used with 25 psi or class 125 cast iron flanges. Flat ring gaskets with an outside diameter extending to the inside of the bolt holes may be used with cast iron flanges, with raised face steel flanges, or with lapped steel flanges.

(f) In order to secure higher unit compression on the gasket, metallic gaskets of a width less than the full male face of the flange may be used with raised face, lapped or large male and female facings. Width of gasket for small male and female or for tongue and groove joints shall be equal to the width of the male face or tongue.

(g) Rings for ring joints shall be 9/16 in. high and 5/16 in. wide. The material for these rings shall be suitable for the service conditions encountered and shall be softer than the flanges.

(h) The insulating material shall be suitable for the temperature, moisture and other conditions where it will be used.

(5) STANDARD FITTINGS.—

(a) The minimum metal thickness of flanged or screwed fittings shall not be less than specified for the pressures and temperatures in standard practices.

(b) Steel butt-welding fittings (not flanged) shall have pressure and temperature ratings based on stresses for pipe of the same or equivalent material. To insure adequacy of fitting design, the actual bursting strength of fittings shall at least equal the computed bursting strength of pipe of the designated material and wall thickness. Mill hydrostatic testing of factory made steel butt-welding fittings is not required, but all such fittings shall be capable of withstanding a field test pressure equal to the test pressure established by the manufacturer, without failure or leakage, and without impairment of their serviceability.

(c) Steel socket-welding fittings shall comply with standards for steel socket-welding fittings.

(6) SPECIAL FITTINGS.—When special cast, forged, wrought, or welded fittings are required to dimensions differing from those of regular shapes, standard dimensions should be adhered to, however, other designs of at least equal strength and tightness and capable of withstanding the same test requirements may be substituted.

(7) BRANCH CONNECTIONS.—

(a) Welded branch connections on steel pipe must meet the design requirements of subsections (9) to (14), inclusive.

(b) Threaded taps in cast iron pipe are permitted, without reinforcement, to a size not more than 25% of the nominal diameter of the pipe, except that 1¼ in. taps are permitted in four in. pipe. Larger taps shall be covered by a reinforcing sleeve.

(c) Mechanical fittings may be used for making hot taps on pipelines and mains; provided they are designed for the operating pressure of the pipeline or main, and are suitable for the purpose.

(8) SPECIAL COMPONENTS FABRICATED BY WELDING.—

(a) This section covers piping system components other than assemblies consisting of standard pipe and fittings joined by circumferential welds.

(b) All welding shall be performed using procedures and operators that are qualified in accordance with the requirements of §368.14.

(c) Branch connections shall meet the design requirements of subsections (9) to (14), inclusive.

(d) The design of other components shall be in accordance with recognized engineering practice and applicable requirements of this code.

(e) Prefabricated units, other than regularly manufactured butt-welding fittings, which employ plate and longitudinal seams as contrasted with pipe that has been produced and tested under one of the specifications listed in this code, shall be designed, constructed and tested under standard practices.

(f) Orange-peel bull plugs and orange-peel swages are prohibited on systems operating at stress levels of 20% or more of the specified minimum yield strength of the pipe material. Fish tails and flat closures are permitted for 3 in. diameter pipe and smaller, operating at less than 100 psi. Fish tails on pipe larger than 3 in. diameter are prohibited.

(g) Every prefabricated unit produced under this section of the code shall successfully withstand a pressure test without failure, leakage, distress or distortion other than elastic distortion, at a pressure equal to the test pressure of the system in which it is installed, either before installation or during the system test. When such units are to be installed in existing systems, they shall be pressure tested before installation, if feasible; otherwise, they shall withstand a leak test at the operating pressure of the line.

(9) GENERAL REQUIREMENTS. — All welded branch connections shall meet the following requirements:

(a) When branch connections are made to pipe in the form of a single connection or in a header or manifold as a series of connections, the design must be adequate to control the stress levels in the pipe within safe limits. The construction shall take cognizance of the stresses in the remaining pipe wall due to the opening in the pipe or header, the shear stresses produced by the pressure acting on the area of the branch opening, and any external loadings due to thermal movement, weight, vibration, etc. The following paragraphs provide design rules for the usual combinations of the above loads, except excessive external loads.

(b) The reinforcement required in the crotch section of a welded branch connection shall be determined by the rule that the metal area available for reinforcement shall be equal to or greater than the required area.

(c) The required cross-sectional area AR is defined as the product of d times t :

$$AR = d \times t$$

where, d = the length of the finished opening in the header wall measured parallel to the axis of the run.

t = the nominal header wall thickness required by §368.28(6) for the design pressure and temperature.

When the pipe wall thickness includes an allowance for corrosion or erosion, all dimensions used shall be those that will result after the anticipated corrosion or erosion has taken place.

(d) The area available for reinforcement shall be the sum of:

1. The cross-sectional area resulting from any excess thickness available in the header thickness (over the minimum required for the header as defined in paragraph (c) of this subsection and which lies within the reinforcement area as defined in paragraph (e) of this subsection.

2. The cross-sectional area resulting from any excess thickness available in the branch wall thickness over the minimum thickness required for the branch and which lies within the reinforcement area as defined in paragraph (e) of this subsection.

3. The cross-sectional area of all added reinforcing metal including weld metal, which is welded to the header wall and lies within the reinforcement area as defined in paragraph (e) of this subsection.

(e) The area of reinforcement is defined as a rectangle whose length shall extend a distance "d" on each side of the transverse centerline of the finished opening and whose width shall extend a distance of $2\frac{1}{2}$ times the header wall thickness on each side of the surface of the header wall, except that in no case shall it extend more than $2\frac{1}{2}$ times the thickness of the branch wall from the outside surface of the header or of the reinforcement, if any.

(f) The material of any added reinforcement shall have an allowable working stress at least equal to that of the header wall, except that material of lower allowable stress may be used if the area is increased in direct ratio of the allowable stresses for header and reinforcement material respectively.

(g) The material used for ring or saddle reinforcement may be of specifications differing from those of the pipe, provided the cross-sectional area is made in correct proportion to the relative strength of the pipe and reinforcement materials at the operating temperatures and provided it has welding qualities comparable to those of the pipe. No credit shall be taken for the additional strength of material having higher strength than that of the part to be reinforced.

(h) When rings or saddles are used which cover the weld between branch and header, a vent hole shall be provided in the ring or saddle to reveal leakage in the weld between branch and header and to provide venting during welding and heat treating operations. Vent holes should be plugged during service to prevent crevice corrosion between pipe and reinforcing member, but no plugging material should be used that would be capable of sustaining pressure within the crevice.

(i) The use of ribs or gussets shall not be considered as contributing to reinforcement of the branch connection. This does not prohibit the use of ribs or gussets for purposes other than reinforcement, such as stiffening.

(j) The branch shall be attached by the weld for the full thickness of the branch or header wall plus a fillet weld "W₁". The use of concave fillet welds is to be preferred to further minimize corner stress concentration. Ring or saddle reinforcement shall be attached. When a full fillet is not used it is recommended that the edge of the reinforcement be relieved or chamfered at approximately 45° to merge with the edge of the fillet.

(k) Reinforcement rings and saddles shall be accurately fitted to the parts to which they are attached.

(l) Branch connections attached at an angle less than 85° to the run become progressively weaker as the angle becomes less. Any such design must be given individual study and sufficient reinforcement must be provided to compensate for the inherent weakness of such construction. The use of encircling ribs to support the flat or re-entering surfaces is permissible, and may be included in the strength calculations. The designer is cautioned that stress concentrations near the ends of partial ribs, straps or gussets may defeat their reinforcing value.

(10) SPECIAL REQUIREMENTS.—In addition to the requirements of subsection (9), branch connections must meet the special requirements for reinforcement of welded branch connections:

Ratio of design hoop stress to minimum specified yield strength in the header	Ratio of nominal branch diameter to nominal header diameter
	Less than 25%	25 to 50%	50% and more
Less than 20%.....	g.	g.	h.
20 to 50%.....	i. d.	i.	i. h.
50% and more.....	c. d. e.	b. e.	a. e. f.

(a) Smoothly contoured wrought steel of proven design are preferred. When tees cannot be used, the reinforcing member shall extend around the circumference of the header. Pads, partial saddles, or other types of localized reinforcement are prohibited.

(b) Smoothly contoured tees of proven design are preferred. When tees are not used, the reinforcing member should be of the complete encirclement type but may be of the pad type, saddle type, or a welding outlet fitting.

(c) The reinforcement member may be of the complete encirclement type, pad type, saddle type, or a welding outlet fitting type. The edges of reinforcement members should be tapered to the header thickness. Legs of fillet welds joining the reinforcement member and header should not exceed the thickness of the header.

(d) Reinforcement calculations are not required for openings 2 in. and smaller in diameter; however, care should be taken to provide suitable protection against vibrations and other external forces to which these small openings are frequently subjected.

(e) All welds joining the header, branch and reinforcing member shall be equivalent to those referred to in §368.13(2).

(f) The inside edges of the finished opening shall, whenever possible, be rounded to a 1/8 in. radius. If the encircling member is thicker than the header and is welded to the header, the ends shall be tapered down to the header thickness and continuous fillet welds made.

(g) Reinforcement of openings is not mandatory, however, reinforcement may be required for special cases involving pressures over 100 psi, thin wall pipe or severe external loads.

(h) If a reinforcement member is required, and the branch diameter is such that a localized type of reinforcement member would extend around more than half the circumference of the header, then a complete encirclement type of reinforcement member shall be used, regardless of the design hoop stress; or a smoothly contoured wrought steel tee of proven design may be used.

(i) The reinforcement may be of any type meeting the requirements of subsection (9).

(11) REINFORCEMENT OF MULTIPLE OPENINGS.—When two or more adjacent branches are spaced at less than two times their average diameter (so that their effective areas of reinforcement overlap) the group of openings shall be reinforced in accordance with subsection (9). The reinforcing metal shall be added as a combined reinforcement, the strength of which shall equal the combined strengths of the reinforcements that would be required for the separate openings. In no case shall any portion of a cross-section be considered to apply to more than one opening, or be evaluated more than once in a combined area.

(12) When more than two adjacent openings are to be provided with a combined reinforcement, the minimum distance between centers of any two of these openings shall preferably be at least 1-1/2 times their average diameter, and the area of reinforcement between them shall be at least equal to 50% of the total required for these two openings on the cross-section being considered.

(13) When two adjacent openings as considered under subsection (12) have the distance between centers less than 1-1/3 times their average diameter, no credit for reinforcement shall be given for any of the metal between these two openings.

(14) Any number of closely spaced adjacent openings, in any arrangement may be reinforced as if the group were treated as one assumed opening of a diameter enclosing all such openings.

History.—§19, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.23 Expansion and flexibility.—

(1) This section is applicable to above ground piping only and covers all classes of materials permitted by this code up to temperatures no greater than 450° F.

(2) AMOUNT OF EXPANSION.—The thermal expansion of the more common materials used for piping shall be determined from the following table:

Thermal expansion of piping materials
Carbon and low alloy
High tensile steel and wrought iron
Temperature degree F.	Total expansion in inches per 100 feet above 32° F.
32	0.
100	0.5
125	0.7
150	0.9
175	1.1
200	1.3
225	1.5
250	1.7
300	2.2
350	2.6
450	3.5

The expansion to be considered is the difference between the expansion for the maximum expected operating temperature and that for the expected average erection temperature. For materials not included in this table, or for precise calculations, reference shall be made to authoritative source data, such as publications of the national bureau of standards.

(3) FLEXIBILITY REQUIREMENTS.—

(a) Piping systems shall be designed to have sufficient flexibility to prevent thermal expansion or contraction from causing excessive stresses in the piping material, excessive bending or unusual loads at joints, or undesirable forces or moments at points of connection to equipment or at anchorage or guide points. Formal calculations shall be required only where reasonable doubt exists as to the adequate flexibility of the system.

(b) Flexibility shall be provided by the use of bends, loops, or offset; or provisions shall be made to absorb thermal changes by the use of expansion joints or couplings of the slip joint type or expansion joints of the bellows type. If expansion joints are used, anchors or ties of sufficient strength and rigidity shall be installed to provide for end forces due to fluid pressure and other causes.

(c) In calculating the flexibility of a piping system the system shall be treated as a whole. The significance of all parts of the line and all restraints, such as solid supports or guides, shall be considered.

(d) Calculations shall take into account stress intensification factors found to exist in components other than plain straight pipe. Credit may be taken for the extra flexibility of such components. In the absence of more directly applicable data, the flexibility factors and stress intensification factors may be used.

(e) Properties of pipe and fittings for these calculations shall be based on nominal dimensions, and the joint factor E shall be taken as 1.00.

(f) The total range in temperature shall be used in all expansion calculations, whether piping is cold-sprung or not. In addition to the expansion of the line itself, the linear and angular movements of the equipment to which it is attached shall be considered.

(g) In order to modify the effect of expansion and contraction, runs of pipe may be cold sprung. Cold spring may be taken into account in the calculations of the reactions as shown in §368.24(5) provided an effective method of obtaining the desired cold spring is specified and used.

(h) Flexibility calculations shall be based on the modulus of elasticity E_c at ambient temperature.

History.—§20, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.24 Combined stress calculations.—

(1) Using the above assumptions, the stresses and reactions due to expansion shall be investigated at all significant points.

(2) The expansion stresses shall be combined in accordance with the following formula:

$$SE = \sqrt{S_b^2 + 4S_t^2}$$

Where $S_b = i M_b / Z$ = Resultant bending stress, psi.

$S_t = M_t / 2Z$ = Torsional stress, psi.

M_b = Resultant bending moment, lb. in.

M_t = Torsional moment, lb. in.

Z = Section modulus of pipe, in.³.

i = Stress intensification factor.

(3) The maximum computed expansion stress range, SE , shall not exceed $0.72S$, where S is the specified minimum yield strength, psi; subject to the further limitation of subsection (4).

(4) The total of the following shall not exceed the specified minimum yield strength, S :

(a) The combined stress due to expansion, SE ,

(b) The longitudinal pressure stress,

(c) The longitudinal bending stress due to external loads, such as weight of pipe and contents, wind, etc.

The sum of the longitudinal pressure stress and the longitudinal bending stress due to external loads shall not exceed 75% of the allowable stress in the hot condition ($S \times F \times T$).

(5) The reactions R' shall be obtained as follows from the reactions R derived from the flexibility calculations:

$R' = (1 - 2/3C_s R)$, when C_s is less than 0.6

$R' = C_s R$, when C_s is between 0.6 and 1.0

Where

C_s = The cold spring factor varying from zero for no cold spring to one for 100% cold spring.

R = Range of reactions corresponding to the full expansion range based on E_c .

E_c = The modulus of elasticity in the cold condition.

R' is maximum reaction for the line after cold-springing.

The reactions so computed shall not exceed limits which the attached equipment or anchorage is designed to sustain.

History.—§21, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.25 Supports and anchorage for exposed piping.—

(1) GENERAL.—Piping and equipment shall be supported in a substantial and workmanlike manner, so as to prevent or damp out excessive vibration, and shall be anchored sufficiently to prevent undue strains on connected equipment.

(2) PROVISION FOR EXPANSION.—Supports, hangers and anchors should be so installed as not to interfere with the free expansion and contraction of the piping between anchors. Suitable spring hangers, sway bracing, etc., shall be provided where necessary.

(3) MATERIALS, DESIGN AND INSTALLATION.—All permanent hangers, supports, and anchors shall be fabricated from durable incombustible materials, and designed and installed in accordance with the good engineering practice for the service conditions involved. All parts of the supporting equipment shall be designed and installed so that they will not be disengaged by movement of the supported piping.

(4) FORCES ON PIPE JOINTS.—

(a) All exposed pipe joints shall be able to sustain the maximum end force due to the internal pressure, i.e., the design pressure (psi) times the internal area of the pipe (sq. in.); as well as any additional forces due to temperature expansion or contraction, or to the weight of pipe and contents.

(b) If compression or sleeve-type couplings are used in exposed piping, provision shall be made to sustain the longitudinal forces noted in paragraph (a) of this subsection. If such provision is not made in the manufacture of the coupling, suitable bracing or strapping shall be provided; but such design must not interfere with the normal performance of the coupling nor with its proper maintenance. Attachments must meet the requirements of subsection (5).

(5) ATTACHMENT OF SUPPORTS OR ANCHORS.—

(a) If the pipe is designed to operate at a hoop stress of less than 50% of the specified minimum yield strength, structural supports or anchors may be welded directly to the pipe. Proportioning and welding strength requirements of such attachments shall conform to standard structural practice.

(b) If the pipe is designed to operate at a hoop stress of 50% or more of the specified minimum yield strength, support of the pipe shall be furnished by a member which completely encircles it. Where it is necessary to provide positive attachment, as at an anchor, the pipe may be welded to the encircling member only; the support shall be attached to the encircling member, and not to the pipe. The connection of the pipe to the encircling member shall be by continuous, rather than intermittent, welds.

History.—§22, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

*368.26 Anchorage for buried pipe.—

(1) GENERAL.—Bends or offsets in buried pipe cause longitudinal forces, which must be resisted by anchorage at the bend, by restraint due to friction of the soil or by longitudinal stresses in the pipe.

(2) ANCHORAGE AT BENDS.—If the pipe is anchored by bearing at the bend, care shall be taken to distribute the load on the soil so that the bearing pressure is within safe limits for the soil involved.

(3) RESTRAINT DUE TO SOIL FRICTION.—Where there is doubt as to the adequacy of anchorage by soil friction, calculations should be made.

(4) FORCES ON PIPE JOINTS.—If anchorage is not provided at the bend, pipe joints which are close to the points of thrust origin shall be designed to sustain the longitudinal pullout force. If such provision is not made in the manufacture of the joint, suitable bracing or strapping shall be provided, unless calculations show the joint to be safe.

(5) SUPPORTS FOR BURIED PIPING.—

(a) In pipelines, especially those which are highly stressed from internal pressure, uniform and adequate support of the pipe in the trench is essential. Unequal settlements may produce added bending stresses in the pipe. Lateral thrusts at branch connections may greatly increase the stresses in the branch connection itself, unless the fill is thoroughly consolidated or other provisions made to resist the thrust.

(b) When openings are made in a consolidated backfill to connect new branches to an existing line, care must be taken to provide firm foundation for both the header and the branch, to prevent both vertical and lateral movements.

(6) INTERCONNECTION OF UNDERGROUND LINES.—Underground lines are subjected to longitudinal stresses due to changes in pressure and temperature. For long lines, the friction of the earth will prevent changes in length from these stresses, except for several hundred feet adjacent to bends or ends. At these locations the movement, if unrestrained, may be of considerable magnitude. If connections are made at such a location to a relatively unyielding line, or other fixed object, it is essential that the interconnection shall have ample flexibility to care for possible movement, or that the line shall be provided with an anchor sufficient to develop the forces necessary to limit the movement.

History.—§23, ch. 59-304.

Note.*—See note following chapter title.

368.27 Design, installation, and testing.—The design requirements of this code are intended to be adequate for public safety under all conditions usually encountered in the gas industry. However, special conditions that may cause additional stress in any part of a line or its appurtenances shall be provided for, using good engineering practice. Examples of such special conditions include: long self-supported spans, unstable ground, mechanical or sonic vibrations, weight of special attachments, and thermal forces other than seasonal.

History.—§24, ch. 59-304.

Note.*—See note following chapter title.

368.28 Steel pipe.—

(1) (a) POPULATION DENSITY INDICES.—Two population density indices, determined at the time of initial construction, are used to classify locations for design and testing purposes: the 1-mile density index, which applies to any specific mile of pipeline; and the 10-mile density index, which applies to any specific 10-mile length of pipeline.

(b) To determine the 1-mile density indices for a proposed pipeline, lay out a zone one-half mile wide along the route of the pipeline on the center line of this zone. Divide the zone into lengths, each containing one mile of pipeline. Count the number of buildings intended for human occupancy in each of these lengths. These numbers are the 1-mile indices for the pipeline.

(c) To determine the 10-mile density indices for any given 10-mile length of pipeline, proceed as follows: Add the 1-mile density indices for the 10-mile section. In case a 1-mile index equals or exceeds 20, it is to be included in the sum as 20. Divide the sum thus obtained by 10. The quotient is the 10-mile density index for the section.

(2) CLASSIFICATION OF LOCATIONS.—

(a) Class 1 locations.—Class 1 locations include waste lands, deserts, rugged mountains grazing land, and farm land, and combinations of these; provided, however, that:

1. The 10-mile density index for any section of the line is 12 or less.

2. The 1-mile density index for any one mile of line is 20 or less. It is not intended here that a full mile of lower-stress-level pipeline shall be installed if there are physical barriers or other factors that will limit the further expansion of the more densely populated area to a total distance of less than 1 mile. It is intended, however, that where no such barriers exist, ample allowance shall be made in determining the limits of the lower-stress design to provide for probable further development in the area.

(b) Class 2 locations.—Class 2 locations include areas where the degree of development is intermediate between class 1 locations and class 3 locations. Fringe areas around cities and towns, and farm or industrial areas where the 1-mile density index exceeds 20 or the 10-mile density index exceeds 12 fall within this location class.

(c) Class 3 locations.—Class 3 locations include areas subdivided for residential or commercial purposes where, at the time of construction of the pipeline or piping system, 10% or more of the lots abutting on the street or right of way in which the pipe is to be located are built upon, and a class 4 classification is not called for. This permits classifying as class 3, areas completely occupied by commercial or residential buildings with the prevalent height of 3 stories or less.

(d) Class 4 locations.—Class 4 locations include areas where multistory buildings are prevalent, and where traffic is heavy or dense and where there may be numerous other utilities underground. Multistory means 4 or more "floors" above ground including the first or ground floor. The depth of basements or number of basement floors is immaterial.

(e) Definitions.—"Location class" (1, 2, 3 or 4) is defined as the general description of a geographic area having certain characteristics as a basis for prescribing the types of construction and methods of testing to be used in those locations or in areas that are respectively comparable. A numbered location-class refers to the geography of that location or a similar area, and does not necessarily indicate that a correspondingly numbered construction-type will suffice for all construction in that particular location or area. Example: In location class 1, all aerial crossings require type B construction.

(f) When classifying locations for the purpose of determining the type of pipeline construction and testing that should be prescribed, due consideration shall be given to the possibility of future development of the area. If at the time of planning a new pipeline this future development appears likely to be sufficient to change the location class, this should be taken into consideration in the design and testing of the proposed pipeline.

(g) It is also anticipated that some increase in population density will occur in all areas after a line is constructed, and this possibility has been taken into account in establishing the design, construction, and testing procedures for each location class.

(3) CLASSIFICATION OF STEEL PIPE CONSTRUCTION.—It is necessary to distinguish between construction types, as defined in this subsection, and location classes, as defined in subsection (2). If pipelines or mains are located in private rights of way, the code prescribes that type A construction be used in class 1 locations, type B construction in class 2 locations, type C construction in class 3 locations, and type D construction in class 4 locations. There are many exceptions to this association of class 1 with type A, etc., however, as defined in this subsection, most of which are cases where pipelines or mains are located in highways or on bridges, etc. Four types of steel pipe construction are prescribed in this code. The distinguishing characteristics of each type and the locations in which each type shall be used are as follows:

(a) Type A construction.—

1. Characteristics: Design factor $F = .72$
2. Locations where type of construction shall be used:
 - a. On private rights of way in class 1 locations.

e. On bridges in class 1 and class 2 locations.

f. Fabricated assemblies in pipelines in location classes 1 and 2.

1. Characteristics: Design factor $F = .50$

a. On private rights of way in class 3 locations.

Privately owned roads in class 3 locations.

Unimproved public roads in class 3 locations.

Hard-surfaced roads, highways or public streets and railroads in class 3 locations.

Hard-surfaced roads, highways or public streets and railroads in class 2 and 3 locations.

d. Compressor station piping.

(d) Type D construction.—

1. Characteristics: Design factor $F = .40$
2. Locations where type of construction shall be used:

a. In all locations in location class 4.

(6) STEEL PIPE DESIGN FORMULA.—
The design pressure for steel gas piping systems or the nominal wall thickness for a given design pressure shall be determined by the following formula:

$$P = \frac{2St}{D} \times F \times E \times T$$

Where:

P = Design pressure, psig

S = Specified minimum yield strength, psi stipulated in the specifications under which the pipe was purchased from the manufacturer or determined in accordance with §368.07(2)(g)2. h.

(10) LIMITATIONS OF PIPE DESIGN VALUES.—

(a) P for furnace butt welded pipe shall not exceed the restrictions of subsection (6) or 60% of the mill test pressure, whichever is lesser.

(b) P shall not exceed 85% of the mill test pressure for all other pipes; provided, however, that pipe, mill tested to a pressure less than 85% of the pressure required to produce a stress equal to the specified minimum yield, may be retested with a mill type hydrostatic test or tested in place after installation. In the event the pipe is retested to a pressure in excess of the mill test pressure, then P shall not exceed 85% of the retest pressure rather than the initial mill test pressure. It is mandatory to use a liquid as the test medium in all tests in place after installation where the test pressure exceeds the mill test pressure. This subsection is not to be construed to allow an operating pressure or design pressure in excess of that provided for by subsection (6).

(c) Transportation, installation or repair of pipes shall not reduce the wall thickness at any point to a thickness less than 90% of the nominal wall thickness as determined by subsection (6) for the design pressure to which the pipe is to be subjected.

If threaded pipe is to be used in those sizes for which least nominal wall thicknesses are given for "plain end pipe only," those sizes marked by (*) shall be increased as follows: 2 1/2" to 0.203, 3" to 0.216, 3 1/2" to 0.226, 4" to 0.237, 5" to 0.258, and add 0.100 inch to all other wall thicknesses given in this table.

(e) When pipe that has been cold worked for the purpose of meeting the specified minimum yield strength is heated to 600°F. or higher (welding excepted), the maximum allowable pressure at which it can be used shall not exceed 75% of the value obtained by use of the steel pipe design formula given in subsection (6).

(f) In no case where the code refers to the specified minimum value of a physical property can the actual value of the property be substituted in design calculations, unless the actual is less than the specified minimum.

(11) FABRICATED ASSEMBLIES.—When fabricated assemblies, such as connections for separators, main line valve assemblies, cross-connections, river crossing headers, etc., are to be installed in areas defined as location class 1, type B construction is required throughout the assembly, and for a distance of 5 pipe diameters in each direction beyond the last fittings. Transition pieces at the end of an assembly and elbows used in place of pipe bends are not considered as fittings under the requirements of this subsection.

(12) Pipelines or mains supported by railroad, vehicular, pedestrian, or pipeline bridges shall be in accordance with the construction type prescribed for the area in which the bridge is located, except that in class 1 locations type B construction shall be used.

(13) PROTECTION OF PIPELINES AND MAINS FROM HAZARDS.—When pipelines and mains must be installed where they will be subjected to natural hazards, such as washouts, floods, unstable soil, land slides, or other conditions which may cause serious movement of, or abnormal loads on the pipeline, reasonable precaution shall be taken to protect the pipeline, such as increasing the wall thickness, constructing revetments, erosion prevention, installing anchors, etc. Where pipelines and mains are exposed, such as at spans, trestles, and bridge crossings, the pipelines and mains shall be reasonably protected by distance or barricades from accidental damage by vehicular traffic or other causes.

(14) COVER AND CASING REQUIREMENTS UNDER RAILROADS, ROADS, STREETS OR HIGHWAYS.—

(a) All buried pipelines, mains, and casings when used, shall be installed with a minimum cover of 24 in. unless otherwise provided herein.

(b) Buried pipelines and mains operating at hoop stresses of less than 20% of the specified minimum yield strength and located within private rights of way, private thoroughfares, sidewalks or parkways may be installed with less than the minimum cover of 24 in. if it appears that external damage to the pipe will not be likely to result.

(c) Abandoned pipe having a cover less than 24 in. may be used as a casing or conduit for pipelines and mains operating at hoop stresses less than 20% of the specified minimum yield strength.

(d) Buried pipelines and mains installed in areas where farming or other operations might result in deep plowing, or in thoroughfares or other locations where grading is done, or where the area is subject to erosion, should be provided with more cover than the minimum otherwise required.

(e) Where it is impractical to comply with the provisions of paragraph (a) and it is necessary to prevent damage from external loads, the pipe shall be cased or bridged.

(f) Casings shall be designed to withstand the superimposed loads. Where there is a possibility of moisture entering the casing, the ends of the casing shall be sealed. If the end sealing is of a type that will retain the full pressure of the pipe, the casing shall be designed for the same pressure as the pipe but according to type A construction requirements. Venting of sealed casings is not mandatory; however, if vents are installed they should be protected from the weather to prevent moisture from entering the casing.

(15) CLEARANCE BETWEEN PIPELINES OR MAINS AND OTHER UNDERGROUND STRUCTURES.—The clearance between any gas main or pipeline and any other underground structure not used in conjunction with the pipeline or main shall be as much as the physical circumstances permit but in no event shall such clearance be less than 6 in. for electrical conduit. When this clearance cannot be attained, other suitable precautions to protect the pipe shall be taken, such as the installation of insulating material, installation of casing, etc.

(16) CORROSION FACTORS FOR DESIGN OF STEEL PIPELINES, AND MAINS.—

(a) The design procedures prescribed by this code for pipelines and mains are applicable without modification only when the gas transported is substantially noncorrosive; and the soil in which the pipeline is installed is either substantially noncorrosive, or suitable steps are taken to mitigate external corrosion.

(b) If a corrosive gas is to be transported, or if suitable means of preventing external corrosion in corrosive soils are not to be provided, the thickness of the pipe shall be increased to provide an allowance for corrosion. The minimum corrosion allowances to be provided in any such case shall not be less than .05 in. for external corrosion and .075 in. for internal corrosion. If both external and internal corrosion are to be expected, add both allowances.

(c) If the thickness obtained by adding the required allowances to the thickness computed by steel pipe design formula equation does not exceed the least allowable wall thickness prescribed in subsection (10) (d) at least the thickness given in that table shall be used.

(d) If the maximum hoop stress due to gas pressure is less than 20% of the specified minimum yield strength, allowance for corrosion is not mandatory. However, the installation in corrosive soil of unprotected pipe with wall thickness as thin as permitted by subsection (10) (d) is not recommended even for low-pressure distribution systems.

(17) INTERNAL CORROSION CRITERIA.—

(a) For the purpose of this code, any fuel gas of commercial grade, the water dew point of which is at all times below pipeline temperature, shall be considered to be substantially noncorrosive unless experience with it has indicated otherwise.

(b) Some fuel gases may be substantially noncorrosive even though their water dew point exceeds pipeline temperatures. Such gas shall, however, be assumed to be noncorrosive only if proven so by careful tests or experience.

(18) EXTERNAL CORROSION CRITERIA.—Suitable investigation shall be made, and if it indicates that protection from external corrosion is needed, steel pipelines or mains shall be protected by any recognized method or combination of methods, such as coating with protective material, application of cathodic protection, and electrical bonding or isolation of sections.

(19) CONSTRUCTION SPECIFICATIONS.—All construction work performed on piping systems in accordance with the requirements of this code shall be done under construction specifications. The construction specifications shall cover all phases of the work and should be in sufficient detail to cover the requirements of this code.

(20) INSPECTION PROVISIONS.—The operating company shall make provision for suitable inspection. Inspectors shall be qualified by either experience or training.

(21) The installation inspection provisions for pipelines and other facilities to operate at hoop stresses of 20% or more of the specified minimum yield strength should be adequate either to make possible the following inspections or to do other things that will assure a comparable degree of control of quality of workmanship.

(a) Inspect the surface of the pipe for serious surface defects just prior to the coating operation.

(b) Inspect the surface of the coated pipe as it is lowered into the ditch to find coating lacerations that indicate the pipe might have been damaged after being coated. Damage during the lowering-in process should be found during this inspection.

(c) Inspect the fit-up of the joints before the weld is made.

(d) Visually inspect the stringer beads before subsequent beads are applied.

(e) Inspect the completed welds before they are covered with coating.

(f) Inspect the condition of the ditch bottom just before the pipe is lowered in.

(g) Inspect the fit of the pipe to the ditch before backfilling.

(h) Inspect all repairs, replacements or changes ordered before they are covered up.

(i) Perform such special tests and inspections as are required by the specifications, such as the radiographing of a portion of the welds and the electrical testing of the protective coating.

(22) The inspector shall have authority to order the removal and replacement of any section that fails to meet the standards of this code.

(23) BENDS, ELBOWS, AND MITERS IN STEEL PIPELINES AND MAINS.—Changes in direction may be made by the use of bends, elbows, or miters under the following limitations:

(a) The bends shall be free from buckling, cracks or other evidence of mechanical damage. For field cold bends on sizes 12 in. and larger, the longitudinal axis of the pipe shall not be deflected more than 1-1/2 degree in any length along the pipe axis equal to the diameter of the pipe. All bends other than wrinkle bends shall not have a difference between the maximum and minimum diameters in excess of 2.5% of the nominal diameter.

(b) When a circumferential weld occurs in a bend section, it shall be subjected to radiographic examination after bending.

(c) Hot bends made on cold bending or heat treated pipe shall be designed for lower stress levels in accordance with subsection (10) (e).

(d) Cold wrinkle bends are permitted, but not preferred on systems operating at 40% or more of the specified minimum yield strength. When wrinkle bends are made in welded pipe, the longitudinal weld shall be located as nearly to 90° with the top of the wrinkle as conditions will permit. Hot wrinkle bends are prohibited in cold worked pipe if the strength induced by cold work is needed to keep within the code design limits. Wrinkle bends with sharp kinks will not be permitted. Wrinkles shall have a spacing of not less than the distance equal to the diameter of the pipe measured along the crotch. On pipe 16 in. and larger the wrinkle shall not produce an angle of more than 1-1/2 degrees per wrinkle.

(e) The longitudinal weld of the pipe shall preferably be near the neutral axis of the bend.

(f) Mitered bends are permitted subject to the following limitations:

1. In systems intended to operate at 40% or more of the specified minimum yield strength, mitered bends are not permitted. Deflections caused by misalignment up to 3° are not considered as miters.

2. In systems intended to operate at 10% but less than 40% of the specified minimum yield strength, the total deflection angle at each miter shall not exceed 12-1/2°.

3. In systems intended to operate at less than 10% of the specified minimum yield strength, the total deflection angle at each miter shall not exceed 90°.

4. In systems intended to operate at 10% or more of the specified minimum yield strength, the minimum distance between miters measured at the crotch shall not be less than one pipe diameter.

5. Care shall be taken in making mitered joints to provide proper spacing and alignment and full penetration.

(g) Factory made wrought steel welding elbows or transverse segments cut therefrom may be used for changes in direction provided that the arc length measured along the crotch is at least 1 in. on pipe sizes 2 in. and larger.

(24) PIPE SURFACE REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO PIPELINES AND MAINS TO OPERATE AT A HOOP STRESS OF TWENTY PER CENT OR MORE OF THE SPECIFIED MINIMUM YIELD STRENGTH.—Gouges, grooves, and notches have been found to be very important causes of pipeline failures and all harmful defects of this nature must be prevented or eliminated. Precautions shall be taken during manufacture, hauling, and installation to prevent the gouging or grooving of pipe.

(25) DETECTION OF GOUGES AND GROOVES.—

(a) The field inspection provided on each job shall be suitable to reduce to an acceptable minimum the chances that gouged or grooved pipe will get into the finished pipeline or main. Inspection for this purpose just ahead of the coating operation and during the lowering-in and back-fill operation should be completed.

(b) When pipe is coated, inspection shall be made to determine that the coating machine does not cause harmful gouges or grooves.

(c) Lacerations of the protective coating should be carefully examined to see if the pipe surface has been damaged.

(26) FIELD REPAIR OF GOUGES AND GROOVES.—

(a) Injurious gouges or grooves shall be removed.

(b) They may be removed by grinding, provided that the resulting wall thickness is not less than the minimum prescribed by this code for the conditions of usage.

(c) When the conditions outlined in paragraph (b) cannot be met, the damaged portion of pipe shall be cut out as a cylinder and replaced with a good piece. Insert patching is prohibited.

(27) DENTS.—Dents cause serious stress concentrations in pipelines. Dents that are more than 1/4 in. deep, measured as the gap between the lowest point of the dent and a prolongation of the original contour of the pipe in any direction are considered harmful, and shall be removed from pipelines or mains intended to operate at 50% or more of the specified minimum yield strength. Removal of dents in the field shall be done by cutting out a cylindrical section of a pipe and not by insert-patching or pounding out the dent.

(28) ARC BURNS.—Arc burns have been found to cause serious stress concentration in pipelines of grades 5LX or equal and shall be prevented or eliminated in all lines corresponding to these specifications intended to operate at 50% or more of the specified minimum yield strength.

(29) ELIMINATION OF ARC BURNS.—The metallurgical notch caused by arc burns shall be removed by grinding, provided the grinding does not reduce the remaining wall thickness to less than the minimum prescribed by this code for the conditions of use. In all other cases repair is prohibited and the portion of pipe containing the arc burn must be cut out as a cylinder and replaced with a good piece. Insert-patching is prohibited. Complete removal of the metallurgical notch created by an arc burn can be determined as follows: After visible evidence of the arc burn has been removed by grinding, swab the ground area with a 20% solution of ammonium persulfate. A blackened spot is evidence of a metallurgical notch and indicates that additional grinding is necessary.

(30) APPLICATION AND INSPECTION OF PROTECTIVE COATINGS FOR UNDERGROUND PIPE.—

(a) Protective coatings for underground piping shall be applied in accordance with either the coating manufacturer's recommendations or the company's coating specifications for the particular conditions encountered. These recommendations or specifications shall also cover the patching of damaged spots, the coating of joints, short lengths of pipe and fittings coated in the field.

(b) Crews that apply protective coatings shall be suitably instructed and provided with all the equipment necessary to accomplish their work in a satisfactory manner.

(c) The protective coating shall be inspected and tested either completely or on a sampling basis using a recognized "flaw detector" before or after backfilling.

(31) ELECTRICAL TEST LEADS FOR CORROSION CONTROL OR ELECTROLYSIS TESTING ON PIPELINES OR MAINS TO OPERATE AT TWENTY PER CENT OR MORE OF THE SPECIFIED MINIMUM YIELD STRENGTH.—

(a) When electrical test leads for corrosion control or electrolysis testing are required, care should be exercised in their installation, particularly on pipelines that are stressed to near the maximum stress levels permitted by this code, to avoid stress concentration.

(b) The brazing of electrical test leads directly onto the pipe is prohibited.

(c) All tests lead connections and all bare leads shall be protected by coating and/or wrapping.

(32) HANDLING, HAULING AND STRINGING.—Care should be taken in the selection of the handling equipment and in handling, hauling, unloading, and placing the pipe so as not to damage the pipe.

(33) INSTALLATION OF PIPE IN THE DITCH.—On pipelines operating at stresses of 20% or more of the specified minimum yield strength, it is very important that stresses induced into the pipeline by construction be minimized. This includes grading the ditch so that the pipe has a firm substantially continuous bearing on the bottom of the ditch. The pipe shall fit the ditch without the use of external force to hold it in place until the backfill is completed. When long sections of pipe that have been welded alongside the ditch are lowered in, care shall be exercised so as not to jerk the pipe or impose any strains that may kink or put a permanent bend in the pipe. Slack loops are not prohibited by this paragraph where laying conditions render their use advisable.

(34) BACKFILLING.—

(a) Backfilling should be performed in a manner to provide firm support under the pipe.

(b) If there are large rocks in the material to be used for backfill, care should be used to prevent damage to the coating, by such means as the use of rock shield material, or by making the initial fill with rock free material to a sufficient depth over the pipe to prevent rock damage.

(c) Where flooding of the trench is done to consolidate the backfill, care shall be exercised to see that the pipe is not floated from its firm bearing on the trench bottom.

(35) HOT TAPS.—All hot taps shall be installed by trained and experienced crews.

(36) PRECAUTIONS TO AVOID EXPLOSIONS OF GAS-AIR MIXTURES OR UNCONTROLLED FIRES DURING CONSTRUCTION

OPERATIONS.—Operations such as gas or electric welding and cutting with cutting torches can be safely performed on pipelines and mains and auxiliary equipment provided that they are completely full of gas, or air that is free from combustible material. Steps shall be taken to prevent a mixture of gas and air at all points where such operations are to be performed.

(37) When a pipeline or main can be kept full of gas during a welding or cutting operation, the following procedures shall be exercised:

(a) Keep a slight flow of gas moving toward the point where cutting or welding is being done.

(b) The gas pressure at the site of the work shall be controlled by suitable means.

(c) Close all slots or open ends immediately after they are cut, with tape, and/or tightly fitted canvas or other suitable material.

(d) Do not permit two openings to remain uncovered at the same time. This is doubly important if the two openings are at different elevations.

(38) No welding or acetylene cutting should be done on a pipeline, main or auxiliary apparatus that contains air if it is connected to a source of gas, unless a suitable means has been provided to prevent the leakage of gas into the pipeline or main.

(39) In situations where welding or cutting must be done on facilities which are filled with air and connected to a source of gas and the above precautions cannot be taken, one or more of the following precautions, depending upon circumstances at the job, should be exercised:

(a) Purging of the pipe or equipment upon which welding or cutting is to be done, with combustible gas or inert gas.

(b) Testing of the atmosphere in the vicinity of the zone to be heated before the work is started and at intervals as the work progresses, with a combustible gas indicator or by other suitable means.

(c) Careful verification before the work starts that the valves that isolate the work from a source of gas do not leak.

(40) PURGING OF PIPELINES AND MAINS.—

(a) When a pipeline or main full of air is placed in service, the air in it can be safely displaced with gas provided that a moderately rapid and continuous flow of gas is introduced at one end of the line and the air is vented out the other end. The gas flow should be continued without interruption until the vented gas is free from air. The vent should then be closed.

(b) In cases where gas in a pipeline or main is to be displaced with air and the rate at which air can be supplied to the line is too small to make a procedure similar to, but the reverse of that described in paragraph (a) feasible, a slug of inert gas should be introduced to prevent the formation of an explosive mixture at the interface between gas and air. Nitrogen or carbon dioxide can be used for this purpose.

(c) If a pipeline or main containing gas is to be removed, the operation may be carried out in accordance with subsection (37) or the line may be first disconnected from all sources of gas and then thoroughly purged with air, water or with inert gas before any further cutting or welding is done.

(d) If a gas pipeline or main or auxiliary equipment is to be filled with air after having been in service and there is a reasonable possibility that the inside surfaces of the facility are wetted with a volatile inflammable liquid, or if such liquids might have accumulated in low places, purging procedures designed to meet this situation shall be used. Steaming of the facility until all combustible liquids have been evaporated and swept out is recommended. Filling of the facility with an inert gas and keeping it full of such gas during the progress of any work that might ignite an explosive mixture in the facility is an alternative recommendation. The possibility of striking static sparks within the facility must not be overlooked as a possible source of ignition.

(41) Whenever the accidental ignition in the open air of a gas-air mixture might be likely to cause personal injury or property damage, precautions shall be taken as, for example: prohibit smoking and open flames in the area, and install a metallic bond around the location of cuts in gaspipes to be made by other means than cutting torches, and take precautions to prevent static electricity sparks, and provide a fire extinguisher.

(42) TESTING AFTER CONSTRUCTION.—All pipelines, mains and services shall be tested after construction, except: Tie-ins. Because it is sometimes necessary to divide a pipeline or main into test sections and install test heads, connecting piping, and other necessary appurtenances for testing, it is not required that the tie-in sections of pipe be tested.

(43) TEST REQUIRED TO PROVE STRENGTH OF PIPELINES AND MAINS TO OPERATE AT HOOP STRESSES OF THIRTY PER CENT OF MORE OF THE SPECIFIED MINIMUM YIELD STRENGTH OF THE PIPE.—All pipelines and mains to be operated at a hoop stress of 30% or more of the specified minimum yield strength of the pipe shall be given a field test to prove strength after construction and before being placed in operation.

(a) Pipelines and mains located in location class 1 shall be tested either with air or gas to 1.1 times the maximum operating pressure or hydrostatically to at least 1.1 times the maximum operating pressure.

(b) Pipelines or mains located in location class 2 shall be tested either with air to 1.25 times the maximum operating pressure or hydrostatically to at least 1.25 times the maximum operating pressure.

(c) Pipelines and mains in location classes 3 and 4 shall be tested hydrostatically to a pressure not less than 1.4 times the maximum operating pressure.

(d) The test requirements for pipelines and mains to operate at hoop stresses of 30% or more of the specified minimum yield strength of the pipe are:

1 Location class	2 Permissible test fluid	3 4 Prescribed test pressure		5 Maximum allowable operating pressure the lesser of
		Minimum	Maximum
1	Water	1.1 × m.o.p.	None	t.p. ÷ 1.1
	Air	1.1 × m.o.p.	1.1 × d.p.	or
	Gas	1.1 × m.o.p.	1.1 × d.p.	d.p.
2	Water	1.25 × m.o.p.	None	t.p. ÷ 1.25
	Air	1.25 × m.o.p.	1.25 × d.p.	or d.p.
3	Water	1.40 × m.o.p.	None	t.p. ÷ 1.40
4	Water	1.40 × m.o.p.	None	or d.p. t.p. ÷ 1.40

m.o.p. = maximum operating pressure (not necessarily the maximum allowable operating pressure)

d.p. = design pressure

t.p. = test pressure

This table brings out the relationships between test pressures and maximum allowable operating pressures subsequent to the test. If an operating company decides that the maximum operating pressure will be less than the design pressure a corresponding reduction in prescribed test pressure may be made as indicated in column 3. However, if this reduced test pressure is used the maximum operating pressure cannot later be raised to the design pressure without retesting the line to the test pressure prescribed in column 4.

(44) Requirements of subsection (43) (c) for hydrostatic testing of mains and pipelines in location classes 3 and 4 do not apply if at the time the pipeline or main is first ready for test, one or both of the following conditions exist:

(a) The ground temperature at pipe depth is 32° F. or less, or might fall to that temperature before the hydrostatic test could be completed, or

(b) Water of satisfactory quality is not available in sufficient quantity.

(c) In such cases an air test to 1.1 times the maximum operating pressure shall be made and the limitations on operating pressure imposed by subsection (43) (d) do not apply.

(45) Other provisions of this code notwithstanding, pipelines and mains crossing highways and railroads may be tested in each case in the same manner and to the same pressure as the pipeline on each side of the crossing.

(46) Other provisions of this code notwithstanding, fabricated assemblies, including mainline valve assemblies, cross connections, river crossing headers, etc., installed in pipelines in class 1 locations and designed in accordance with type B construction, as required in subsection (11), may be tested as required for class 1 locations.

(47) Notwithstanding the limitations on air testing imposed in subsection (43)(c), air testing may be used in location classes 3 and 4, provided that all of the following conditions apply:

(a) The maximum hoop stress during test is less than 50% of the specified minimum yield strength in class 3 locations, and less than 40% of the specified minimum yield strength in class 4 locations.

(b) The maximum pressure at which the pipeline or main is to be operated does not exceed 80% of the maximum field test pressure used.

(c) The pipe involved is new pipe having a longitudinal joint factor E in subsection (8) of 1.00.

(48) RECORDS.—The operating company shall maintain in its file for the useful life of each pipeline and main, records showing the type of fluid used for test and the test pressure.

(49) TESTS REQUIRED TO PROVE STRENGTH FOR PIPELINES AND MAINS TO OPERATE AT LESS THAN THIRTY PER CENT OF THE SPECIFIED MINIMUM YIELD STRENGTH OF THE PIPE, BUT IN EXCESS OF ONE HUNDRED PSI.—Steel piping that is to operate at stresses less than 30% of the specified minimum yield strength but in excess of 100 psi in location classes 2, 3 and 4 shall be tested to at least 1.5 times the maximum operating pressure. The test medium used may be water, air or gas; provided, however, that no medium shall be used to a higher hoop stress during the test than the maximums set forth as follows:

Location class Test medium	Maximum hoop stress permissible during test Per cent of specified Minimum yield strength
	1	2	3	4
Water	No max.	No max.	No max.	No max.
Air	79.2	75	50	40
Gas	79.2	30	30	30

(50) LEAK TESTS FOR PIPELINES OR MAINS TO OPERATE AT ONE HUNDRED PSI OR MORE.—Each pipeline and main shall be tested after construction and before being placed in operation to demonstrate that it does not leak. If the test indicates that a leak exists, the leak or leaks shall be located and eliminated, unless it can be determined that no undue hazard to public safety exists.

(a) The test procedure used shall be capable of disclosing all leaks in the section being tested and shall be selected after giving due consideration to the volumetric content of the section and to its location.

(b) In all cases where a line is to be stressed in a strength-proof test to 20% or more of the specified minimum yield strength of the pipe, and gas or air is the test medium, a leak test shall be made at a pressure in the range from 100 psi to that required to produce a hoop stress of 20% of the minimum specified yield, or the line shall be walked while the hoop stress is held at approximately 20% of the specified minimum yield.

(51) LEAK TESTS FOR PIPELINES AND MAINS TO OPERATE AT LESS THAN ONE HUNDRED PSI.—At the time of or prior to placing in operation distribution mains and related equipment to operate at less than 100 psi, they shall be tested to determine that they are gas-tight.

(a) Gas may be used as the test medium at the maximum pressure available in the distribution system at the time of the test. In this case the soap bubble test may be used to locate leaks if all joints are accessible during the test.

(b) Testing at available distribution system pressures as provided for in paragraph (a) may not be adequate if substantial protective coatings are used that would seal a split pipe seam. If such coatings are used the leak test pressure shall be 100 psi.

(52) SAFETY DURING TESTS.—All testing of pipelines and mains after construction shall be done with due regard for the safety of employees and the public during the test. When air or gas is used, suitable steps shall be taken to keep persons not working on the testing operations out of the testing area during the period in which the hoop stress is first raised from 50% of the specified minimum yield to the maximum test stress, and until the pressure is reduced to the maximum operating pressure.

(5) CAST IRON PIPE JOINTS.—

(a) Caulked bell and spigot joints.—Dimensions for caulked bell and spigot joints shall conform to the standard practices. This type of joint shall not be used for pressures in excess of 25 psig, unless reinforced with mechanical clamps.

(b) Mechanical joints.—Mechanical joints shall utilize gaskets made of resilient material as their sealing medium. The material selected for gaskets shall be of a type not adversely affected by the gas or condensates in the main. The gaskets shall be suitably confined and retained under compression by a separate gland or follower ring.

(c) Threaded joints.—The use of threaded joints to couple lengths of cast iron pipe is not recommended.

(d) Flanged joints.—The dimensions and drilling for flanges shall conform to the cast iron pipe flanges and flanged fittings series. Flanges shall be cast integrally with fittings or valves.

(e) Special joints.—Special joints are not prohibited provided they are properly qualified and utilized in accordance with appropriate provisions of this code.

(6) INSTALLATION OF CAST IRON PIPE.—Underground cast iron pipe shall be laid in accordance with the applicable field conditions.

(7) Underground cast iron pipe shall be installed with a minimum cover of 24 in. unless prevented by other underground structures.

(8) Where sufficient cover cannot be provided to protect the pipe from external loads or damage and the pipe is not designed to withstand such external loads, the pipe shall be cased or bridged to protect the pipe.

(9) Cast iron pipe installed in unstable soils shall be provided with suitable supports.

(10) Suitable harnessing or buttressing shall be provided at points where the main deviates from a straight line and the thrust if not restrained would part the joints.

(11) MARKING AND TESTING OF FIELD JOINTS.—

(a) Cast iron pipe joints shall conform to subsection (5), and shall be assembled in accordance with the manufacturer's written recommendations.

(b) Cast iron pipe joints shall be leak tested in accordance with §368.28(51).

History.—§26, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.30 Compressor stations.—

(1) LOCATION OF COMPRESSOR BUILDING.—The main compressor building for gas compressor stations should be located at such clear distances from adjacent property not under control of the company as to minimize the hazard of communication of fire to the compressor building from structures on adjacent property. Sufficient open space should be provided around the building to permit the free movement of fire-fighting equipment.

(2) BUILDING CONSTRUCTION.—All compressor station buildings which house gas piping in sizes larger than 2 in. in diameter, or equipment handling gas (except equipment for domestic purposes) shall be constructed of noncombustible materials.

(3) EXITS.—A minimum of two exits shall be provided for each operating floor of a main compressor building and basements and any elevated walkway or platform 10 ft. or more above ground or floor level. Individual engine catwalks shall not require two exits. These exits may be fixed ladders, stairways, etc., of each such building. The maximum distance from any point on an operating floor to an exit shall not exceed 75 ft. measured along the centerline of aisles or walkways. Said exits shall be unobstructed doorways so located as to provide a convenient possibility of escape and shall provide unobstructed passage to a place of safety. Door latches shall be of a type which can be readily opened from the inside, without a key. All swinging doors located in an exterior wall shall swing outward.

(4) FENCED AREAS.—Any fence which may hamper or prevent escape of persons from the vicinity of a compressor station in an emergency shall be provided with a minimum of two gates. These gates shall be so located as to provide a convenient opportunity for escape to a place of safety. Any such gates located within 200 ft. of any compressor plant building shall open outward and shall be unlocked (or openable from the inside without a key) when the area within the enclosure is occupied. Alternatively, other facilities affording a similarly convenient exit from the area may be provided.

(5) ELECTRICAL FACILITIES.—All electrical facilities inside, and within 25 ft. of the outside, of any compressor building, meter or regulator building or any other building in which gas is continuously handled, by an operating company, gauge and instrument lines excepted, at pressures in excess of 50 psig, shall conform to class 1 group D requirements insofar as it is possible with commercially available equipment. All other buildings on compressor station property (except residences) shall be wired with rigid conduit.

(6) CORROSION CONTROL.—Suitable investigation shall be made and if it indicates that corrosion protection is needed, gas piping within compressor stations shall be protected by any recognized method or combination of methods including coating with protective material, the application of cathodic current, or electrical isolation by sections. After installation of piping, periodic inspections or tests of the piping shall be conducted to determine whether or not the pipe metal is adequately protected.

(7) LIQUID REMOVAL.—When condensable vapors are present in the gas stream in sufficient quantity to liquefy under the anticipated pressure and temperature conditions, the suction stream to each stage of compression (or to each unit, for centrifugal compressors) shall be protected against the introduction of dangerous quantities of entrained liquids into the compressor. Every liquid separator used for this purpose shall be provided with manually operated facilities for removal of liquids therefrom. In addition, automatic liquid removal facilities or an automatic compressor-shutdown device or a high liquid level alarm shall be used where slugs of liquid might be carried into the compressors.

(8) LIQUID REMOVAL EQUIPMENT.—Liquid separators, unless constructed of pipe and fittings and no internal welding is used, shall be manufactured in accordance with the boiler and pressure vessel code standards. Liquid separators when constructed of pipe and fittings without internal welding, shall be in accordance with type D construction requirements.

(9) FIRE PROTECTION.—Fire protection facilities should be provided. If fire pumps are a part of such facilities, their operation shall not be affected by emergency shutdown facilities.

(10) EMERGENCY SHUTDOWN FACILITIES.—

(a) Each transmission compressor station shall be provided with an emergency shutdown system by means of which all gas compressing equipment, all gas fires, and all electrical facilities in the vicinity of gas headers and in the compressor building can be shut down and the gas can be blocked out of the station and the station gas piping blown down. The emergency shutdown system shall be operable from any one of at least two locations outside the gas area of the station, preferably near exit gates in the station fence, but not more than 500 ft. from the limits of the station. Blowdown piping shall extend to a location where the discharge of gas is not likely to create a hazard to the compressor station or surrounding area. Unattended field compressor stations of 1,000 horsepower and less are excluded from the provisions of this subsection.

(b) Each compressor station supplying gas directly to a distribution system shall be provided with emergency shutdown facilities located outside of the compressor station buildings by means of which all gas can be blocked out of the station provided there is another adequate source of gas for the distribution system. These shutdown facilities can be either automatic or manually operated as local conditions designate. When no other gas source is available, then no shutdown facilities shall be installed that might function at the wrong time and cause an outage on the distribution system.

(11) ENGINE OVERSPEED STOPS.—Every compressor prime mover except electric induction or synchronous motors shall be provided with an automatic device which is designed to shut down the unit before the speed of the prime mover or of the driven unit exceeds the maximum safe speed of either, as established by the respective manufacturers.

(12) PRESSURE LIMITING REQUIREMENTS.—Pressure relief or other suitable protective devices of sufficient capacity and sensitivity shall be installed and maintained to assure that the maximum allowable operating pressure of the station piping and equipment is not exceeded by more than 10%.

(13) A pressure relief valve shall be installed in the discharge line of each positive-displacement transmission compressor between the gas compressor and the first discharge block valve. The relieving capacity shall be equal to or greater than the capacity of the compressor. If the relief valves on the compressor do not prevent the possibility of overpressuring the pipeline, as specified in §368.32, a relieving device shall be installed on the pipeline to prevent it from being over-pressured.

(14) An acceptable relief device, in accordance with §368.32, or automatic compressor shutdown device shall be installed in the discharge of each positive displacement distribution compressor between the gas compressor and the first discharge block valve. The relieving device shall be installed and maintained to prevent the maximum allowable operating pressure of the compressor and discharge piping from being exceeded by more than 10%.

(15) Vent lines provided to exhaust the gas from the pressure relief valves to atmosphere shall be extended to a location where the gas may be discharged without undue hazard. Vent lines shall have sufficient capacity so that they will not interfere with the performance of the relief valve.

(16) FUEL GAS CONTROL.—An automatic device shall be provided on each gas engine operating with pressure gas injection, which is designed to shut off the fuel gas when the engine stops. The engine distribution manifold shall be simultaneously automatically vented.

(17) COOLING AND LUBRICATION FAILURES.—All gas compressor units shall be equipped with shutdown or alarm devices to operate in the event of inadequate cooling or lubrication of the units.

(18) MUFFLERS.—The external shell of mufflers for engines using gas as fuel shall be designed in accordance with good engineering practice and shall be constructed of ductile materials. All compartments of the muffler shall be manufactured with vent slots or holes in the baffles to prevent gas from being trapped in the muffler.

(19) BUILDING VENTILATION.—Ventilation shall be sufficient so that employees are not endangered under normal operating conditions (or such abnormal conditions as a blown gasket, packing gland, etc.) by accumulations of hazardous concentrations of flammable or noxious vapors or gasses in rooms, sumps, attics, pits, or similarly enclosed places, or in any portion thereof.

(20) PIPING SPECIFICATIONS.—All compressor station gas piping, other than instrument, control and sample piping, to and including connections to the main pipeline shall be of steel and shall be type C construction.

(21) INSTALLATION OF GAS PIPING.—The provisions of §368.28 (20)-(41) shall apply where appropriate to gas piping in compressor stations.

(22) TESTING OF GAS PIPING.—All gas piping within a compressor station shall be tested hydrostatically after installation to at least 1.4 times the maximum operating pressure except that small additions to operating stations need not be tested where operating conditions make it impractical to test.

(23) IDENTIFICATION OF VALVES AND PIPING.—All emergency valves and controls shall be identified by signs. All important gas pressure piping shall be identified by signs or color codes as to their function.

(24) FUEL GAS PIPING.—

(a) All fuel gas lines within a compressor station, serving the various buildings and residential area, shall be provided with master shutoff valves located outside of any building or residential area.

(b) The pressure regulating facilities for the fuel gas system for a compressor station shall be provided with pressure limiting devices to prevent the normal operating pressure of the system from being exceeded by more than 25%, or the maximum allowable operating pressure by more than 10%.

(c) Suitable provision shall be made to prevent fuel gas from entering the power cylinders of an engine and actuating moving parts while work is in progress on the engine or on equipment driven by the engine.

(d) All fuel gas used for domestic purposes at a compressor station, which has an insufficient odor of its own to serve as a warning in the event of its escape, shall be odorized as prescribed in §368.45.

(25) AIR PIPING SYSTEM.—

(a) All air piping within gas compressing stations shall be constructed in accordance with this code for pressure piping.

(b) The starting air pressure, storage volume, and size of connecting piping shall be adequate to rotate the engine at the cranking speed and for the number of revolutions necessary to purge the fuel gas from the power cylinder and muffler. The recommendations of the engine manufacturer may be used as a guide in determining these factors. Consideration should be given to the number of engines installed and to the possibility of having to start several of these engines within a short period of time.

(c) A check valve shall be installed in the starting air line near each engine to prevent backflow from the engine into the air piping system. A check valve shall also be placed in the main air line on the immediate outlet side of the air tank or tanks. Equipment for cooling the air and removing the moisture and entrained oil should be installed between the starting air compressor and the air storage tanks.

(d) Suitable provision shall be made to prevent starting air from entering the power cylinders of an engine and actuating moving parts while work is in progress on the engine or on equipment driven by the engines. Acceptable means of accomplishing this are installation of a blind flange, removal of a portion of the air supply piping or locking closed a stop valve and locking open a vent downstream from it.

(e) Air receivers or air storage bottles, for use in compressor stations, shall be constructed and equipped in accordance with standard practices.

(26) LUBRICATING OIL PIPING.—All lubricating oil piping within gas compressing stations shall be constructed in accordance with this code for pressure piping.

(27) WATER PIPING.—All water piping within gas compressing stations shall be constructed in accordance with this code for pressure piping.

(28) STEAM PIPING.—All steam piping within gas compressing stations shall be constructed in accordance with this code for pressure piping.

(29) HYDRAULIC PIPING.—All hydraulic power piping within gas compressing stations shall be constructed in accordance with this code for pressure piping.

History.—§27, ch. 59-304.

Note.*—See note following chapter title.

368.31 Pipe-type and bottle-type holders.—

(1) PIPE-TYPE HOLDERS IN RIGHTS-OF-WAY NOT UNDER EXCLUSIVE USE AND CONTROL OF THE OPERATING COMPANY.—A pipe-type holder which is to be installed in streets, highways or in private rights-of-way not under the exclusive control and use of the operating company shall be designed, installed, and tested in accordance with the provisions of this code applicable to a pipe line installed in the same location and operated at the same maximum pressure.

(2) LOCATION.—Bottle-type holders shall be located on land owned or under the exclusive control and use of the operating company.

(3) PIPE-TYPE AND BOTTLE-TYPE HOLDERS ON PROPERTY UNDER THE EXCLUSIVE USE AND CONTROL OF THE OPERATING COMPANY.—The storage site shall be entirely surrounded with fencing to prevent access by unauthorized persons.

(a) A pipe-type or bottle-type holder which is to be installed on property under the exclusive control and use of the operating company shall be designed in accordance with construction design factors the selection of which depends upon the location class in which the site is situated, the clearance between the pipe containers or bottles and the fence, and the maximum operating pressure, as follows:

Holder site Location class	Design factors Minimum clearance between containers and fenced boundaries of site
1		.72
2		.60
3		.60
4		.40
	100' or Over
1		.72
2		.72
3		.60
4		.40

(b) The minimum clearance between containers and the fenced boundaries of the site is fixed by the maximum operating pressure of the holder as follows:

Maximum operating pressure	Minimum clearance
Less than 1000 psi	25'
1000 psi or more	100'

(c) The minimum distance in inches between pipe containers or bottles shall be determined by the following formula:

$$C = \frac{3D \times P \times "F"}{1000}$$

in which:

C = Minimum clearance between pipe containers or bottles in inches.

D = Outside diameter of pipe container or bottle in inches.

P = Maximum allowable operating pressure in pounds per square inch gage.

"F" = Design factor.

(d) Pipe containers shall be installed underground with the top of each container not less than 24 in. below the ground surface.

(e) Bottles shall be installed underground with the top of each container below the normal frost line but in no case closer than 24 in. to the surface.

(f) Pipe-type holders shall be tested in accordance with the provisions of §368.28 (43) for a pipeline located in the same location class as the holder site; provided, however, that in any case where the test pressure will produce a hoop stress of 80% or more of the specified minimum yield strength of the pipe, water shall be used as the test medium.

(4) SPECIAL PROVISIONS APPLICABLE TO BOTTLE-TYPE HOLDERS ONLY.—A bottle-type holder may be manufactured from steel which is not weldable under field conditions, subject to all of the following limitations:

(a) Bottle-type holders made from alloy steel shall meet the chemical and tensile requirements for the various grades of steel.

(b) In no case shall the ratio of actual yield strength to actual tensile strength exceed .85.

(c) Welding shall not be performed on such bottles after they have been heat treated and/or stress relieved, except that it shall be permissible to attach small copper wires to the small diameter portion of the bottle end closure for cathodic protection purposes using a localized thermit welding process.

(d) Such bottles shall be given a hydrostatic test in the mill, and need not be retested hydrostatically at the time of installation. The mill test pressure shall not be less than that required to produce a hoop stress equal to 85% of the specified minimum yield strength of the steel. Careful inspection of the bottles at the time of installation shall be made and no damaged bottles shall be used.

(e) Such bottles and connecting piping shall be tested for tightness after installation using air or gas at a pressure of 50 psi above the maximum operating pressure.

(5) GENERAL PROVISIONS APPLICABLE TO BOTH PIPE-TYPE AND BOTTLE-TYPE HOLDERS.—

(a) Suitable measures shall be taken to protect the storage system against external corrosion.

(b) No gas containing more than 0.1 grain of hydrogen sulfide per 100 cubic feet at 14.7 psia and 60°F. shall be stored.

(c) Provision shall be made to prevent the formation or accumulation of liquids in the holder, connecting piping and auxiliary equipment, that might cause corrosion or might interfere with the safe operation of the storage equipment.

(d) Relief valves shall be installed in accordance with provisions of this code which will have relieving capacity adequate to limit the pressure imposed on the filling line and thereby on the storage holder to 110% of the design pressure of the holder, or to that pressure which produces a hoop stress of 75% of the specified minimum yield strength of the steel, whichever is the lesser.

History.—§28, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.32 Control and limiting of gas pressure.—

(1) BASIC REQUIREMENT FOR PROTECTION AGAINST ACCIDENTAL OVER-PRESSURING.—Every pipeline, main, distribution system, customer's meter and connected facilities, compressor station, pipe type holder, bottle type holder, container fabricated from pipe and fittings, and all special equipment, if connected to a compressor or to a gas source where the failure of pressure control or other causes might result in a pressure which would exceed the maximum allowable operating pressure of the facility, shall be equipped by the operating company with suitable pressure relieving or pressure limiting devices in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(2) CONTROL AND LIMITING OF GAS PRESSURE IN HOLDERS, PIPELINES AND ALL FACILITIES THAT MIGHT AT TIMES BE BOTTLE TIGHT.—Suitable types of protective devices to prevent overpressuring of such facilities are:

(a) Spring loaded relief valves of types approved for unfired pressure vessels.

(b) Pilot loaded back-pressure regulators used as relief valves, so designed that failure of the pilot system or control lines will cause the regulator to open.

(3) MAXIMUM ALLOWABLE OPERATING PRESSURE FOR PIPELINES OR MAINS.—This pressure is by definition the maximum operating pressure to which the pipeline or main may be subjected in accordance with the requirements of this code. For a pipeline or main in good operating condition, the maximum allowable operating pressure is the lesser of the two pressures described in (a) and (b) below:

(a) The design pressure of the weakest element of the pipeline or main. Assuming that all fittings, valves and other accessories in the line have an adequate pressure rating, the maximum allowable operating pressure of a steel pipeline or main shall be the design pressure determined in accordance with §368.28(6).

(b) The pressure obtained by dividing the pressure to which the pipeline or main is tested after construction by the appropriate factor for the location class involved, as follows:

Location class no.	Pressure
	Test pressure
1 _____	1.10
	Test pressure
2 _____	1.25
	Test pressure
3 _____	1.40
	Test pressure
4 _____	1.40

Other factors than 1.4 should be used if the line was tested under the special conditions described in §368.28 (44), (47) and (49). In such cases use factors that are consistent with the applicable requirements of these sections.

(c) In some cases the operating company will consider that the maximum operating pressure to which a pipeline or main should be subjected is less than the pressure determined by either (a) or (b) above. Pipelines that are known to be seriously corroded or that have other defects seriously affecting their strength and which have been operated for years at lower pressures, fall into this category. In such cases the operating company shall decide the maximum pressure it considers safe, and shall install over-pressure protective devices designed to prevent accidentally exceeding this maximum pressure, if there is a reasonable possibility that the pressure will be exceeded.

(d) If services are connected to the pipeline or main, there are additional considerations that might in some cases limit the maximum allowable operating pressure of the facility.

(4) QUALIFYING A PIPELINE OR MAIN FOR A NEW AND HIGHER MAXIMUM ALLOWABLE OPERATING PRESSURE.—This subsection applies to pipelines or mains where the new and higher maximum allowable operating pressure will produce a hoop stress of 30% or more of the specified minimum yield strength of the pipe. When the new and higher maximum allowable operating pressure is equal to or less than this value the provisions of subsection (7) shall apply.

Before increasing the maximum allowable operating pressure of a pipeline or main that has been operating for a period of several years or more at a pressure less than that determined by subsection (3) (a), it is required that:

(a) The following investigative and corrective measures be taken:

1. The design and previous testing of the pipeline and the materials and equipment in it be reviewed to determine that the proposed increase in allowable operating pressure is safe and in general agreement with the requirements of this code.

2. The condition of the line be determined by field inspections, examination of maintenance records, or other suitable means.

3. Repairs, replacements or alterations in the pipeline disclosed to be necessary by steps 1. and 2. be made.

(b) The maximum allowable operating pressure may be increased after compliance with (a) above and one of the following provisions:

1. If the physical condition of the line as determined by (a) above indicates that the line is capable of withstanding the desired increased operating pressure in accordance with the design requirements of this code and the line has previously been tested to a pressure equal to or greater than that required by this code for a new line for the proposed new maximum allowable operating pressure, the line may be operated at the increased maximum allowable operating pressure.

2. If the physical condition of the line as determined by (a) above indicates that the ability of the line to withstand the increased maximum operating pressure has not been satisfactorily verified or the line has not been previously tested to the levels required by this code for a new line for the proposed new maximum allowable operating pressure, the line may be operated at the increased maximum allowable operating pressure if the line shall successfully withstand the test required by this code for a new line to operate under the same conditions.

3. If, under the foregoing provisions of (b) above, it is necessary to test a pipeline or main before it can be up-rated to a new maximum allowable operating pressure, and if it is not practical to test the line either because of the expense or difficulties created by taking it out of service, or because of other operating conditions, a new and higher maximum allowable operating pressure may be established as follows:

- a. Perform the requirements of (a) above.
- b. Select a new maximum allowable operating pressure consistent with the condition of the line and the design requirements of this code; provided, however, that,
- c. In no such case shall the new maximum allowable operating pressure exceed 80% of that permitted for a new line of the same design in the same location.

(c) In no case shall the maximum allowable operating pressure of a pipeline be raised to a value higher than would be permitted by this code for a new line constructed of the same materials and in the same locations.

The rate of pressure increase to the new maximum allowable operating pressure should be gradual so as to allow sufficient time for periodic observations of the pipeline.

(5) CONTROL AND LIMITING OF GAS PRESSURE IN HIGH-PRESSURE DISTRIBUTION SYSTEMS.—Each high-pressure distribution system or main, supplied from a source of gas which is at a higher pressure than the maximum allowable operating pressure for the system, shall be equipped with pressure regulating devices of adequate capacity, and designed to meet the pressure, load and other service conditions under which they will operate or to which they may be subjected.

In addition to the pressure regulating devices prescribed, a suitable method shall be provided to prevent accidental over-pressuring of a high-pressure distribution system.

Suitable types of protective devices to prevent over-pressuring of high-pressure distribution systems are:

- (a) Relief valves as prescribed in subsection (2) (a) and (b).
- (b) Weight loaded relief valves.
- (c) A monitoring regulator installed in series with the primary pressure regulator.
- (d) A series regulator installed upstream from the primary regulator, and set to continuously limit the pressure on the inlet of the primary regulator to the maximum allowable operating pressure of the distribution system or less.

(e) An automatic shut-off device installed in series with the primary pressure regulator, and set to shut off when the pressure on the distribution system reaches the maximum allowable operating pressure, or less. This device must remain closed until manually reset. It should not be used where it might cause an interruption in service to a large number of customers.

(6) MAXIMUM ALLOWABLE OPERATING PRESSURE FOR HIGH PRESSURE DISTRIBUTION SYSTEMS.—This pressure shall be the maximum pressure to which the system can be subjected in accordance with requirements of this code. It shall not exceed:

(a) The design pressure of the weakest element of the system as defined in §368.02 (2).

(b) 60 psig if the services in the system are not equipped with series regulators or other pressure limiting devices as prescribed in subsection (14).

(c) 25 psig in cast iron systems having unreinforced bell and spigot joints as prescribed in §368.29 (5) (a).

(d) 2 psig in high-pressure distribution systems equipped with service regulators not meeting the requirements of subsection (12) and which do not have an overpressure protective device as required in subsection (13).

In some cases the operating company will consider the maximum pressure to which a system should be subjected is less than the pressure obtained by applying the applicable limits in paragraphs (a), (b), (c) or (d). Systems that are known to be corroded and that have been operated for years at lower pressures than these limits fall into this category. In such cases the operating company shall decide the maximum pressure it considers safe, and shall install overpressure protective devices to prevent accidentally exceeding this maximum pressure if there is a reasonable possibility that the pressure will be exceeded.

(7) QUALIFYING A HIGH-PRESSURE DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM FOR A NEW AND HIGHER MAXIMUM ALLOWABLE OPERATING PRESSURE.—This subsection applies to high-pressure distribution mains and to pipelines where the new and higher maximum allowable operating pressure is less than that required to produce a hoop stress of 30% of the specified minimum yield strength of the pipe. When the new and higher maximum allowable operating pressure is more than this value the provisions of subsection (4) shall apply.

(a) Before increasing the maximum allowable operating pressure of a high-pressure distribution system, that has been operating at less than the applicable maximum pressure stated in subsection (6), to a new maximum allowable operating pressure equal to or less than the maximum applicable pressure in subsection (6), the following factors should be taken into consideration:

1. The design of the system including kinds of material and equipment used.

2. Past maintenance records including results of any previous leakage surveys.

(b) Before increasing the pressure the following steps should be taken:

1. Make a leakage survey, if past maintenance records indicate that such a survey is advisable, and repair leaks found.

2. Repair or replace parts of the system found to be inadequate for the higher operating pressure.

3. If the new maximum allowable operating pressure is to be over 60 psig, install suitable devices on the services to regulate and limit the pressure of the gas in accordance with subsection (11).

4. At bends or offsets in coupled or bell and spigot pipe, reinforce or replace anchorages determined to be inadequate for the higher operating pressure.

(c) The rate of pressure increase to the new maximum allowable operating pressure should be gradual so as to allow sufficient time for periodic observations of the system.

(8) CONTROL AND LIMITING OF GAS PRESSURE IN LOW-PRESSURE DISTRIBUTION SYSTEMS.—Each low-pressure distribution system or low-pressure main supplied from a gas source which is at a higher pressure than the maximum allowable operating pressure for the low-pressure system, shall be equipped with pressure regulating devices of adequate capacity, designed to meet the pressure, load and other service conditions under which they will have to operate.

In addition to the pressure regulating devices prescribed in this subsection, a suitable device shall be provided to prevent accidental overpressuring.

Suitable types of protective devices to prevent overpressuring of low-pressure distribution systems are:

(a) A liquid seal relief valve that can be set to open accurately and consistently at the desired pressure, and to close again when the pressure in the distribution system returns to normal.

(b) Weight loaded relief valves.

(c) An automatic shut-off device as described in subsection (5) (e).

(d) A pilot loaded back-pressure regulator as described in subsection (2) (b).

(e) A monitoring regulator as described in subsection (5) (c).

(f) A series regulator as described in subsection (5) (d).

(9) MAXIMUM ALLOWABLE OPERATING PRESSURE FOR LOW-PRESSURE DISTRIBUTION SYSTEMS.—The maximum allowable operating pressure for a low pressure distribution system shall not exceed either:

(a) A pressure which would cause the unsafe operation of any connected and properly adjusted low pressure gas burning equipment, or

(b) A pressure of 2 psig.

(10) CONVERSION OF LOW-PRESSURE DISTRIBUTION SYSTEMS TO HIGH-PRESSURE DISTRIBUTION SYSTEMS.—

(a) Before converting a low-pressure distribution system to a high-pressure distribution system, it is recommended that the following factors be taken into consideration:

1. The design of the system including kinds of material and equipment used.

2. Past maintenance records including results of any previous leakage surveys.

(b) Before increasing the pressure the following steps should be taken:

1. Make a leakage survey, if past maintenance records indicate that such a survey is advisable, and repair leaks found.

2. Reinforce or replace parts of the system found to be inadequate for the higher operating pressures.

3. Install a service regulator on each service, and test each regulator to determine that it is functioning. In some cases it may be necessary to raise the pressure slightly to permit proper operation of the service regulator.

4. Isolate the system from adjacent low-pressure systems.

5. At bends or offsets in coupled or bell and spigot pipe, reinforce or replace anchorages determined to be adequate for the higher pressures.

(c) The pressure in the system being converted should be increased by steps, with a period to check the effect of the previous increase before making the next increase. The desirable magnitude of each increase and the length of the check period will vary depending upon conditions. The objective of this procedure is to afford an opportunity to discover before excessive pressures are reached any unknown open and unregulated connections to adjacent low-pressure systems or to individual customers.

(11) The requirements for the control and limiting of the pressure of gas delivered to industrial customers are included in subsection (1).

(12) If the maximum actual operating pressure of the distribution system is between 2 psig and 60 psig and a service regulator having the characteristics listed below is used, no other pressure limiting device is required:

(a) A pressure regulator capable of reducing distribution line pressure (pounds per square inch) to pressures recommended for household appliances (inches of water column).

(b) Single port valve with orifice diameter no greater than that recommended by the manufacturer for the maximum gas pressure at the regulator inlet.

(c) The valve seat shall be made of resilient material designed to withstand abrasion of the gas, impurities in gas, cutting by the valve, and to resist permanent deformation when it is pressed against the valve port.

(d) Pipe connections to the regulator shall not exceed 2 in. in diameter.

(e) The regulator must be of a type that is capable under normal operating conditions of regulating the downstream pressure within the necessary limits of accuracy and of limiting the build-up pressure under no-flow conditions to 50% or less of the discharge pressure maintained under flow conditions.

(f) A self-contained service regulator with no external static or control lines.

(13) If the maximum actual operating pressure of the distribution system is between 2 psig and 60 psig and a service regulator not having all of the characteristics listed in subsection (12) is used, or if the gas contains materials that seriously interfere with the operation of service regulators, suitable protective devices shall be installed to prevent accidental overpressuring of the customer's appliances should the service regulator fail. Some of the suitable types of protective devices to prevent overpressuring of customer's appliances are: a monitoring regulator, a relief valve, and an automatic shut-off device. These devices may be installed as an integral part of the service regulator or as a separate unit.

(14) If the maximum actual operating pressure of the distribution system exceeds 60 psig, suitable methods shall be used to regulate and limit the pressure of the gas delivered to the customer, such as:

(a) A service regulator having the characteristics listed in subsection (12) and a secondary regulator located upstream from the service regulator. The secondary regulator is usually set to maintain a pressure of from 5 to 10 psi on the inlet of the service regulator, and shall in no case be set to maintain a pressure higher than 60 psi. A device shall be installed between the secondary regulator and the service regulator to limit the pressure on the inlet of the service regulator to 60 psi or less in case the secondary regulator fails to function properly. This device may be either a relief valve, or an automatic shut-off that shuts, if the pressure on the inlet of the service regulator exceeds the set pressure (60 psi or less), and remains closed until manually reset.

(b) A service regulator and a monitoring regulator set to limit to a maximum safe value the pressure of the gas delivered to the customer.

(c) A service regulator with a relief valve vented to the outside atmosphere, and set to open if the pressure of the gas going to the customer exceeds a maximum safe value. The relief valve may either be built into the service regulator or it may be a separate unit installed downstream from the service regulator. This combination may be used alone only in those cases where the inlet pressure on the service regulator does not exceed the manufacturer's safe working pressure rating of the service regulator, and is not recommended for use where the inlet pressure on the service regulator exceed 125 psi. For higher inlet pressures, the methods in subsection (14) (a) and (b) should be used.

(15) REQUIREMENTS FOR DESIGN OF ALL PRESSURE RELIEF AND PRESSURE LIMITING INSTALLATIONS.—All pressure relief or pressure limiting devices shall:

(a) Be constructed of materials such that the operation of the device will not normally be impaired by corrosion of external parts by the atmosphere, or of the internal parts by gas.

(b) Have valves and valve seats that are designed not to stick in a position that will make the device inoperative and result in failure of the device to perform in the manner for which it was intended.

(c) Be designed and installed so that they can be readily operated to determine if the valve is free; and can be tested to determine the pressure at which they will operate; and can be tested for leakage when in the closed position.

(16) The discharge stacks, vents, or outlet ports of all pressure relief devices shall be located where gas can be discharged into the atmosphere without undue hazard. Consideration should be given to all exposures in the immediate vicinity. All discharge stacks, or vents, shall be protected with rain caps to preclude the entry of water into the stack.

(17) The size of the openings, pipe and fittings located between the system to be protected and the pressure relieving device, and the vent line, shall be of adequate size to prevent hammering of the valve and to prevent impairment of relief capacity.

(18) Precautions shall be taken to prevent unauthorized operation of any stop valve which will make a pressure relief valve inoperative. This provision shall not apply to valves, the operation of which will isolate the system under protection from its source of pressure. Acceptable methods for complying with this provision are:

(a) Lock the stop valve in the open position. Instruct authorized personnel of the importance of not inadvertently leaving the stop valve closed and of being present during the entire period that the stop valve is closed so that they can lock it in the open position before they leave the location.

(b) Install duplicate relief valves, each having adequate capacity by itself to protect the system, and arrange the isolating valves or 3-way valve so that mechanically it is possible to render only one safety device inoperative at a time.

(19) Precautions shall be taken to prevent unauthorized operation of any valve which will make pressure limiting devices inoperative. This provision applies to isolating valves, bypass valves, and valves on control or float lines which are located between the pressure limiting device and the system which the device protects. A method similar to subsection (18) (a) shall be considered acceptable in complying with this provision.

(20) (a) When a monitoring regulator, series regulator, system relief or system shut-off, is installed at a district regulator station to protect a piping system from overpressuring, the installation shall be designed and installed to prevent any single incident such as an explosion in a vault or damage by a vehicle from affecting the operation of both the overpressure protective device and the district regulator.

(b) Special attention shall be given to control lines. All control lines shall be protected from falling objects, excavations by others, or other foreseeable causes of damage and shall be designed and installed to prevent damage to any one control line from making both the district regulator and the overpressure protective device inoperative.

(21) REQUIRED CAPACITY OF PRESSURE RELIEVING AND PRESSURE LIMITING DEVICES.—Each pressure relieving device, or group of such devices, installed to protect a piping system shall have sufficient capacity and shall be set to operate to prevent the pressure from exceeding the maximum allowable operating pressure, plus 10%, or the pressure which would produce a hoop stress of 75% of the specified minimum yield strength, whichever is lower.

(a) Each pressure limiting device shall be set to prevent the pressure in the facility which it protects from exceeding the maximum allowable operating pressure.

(b) When more than one pressure regulating or compressor station feeds into a pipeline or distribution system and pressure relief devices are installed at such stations, the relieving capacity at the remote stations may be taken into account in sizing the relief devices at each station. However, in doing this the assumed remote relieving capacity must be limited to the capacity of the piping system to transmit gas to the remote location or to the capacity of the remote relief device, whichever is less.

(22) PROOF OF ADEQUATE CAPACITY AND SATISFACTORY PERFORMANCE OF PRESSURE LIMITING AND PRESSURE RELIEF DEVICES.—Where the safety device consists of an additional regulator which is associated with or functions in combination with one or more regulators in a series arrangement to control or limit the pressure in a piping system, suitable checks shall be made to determine that the equipment will operate in a satisfactory manner to prevent any pressure in excess of the established maximum allowable operating pressure of the system should any one of the associated regulators malfunction or remain in the wide open position.

Suitable checks shall be made periodically to insure that the combined capacity of the relief devices on a piping system or facility is adequate to limit the gas pressure at all times to values prescribed by this code. This check should be based on the operating conditions that create the maximum probable requirement for relief capacity in each case, even though such operating conditions actually occur infrequently and/or for only short periods of time.

(23) INSTRUMENT, CONTROL AND SAMPLING PIPING.—

(a) Scope.

1. The requirements given in this section apply to the design of instrument, control and sampling piping for safe and proper operation of the piping itself and do not cover design of piping to secure proper functioning of instruments for which the piping is installed.

2. This section does not apply to permanently closed piping systems; such as fluid-filled temperature-responsive devices.

(b) Materials and design.

1. The materials employed for valves, fittings, tubing, and piping shall be designed to meet the particular conditions of service.

2. Take-off connections and attaching bosses, fittings, or adapters shall be made of suitable material and shall be capable of withstanding the maximum service pressure and temperature of the piping or equipment to which they are attached. They shall be designed to satisfactorily withstand all stresses without failure by fatigue.

3. A shut-off valve shall be installed in each take-off line as near as practicable to the point of take-off. Blow-down valves shall be installed where necessary for the safe operation of the piping, instruments and equipment.

4. Brass pipe or copper pipe or tubing shall not be used for metal temperatures greater than 400°F.

5. Piping subject to clogging from solids or deposits shall be provided with suitable connections for cleaning.

6. Pipe or tubing of diameters smaller than the minimum diameters required under this section may be specified by the manufacturers of the instrument, control apparatus, or sampling device, provided that the safety of the smaller pipe or tubing as installed is at least equal to that otherwise required under this code.

7. Piping which may contain liquids shall be protected by heating or other suitable means from damage due to freezing.

8. Piping in which liquids may accumulate shall be provided with drains or drips.

9. The arrangement of piping and supports shall be designed to provide not only for safety under operating stresses, but also to provide protection for the piping against detrimental sagging, external mechanical injury, abuse, and damage due to unusual service conditions other than those connected with pressure, temperature, and service vibration.

10. Suitable precautions, such as increasing the pipe wall thickness, shall be taken where internal corrosive conditions may exist. All underground piping shall be protected against corrosion where soil tests or experience indicate that the soil is corrosive.

11. Joints between sections of tubing and/or pipe and between tubing and/or pipe and valves or fittings shall be made in a manner suitable for the pressure and temperature condition, such as by means of flared, flareless, and compression type fittings, or equal, or they may be of the brazed, screwed, or socket-welded type. If screwed-end valves are to be used with flared, flareless, or compression type fittings, adapters are required.

Slip type expansion joints shall not be used; expansion shall be taken care of by providing flexibility.

History.—§29, ch. 59-304.

(1) LOCATION FOR CUSTOMERS' METER AND REGULATOR INSTALLATIONS.—

(a) Customers' meters and regulators may be located either inside or outside of buildings, depending upon local conditions, except, that on services requiring series regulation, in accordance with §368.32(14)(a), the upstream regulator shall be located outside of the building.

(b) When installed within a building, the service regulator shall be in a readily accessible location near the point of gas service entrance and, whenever practical, the meters shall be installed at the same location. Meters shall not be installed in bedrooms, closets, bathrooms, under combustible stairways or in unventilated or inaccessible places, nor closer than three feet to sources of ignition, including furnaces and water heaters. On services supplying large industrial customers or installations where gas is utilized at higher than standard service pressure, the regulators may be installed at other readily accessible locations.

(c) When located outside of buildings, meters and service regulators shall be installed in readily accessible locations where they will be reasonably protected from damage.

(d) Regulators requiring vents for their proper and effective operation shall be vented to the outside atmosphere in accordance with the provisions of subsection (3).

(2) OPERATING PRESSURES FOR CUSTOMERS' METER INSTALLATIONS.—Iron or aluminum case meters shall not be used at a maximum operating pressure higher than the manufacturer's rating for the meter. New tinned steel case meters shall not be used at a pressure in excess of 50% of the manufacturer's test pressure; rebuilt tinned steel case meters shall not be used at a pressure in excess of 50% of the pressure used to test the meter after rebuilding.

(3) PROTECTION OF CUSTOMERS' METER AND REGULATOR INSTALLATIONS FROM DAMAGE.—Meters and service regulators shall not be installed where rapid deterioration from corrosion or other causes is likely to occur.

A suitable protective device such as a backpressure regulator, or a check valve, shall be installed downstream of the meter if and as required under the following conditions:

(a) If the nature of the utilization equipment is such that it may induce a vacuum at the meter, install a backpressure regulator downstream from the meter.

(b) Install a check valve or equivalent if:

1. The utilization equipment might induce a backpressure.

2. The gas utilization equipment is connected to a source of oxygen or compressed air.

3. Liquefied petroleum gas or other supplementary gas is used as standby and might flow back into the meter. A three-way valve installed to admit the standby supply and at the same time shut off the regular supply can be substituted for a check valve if desired.

All service regulator vents, and relief vents where required, shall terminate in the outside air in rain and insect resistant fittings. The open end of the vent shall be located where, if a regulator failure resulting in the release of gas occurs, the gas can escape freely into the atmosphere and away from any openings into the buildings. At locations where service regulators might be submerged during floods, either a special anti-flood type breather vent fitting shall be installed, or the vent line shall be extended above the height of the expected flood waters.

Pits and vaults, housing customers' meters and regulators, shall be designed to support vehicular traffic when installed in travelled portions of alleys, streets and highways, or driveways.

(4) INSTALLATION OF METERS AND REGULATORS.—All meters and regulators shall be installed in such a manner as to prevent undue stresses upon the connecting piping and/or the meter. Lead connections or other connections made of material which can be easily damaged, shall not be used. The use of standard weight close nipples is prohibited.

History.—§30, ch. 59-304.

Note.*—See note following chapter title.

368.34 Gas services.—

(1) GENERAL PROVISIONS APPLICABLE TO BOTH STEEL AND COPPER SERVICES. INSTALLATION OF SERVICES BY OPERATING COMPANIES.—

(a) Services shall be installed at a depth which will protect them from excessive external loadings, and local activities, such as gardening. A minimum depth of 12 in. in private property and a minimum depth of 18 in. in streets and roads should be maintained. Where this cannot be done, due to existing substructures, etc., less cover is permitted provided however that where such services are subject to excessive superimposed loads, those portions of the service shall be cased or bridged to avoid harmful additional loads on the pipe, or strengthened to resist them.

(b) Service piping shall be properly supported at all points on undisturbed or well compacted soil, so that the pipe will not be subject to excessive external loading by the backfill. The material used for the backfill shall be free of rocks, building materials, etc., that might cause damage to the pipe or the protective coating.

(c) Where there is evidence of condensate in the gas in sufficient quantities to cause interruptions in the gas supply to the customer, the service shall be graded so as to drain in the main or to drip at the low points in the service.

(2) TYPES OF VALVES SUITABLE FOR SERVICE SHUT-OFFS.—

(a) Valves or cocks used as service shut-offs shall meet the applicable requirements of §§368.06 and 368.22.

(b) The use of soft seat shut-off valves or cocks is not recommended.

(c) A valve incorporated in a meter bar which permits the meter to be by-passed does not qualify under this code as a service shut-off.

(d) Service shut-offs on high pressure services, installed either inside of buildings or in confined locations outside of buildings where the blowing of gas would be hazardous, shall be designed and constructed to minimize the possibility of the removal of the core of the valve or cock accidentally or willfully with ordinary household tools.

(e) The operating company shall make certain that the shut-off valves or cocks installed on high pressure services are suitable for this use either by making their own tests or by reviewing the tests made by the manufacturers.

(f) On services designed to operate at pressures in excess of 60 psig the service shut-off valve or cock shall be the equivalent of a pressure lubricated cock or a needle type valve. Other types of valves or cocks may be used where tests by the manufacturer or by the user indicate that they are suitable for this kind of service.

(3) LOCATION OF SERVICE SHUT-OFFS.—

(a) Service shut-offs shall be installed on all new services (including replacements) in a readily accessible location.

(b) Shut-offs shall be located upstream of the meter if there is no regulator, or upstream of the regulator, if there is one.

(c) All gas services operating at a pressure greater than 10 psig, and all services 2 in. in diameter or larger, shall be equipped with a shut-off located on the service line outside of the building, except that whenever gas is supplied to a theatre, church, school, factory or other building where large numbers of persons assemble, an outside shut-off in such case will be required regardless of the size of the service or of the service pressure.

(d) Underground shut-offs shall be located in a covered durable curb box or standpipe, which is designed to permit ready operation of the valve.

(4) LOCATION OF SERVICE CONNECTION TO MAIN PIPING.—Services should be connected to either the top or the side of the main. The connection to the top of the main is preferred, in order to minimize the possibility of dust and moisture being carried from the main into the service.

(5) TESTING OF SERVICES AFTER CONSTRUCTION.—Each service shall be tested after construction and before being placed in service to demonstrate that it does not leak.

Services to operate at a pressure between 1 psig and 40 psig, shall be given a stand-up air or gas pressure test at not less than 50 psig for at least five minutes before being placed in service.

Services to operate at pressures in excess of 40 psig, but stressed less than 20% of the specified minimum yield, shall be tested to the maximum operating pressure or 100 psig, whichever is the lesser. Services stressed to 20% or more of the specified minimum yield shall be tested in accordance with the requirements for mains.

The service connection to the main need not be included in these pressure tests if it is not feasible to do so.

(6) DESIGN OF STEEL SERVICES.—

(a) Steel pipe, when used for gas services, shall conform to the applicable requirements of §368.06.

(b) Underground steel services, when installed below grade through the outer foundation wall of a building, shall be either encased in a sleeve or otherwise protected against corrosion. The service pipe and/or sleeve shall be sealed at the foundation wall to prevent entry of gas or water.

(c) Steel services, where installed underground under buildings, shall be encased in a gas tight conduit. When such a service supplies the building it subtends, the conduit shall extend into a normally usable and accessible portion of the building and, at the point where the conduit terminates, the space between the conduit and the service pipe shall be sealed to prevent the possible entrance of any gas leakage.

(d) Where practical, welded joints or compression type fittings should be used in all underground steel services.

(e) Consideration shall be given to insulating, near or within the building, those services which are connected through the house piping to water services, electrical ground, etc., so as to eliminate possible galvanic corrosion. This is especially important in areas where stray current electrolysis is prevalent, or where copper or lead water services are used.

(7) INSTALLATION OF STEEL SERVICES IN BORES.—When coated steel pipe is to be installed as a service pipe in a bore, care should be exercised to prevent damage to the coating during installation. For all installations to be made by boring, driving or similar methods or in a rocky type soil, the following practices or their equivalents should be observed:

(a) When a service is to be installed by boring or driving and a coated steel pipe is to be used for the service, the coated pipe should not be used as the bore pipe or drive pipe and left in the ground as part of the service. Such installations should be made by first making an oversized bore, removing the pipe used for boring and then inserting the coated pipe.

(b) Coated steel pipe preferably should not be inserted through a bore in exceptionally rocky soil where there is a likelihood of damage to the coating resulting from the insertion.

(8) The provisions of subsection (7) (a) and (b) do not apply when bare steel pipe is used as the service pipe, or where coated pipe is installed under conditions where the coating is not likely to be damaged, such as in sandy soil.

(9) SERVICE CONNECTIONS TO STEEL MAINS.—Services may be connected to steel mains by:

(a) Welding a service tee or similar device to the main.

(b) Using a service clamp or saddle.

(c) Compression fittings using rubber or rubber-like gaskets or welded connections may be used to connect service pipe to the main connection fitting. Gaskets used in a manufactured gas system shall be of a type that resists effectively that type of gas.

(10) USE OF CAST IRON SERVICES.—When used for gas services, cast iron pipe shall meet the applicable requirements of §368.29. The use of cast iron pipe less than 6 in. in diameter for gas services is prohibited. Cast iron pipe 6 in. or larger in diameter may be used for gas services except for that portion of the service which extends through the building wall. The latter portion shall be of steel pipe. Cast iron services shall not be installed in unstable soils or under buildings.

(11) SERVICE CONNECTIONS TO CAST IRON MAINS.—Services may be connected to cast iron mains by:

(a) Drilling and tapping the main; provided, however, that the diameter of the tapped hole shall not exceed the limitations imposed by §368.22(7) (b).

(b) Using a reinforcing sleeve.

(12) Service connections shall not be brazed directly to cast iron mains.

(13) Compression fittings using rubber or rubber-like gaskets or welded connections may be used to connect the service pipe to the main connection fitting. Gaskets used in a manufactured gas system shall be of a type that resists effectively that type of gas.

(14) COPPER SERVICES (AND MAINS); COPPER PIPE DESIGN REQUIREMENTS.—

The following requirements shall apply to copper pipe, or tubing, when used for gas mains or services:

(a) Copper pipe, or tubing, shall not be used for services or mains where the pressure exceeds 100 psig.

(b) Copper pipe, or tubing, shall not be used for services or mains where the gas carried contains more than an average of 0.3 grains of hydrogen sulfide per 100 standard cubic feet of gas. This is equivalent to a trace as determined by the lead-acetate test.

(c) Copper pipe, or tubing, shall not be used for services or mains where the piping strain or external loading may be excessive.

(d) Copper services may be installed within buildings, provided that the service is not concealed and is suitably protected against external damage.

(e) Copper tubing, or pipe for mains, shall have a minimum wall thickness of 0.065 inches and shall be hard drawn.

(f) The minimum wall thickness for copper pipe, or tubing used for gas services, shall be not less than type "L" specifications for copper water tube.

(g) Underground copper services, where installed through the outer foundation wall of a building, shall be either encased in a sleeve or otherwise protected against corrosion. The service pipe, or tubing, and/or sleeve shall be sealed at the foundation wall to prevent entry of gas or water.

(h) Copper services, where installed underground under buildings, shall be free of joints and shall be encased in a conduit which is designed to prevent gas leaking from the service and getting into the building.

(15) VALVES IN COPPER LINES.—Valves installed in copper lines may be made of any suitable material permitted by this code, except that, ferrous valves installed on underground copper services shall be protected from contact with the soil and/or insulated from the copper pipe.

(16) FITTINGS IN COPPER LINES.—Fittings in a copper line and exposed to the soil, such as service tees, pressure control fittings, etc., shall be made of bronze, copper or brass. If iron or steel fittings are used, they shall be protected as specified above for valves. When mechanical couplings are used, inserts shall be used in the tubing or other precautions taken to prevent possible collapse of the tubing.

(17) JOINTS IN COPPER PIPE AND TUBING.—Copper pipe shall be joined by using either a compression type coupling or a brazed or soldered lap joint. The filler material used for brazing shall be a copper-phosphorous alloy or silver base alloy. Butt welds are not permissible for joining copper pipe or tubing. Copper tubing shall not be threaded but copper pipe with wall thickness equivalent to the comparable size of schedule 40 steel pipe may be threaded and used for connecting screw fittings or valves.

(18) Provision shall be made to prevent harmful galvanic action where copper is connected underground to steel. This can be accomplished in most cases by using one or the other of the following methods: install an insulating type coupling or an insulating flange, between the copper and the steel, or protect the copper and steel for a distance of two feet or more in all directions from the junction with insulating pipe corrosion protection material.

(19) SERVICE CONNECTIONS TO COPPER MAINS.—

(a) Connections using a copper or cast bronze service tee or extension fitting sweat-brazed to the copper main, are recommended for copper mains.

(b) Butt welds are not permitted.

(c) Fillet-brazed joints are not recommended.

(d) The requirements of subsection (17) shall apply to: Joints not specifically mentioned above, and all brazing material.

History.—§31, ch. 59-304.

368.35 Valves; required spacing.—

(1) TRANSMISSION LINES.—Sectionalizing block valves on transmission lines shall be installed at a spacing not to exceed 20 miles within areas conforming to location class 1, 15 miles within areas conforming to location class 2, 8 miles within areas conforming to location class 3, and 5 miles within areas conforming to location class 4.

(2) Valves on distribution mains, whether for operating or emergency purposes, shall be spaced as follows:

(a) Valves shall be installed in high pressure distribution systems in accessible locations in order to reduce the time to shut down a section of main in an emergency. In determining the spacing of the valves consideration should be given to the operating pressure and size of the mains and local physical conditions as well as the number and type of consumers that might be affected by a shutdown.

(b) Valves may be used on low pressure distribution systems, but are not required except as specified in subsection (4)(a).

(3) LOCATION OF TRANSMISSION VALVES.—

(a) Sectionalizing block valves shall be accessible and protected from damage and tampering. If a blow-down valve is involved, it shall be located where the gas can be blown to the atmosphere without undue hazard.

(b) Sectionalizing valves may be installed above ground, in a vault, or buried. In all installations an operating device to open or close the valve shall be readily accessible to authorized persons. All valves shall be suitably supported to prevent settlement, or movement of the attached piping.

(c) Blow-down valves shall be provided so that each section of pipeline between main line valves can be blown down. The sizes and capacity of the connections for blowing down the line shall be such that under emergency conditions the section of line can be blown down as rapidly as is practicable.

(d) This code does not require the use of automatic valves, nor does the code imply that the use of automatic valves presently developed will provide full protection to a piping system. Their use and installation shall be at the discretion of the operating company.

(4) DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM VALVES.—

(a) A valve shall be installed on the inlet piping of each regulator station controlling the flow or pressure of gas in a distribution system. The distance between the valve and the regulator or regulators shall be sufficient to permit the operation of the valve during an emergency, such as a large gas leak or a fire in the station.

(b) Valves on distribution mains, whether for operating or emergency purposes, shall be located in a manner that will provide ready access and facilitate their operation during an emergency. Where a valve is installed in a buried box or enclosure, only ready access to the operating stem or mechanism is implied.

History.—§32, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.36 Vaults.—

(1) STRUCTURAL DESIGN REQUIREMENTS.—Underground vaults or pits for valves, pressure relieving, pressure limiting or pressure regulating stations, etc., shall be designed and constructed in accordance with the following provisions:

(a) All vaults or pits in roads, streets or highways which may be exposed to vehicular traffic shall be composed of durable structural materials and shall be designed to withstand without damage the heaviest loads to which they may be subjected. Where local regulations do not specify structural limitations, the roof slab or cover shall be designed to carry a 15,000 lb. wheel load distributed over a contact area of the road surface 15 in. in diameter. The walls shall be designed to resist a uniform horizontal pressure of 250 lbs. per square foot without damage. Vaults and pits not subject to vehicular loads shall be designed and constructed in accordance with good structural engineering practice.

(b) Sufficient working space shall be provided so that all of the equipment required in the vault can be properly installed, operated and maintained.

(c) In the design of vaults and pits for pressure limiting, pressure relieving and pressure regulating equipment, consideration shall be given to the protection of the equipment installed from damage, such as that resulting from an explosion within the vault or pit, which may cause portions of the roof or cover to fall into the vault.

(d) Piping entering, and within, regulator vaults or pits shall be steel for sizes 10 in. and less except that control and gauge piping may be copper. Where piping extends through the vault or pit structure, provision shall be made to prevent the passage of gases or liquids through the opening and to avert strains in the piping. Equipment and piping shall be suitably sustained by metal, masonry, or concrete supports. The control piping shall be placed and supported in the vault or pit so that its exposure to injury or damage is reduced to a minimum.

(e) Vault or pit openings shall be located so as to minimize the hazards of tools or other objects falling upon the regulator, piping or other equipment. The control piping and the operating parts of the equipment installed shall not be located under a vault or pit opening where workmen can step on them when entering or leaving the vault or pit, unless such parts are suitably protected.

(f) Whenever a vault or pit opening is to be located above equipment which could be damaged by a falling cover, a circular cover should be installed or other suitable precautions taken.

(2) ACCESSIBILITY.—Consideration shall be given, in selecting a site for a vault, to its accessibility. Some of the important factors to consider in selecting the location of a vault are as follows:

(a) EXPOSURE TO TRAFFIC.—The location of vaults in street intersections or at points where traffic is heavy or dense should be avoided.

(b) EXPOSURE TO FLOODING.—Vaults should not be located at points of minimum elevation, near catch basins, or where the access cover will be in the course of surface waters.

(c) EXPOSURE TO ADJACENT SUBSURFACE HAZARDS.—Vaults should be located as far as is practical from water, electric, steam, or other facilities.

(3) VAULT VENTILATION.—Underground vaults and closed top pits composing either a pressure regulating or reducing station, or a pressure limiting or relieving station, shall be ventilated as follows:

(a) When the internal volume exceeds 200 cubic feet, such vaults or pits shall be ventilated with two ducts each having at least the ventilating effect of a pipe 4 in. in diameter.

(b) The ventilation provided shall be sufficient to minimize the possible formation of a combustible atmosphere in the vault or pit.

(c) The ducts shall extend to a height above grade adequate to disperse any gas-air mixtures that might be discharged. The outside end of the ducts shall be equipped with a suitable weather-proof fitting or venthead designed to prevent foreign matter from entering or obstructing the duct. The effective area of the openings in such fittings or ventheads shall be at least equal to the cross-sectional area of a 4 inch duct. The horizontal section of the ducts shall be as short as practical and shall be pitched to prevent the accumulation of liquids in the line. The number of bends and offsets shall be reduced to a minimum and provisions shall be incorporated to facilitate the periodic cleaning of the ducts.

(d) Such vaults or pits having an internal volume between 75 cubic feet and 200 cubic feet may be either tightly closed or ventilated. If not ventilated, all openings shall be equipped with tight fitting covers without open holes through which an explosive mixture might be ignited. Means shall be provided for testing the internal atmosphere before removing the cover.

(e) If vaults or pits referred to in paragraph (d) above are ventilated by means of openings in the covers or gratings and the ratio of the internal volume, in cubic feet, to the effective ventilating area of the cover or grating, in square feet, is less than 20 to 1, no additional ventilation is required.

(f) Such vaults or pits having an internal volume of less than 75 cubic feet may be ventilated or not at the option of the operating company.

(4) DRAINAGE AND WATERPROOFING.

(a) Provisions shall be made to minimize the entrance of water into vaults, and vault equipment shall always be designed to operate safely, if submerged.

(b) No vault containing gas piping shall be connected by means of a drain connection to any other substructure, such as a sewer.

(c) Electrical equipment in vaults shall conform to the requirements of class 1, group D.

History.—§33, ch. 59-304.

Note.*—See note following chapter title.

368.37 Operating and maintenance procedures affecting the safety of gas transmission and distribution facilities.—

(1) Because of many variables, it is not possible to prescribe in a state code a set of operating and maintenance procedures that will be adequate from the standpoint of public safety in all cases without being burdensome and impractical in some. It is possible, however, for each operating company to develop operating and maintenance procedures based on experience, knowledge of its facilities and conditions under which they are operated, which will be entirely adequate from the standpoint of public safety.

(2) BASIC REQUIREMENTS.—Each operating company having gas transmission or distribution facilities within the scope of this code shall:

(a) Have a plan covering operating and maintenance procedures in accordance with the purpose of this code.

(b) Operate and maintain its facilities in conformance with this plan.

(c) Keep records necessary to administer the plan properly.

(d) Modify the plan from time to time as experience with it dictates and as exposure of the public to the facilities and changes in operating conditions require.

(3) ESSENTIAL FEATURES OF THE PLAN.—The plan prescribed in subsection (2) (a) should include:

(a) Detailed plans and instructions to employees covering operating and maintenance procedures for gas facilities during normal operations and repairs, and during emergencies.

(b) Items to be included in the plan for specific classes of facilities are given in §§368.38-368.44.

(c) Particular attention should be given to those portions of the facilities presenting the greatest hazard to the public in the event of an emergency or because of construction or extraordinary maintenance requirements.

History.—§34, ch. 59-304.

368.38 Pipeline maintenance.—

(1) Each operating company should maintain a periodic pipeline patrol program to observe surface conditions on and adjacent to the pipeline right of way, indications of leaks, construction activity other than that performed by the company, and any other factors affecting the safety and operation of the pipeline. Weather, terrain, size of line, operating pressures and other conditions will be factors in determining the frequency of patrol. Main highway and railroad crossings should be inspected with greater frequency and more closely than pipelines in open country.

(2) EXTERNAL CORROSION OF PIPELINES.—Periodic inspections and tests should be conducted to determine if the installed corrosion control methods used are adequate and are properly maintaining protection to the pipe metal. Whenever any portion or section of underground facilities is uncovered, an inspection should be made to determine if protection is needed or if installed protection is adequate.

(3) INTERNAL CORROSION OF PIPELINES.—When active corrosive agents are known to be present in the gas being transmitted, or if evidence of internal corrosion is discovered, the gas should be periodically analyzed to determine the concentration of any corrosive agent and precautions taken, if necessary, to prevent the development of a hazardous condition. Whenever a pipeline is cut for any reason, the internal surface should be carefully inspected for evidence of internal corrosion.

(4) CORROSION RECORDS. — Records should be made of each pipeline inspection for external or internal corrosion covering conditions found, adequacy of cathodic protection, if so protected, condition of pipe coating, depth of pits noted and extent of corroded area. If repairs are made, method used should be stated.

(5) PIPELINE LEAK RECORDS.—Records should be made covering all leaks discovered and repairs made. All pipeline breaks should be reported in detail. These records along with leakage survey records, line patrol records and other records relating to routine or unusual inspections should be kept in the file of the operating company involved, as long as the section of line involved remains in service.

History.—§35, ch. 59-304.

368.39 Distribution piping maintenance.—

(1) PATROLLING. — Distribution mains, which are installed in locations or on structures where abnormal physical movement or abnormal external loading could cause failure or leakage, shall be patrolled periodically and the frequency of the patrolling shall be determined by the severity of the conditions which could cause failure or leakage and the consequent hazards to public safety.

(2) LEAKAGE SURVEYS AND ROUTINE PROCEDURES.—Each operating company having a gas distribution system shall set up in its operating and maintenance plan a provision for the making of periodic leakage surveys. The types of surveys prescribed in the plan shall be one or more of the following employed singly or in combination, or some other effective procedure for locating leaks in underground piping systems:

(a) Gas detector surveys.

(b) Bar test surveys.

(c) Vegetation surveys.

(d) Pressure drop surveys.

(e) Soapsuds testing on exposed pipe and fittings.

(3) The nature of the operations and local conditions of each individual company shall determine the type and scope of the leakage control program most suitable. The character of the general service area together with housing concentration should determine the frequency of the inspection program. The inspection program should include at least the following provisions:

(a) At least once a year a gas detector survey should be conducted in business districts, involving tests of the atmosphere in gas, electric, telephone, sewer and water system manholes, at cracks in pavement and sidewalks and at other locations providing an opportunity for finding gas leaks. Leakage surveys, using one or more of the types referred to in subsection (2), should be made of the distribution system outside of the principal business areas as frequently as experience indicates that they are necessary but not less than once every five years.

(b) Leaks located by these surveys shall be investigated promptly and any necessary repairs shall be made. When the condition of a main or a service, as indicated by leak frequency records or visual observation, deteriorates to the point where it should not be retained in service, it should be replaced or reconditioned.

(4) ABANDONING INACTIVE SERVICES AND MAINS.—Each operating company shall have a plan in its operation and maintenance procedures for sealing off the supply of gas to all abandoned services and mains by means of valves or other effective methods. This plan shall include procedures for abandoning services that have remained inactive for a period of years and for which there is no planned use. The plan should include the following provisions:

(a) If a main is abandoned in place and is disconnected or separated, the ends shall be capped, plugged or otherwise effectively sealed.

(b) If abandoned services are not removed, both ends shall be sealed or other effective means employed to prevent the possible passage of any gas leakage. In cases where a main is abandoned, together with the services connected to it, only the customer's end of such services need be sealed as stipulated above.

History.—§36, ch. 59-304.

368.40 Compressor station maintenance.—

(1) COMPRESSORS AND PRIME MOVERS.—The starting, operating and shut-down procedures for all gas compressor units shall be established by the operating company and the operating company shall take appropriate steps to see that the approved practices are followed.

(2) INSPECTION AND TESTING OF RELIEF VALVES.—All pressure relieving devices in compressor stations except rupture disks shall be inspected and/or tested in accordance with §368.42 and shall be operated periodically to determine that they open at the correct set pressure. Any defective or inadequate equipment found shall be promptly repaired or replaced. All remote control shut-down devices shall be inspected and tested periodically to determine that they function properly.

(3) INSPECTION FOR CORROSION.—In existing plants where corrosive or potentially corrosive situations exist, procedures shall be set up for periodic inspections at sufficiently frequent intervals to enable the discovery of corrosion before serious impairment of the strength of the piping or equipment has occurred. Prompt repairs or replacements shall be made when needed.

(4) ISOLATION OF EQUIPMENT FOR MAINTENANCE OR ALTERATIONS.—The operating company shall establish procedures for isolation of units or sections of piping for maintenance, and for purging prior to returning units to service, and shall follow these established procedures in all cases.

(5) STORAGE OF COMBUSTIBLE MATERIALS.—All flammable or combustible materials in quantities beyond those required for everyday use or other than those normally used in compressor buildings, shall be stored in a separate structure built of non-combustible material located a suitable distance from the compressor building. All above ground oil or gasoline storage tanks shall be protected.

(6) NO SMOKING SIGNS.—Smoking shall be prohibited in all areas of a compressor station in which the possible leakage or presence of gas constitutes a hazard of fire or explosion.

Suitable signs shall be posted to serve as warnings of these areas.

History.—§37, ch. 59-304.

Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.41 Procedures for maintaining pipe-type and bottle-type holders in safe operating condition.—Each operating company having a pipe-type or bottle-type holder shall prepare and place in its files a plan for the systematic, routine inspection and testing of the facilities which provides that:

(1) Procedures shall be followed to enable the detection of external corrosion before the strength of the container has been impaired.

(2) Periodic sampling and testing of gas in storage will be made to determine the dew point of vapors contained in the stored gas that might cause internal corrosion or interfere with the safe operations of the storage plant.

(3) The pressure control and pressure limiting equipment will be inspected and tested periodically to see if it is in a safe operating condition and has adequate capacity.

(4) Each operating company, having prepared such a plan as prescribed in this section, shall follow the plan, and keep records which detail the inspection and testing work done and the conditions found.

(5) All unsatisfactory conditions found shall be promptly corrected.

History.—§38, ch. 59-304.

Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.42 Maintenance of pressure limiting and pressure regulating stations.—

(1) All pressure limiting stations, relief devices, and pressure regulating stations and equipment shall be subjected to systematic periodic inspections and/or tests to determine that they are:

(a) In good mechanical condition.

(b) Adequate from the standpoint of capacity and reliability of operation for the service in which they are employed.

(c) Set to function at the correct pressure.

(d) Properly installed and protected from dirt, liquids, or other conditions that might prevent proper operation.

(2) (a) Every distribution system supplied by more than one district pressure regulating station shall be equipped with telemetering or recording pressure gauges to indicate the gas pressure in the district.

(b) On distribution systems supplied by a single district pressure regulating station the operating company shall determine the necessity of installing such gauges in the district. In making this determination the operating company shall take into consideration the operating conditions such as the number of customers supplied, the operating pressures, and the capacity of the installation, etc.

(c) If there are indications of abnormal high or low pressure the regulator and the auxiliary equipment shall be inspected and the necessary measures shall be employed to rectify any unsatisfactory operating conditions. Suitable periodic inspections of single district pressure regulation stations not equipped with telemetering or recording gauges shall be made to determine that the pressure regulating equipment is functioning properly.

(3) Whenever it is practicable to do so, pressure relief valves should be tested in place to determine that they have sufficient capacity to limit the pressure on the facilities to which they are connected to the desired maximum pressure. If such tests are not feasible, periodic review and calculation of the required capacity of the relieving equipment at each station should be made and these required capacities compared with the rated or experimentally determined relieving capacity of the installed equipment for the operating conditions under which it works. If the relieving equipment is of insufficient capacity, steps shall be taken to install new or additional equipment to provide capacity.

History.—§39, ch. 59-304.

368.43 Valve maintenance.—

(1) Pipeline valves that might be required during an emergency shall be inspected periodically and partially operated at least once per year to provide safe and proper operating conditions.

(2) Valves, the use of which may be necessary for the safe operation of a gas distribution system, shall be checked and serviced, including lubrication where necessary, at sufficiently frequent intervals to be reasonably assured of their satisfactory operation. Inspection shall include checking of alignment to permit use of a key or wrench and clearing from the valve box or vault any debris which would interfere with or delay the operation of the valve.

History.—§40, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.44 Vault maintenance.—Regularly scheduled inspections shall be made of each vault housing pressure regulating and pressure limiting equipment and having a volumetric internal content of 200 cubic feet or more to determine if it is in good physical condition and adequately vented. This inspection shall include the testing of the atmosphere in the vault for combustible gas. If gas is found in the vault atmosphere, the equipment in the vault shall be inspected for leaks and leaks found shall be repaired. The ventilating equipment shall also be inspected to determine if it is functioning properly. If the ventilating ducts are obstructed, they shall be cleared. The condition of the vault covers shall be carefully examined to see that they do not present a hazard to public safety.

History.—§41, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.45 Odorization.—Any gas, distributed to consumers through gas mains or gas services or used for domestic purposes in compressor plants, which does not naturally possess a distinctive odor to the extent that its presence in the atmosphere is readily detectable at concentrations well below that required to produce an explosive mixture shall have an odorant added to it to make it so detectable. Odorization is not necessary, however, for such gas as is delivered for further processing or use where the odorant would serve no useful purpose as a warning agent.

History.—§42, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.46 Pipelines under or crossing electric transmission and distribution lines.—Where gas pipelines cross or are located beneath overhead electric transmission and distribution lines, the company operating the pipelines shall take the following precautions:

(1) Employ blow-down connections that will direct the gas away from the electric conductors.

(2) Install a bonding conductor across points where the main is to be separated and maintain this connection while the pipeline is separated. The current carrying capacity of the bonding conductor should be at least one-half of the capacity of the overhead line conductors.

(3) Make a study on the problems of corrosion and electrolysis, taking the following factors into consideration:

(a) The possibility of the pipeline carrying either unbalanced line currents or fault currents.

(b) The possibility of lightning or fault currents inducing voltages sufficient to puncture pipe coatings or pipe.

(c) Cathodic protection of the pipeline, including location of ground beds, especially if the electric line is carried on steel towers.

(d) Desirability of installing electric bonding connections between the pipeline and either the steel tower footings or the buried ground facilities or the groundwire of the overhead electric system.

(4) Investigate the necessity of protecting insulating joints in the pipeline against induced voltages or currents resulting from lightning strokes. Such protection can be obtained by connecting buried sacrificial anodes to the pipe near the insulating joints or by bridging the pipeline insulator with a spark-gap or by other effective means.

(5) During the construction, operation and maintenance of the pipeline, the company operating the pipeline will:

(a) Maintain a minimum ground cover of thirty inches over the pipeline.

(b) Maintain permanent markers indicating the existence and location of the pipeline.

(c) Refrain from constructing any part of the pipeline or appurtenance thereto above ground, except valves, regulators or scrubbers.

History.—§43, ch. 59-304.

*Note.—See note following chapter title.

368.47 Flattening test for pipe.—

(1) The flattening test shall be made on standard weight and extra strong pipe over 2 in. in nominal diameter. It shall not be required for double extra strong pipe.

(2) For lap-welded and butt-welded pipe the test section shall be 4 to 6 in. in length and the weld shall be located 45° from the line of direction of the applied force.

(3) For electric-resistance-welded pipe, the test section shall be 4 to 6 in. in length and the weld shall be located 90° from the line of direction of the applied force.

(4) For seamless pipe the test section shall not be less than 2-1/2 in. in length.

(5) The test shall consist in flattening a section of pipe between parallel plates until the opposite walls meet. For welded pipe, no opening in the weld shall take place until the distance between the plates is less 3/4 of the original outside diameter for butt-weld, of 2/3 the outside diameter for lap-weld and electric-resistance weld, and no cracks or breaks in the metal elsewhere than in the weld shall occur until the distance between the plates is less than shown below. For seamless pipe no breaks or cracks in the metal shall occur until the distance between the plates is less than that shown below:

Kind of pipe	Distance between plates "H"
For butt-welded pipe	60% of outside diameter
For lap-welded pipe	one-third the outside diameter
For electric-resistance-welded pipe, grades A and B	one-third the outside diameter
For seamless pipe, grades A and B	to the distance "H" developed by the following formula: $H = \frac{(1 + e) t}{e + t/D}$

where:

H=distance between flattening plates in inches.

t=nominal wall thickness of pipe in inches.

D=actual outside diameter of pipe in inches, and

That portion of Santa Rosa sound lying in Escambia, Santa Rosa and Okaloosa counties and between Brooks bridge as the east boundary and a line drawn due north and south between Santa Rosa county and Santa Rosa island passing through the center of Deer Point Light as the west boundary. Live bait shrimp may be caught at any time but only under permit issued by the director of conservation. Permittees must fish with gear and under those conditions specified by the director.

Application for such permits shall be on forms supplied by the director and no charges may be made for issuing said permits. Permits shall be revokable when holder does not comply with the laws and regulations applicable to salt water conservation.

(b) Any person convicted of violating the provisions of this subsection shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided by law.

370.151 Tortugas shrimp beds; closed areas; permits; penalties.—

(1) It is the intention of the legislature of this state that action should be taken to conserve the supply of shrimp in the large shrimp bed which lies in the vicinity of the island of Dry Tortugas in the Florida Keys, and which furnishes more than fifty per cent of the shrimp in waters adjacent to the coast of Florida. It is further the sense of this legislature that the shrimp industry is a valuable industry to the economy of this state and that it deserves adequate protection.

(2) The Tortugas shrimp bed is hereby defined as follows:

Begin at Quick Flashing Wreck buoy located at 24° 57' north latitude and 81° 46' west longitude; thence proceed in a direction 248° from true north, until 82° west longitude is reached; thence proceed in a direction 255° from true north until 82° 23' west longitude and 24° 46' north latitude is reached; thence proceed in a direction 90° from true north until the 82° meridian west longitude is reached; thence proceed in a direction 48° from true north until the Quick Flashing Wreck buoy is reached which is the point of beginning.

For the purpose of permitting fishing or prohibiting fishing as related to the size of shrimp, those portions of the Tortugas shrimp beds which lie east of the 82° meridian west longitude may be considered separately from those lying west of said meridian.

(3) (a) Whenever the director of the state department of conservation shall determine that in any area or areas within the said Tortugas bed the preponderance of shrimp is of such small size that the continuous taking of shrimp from this area or areas is harmful, the director or his designated representative shall declare said area or areas to be closed. Appropriate buoys or other markings will designate such closed areas and notice of such closings will be published in one daily newspaper in Lee county, in one daily newspaper in Monroe county, and in one bi-weekly newspaper in Collier county, and announced over the radio frequently used by shrimp vessels in this area.

(b) Periodic surveys shall be made by the department of conservation in such closed areas, and when it is determined that the interests of conservation are best served, such closed areas shall again be open for the taking of shrimp, with appropriate notices being published in daily newspapers in Lee and Monroe counties as provided hereinbefore in subsection (3)(a). Such notices shall carry the day and hour on which such closed areas shall be reopened, and they shall be published at least forty-eight hours prior to the designated reopening of such closed areas.

(c) For the purpose of determining the closing of an area with regard to the size of shrimp therein, it is the sense of this legislature that when a series of drags by net in an area shows that the total average catch is sixty count or smaller shrimp, the count being made with heads off, the continued taking of shrimp therein is injurious to proper conservation.

(d) There is also established a nursery area in which no shrimping shall be permitted at any time, except live bait production as provided in this chapter. The nursery area thus established is encompassed by a line defined as follows:

Begin at Coon Key Light in Collier county; thence proceed in a direction of 185° from true north to the Whistle buoy approximately thirteen miles from said Coon Key Light; thence proceed in a direction of 190° from true north to the Quick Flashing Light marking the Wreck buoy which is located at 24° 57' north latitude and 81° 46' west longitude; thence proceed in a direction of 248° from true north until the eighty-second meridian is reached; thence proceed 180° from true north along said eighty-second meridian until 24° 35' north latitude is reached; thence proceed in a direction of 90° from true north until 81° 30' west longitude is reached; thence proceed in a direction 71° from true north until a point 24° 49' north latitude and 80° 47' west longitude is reached; thence proceed in a direction 53° from true north until a point at 25° north latitude and 80° 30' west longitude is reached; thence proceed in a direction true north until the mainland of Florida is reached; thence proceed west and north along the coast of mainland Florida until a point on the mainland is reached which is located exactly north of aforementioned Coon Key Light located in Collier county; thence proceed true south (180° from true north) until Coon Key Light (the point of beginning) is reached.

There is also established an additional nursery area described as follows:

Beginning at the intersection of the Florida boundary line in the straits of Florida with the meridian longitude 82° 00' west of Greenwich; running thence westerly along said Florida boundary line in the straits of Florida to the meridian longitude 82° 23' west of Greenwich; running thence due north along said meridian longitude 82° 23' to its intersection with the Florida boundary line in the Gulf of Mexico, which is a straight line drawn from the Island of Dry Tortugas on a bearing of 75° from magnetic north; running thence easterly along said Florida boundary line to its intersection with said meridian longitude 82° 00'; running thence southerly along said meridian longitude 82° 00' to the point of beginning.

Except that in all nursery areas established, those areas designated as Tortugas shrimp grounds, as above described, shall be opened to fishing when the shrimp are large enough as prescribed in this chapter.

(4) (a) The director of the department of conservation is authorized to take title in the name of the state of Florida to any vessel, or vessels, suitable for use in carrying out the inspection and patrol of the Tortugas bed which may be offered as a gift to the state by any person, firm, corporation or association in the shrimp industry, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this section. In the event such title is taken to such vessel or vessels, the director of the department of conservation is authorized to operate and keep said vessel or vessels in proper repair.

(b) The director of the department of conservation is further authorized to accept the temporary loan of any vessel or vessels, suitable for use in carrying out the provisions of this section, for periods not exceeding one year; provided, however, that the state shall not assume any liability to the owner or owners of said vessels for any damage done by said vessels to other vessels, persons or property; and provided further that in the operation of said loaned vessels, upkeep and repair shall consist only of minor repairs and routine maintenance; and provided further that the owner or owners shall carry full marine insurance coverage on said loaned vessel or vessels for the duration of the period during which said vessels are operated by the state.

(c) In the event the department of conservation shall not have a suitable vessel available, the director is authorized and directed to purchase a suitable vessel or vessels and an appropriation of seventy-five thousand dollars is hereby made from the general revenue fund of the state for the 1957-1959 biennium, which shall be available for the purchase, upkeep and repair of said patrol vessel or vessels; necessary buoys or lights, payment of publication costs in newspapers, notices by radio, and other necessary incidental expenses pertaining to this program, including additional personnel.

(d) In the event of emergency, the director of the department of conservation may lease or rent a suitable vessel for periods not exceeding one week.

(5) Whenever, under the provisions of this section, an area of the Tortugas bed as herein described has been closed and notice has been published, and any shrimp fishing vessel shall be found with its nets dragging in such closed area, the master of the vessel and the owner of the vessel shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall upon conviction be assessed such penalties as provided hereinafter. Due regard shall be given by the arresting officer to the receipt of notice of such closing by the offending masters, and, if it should appear to the arresting officer that the offending master did not have actual notice of the closed area, whether by buoys, lights, newspaper notices or radio, the master shall be issued a warning, with copy thereof to the owner of the vessel, as shall appear by the vessel's documents, and a copy shall be retained by the department of conservation. Repeated warning to the same vessel shall be evidence that through carelessness, inattention or neglect, a master or owner is deliberately seeking to avoid compliance with the provisions of this section, and such offender may then be assessed the penalties provided herein.

(6) It shall be unlawful to land or attempt to land any shrimp in the territorial waters or state of Florida without a permit issued by the director of conservation. Such permit shall be issued without charge. The director of conservation may revoke such landing permit upon a violation of any portion of this section. Such revocation of permit by the director may be reviewed by the board of conservation and the decision of the board may be reviewed by the circuit court under the procedure prescribed for appeals in Florida Statutes and the Florida appellate rules.

(7) It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to receive any shrimp from any vessel not in possession of a valid permit issued by the director. Any person violating this subsection of this section shall upon conviction be punished by a fine of not more than $500.

(8) Each offense under all subsections, except under subsection (7), shall be considered a misdemeanor and punishable upon conviction as follows:

(a) For the first offense the owner or the master, or both, shall be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500. For the second offense the owner or master, or both, shall be fined not less than $500.

(b) For the third offense the vessel shall be confiscated as provided in §370.061.

(c) The foregoing fines may be assessed by the court, within its discretion, against the master or owner, or both the master and owner.

(d) In addition to the fines enumerated above, the court may adjudge imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding 3 months for the master.

(9)(a) Nothing in this section shall apply to the taking of live shrimp for bait. All persons, firms and corporations desiring to fish for live bait shrimp within the areas in which trawling is permitted shall first apply to the director of conservation for a permit. Such application shall be made on forms to be supplied by the director and which shall require the applicant to furnish such information as may be deemed pertinent to the best interests of salt water conservation.

(b) Provided further, that the director may refuse to grant permits when it shall be apparent that the best interests of salt water conservation will be served by such denial.

(c) Provided further, that permits so granted will be subject to immediate revocation upon conviction for violation of this subsection or when it shall be apparent that the best interests of salt water conservation will be served by such revocation.

(d) Provided further, that due to the varied habitats and types of bottoms and hydrographic conditions embraced by the open fishing area, the director shall have the authority to specify and regulate the types of gear that may be used in the different sections of the open area. Such specifications and regulations shall be consonant with sound salt water conservation.

(10) This section shall not apply to foreign vessels or any vessel not flying the American flag.

370.152 Shrimp regulation; closed areas in certain counties along Atlantic Coast.—

(1) For the purposes of this act, and to facilitate the regulation of shrimp fishing undertaken herewith, the following definitions are established for counties in the state lying contiguous to the St. Johns River or along the Atlantic Coast from the Georgia line southward to and including Brevard County.

(a) A sample consists of one or more shrimp taken from an accurately defined part of the coastal waters of the area covered by the counties referred to in subsection (1).

(b) A series consists of ten or more samples taken within a period of not more than one week, each sample being taken at a different station within the pattern.

(c) A pattern consists of ten or more stations set up at appropriate places on the shrimping grounds of the area covered by the counties referred to in subsection (1).

(d) A station is the location on the shrimping grounds of the area covered by the counties referred to in subsection (1) where a shrimp sample is taken.

(e) Undersized shrimp are as defined in §370.15(2).

(2) The director shall have a complete series of shrimp samples taken at established stations within the pattern at reasonably frequent intervals.

(3) Whenever the samples so taken indicate that the shrimp in any particular area are undersized, he shall announce those findings in a newspaper of general circulation. Such announcement shall carry with it a statement that pursuant to law the area having small shrimp is closed. Those facts shall also be posted in the county courthouse of any and all counties concerned.

(4) Whenever an area which is closed due to presence of undersized shrimp is shown by later sampling to have shrimp which are not undersized, the director shall make these findings public in a newspaper of general circulation. He shall also announce that, pursuant to law, the area is open to the taking of shrimp. These facts shall also be posted in the county courthouse of any and all counties concerned.

(5) Live bait shrimp producers must have a permit from the director. Said permit may be issued by the director to only those persons who utilize the type equipment necessary for maintaining the shrimp alive after being caught. Application for said permit shall be made on forms prescribed by the director. Only one permit shall be issued to each boat, and it shall be on board boat with the operator and subject to inspection at all times.

(6) Whenever it shall appear that they will thereby not cause harm to shrimp productivity, live bait shrimp producers may continue to operate under permit, in areas closed to the taking of shrimp. The director shall have full authority to specify the type of gear to be used, the physical requirements for maintaining the shrimp alive after being caught, and the methods to be used throughout the catching, handling, processing, transporting and marketing of the live shrimp to insure their viability and to prevent such enterprises from becoming based upon the commerce in dead shrimp. In no case will any live bait producer be permitted to have in his possession on board his vessel more than five pounds of dead shrimp. Possession of more than five pounds of dead shrimp shall be cause for revocation of permit.

(7) Any time that it shall appear to the director that any particular live bait shrimp producing operation is not in the best interests of the resources of the state and citizens thereof, said director is required to revoke the permit under which the harmful operation is carried out.

(8) Any person violating any provision of this regulation shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine of not more than $500.00 or imprisonment for not more than 6 months, or both.

(9) Nothing in this act shall be construed to repeal any special or local act pertaining to regulation of shrimp.

History.—§§1-8, ch. 67-608.

370.16 Oysters and shell fish; regulation.—

(1) LEASE, APPLICATION FORM; NOTICE TO RIPARIAN OWNER; LANDS LEASED TO BE COMPACT.—When any qualified person desires to lease a part of the bottom or bed of any of the water of this state, for the purpose of growing oysters or clams, as provided for in this section, he shall present to the state board of conservation a written application setting forth the name and address of the applicant, a reasonably definite description of the location and amount of land covered by water desired, and shall pray that the application be filed; that the water bottoms be surveyed and a plat or map of the survey thereof be made if no plat or map of such bottoms should have been so made thereto, and that the water bottoms described be leased to the applicant under the provisions of this section; such applicant shall accompany with his written application a sufficient sum to defray the estimated expenses of the survey; thereupon the said board shall file such application and shall direct the director to have the same surveyed and platted forthwith at the expense of the applicant. When applications are made by two or more persons for the same lands, they shall be leased to the applicant who first filed application for same; but to all applications for leases of any of the bottoms of said waters owned under the riparian acts of the laws of Florida, heretofore enacted, notice of such application shall be given the riparian owner, when known, and when not known, notice of such application shall be given by publication for four weeks in some newspaper published in the county in which the water bottoms lie; and when there is no newspaper published in such county, then by posting such notice for four weeks at the court house door of said county, and preference shall be given to such riparian owners under the terms and conditions herein created, when such riparian owner makes application for such water bottoms for the purpose of planting oysters or clams before the same are leased to another. The lands leased shall be as compact as possible, taking into consideration the shape of the body of water and the condition of the bottom as to hardness, or soft mud or sand, or other conditions which would render the bottoms desirable or undesirable for the purpose of oyster or clam cultivation.

(2) SURVEYS, PLATS AND MAPS OF REEFS.—The board shall accept, adopt and use official reports, surveys and maps of oyster, clam or other shell fish grounds made under the direction of any authority of the United States as prima facie evidence of the natural oyster and clam reefs, for the purpose and intent of this chapter. The said board may also make surveys of any natural oyster or clam reefs when it deems such surveys necessary and where such surveys are made pursuant to an application for a lease, the cost thereof may be charged to the applicant as a part of the cost of his application.

(3) EXECUTION OF LEASES; LESSEE TO STAKE OFF BOUNDARIES; PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH REGULATIONS.—As soon as the survey has been made and the plat or map thereof filed with the said board and the cost thereof paid by the applicant, the said board may execute in duplicate a lease of the water bottoms to the applicant. One duplicate, with a plat or map of the water bottoms so leased, shall be delivered to the applicant, and the other, with a plat or map of the bottom so leased shall be retained by the said board, and registered in a lease book which shall be kept exclusively for that purpose by the said board; thereafter such lessees shall enjoy the exclusive use of said lands and all oyster and clams, shell and cultch grown or placed thereon shall be the exclusive property of such lessee as long as he shall comply with the provisions of this chapter. The board shall require the lessee to stake off and mark the water bottoms leased, by such ranges, monuments, stakes, buoys, etc., so placed and made as not to interfere with the navigation, as it may deem necessary to locate the same to the end that the location and limits of the lands embraced in such lease be easily and accurately found and fixed, and such lessee shall keep the same in good condition during the open oyster or clam season. Failure on the part of the lessee to comply with the orders of the said board to this effect within the time fixed by it, and to keep the same in good condition during the open oyster or clam season, shall subject such lessee to a fine not exceeding twenty-five dollars, for each and every such offense. All lessees shall cause the area of the leased water bottoms and the names of the lessees to be shown by signs as may be determined by the said board, if so required.

(4) LEASES IN PERPETUITY; RENT; STIPULATIONS; TAXES; CULTIVATION, ETC.—

(a) All leases made under the provisions of this chapter, shall begin on the day executed, and shall continue in perpetuity under such restrictions as shall herein be stated. The rent for the first ten years shall be fifty cents per acre, or any fraction of an acre, per year. This rent shall be paid in advance at the time of signing the lease up to the first day of January following, and annually thereafter in advance on or before the first day of January of each year, whether the lease be held by the original lessee or by an heir, assignee or transferee. No taxes, assessments or other licenses than those imposed in this chapter shall be levied or imposed on said leases or said leased lands, but the annual rental exacted and paid shall be held and considered all that can or shall be exacted by the state or county, subordinate political corporations or municipalities.

(b) Effective cultivation shall consist of the growing of oysters or clams in a density suitable for commercial harvesting over the amount of bottom prescribed by law. This commercial density to be accomplished by the planting of seed oysters, shell and cultch of various descriptions. Each tenant leasing from the state water bottoms under the provisions of this section, shall have begun within one year from the date of such lease, bona fide cultivation of the same, and shall by the end of the second year from the commencement of his lease, have placed under cultivation at least one-fourth of the water bottom leased, and shall each year thereafter place in cultivation at least one-fourth of the water bottom leased until the whole, suitable for bedding of oysters or clams, shall have been put in cultivation by the planting thereon of not less than two hundred barrels of oysters, shell or its equivalent in cultch to the acre. Where leases are granted or where grants have heretofore been made under existing laws for the planting of oysters or clams, such lessee or grantee is authorized to plant the leased or granted bottoms both in oysters and clams.

(c) These stipulations will apply to all leases granted after the passing of this section. All leases existing prior to the passing of this section will operate under the law which was in effect when the leases were granted.

(d) When evidence is gathered by the board and such evidence conclusively shows a lack of effective cultivation, said board may revoke leases and return the bottoms in question to the public domain.

(e) When evidence obtained by qualified marine biologists is available to the director which indicates that relatively temporary or transient hydrographic or biological conditions preclude the successful cultivation of oysters, lessees may apply to the director for a permit to suspend planting operations. Such permits shall be revokable upon thirty days notice from the director that growing conditions are again suitable and, upon the revocation of such permits, cultivation will again be mandatory as required by law.

(5) INCREASE OF RENTALS AFTER TEN YEARS.—After ten years from the execution of the lease, the rentals shall be increased to a minimum of one dollar per acre per annum. The board shall assess rental value on the leased water bottoms, taking into consideration their value as oyster or clam growing water bottoms, their nearness to factories, transportation and other conditions adding value thereto, and placing such valuation upon them in shape of annual rental to be paid thereunder as said condition shall warrant. Should the tenant or lessee be dissatisfied with the rental so fixed by the said board, he shall have the right to bring an action by bill in chancery in the circuit court of the county in which the leased lands, or any portion thereof, are situated, against the said board, to have said valuation passed upon by said court, and made to conform to justice and equity. Both parties shall have the right of appeal from the judgment of the circuit court to the appropriate district court of appeal.

(6) LEASES TRANSFERABLE, ETC.—Said leases shall be inheritable and transferable, in whole or in part, and shall also be subject to mortgage, pledge or hypothecation, and shall be subject to seizure and sale for debts as any other property, rights and credits in this state, and this provision shall also apply to all buildings, betterments and improvements thereon. No such inheritance or transfer shall be valid or of any force or effect whatever unless evidenced by an authentic act, judgment or proper judicial deed registered in the office of the board in a book to be provided for said purpose. The said board shall keep proper indexes, so that all original leases and all subsequent changes and transfers can be easily and accurately ascertained.

(7) PAYMENT OF RENT; FORFEITURE FOR NONPAYMENT; NOTICE, ETC.—All leases shall stipulate for the payment of the annual rent in advance on or before the first day of January of each year, and the further stipulation that the failure of the tenant to pay the rent punctually on or before said day, or within thirty days thereafter shall ipso facto, and upon demand, terminate and cancel said lease and forfeit to the state all the works, improvements, betterments, oysters and clams on the said leased water bottoms, and authorize the board to at once enter on said water bottom and take possession thereof, and such water bottom shall then be open for lease as herein provided; and the said board shall within ten days thereafter enter such termination, cancellation and forfeiture on its books and shall give such public notice thereof, and of the fact that the water bottoms are open to lease, as it shall deem proper; provided, that the said board may, in its discretion, waive such termination, cancellation and forfeiture when the rent due, with ten per cent additional, and all costs and expenses growing out of such failure to pay, be tendered to it within sixty days after the same became due; provided, that in all cases of cancellation of lease, the said board shall, after sixty days' notice by publication in some newspaper published in the state, having a general statewide circulation, which said notice shall contain a full description of the leased waters and beds and any parts thereof, sell such lease to the highest and best bidder; and all moneys received over and above the rents due to the state, under the terms of the lease and provisions herein, and costs and expenses growing out of such failure to pay, shall be paid to the lessee forfeiting his rights therein. No leased water bottoms shall be forfeited for nonpayment of rent under the provisions of this section, unless there shall previously have been mailed by the said board to the last known address of such tenant according to the books of said board, thirty days' notice of the maturity of such lease. Whenever any leased water bottoms are forfeited for nonpayment of rent, and there is a plat or survey thereof in the archives of the said board, when such bedding grounds are re-leased, no new survey thereof shall be made, but the original stakes, monuments and bounds shall be preserved, and the new lease shall be based upon the original survey. This subsection shall also apply to all costs and expenses taxed against a lessee, by the board, under this section.

(8) CANCELLATION OF LEASES TO NATURAL REEFS.—Any person, within six months from and after the execution of any lease to water bottoms, may file a petition with the board for the purpose of determining whether a natural oyster or clam reef, having an area of not less than one hundred square yards, existed within the leased area, on the date of the lease, with sufficient natural or maternal oysters or clams thereon (not including coon oysters) to have constituted a stratum sufficient to have been resorted to by the public generally for the purpose of gathering the same to sell for a livelihood. The said petition shall be in writing addressed to the state board of conservation, verified under oath, stating the location and approximate area of the natural reef, the claim or interest of the petitioner therein and requesting the cancellation of the lease to the said natural reef. No petition may be considered unless it be accompanied by a deposit of ten dollars to defray the expense of examining into the matter. The petition may include several contemporaneous natural reefs of oysters or clams. Upon receipt of such petition the board shall cause an investigation to be made into the truth of the allegations of the petition and if found untrue the ten dollars deposit shall be retained by the board to defray the expense of the investigation, but should the allegations of the petition be found true and the leased premises to contain a natural oyster or clam reef, as above described, the said ten dollars shall be returned to the petitioner and the costs and expenses of the investigation taxed against the lessee and the lease canceled to the extent of the natural reef and the same shall be marked with buoys and stakes and notices placed thereon showing the same to be a public reef, the cost of said markers and notices to be taxed against the lessee. The lessee shall be notified of the filing of the petition and of the time and place of investigation and be given full and reasonable opportunity to be heard. The decision of the board shall be subject to review by certiorari by the circuit court of the county within which the alleged natural reef is situated. The decision of the circuit court shall be subject to appeal to the appropriate district court of appeal.

(9) WHEN NATURAL REEFS MAY BE INCLUDED IN LEASE.—When an application for oyster or clam bedding grounds is filed and upon survey of such bedding ground, it should develop that the area applied for contains natural oyster or clam reefs or beds less in size than one hundred square yards, or oyster or clam reefs or bars of greater size, but not of sufficient quantity to constitute a stratum, and it should further be made to appear to the board by the affidavit of the applicant, together with such other proof as the board may require, that the natural reef, bed or bar could not be excluded, and the territory applied for properly protected or policed, the board may, if it deems it for the best interest of the state and the oyster industry so to do, permit the including of such natural reefs, beds, or bars; and it shall fix a reasonable value on the same, to be paid by the applicant for such bedding ground; provided, that no such natural reefs shall be included in any lease hereafter granted to the bottom or bed of waters of this state contiguous to Franklin county. There shall be no future oyster leases issued in Franklin county.

(10) SETTLEMENT OF BOUNDARY DISPUTES; REVIEW.—The board shall determine and settle all disputes as to boundaries between lessees of bedding grounds, the proceedings to be conducted under such rules and regulations as the board may prescribe. In this connection the board may appoint a master to act in the matter and advise it concerning the same. All parties shall have a right of review by certiorari by the circuit courts from decisions and orders of the board. The board shall, in all cases, be the judge as to whether any particular bottom is or is not a natural reef, or whether it is suitable for bedding oysters or clams.

(11) TRESPASS ON LEASED BEDS; GATHERING OYSTERS BETWEEN SUNSET AND SUNRISE FROM NATURAL REEFS, ETC.—Any person, who shall willfully take oysters, shells, cultch or clams bedded or planted by a licensee under this chapter, or grantee under the provisions of heretofore existing laws, or riparian owner who may have heretofore planted the same on his riparian bottoms, or any oysters or clams deposited by anyone making up a cargo for market, or who shall willfully carry or attempt to carry away the same without permission of the owner thereof, or who shall willfully or knowingly remove, break off, destroy, or otherwise injure or alter any stakes, bounds, monuments, buoys, notices or other designations of any natural oyster or clam reefs or beds or private bedding or propagating grounds, or who shall willfully injure, destroy or remove any other protection around any oyster or clam beds, or who shall willfully move any bedding ground stakes, buoys, marks or designations, placed by the board, or who shall gather oysters between sunset and sunrise from the natural reefs or from private bedding grounds, unless he shall have lights attached to the rigging of said boat or vessel, if the same be a sailing vessel, or placed in some conspicuous place on said boat or vessel, if the same be a power boat or vessel, in such a manner that it may be seen from every direction, shall be guilty of a violation of the provisions of this section and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined six hundred dollars or imprisoned for one year in the state prison or be subject to both such fine and imprisonment.

(12) PROTECTION OF OYSTER AND CLAM REEFS.—The board shall improve, enlarge and protect the natural oyster and clam reefs of this state to the extent it may deem advisable and the means at its disposal will permit. Said board shall also, to the same extent, assist in protecting the leased or granted reefs in the hands of lessees or grantees from the state. Said board shall also make a detailed report, to the legislature at each session, of its efforts in relation to the oyster and clam business, together with recommendations for their development and the proper protection of the rights of the state and private holders therein.

(13) STAKING OFF WATER BOTTOMS OR BEDDING OYSTERS WITHOUT OBTAINING LEASE; PENALTY.—Any person staking off the water bottoms of this state, or bedding oysters on the bottoms of the waters of this state, without previously leasing same as required by law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction, pay a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or shall suffer imprisonment not exceeding six months, and shall acquire no rights by reason of such staking off. This provision does not apply to grants heretofore made under the provisions of any heretofore existing laws, or to artificial beds made heretofore by riparian owners or his grantees on his riparian bottoms.

(14) CLOSED SEASON FOR OYSTERS; RULES OF EVIDENCE; PROVISIO.—No person may take, gather or catch oysters on the natural reefs of this state, or have such oysters in his possession, for sale between June 1, and September 1, of each year, except from private leased or granted grounds, or artificial beds of riparian owners, except as otherwise provided in this section; and the possession of oysters during said closed season shall be prima facie a violation of this section, and the burden shall be on the possessor of such oysters to prove that they were fished or gathered beyond the jurisdiction of the state or from private oyster beds. The board shall, however, have authority to permit the fishing of uncultured oysters from the natural oyster reefs as herein provided, from April 1, until October 1, but only for bedding purposes, and then only under such rules and regulations as said board may adopt to carry out the provisions of law.

(15) REMOVING OYSTERS FROM NATURAL REEFS; LICENSES, ETC., PENALTY.

(a) It is unlawful to use a dredge or any means or implement other than hand tongs in removing oysters from the natural or artificial state reefs, except in bodies of water over a general depth of twelve feet, or where in the opinion of the board, the body of water regardless of its depth, is too open and exposed to be ordinarily fished with hand tongs, in which event the said board shall be authorized to issue a license for the use of scrapers or dredges; provided, the applicant shall pay an annual police license fee of twenty-five dollars for each sailing or power vessel using scrapers or dredges, in addition to its other license, and shall give bond in favor of the governor of the State of Florida, with good security, to be approved by the board in the sum of three thousand dollars, conditioned that said implements shall not be used on the state reefs contrary to law. Upon the payment of twenty-five dollars annually, for each vessel or boat using a dredge or machinery in the gathering of clams, a license may be issued by the director for such use to such person.

(b) Lessees of bedding grounds shall have the right to use in such bedding grounds any implements, or appliances that they may desire. The board shall require that such lessees procure a permit from it to use such implements, and shall require of such lessees that they shall furnish a bond payable to the governor of the State of Florida, to be approved by the said board, in the sum of three thousand dollars, that such implements or appliances shall not be used on the natural oyster reefs contrary to law. When such implements or appliances are used exclusively on private propagating or bedding grounds, no charge shall be made for said permit. Anyone violating the provisions of this section shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding two years.

(16) CULLING OYSTERS; POSSESSION OF UNDERSIZED OYSTERS REGARDLESS OF SOURCE; REGULATIONS.—

(a) All oysters taken from the waters of this state shall be culled, unless otherwise provided in this section.

(b) In the case of oysters emanating from natural, publicly owned beds, all oysters which measure less than three inches in greatest dimensions and all bedding shells shall be immediately replaced and scattered broadcast upon the natural reefs from which they were taken.

(c) In the case of oysters emanating from privately owned or privately controlled beds, all oysters which measure less than three inches in greatest dimensions, and all bedding shells may be returned to lease or privately managed area or may be spread broadcast over natural publicly owned reefs.

(d) In no case are oysters to be landed which are less than the prescribed legal size, regardless of their source.

(e) Possession or transportation of oysters which in size are less than the three inches required shall be prima facie a violation. All oysters, regardless of source or origin, whether they were produced in Florida or elsewhere, must measure in the shell at least three inches in their greatest dimension.

(f) In determining what oysters shall be removed from marketable oysters, no oysters under three inches in greatest dimensions shall be included in the percentage of oysters under-size; unless they adhere to the marketable oysters so closely that to remove the same would destroy either the oyster under-size or the marketable oysters. No captain or person in charge of any vessel, and no canner, packer, commission man, dealer, or other person shall have in his possession oysters not culled according to law, unless permitted by the board for the purpose of planting as provided by law. An excess of over twenty-five per cent of small oysters estimated as above provided for in any cargo or lot of oysters shall be considered a violation of this section. The director, any conservation agent or any police officer of the state, shall cause to be measured up the whole or a part of any cargo or lot of oysters at the expense of such person or vessel, to determine said percentage when found necessary.

(17) FISHING FOR BEDDING PURPOSES, ETC.—

(a) Designation of areas for the taking of seed oysters to be planted on leases and grants is to be made by qualified personnel of the board. Seed oysters may be taken at any time during the year. The amount of seed oysters to be obtained will be established in each case by the board.

(b) Application for obtaining seed oysters must be made to the board. In return, the board may assign an area and a period of time for the seed oysters to be taken. All planting operations may take place under the surveillance of the director.

(18) SEVERANCE TAX ON OYSTERS AND CLAMS; DISPOSITION.—No severance or privilege taxes on oysters and clams shall be collected after June 17, 1959, provided, all moneys in the "oyster severance tax fund" shall be transferred to the "oyster and clam rehabilitation trust fund."

(19) LICENSES; OYSTER AND CLAM CANNERIES.—Every person, as a condition precedent to the operation of any oyster or clam canning factory in this state, shall obtain a license therefor and pay a license fee of fifty dollars. Said license shall be issued by the director upon proper written application on forms to be furnished by the board. The moneys paid for licenses under this section shall be deposited in the state treasury to the credit of the general revenue fund.

(20) FALSE RETURNS AS TO OYSTERS OR CLAMS HANDLED.—Each packer, canner, corporation, firm, commission man or dealer in fish shall, on the first day of each month, make a return under oath to the state board of conservation, as to the number of oysters, clams and shell fish purchased, caught or handled during the preceding month. All severance tax as provided for in subsection (18) shall be paid to the board with this report. Whoever is found guilty of making any false affidavit to any such report shall be guilty of perjury and punished as provided by law, and any person who fails to make such report shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months.

(21) COLLECTION OF LICENSES AND TAXES.—All taxes and licenses shall be collected by the director under such rules and regulations as may be adopted by the board, and by him deposited in the state treasury to the credit of the general revenue fund. The said director shall keep a detailed account of all funds passing through his hands.

(22) WATER PATROL FOR COLLECTION OF TAX.—

(a) The board may establish and maintain necessary patrols of the salt waters of Florida, with authority to use such force as may be necessary to capture any vessel or person violating the provisions of the laws relating to oysters and clams, and may establish ports of entry at convenient locations where the severance or privilege tax levied on oysters and clams may be collected or paid and may make such rules and regulations as it may deem necessary for the enforcement of such tax.

(b) Each person in any way dealing in shell fish shall keep a record, on blanks or forms prescribed by said board, of all oysters, clams and shell fish taken, purchased, used or handled by him, with the name of the persons from whom purchased, if purchased, together with the quantity and the date taken or purchased, and shall exhibit said account at all times when requested so to do by the said board, the director or any conservation agent; and he shall, on the first day of each month, make a return under oath to the said board as to the number of oysters, clams and shell fish purchased, caught or handled during the preceding month. The said board may require detailed returns whenever it deems same necessary.

(23) SEIZURE OF VESSELS AND CARGOES VIOLATING OYSTER AND CLAM LAWS, ETC.—Vessels, with their cargoes, violating the provisions of the laws relating to oysters and clams, may be seized by anyone duly and lawfully authorized to make arrests under this section, or by any sheriff or his deputies, or any constable, and taken into custody, and, when not arrested by the sheriff or his deputies or a constable, delivered to the sheriff of the county in which the seizure is made, and shall be liable to forfeiture, on appropriate proceedings being instituted by the board, before the courts of that county. In such case the cargo shall at once be disposed of by the sheriff or constable, for account of whom it may concern. Should the master or any of the crew of said vessel be found guilty of using dredges or other instruments in fishing oysters on natural reefs contrary to law, or fishing on the natural oyster or clam reefs out of season, or unlawfully taking oysters or clams belonging to a lessee, such vessel shall be declared forfeited by the court, and ordered sold and the proceeds of the sale shall be deposited with the state treasurer to the credit of the general revenue fund; any person guilty of such violations shall not be permitted to have any license provided for in this chapter within a period of one year from the date of conviction. Pending proceedings such vessel may be released upon the owner furnishing bond, with good and solvent security in double the value of the vessel, conditioned upon its being returned in good condition to the sheriff or constable to abide the judgment of the court.

(24) OYSTER REHABILITATION COMMISSION.—The governor of this state may appoint in any county, where natural oyster reefs exist, an oyster rehabilitation commission for such county, the same to be composed of three good and lawful citizens of such county. Such commission shall serve without compensation.

(25) COMMISSION ADVISORY ONLY.—The oyster rehabilitation commission in any county shall constitute an advisory commission to the state board of conservation with reference to all matters pertaining to the replanting and rehabilitation of natural oyster bars in such county and shall have no other power than to advise said board concerning the administration of the shell fish laws in the county in which its members are appointed; and to recommend to such board the manner and method of the expenditure of funds provided for the rehabilitation of natural oyster beds in such county so that the fullest benefit of such oyster beds may be received from said expenditure. The recommendation of the said commission shall not be binding upon the board but is advisory only.

(26) DUTIES OF COMMISSION.—The members of the oyster rehabilitation commission shall acquaint themselves with all conditions affecting the natural beds in the county for which appointed and shall locate, select and recommend to the board the natural oyster beds in their respective counties in greatest need of rehabilitation; they shall recommend to said board the ways and means of replanting and rehabilitating said beds, having regard to local conditions, and make such other recommendations concerning the opening and closing of the natural reefs and beds and propagation and care of oysters thereon as may appear to them to be advisable.

(27) CONFERENCE WITH STATE BOARD.—The board shall confer with, receive and consider the recommendations of the several county oyster rehabilitation commissions concerning the shell fish industry of their respective counties and shall be governed thereby only to the extent that the same may be to the best interest of the shell fish industry of the state.

(28) REMOVAL OF COMMISSIONERS.—The governor may remove any commissioner appointed to any county oyster rehabilitation commission, who shall fail or neglect to diligently perform the duties of such office, and shall fill the vacancy so created by such removal so that there shall be a complete commission of three members in each county, having natural oyster reefs or beds, at all times.

(29) OYSTER AND CLAM REHABILITATION.—The board of county commissioners of the several counties may appropriate and expend such sums as they may deem proper for the purpose of planting or transplanting oysters, clams, oyster shell or clam shell or cultch, or to perform such other acts for the enhancement of the oyster and clam industries of the state, out of any sum in the county treasury not otherwise appropriated.

(30) OYSTER CONSERVATION DISTRICTS.—Whenever it shall appear to the board, that any area in the state is in need of special protection, development or encouragement in the planting, propagation, within such area, except private leased or granted oyster grounds. The said area shall be readily identifiable by reference to geographical location or recognized landmarks, or by survey made by the board. Notice of the designation of said area or areas as oyster conservation district or districts shall be published once each week for two consecutive weeks, and such additional publicity of the creation of such district may be circulated as the board may deem necessary.

(31) REVENUE FROM SALE OF DEAD SHELLS AND LEASE BOTTOMS.—Any and all moneys hereafter received or collected by the trustees of the internal improvement trust fund under the provisions of §253.45, or any amendments thereof for or on the account of the sale of dead shell or for the right or privilege to take shell or shell deposits from the sovereign lands of the state are hereby appropriated for use in financing biological, marketing, transportation, processing, and promotional research for fisheries, oysters, clams, and shrimp, within the jurisdiction of this state; provided that the board of conservation is authorized to return up to twenty per cent of the moneys collected from the sale of oyster shells dredged in a county's waters to that county for distribution to the several counties for the sole purpose of oyster and clam rehabilitation as provided under subsection (29), and the balance of said moneys not returned to the several counties shall be deposited in the state treasury in the marine biological research trust fund.

(32) DREDGING OF DEAD SHELLS FROM LIVE GROUND PROHIBITED.—The dredging of dead shell deposits from living oyster grounds is hereby prohibited in the state. The said board is hereby empowered to prohibit all dredging of dead oyster shell deposits when in its judgment and discretion the same will adversely affect the said oyster industry. The said board, however, may authorize the dredging of dead oyster shell deposits by permit when in its judgment and discretion the same will not adversely affect the oyster industry of the state.

(33) OYSTER CONSERVATION COMMISSION WITHIN CONSERVATION DISTRICTS.—The governor of this state shall appoint in any oyster conservation district which may be created under the provisions of subsection (30) an oyster conservation commission for the said district, the same to be composed of seven outstanding citizens of the said district, two of whom shall be experienced oyster gatherers, two of whom shall be experienced oyster dealers, and two of whom shall be experienced business men, not directly connected with the industry, and one of whom shall be the chief conservation agent in the oyster conservation district. The members of such commission shall serve without compensation and shall be vested with the duties, and subject to the limitations, prescribed by subsections (24) through (28) authorizing the creation of oyster rehabilitation commissions.

(35) OYSTER SHELLS PROPERTY OF BOARD.—

(a) Except in the case of oysters shipped in the shells out of the area where produced, all oyster shells shall be and remain the property of the board when such shells are needed and required for rehabilitation projects and planting operations and when sufficient resources and facilities exist for handling and planting said shell; and when the collection and handling of such shell is practical and useful; provided that bona fide holders of leases and grants who desire to retain such shell as they produce for planting purposes may do so by obtaining a permit from the director; and provided further that such storage, transportation and planting of shells so retained by lessees and grantees shall be carried out under the surveillance of agents of the board and be subject to such reasonable time limits as the director may fix. In the event of an accumulation of an excess of shells, the said board is hereby authorized to sell shells only to private growers for use in oyster or clam cultivation on bona fide leases and grants. No profit shall accrue to the board in these transactions and shells are to be sold for the estimated moneys spent by the board to gather and stockpile said shells. Planting of shells obtained from the board by purchase shall be subject to the surveillance of the board if said board chooses to exercise its right of supervision. Any shells not claimed and used by private oyster cultivators ten years after shells are gathered and stockpiled, may be sold at auction to the highest bidder for any private use.

(b) Whenever the board determines that it is unfeasible to collect oyster or clam shells, the shells become the property of the producer.

(c) Whenever oyster or clam shells are owned by the board and it is not useful, or feasible to use them in the rehabilitation projects, and when no leaseholder has exercised his option to acquire them, the board may sell such shells for the highest price obtainable. The shells thus sold may be used in any manner and for any purpose at the discretion of the purchaser.

(d) Moneys derived from the sale of shell shall be deposited in the state treasury into the oyster and clam rehabilitation trust fund. Said moneys are hereby appropriated and shall be used for the enhancement, enlargement, and improvement of the oyster and clam industries of Florida.

(36) DIVISION OF OYSTER CULTURE.—There is hereby created a division of the state board of conservation which shall be designated as the division of oyster culture to be administered by a director to be employed by the board, and who shall serve under the supervision of the director of conservation. The duties of the director, division of oyster culture, shall be to protect all oyster beds, oyster grounds and oyster reefs from damage or destruction resulting from improper cultivation, propagation, planting or

ATLANTIC STATES MARINE FISHERIES COMPACT

The contracting states solemnly agree:

ARTICLE I

The purpose of this compact is to promote the better utilization of the fisheries, marine, shell, and anadromous, of the Atlantic seaboard by the development of a joint program for the promotion and protection of such fisheries, and by the prevention of the physical waste of the fisheries from any cause. It is not the purpose of this compact to authorize the states joining herein to limit the production of fish or fish products for the purpose of establishing or fixing the price thereof, or creating and perpetuating a monopoly.

ARTICLE II

This agreement shall become operative immediately as to those states executing it whenever any two or more of the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida have executed it in the form that is in accordance with the laws of the executing state and the Congress has given its consent. Any state contiguous with any of the aforementioned states and riparian upon waters frequented by anadromous fish, flowing into waters under the jurisdiction of any of the aforementioned states, may become a party hereto as hereinafter provided.

ARTICLE III

Each state joining herein shall appoint three representatives to a Commission hereby constituted and designated as the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission. One shall be the executive officer of the administrative agency of such state charged with the conservation of the fisheries resources to which this compact pertains or, if there be more than one officer or agency, the official of that state named by the Governor thereof. The second shall be a member of the legislature of such state designated by the House Committee on Commerce and Reciprocal Trade of such state. The third shall be a citizen who shall have a knowledge of and interest in the marine fisheries problem to be appointed by the Governor. This Commission shall be a body corporate with the powers and duties set forth herein.

ARTICLE IV

The duty of the said Commission shall be to make inquiry and ascertain from time to time such methods, practices, circumstances and conditions as may be disclosed for bringing about the conservation and the prevention of the depletion and physical waste of the fisheries, marine, shell and anadromous, of the Atlantic seaboard. The Commission shall have power to recommend the coordination of the exercise of the police powers of the several states within their respective jurisdictions to promote the preservation of those fisheries and their protection against overfishing, waste, depletion or any abuse whatsoever and to assure a continuing yield from the fisheries resources of the aforementioned states.

To that end the Commission shall draft and, after consultation with the Advisory Committee hereinafter authorized, recommend to the Governors and legislatures of the various signatory states legislation dealing with the conservation of the marine, shell and anadromous fisheries of the Atlantic seaboard. The Commission shall, more than one month prior to any regular meeting of the legislature in any signatory state, present to the Governor of the State its recommendations relating to enactments to be made by the legislature of that state in furthering the intents and purposes of this compact.

The Commission shall consult with and advise the pertinent administrative agencies in the states party hereto with regard to problems connected with the fisheries and recommend the adoption of such regulations as it deems advisable.

The Commission shall have power to recommend to the states party hereto the stocking of the waters of such states with fish and fish eggs or joint stocking by some or all of the States party hereto and when two or more of the states shall jointly stock waters the Commission shall act as the coordinating agency for such stocking.

ARTICLE V

The Commission shall elect from its number a Chairman and a Vice Chairman and shall appoint and at its pleasure remove or discharge such officers and employees as may be required to carry the provisions of this compact into effect and shall fix and determine their duties, qualifications and compensation. Said Commission shall adopt rules and regulations for the conduct of its business. It may establish and maintain one or more offices for the transaction of its business and may meet at any time or place but must meet at least once a year.

ARTICLE VI

No action shall be taken by the Commission in regard to its general affairs except by the affirmative vote of a majority of the whole number of compacting states present at any meeting. No recommendation shall be made by the Commission in regard to any species of fish except by the affirmative vote of a majority of the compacting states which have an interest in such species. The Commission shall define what shall be an interest.

ARTICLE VII

The Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior of the Government of the United States shall act as the primary research agency of the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission cooperating with the research agencies in each state for that purpose. Representatives of the said Fish and Wildlife Service shall attend the meetings of the Commission.

An advisory committee to be representative of the commercial fishermen and the salt water anglers and such other interests of each state as the Commission deems advisable shall be established by the Commission as soon as practicable for the purpose of advising the Commission upon such recommendations as it may desire to make.

ARTICLE VIII

When any state other than those named specifically in Article II of this compact shall become a party thereto for the purpose of conserving its anadromous fish in accordance with the provisions of Article II the participation of such state in the action of the Commission shall be limited to such species of anadromous fish.

ARTICLE IX

Nothing in this compact shall be construed to limit the powers of any signatory state or to repeal or prevent the enactment of any legislation or the enforcement of any requirement by any signatory state imposing additional conditions to conserve its fisheries.

ARTICLE X

Continued absence of representation or of any representative on the Commission from any state party hereto shall be brought to the attention of the Governor thereof.

ARTICLE XI

The States party hereto agree to make annual appropriations to the support of the Commission in proportion to the primary market value of the products of their fisheries, exclusive of cod and haddock, as recorded in the most recent published reports of the Fish and Wildlife Service of the United States Department of the Interior, provided no state shall contribute less than two hundred dollars per annum and the annual contribution of each state above the minimum shall be figured to the nearest one hundred dollars.

The compacting states agree to appropriate initially the annual amounts scheduled below, which amounts are calculated in the manner set forth herein, on the basis of the catch record of 1938. An advisory committee to be representative of the commercial salt water fishermen and the salt water anglers and such other interests of each state as the commissioners deem advisable may be established by the commissioners from each state for the purpose of advising those commissioners upon such recommendations as it may desire to make.

The purpose of §§371.63-371.68 is to make taxing and registration procedures similar to those of automobiles and airplanes, all of which are power-driven either on land or air or water, as motor vehicles or motorboats and to provide for a boat registration tax and certificate so as to determine the ownership of boats which travel the waters of this state and to aid in the advancement of maritime safety.

History.—§1, ch. 65-361.

371.63 Legislative declaration.—All boats hereinafter described propelled in whole or in part by a motor, either inboard or outboard, and registered as provided herein or in chapters 370 and 372, are hereby declared to be motor vehicles and shall be taxed and certified as motor vehicles; provided, however, that said boats shall not be entitled to the exemption granted to motor vehicles in §212.08(3); provided, further, that nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit any municipality that expends money for the patrol, regulation and maintenance of any lakes, rivers, or waters in such municipality from regulating such boats resident in such municipalities and charging a license fee therefor. All moneys received from such fee shall be expended for the patrol, regulation and maintenance of the lakes, rivers and waters of such municipality.

History.—§1, ch. 65-361.

371.64 Exemption from personal property tax.—All boats and vessels registered as provided herein or in chapters 370 and 372, and outboard motors capable of propelling any such boat or vessel, shall be exempt from any personal property tax and in lieu thereof shall pay a boat registration certificate tax. A certificate of registration shall be issued for any documented vessel, the owner of which has paid the boating registration certificate tax, but no state registration number shall be issued to said vessel.

History.—§3, ch. 59-81.

372.313 Delivery of property to claimant.—

Any person, firm or corporation filing a claim in the cause, which claim shall state fully his right, title, claim or interest, in and to the seized property, may, at any time after said claim is filed with the clerk of the court, obtain possession of the seized property by filing a petition therefor with the board of county commissioners and posting with said board, to be approved by it, a surety bond, payable to the governor of the state, in twice the amount of the value of the said property as fixed in the board's return to the clerk of the circuit court, with a corporate surety duly authorized to transact business in this state as surety, conditioned upon his paying to the board of county commissioners the value of the property together with costs of the proceeding, if judgment of forfeiture be entered by the court. Upon the posting of such bond with the board and the release of the property to the applicant the cause shall proceed to final judgment.

ment in the same manner, as it would have, had no such bond been filed, except that any exception to be issued in the cause pursuant to judgment may run against and be enforced against the person posting said bond and his surety.

History.—§4, ch. 59-81.

372.315 Proceeding when claim filed.—When one or more claims are filed in the cause the cause shall be tried upon the issues made thereby with the petition for forfeiture with any affirmative defenses being deemed denied without further pleading. Judgment by default shall be entered against all other persons, firms and corporations owning, claiming or having an interest in and to the property seized, after which the cause shall proceed as in other common law cases; except any claimant shall prove to the satisfaction of the court that he did not know or have any reason to believe, at the time his right, title, interest, or lien arose, that the property was being used for or in connection with the violation of any of the statutes or laws of this state prohibiting the illegal use of nets, traps or fishing devices, and further that at said time there was no reasonable reason to believe that the said property might be used for such purpose. Where the owner or user of the property has been convicted of a violation of the statutes and laws of this state prohibiting the illegal use of nets, traps or fishing devices, such conviction shall be prima facie evidence that each claimant had reason to believe that the property might be used for or in connection with a violation of such statutes and laws, and the burden of proof shall be upon each claimant to satisfy the court that he was without knowledge of such conviction, providing, however, the prima facie presumption of knowledge of a previous conviction of a violation of this law shall only apply to a subsequent proceeding involving the forfeiture of nets, traps or fishing devices, when owned by such previous offender and upon which a lien is held by the same lienee involved in the first claim proceedings. Trial of all such causes shall be without a jury, except in such cases as a trial by jury may be guaranteed by the state constitution and in such cases trial by jury shall be deemed waived unless demanded in the claim filed.

furnish the state attorney with a copy thereof and the said state attorney shall represent the state in the forfeiture proceeding. The attorney general shall represent the state in all appeals from judgments of forfeiture to the supreme court. History.—§6, ch. 59-81.

372.317 Judgment of forfeiture.—On final hearing the return of the board to the clerk of the circuit court shall be taken as prima facie evidence that the property seized was or had been used in, or in connection with, the violation of the statutes and laws of this state prohibiting the illegal use of nets, traps or fishing devices in this state and shall be sufficient predicate for a judgment of forfeiture in the absence of other proofs and evidence. The burden shall be upon the claimant to show that the property was not so used, if so used, that they had no knowledge of such violation and no reason to believe that the seized property was or would be used for the violation of such statutes and laws. Where such property is encumbered by a lien or retained title agreement under circumstances wherein the lienholder had no knowledge that the property was or would be used in violating such statutes and laws, and no reasonable reason to believe that it might be so used, then the court may declare a forfeiture of all other rights, titles and interests, subject, however, to the lien of such innocent lienholder, or may direct the payment of such lien from the proceeds of any sale of the said property. The proceedings and the judgment of forfeiture shall be in rem and shall be primarily against the property itself. Upon the entry of a judgment of forfeiture the court shall determine the disposition to be made of the property, which may include the destruction thereof, the sale thereof, the allocation thereof to some governmental function or use, or otherwise as the court may determine. Sales of such property shall be at public sale to the highest and best bidder therefor for cash after two weeks public notice as the court may direct. Where the property has been delivered to a claimant upon the posting of a bond the court shall determine the value of the property or portion thereof subject to forfeiture and shall enter judgment against the principal and surety of the bond in such amount for which execution shall issue in the usual manner. Upon the application of any claimant the court may fix the value of the forfeitable interest or interests in the seized property and permit such claimant to redeem the said property upon the payment of a sum equal to said value which sum shall be disposed of as would the proceeds of a sale of the said property under a judgment of forfeiture.

373.012 Topographic mapping.—

(1) In order to accelerate topographic mapping in this state by the United States geological survey, the state road department is hereby authorized and directed to set aside, to pledge, and to make available annually out of its state roads trust fund the sum of thirty thousand dollars; and the trustees of the internal improvement trust fund are hereby authorized and directed to set aside, to pledge and to make available annually out of the internal improvement trust fund the sum of ten thousand dollars; and the central and southern Florida flood control district, out of its funds to be derived out of the proceeds of special assessments of its flood control taxes, is authorized and directed to set aside, to pledge and to make available annually such sum as may be required to meet the needs for topographic mapping of areas affecting said district. Such sums shall be delivered to the treasurer of the United States or to other proper officer, to be applied by the department of the interior, U. S. geological survey, as to said state road department and to said trustees, toward the payment of not exceeding one-half the cost of standard topographic mapping in this state conducted by the United States geological survey and as to said flood control district to be applied toward the payment of such proportion or part of such cost as said district may determine. Provided, however, that said sums authorized in this section for the state road department and for the trustees of the internal improvement trust fund shall not prevent either of said agencies from providing additional amounts for topographic mapping of areas which either agency may consider of priority status in the interest of said agencies.

(2) To further accelerate the rate at which topographic mapping may be carried on in Florida, any state agency having funds available for the purpose, any county or drainage or reclamation or flood control district organized under the laws of this state, any person, firm or corporation, is authorized to contribute to the cost of such mapping by depositing with the state road department such amounts as may be determined to be applied in like manner toward topographic mapping in this state as set forth in subsection (1).

(3) The state road department of Florida, the trustees of the internal improvement trust fund of this state, and central and southern Florida flood control district are hereby authorized to make such arrangements or enter into such agreements with the United States as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this section.

(4) The trustees of the internal improvement trust fund, as and when copies of topographic maps are made available to them, shall file such maps in the same manner as other maps and plats of land surveys by the United States, and the maps shall be available for examination by any interested person.

373.021 Definitions, §§373.031-373.061; artesian wells.—

(1) An artesian well is defined as an artificial hole in the ground from which water supplies may be obtained and which penetrates any water bearing rock, the water in which is raised to the surface by natural flow, or which rises to an elevation above the top of the water bearing bed. Artesian wells are defined further to include all holes, drilled as a source of water, that penetrate any water bearing beds that are a part of the artesian water system of Florida, as determined by representatives of the Florida geological survey or water resources division.

(2) Waste is defined to be the causing, suffering or permitting any water flowing from, or being pumped from an artesian well to run into any river, creek, or other natural water-course or channel, or into any bay or pond (unless used thereafter for the beneficial purposes of irrigation of land, mining or other industrial purposes of domestic use), or into any street, road or highway, or upon the land of any person, or upon the public lands of the United States, or of the state, unless it be used thereon for the beneficial purposes of the irrigation thereof, industrial purposes, domestic use, or the propagation of fish. The use of any water flowing from an artesian well for the irrigation of land shall be restricted to a minimum by the use of proper structural devices in the irrigation system.

373.031 Artesian wells; flow regulated.—

Every person, stock company, association or corporation, county or municipality owning or controlling the real estate upon which is located a flowing artesian well in this state shall, within ninety days after June 15, 1953, provide each such well with a valve capable of controlling the discharge from the well, and shall keep the valve so adjusted that only a supply of water shall be available as is necessary for ordinary use by the owner, tenant, occupant or person in control of the land for personal use and on conducting his business. However, if the water in a well is so highly mineralized or otherwise of such poor quality that it is no longer a usable water supply, as determined by the division of water resources and conservation, then it shall be plugged in accordance with the division's specifications for well plugging.

(1) Should it not be possible, after a reasonable effort has been made by an agent of the board of conservation to secure permission from a landowner to go on, over, and upon said landowner's property for the purpose of investigation pertaining to the water resources of the state, then such agent is hereby granted permission and authority to go on such land when necessary so to do to make water surveys and investigations, and that such entry under the right hereby granted shall not constitute trespass, and that such agent shall not by so entering under the right hereby granted be liable to arrest or a civil action by reason of such entry.

(2) Should any well be not provided with a valve or plug as required in §373.031, or should any well be allowed to flow in violation of §373.041, then the division of water resources and conservation through its authorized agents shall, upon being informed of the fact, give notice to the owner to correct the defect, and if the same be not corrected within ten days thereafter, shall be authority to install the necessary valve, plug or cap upon the well and control the flow therefrom in accord with the provisions of §§373.031 and 373.041.

(3) The cost of installation of the valve or plug and the control of the flow from the wells if made by the officials shall be at the expense of the owner.

373.061 Certain artesian wells exempt.—Nothing in §§373.021-373.051 shall be construed to apply to an artesian well feeding a lake already in existence prior to June 15, 1953, which lake is used or intended to be used for public bathing and/or the propagation of fish, where the continuous flow of water is necessary to maintain its purity for bathing and the water level of said lake for fish.

373.071 Water resources law.—Sections 373.071 through 373.241 shall be known and cited as the "water resources law."

History.—§1, ch. 57-380.

373.072 Declaration of policy.—In view of the rapid growth of population, agriculture, industry, and other economic activities, the water resources of the state must be protected, conserved, and controlled to assure their reasonable and beneficial use in the interest of the people of the state. Therefore, it is declared to be the policy of the state that:

(1) Waters in the state are a natural resource.

(2) The ownership, control of development and use of waters for all beneficial purposes is within the jurisdiction of the state which in the exercise of its powers may establish measures to effectuate the proper and comprehensive utilization and protection of the waters.

(3) The changing wants and constantly increasing needs of the people of the state may require the water resources of the state to be put to beneficial uses to the extent of which they are most reasonably capable and therefore the waste and unreasonable use of water should be prevented and the conservation of water should be accomplished.

(4) The public welfare and interest of the people of the state require the proper development, wise use, conservation and protection of water resources together with the protection of land resources affected thereby.

(5) Increasing diversion of surface and subsurface water in certain parts of the state is exceeding or threatening to exceed the natural replenishment of such waters and threatens to exhaust such waters or to render them unfit for use by intrusion of salt water, or from other causes. It is to the interest of the citizens of the state to conserve such waters by allocating their use in a fair and equitable manner.

(6) The foregoing declarations of policy shall not be construed to amend or modify the provisions of §373.101.

History.—§1, ch. 63-336.

373.081 Definitions.—When appearing in this law or in any rule or regulation adopted pursuant thereto, the following words shall mean:

(1) Board or state board—The state board of conservation.

(2) Division—The division of water resources and conservation.

(3) Local board—The governing board of any water regulatory district created under the authority of this chapter.

(4) Water management district—Any flood control or water management district operating under the authority of chapter 378.

(5) Water regulatory district—Any water control body created under the authority of this chapter.

(6) Beneficial use—A use of water, including the method of diversion, storage, transportation, and application, that is reasonable and consistent with property rights and with the public interest in the proper utilization of water resources, including, but not limited to, domestic, agricultural, industrial, power, municipal, navigational, fish and wildlife, and recreational use.

(7) Water, or water resources—Surface water excluding lakes or ponds completely surrounded by land the title to which is vested in a single owner or in two or more cotenants, joint tenants or tenants by the entirety; and ground water.

(8) Average minimum flow—When required for the purposes of this law, the division shall determine and establish the average minimum flow for each month, January through December, for a given watercourse at a given point thereon. The average minimum flow as used in this law shall be the average of the five lowest monthly mean discharge for each month, January through December, occurring during the past twenty years of natural flow. The determination shall be based on available flow data or in the absence of such data, it shall be established by reasonable calculations by the division of water resources and conservation of the state board or its authorized agent.

(9) Average minimum level—When required for the purposes of this law, the division shall determine and establish the average minimum level for a given lake. The average minimum level as used in this law shall be the average of the minimum thirty days lake water level occurring during each of the five years of lowest levels in the period of the preceding twenty consecutive years. The determination shall be based upon available lake level data, supplemented when available by reasonable calculations made by the division of water resources and conservation or its authorized agent.

(10) Mean low level—When required for the purposes of this law, the division shall determine and establish the mean low level for ground water at a given point. The mean low level as used in this law shall be the level, as determined by the division of water resources and conservation, below which the lowering of the ground water level will cause irreparable damage to adjacent landowners or contamination of the water source. The determination shall be based on available ground water level data, supplemented, when such data are incomplete, by reasonable calculations made by the division of water resources and conservation or its authorized agent. Provided, however, that said calculations as made by the board of conservation or its agents shall not be conclusive or carry any presumption but said determination shall become conclusive unless contested in writing within sixty days after notification.

History.—§2, ch. 57-380; §2, ch. 63-336; (2), (8)-(10) §1, ch. 65-409.

373.091 Exemptions.—No provision of §§373.081-373.241 shall apply to:

(1) Individual users of water for domestic purposes or ordinary livestock consumption.

(2) That part of rivers or streams which constitute the boundary of the state of Florida or which may divide the lands of the state of Florida from any other state.

(3) Control of water-borne wastes from municipalities or industries.

History.—§3, ch. 57-380.

373.101 Purpose; preservation of existing rights and specific limitations.—The purposes of this law are to implement the declared water policy of this state by effecting the maximum beneficial utilization, development and conservation of the water resources of the state in the best interest of all its people and to prevent the waste and unreasonable use of said resources; however, the present property rights of persons owning land and exercising existing water rights appertaining thereto shall be respected and such rights shall not be restricted without due process of law nor divested without payment of just compensation; and there shall be no authorization to divert water from springs (or downstream therefrom), now developed and operated for recreational purposes or as tourist attractions, to a degree that will materially interfere with such use.

History.—§4, ch. 57-380.

373.131 General powers and duties of division.—The division shall have the following general powers and duties:

(1) To conduct in cooperation with the division of geology and other agencies a continuous study by research and otherwise to determine the most advantageous and best methods for obtaining maximum beneficial utilization, development and conservation of the water resources of Florida and to make periodic reports to the board of its findings and recommendations for transmission to the legislature.

(2) To collect, compile and analyze for its use and guidance in administering the water resources law of this state scientific and factual data from the United States geological survey, the division of geology, the state board of health, the agricultural experiment station, the engineering and industrial experiment station and other federal and state agencies, and such state agencies are directed to cooperate with the division or its agents in making available to it for this purpose such scientific and factual data as they may have.

(3) To cooperate with water management districts, county or other local governmental organizations or agencies created by general, special or local legislation for the purpose of utilizing and conserving the waters of this state and to assist such organizations and agencies in coordinating the use of their facilities and in an exchange of ideas, knowledge and data, and such organizations and agencies are directed to cooperate with the division in accomplishing this coordination and exchange.

(4) To prepare and provide for the dissemination to the public of current and useful information on the activities and findings of the board and cooperating agencies.

(5) To determine and keep current by continuing study the areas of the state in which salt water intrusion is a threat, or may become a threat to the fresh water resources, and to report its findings to boards of county commissioners and to the public where such studies are made.

History.—§7, ch. 57-380; §7, ch. 61-231; (5) n. §1, ch. 63-210.

(1) The board is empowered to authorize the capture, storage and use of water of any watercourse only in excess of average minimum flow at the point of capture; to authorize the capture, storage and use of water of any lake only in excess of the average minimum level; to authorize the capture, storage and use of ground water only in excess of the mean low level at the point of capture, except in those instances where hydrologic studies indicate that lowering the ground water level below the mean low level at the point of capture will not be detrimental to the water resources of the state or cause irreparable damage to other users, and to authorize the diversion of such waters beyond riparian or overlying land; provided that such capture, storage, use or diversion of water from a surface or ground water source will not interfere with the reasonable uses existing at the time of the beginning of the capture, storage, use or diversion.

(2) The board may authorize the governing body of any legally constituted district concerned with the management of water to perform within the boundaries of said district any of the activities which the board is empowered to perform by subsection (1) of this section.

History.—§8, ch. 57-380; §3, ch. 63-336; (1) §2, ch. 65-409.

373.142 Water regulatory districts.—

(1) The board may create or dissolve anywhere within the state, or any water management district may create or dissolve within the area subject to its jurisdiction, water regulatory districts as necessary to serve the purposes of this law. No district shall be dissolved except by the creating agency of such district. No district shall be created or dissolved except pursuant to notice and hearing. A hearing may be called by the board or the water management district:

(a) Upon petition from the board of county commissioners of any county or the boards of county commissioners of any combination of counties in this state as may be wholly or partly within any area proposed to be established as a district; or

(b) Upon petition signed by twenty-five per cent of the freeholders of any territory proposed to be established as a district, according to the most recent list of registered freeholders as disclosed by the records of the office of the supervisor of elections of the counties affected; or

(c) Upon a determination by the board or water management district after investigation that a necessity exists for such action.

(2) No district shall be created or dissolved by the board or the board of a water management district unless the necessity therefor to accomplish the purposes set forth in §373.101 is established by a preponderance of evidence at the hearing. The findings of fact on which the action is based shall be set forth in an opinion of the hearing officer.

(3) Any water regulatory district created under the authority of this section shall conform as nearly as practicable to a hydrologically controllable area based on ground water and recharge area with appropriate consideration for surface water.

373.143 Presentation of petitions.—Petitions provided by §373.142(1)(a) and (b) shall be presented to the governing body of the water management district in the event the territory comprising the proposed district lies within the boundaries of a water management district; otherwise, it shall be presented to the board. Should the governing board of the water management district deny or elect not to consider any petition presented to it under this section, the petitioners may present the petition to the state board.

History.—§5, ch. 63-336.

373.144 Water regulatory district; governing board.—

(1) In the event a water management district after hearing held on petition presented pursuant to §373.143, determines the need exists for the creation of the district, the governing board of the water regulatory district so created may be either the governing board of the water management district or any lesser board or boards under its jurisdiction, as determined by the water management district. In the event that no appropriate lesser board within the water management district is available, the governing board of the water management district may request the governor to appoint a local board under the provisions of subsection (2) of this section. If the governing board of a water regulatory district is a lesser board, or a board appointed by the governor at the request of the water management district, the rules, regulations, and orders of such board shall be subject to the approval of the governing board of the water management district.

(2) In the event the state board after hearing held on petition filed pursuant to §373.143 determines the need exists for the creation of the water regulatory district petitioned, the governor shall appoint a local board for the district consisting of five members who are residents and freeholders of the district. Members shall serve for terms of three years except that the first board shall be appointed two for three years, two for two years and one for one year. Members of such local board shall serve without compensation but shall be entitled to receive actual traveling expenses, per diem as provided by §112.061, and other actual expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of official duties.

History.—§5, ch. 63-336.

(1) Notice shall be published of any hearing to be held as provided in §§373.142 and 373.171, other than those described in subsection (2) of this section, once a week for two weeks in a newspaper or newspapers published in and having a general circulation in every county in the district or proposed district. In the event there is no newspaper published in the appropriate county or counties, publication shall be made in a paper having general circulation in the county or counties affected. The notice shall state the purpose, time and place of the hearing.

(2) In the case of any proceeding under §373.171, pursuant to which a local board issues an order to a named person or persons, natural or artificial, affecting such person's use of water, rather than an order of general applicability and future effect, in lieu of the notice provided in subsection (1), of this section the local board shall give notices at least ten days prior to such hearing to such person or persons by personal service or registered or certified mail, stating the time and place of such hearing and the proposed action concerning his use of water.

(3) All hearings pertaining to the creation or dissolution of a water regulatory district shall be held by the board or the water management district as the case may be, or by such persons as the board or district may designate. All hearings required by this law pertaining to rules, regulations and orders shall be held by the local board.

(4) Accurate records of the proceedings had and all evidence introduced at all hearings shall be preserved.

History.—§9, ch. 57-380; §6, ch. 63-336.

373.171 Rules and regulations.—

(a) Establish rules, regulations, or orders, affecting the use of water as conditions warrant, and forbidding the construction of new diversion facilities or wells, the initiation of new water uses, or the modification of any existing uses, diversion facilities, or storage facilities within the affected area;

(b) Regulate the use of water within the affected area by apportioning, limiting or rotating uses of water, or by preventing those uses which the local board finds have ceased to be reasonable or beneficial.

(c) Make other rules, regulations, and orders necessary for the preservation of the interests of the public and of affected water users.

(2) In promulgating rules and regulations and issuing orders under this law the local board shall act with a view to full protection of the existing rights to water in this state insofar as is consistent with the purpose of this law.

(3) No rule, regulation or order shall require any modification of existing use or disposition of water in the district unless it is shown that the use or disposition proposed to be modified is detrimental to other water users or to the water resources of the state.

(4) No rule or regulation, other than a rule or regulation relating solely to the internal management of any such board, and no order shall be adopted, promulgated, issued, amended, or repealed except after a public hearing pursuant to notice as provided in §373.151. No rule or regulation shall be adopted, issued, amended or repealed unless a need for such action is shown by a preponderance of the evidence presented at the public hearing.

(5) All rules and regulations adopted by the local board shall be filed with the secretary of state as provided in part 1, chapter 120. An information copy will be filed with the division of water resources.

History.—§11, ch. 57-380; §8, ch. 63-336.

373.172 State water resources appeal board; review of orders of local boards in adversary proceedings.—

(1) There is hereby created a state water resources appeal board consisting of five members, residents of Florida, none of whom shall be officers or employees of the state or any county or municipality or any department, division or agency thereof, at least one of whom is a qualified geologist with hydrological training or experience and one of whom is a qualified engineer with hydrological training or experience, and one of whom is a member of the Florida bar. Members of the board shall be appointed by the governor for terms of three years, and he shall designate one of the members so appointed as chairman; provided members of the first board shall be appointed for the following terms: one member, one year; two members, two years; and two members, three years.

(2) Members of the board shall serve without compensation but shall be entitled to receive their actual travel, subsistence and lodging expenses incurred while performing their official duties, provided said expense shall not exceed the amount provided by §112.061, for state officers and employees. Such expenses shall be paid from funds appropriated for the board of conservation and allocated to the division of administration of said board.

(3) (a) Any party aggrieved by the final order of a local board entered in any proceeding shall have the right to review of such order by the appeal board created by this section.

(b) Such review may be had by, and only by, filing a notice of appeal within sixty days from and after the date of the entry of the order appealed from. The notice of appeal shall be filed with the director of the state board, and copies sent to the local board and other parties to the original proceeding. Within thirty days after receipt of such notice, the local board shall file with the appeal board a copy of the record of the proceedings had before it, and all the evidence introduced in such proceeding. This shall constitute the record on appeal. A copy of the record on appeal shall be provided all parties to the appeal upon payment by them to the local board of the reasonable cost of such copy.

(c) The appeal board shall review the record on appeal for the purpose of determining whether the order entered by the local board conforms with the provisions and purposes of this act and that the order is in accordance with the weight of the evidence. Any party to the appeal, and the local board, may file written briefs with the appeal board, and when any party to the proceeding so requests may present oral argument.

(d) On the basis of its review the appeal board may affirm the order, modify the order, rescind the order or remand the order to the local board for further proceedings. When remanding the order to the local board for further proceedings, the appeal board may request the appropriate division of the board of conservation to furnish to the local board such additional information and data as it deems necessary for the determination of the matter to be introduced in evidence and considered in determining the matter.

History.—§9, ch. 63-336.

373.173 Judicial review.—

(1) In the case of any action taken on the basis of any proceeding conducted by the state board, the governing board of a water management district, or a local board, any person, natural or artificial, aggrieved by such action shall have the right to appeal such decision to the district court of appeals in which a major portion of the regulatory district lies; provided that an appeal shall have been first taken to the appeal board as provided in §373.172.

(2) Such review may be had by, and only by, filing a notice of appeal within sixty days from and after the date of the entry of the order of the appeal board. The said notice of appeal shall be filed with the director of the state board and a copy of it filed with the clerk of the district court to which returnable.

(3) The proceeding in court shall be confined to an examination of the record of the proceedings under this law, and no presumption shall be indulged as to the correctness of the action of any state board, appeals board or local board hereunder in creating or dissolving a water district or in adopting, repealing or amending any rule or regulation or in determining the reasonableness thereof. The provisions of chapter 59 shall be applicable to such appeals insofar as the same may be applied. The original record of the appeal board in the cause may be transmitted to the court in accordance with the procedure set forth in §59.27 (4).

History.—§10, ch. 63-336.

373.174 Board; supervisory power over regulatory districts.—The board of conservation shall have general supervisory authority over all water regulatory districts created under this act. On recommendation of the director of the board of conservation, the state board may review any rule, regulation, order, or budget adopted by a local board, and modify or rescind such rule, regulation, order or budget to insure compliance with the provisions and purposes of this act.

History.—§11, ch. 63-336.

(1) For the purpose of any hearing authorized by this law the appropriate board is authorized to administer oaths to witnesses and to require the production of books, papers or other documents; may issue subpoenas to compel witnesses to testify and produce such books, papers or other documents (excluding financial records) in their possession as may be in the opinion of said board relevant to any hearing before it; said subpoenas to be served by the sheriff of the county where the witness resides or may be found. Such witnesses shall be entitled to the same per diem and mileage as witnesses appearing in the circuit court which shall be paid by the board holding the hearing.

(2) If any person shall refuse to obey any subpoena as issued or shall refuse to testify or produce any books, papers or other documents required by the subpoena, the board conducting the hearing may present its petition to the circuit court of the county where any such person is served with the subpoena, or where he resides, setting forth the facts, and shall deposit with said court when such subpoena is issued in its behalf, the per diem and mileage to secure the attendance of such witness; whereupon the court shall issue its rule nisi to such person requiring him to obey the same and unless the person shows sufficient cause for failing to obey the said subpoena, the court shall direct such person to obey the same and upon his refusal to comply, he shall be adjudged in contempt of court and shall be punished as the court may direct.

History.—§12, ch. 57-380; §12, ch. 63-336.

373.182 Water regulatory districts; costs of organizing and administering.—

(2) In the event a water regulatory district is created outside of a water management district the cost and expenses incurred in organizing and administering said regulatory district shall be paid out of the water resources development account of the board of conservation.

History.—§13, ch. 63-336; (2) §4, ch. 65-287.

History.—§13, ch. 57-280.

373.192 Annual conference on water resources development programs.—

(1) POLICY AND PURPOSE.—The purpose of this act is to establish a method whereby all agencies, commissions, districts, municipalities and political subdivisions, which are eligible to receive federal funds for such projects, may join together in presenting a unified program of water related public works in Florida for federal cooperation or assistance. It is recognized that recent efforts in unifying Florida programs at the national level have met with increasing success and this act is intended only as a further implementation of these efforts. It is urged that the governor's conference on water resources developments and the conference provided by this act be one and the same conference.

(2) The board of conservation shall once each year hold a conference on water resources developmental programs. Each agency, commission, district, municipality or political subdivision of the state, responsible for a specific water resource development program which will require federal assistance, shall be given an opportunity at such conference to present its programs and projects and the needs thereof.

(3) Upon the termination of the water conference, it shall be the duty of the board of conservation to select those projects for presentation in the Florida program, which best represents the public welfare and interest of the people of the state as required for the proper development, wise use, conservation and protection of water resources with the protection of land resources affected thereby.

(4) Upon making the determination as set forth in the above section, the board of conservation shall present to the appropriate committees of the federal government, a program of public works for Florida, requesting authorization or funds for each project.

(5) Nothing contained in this act shall be construed as limiting the powers and authorities of any agency, commission, district, municipality or political subdivision of the state, and nothing contained herein is intended to prohibit or prevent any such group from individually presenting their own request for federal assistance.

History.—§§1-5, ch. 63-307.

374.411 Bonds; election for issuance.—

(1) Before issuing any bonds, the issue shall be provided for by a resolution of the district board, setting forth the amount of bonds proposed to be issued, the denominations and date or dates of maturity thereof, the rate of interest the same are to bear, the time and place where the bonds and the interest thereon shall be payable, and such other terms and conditions as authorized by this act, upon which it is proposed to issue the bonds. The resolution shall further call for and fix a date and otherwise provide for the holding of an election for submission to the qualified freeholders residing in the district, for their approval or disapproval, of the question of the issuance of the bonds. Notice of the resolution and election shall be published in each county in the district once a week for four consecutive weeks before the election is held. The board shall cause to be prepared a sufficient number of ballots to be used at the election, which ballots shall be in substantially the following form:

OFFICIAL BALLOT SPECIAL BONDING ELECTION

The Florida Canal Navigation District
(Place a cross mark (x) before the proposition of your choice)

FOR: Issuing Florida Canal Navigation District Bonds in an amount not to exceed the sum of $2,750,000.00 bearing interest at the rate of 5% per annum, the proceeds of which bonds, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be used in acquiring a right of way for a canal across the state of Florida, running through said district.

AGAINST: Issuing Florida Canal Navigation District Bonds in an amount not to exceed the sum of $2,750,000.00, bearing interest at the rate of 5% per annum, the proceeds of which bonds, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be used in acquiring a right of way for a canal across the state of Florida, running through said district.

(2) The election shall be held at the several places in the district where the last general election was held in each of the counties of the district, unless the district board shall otherwise direct, and said board shall appoint the inspectors and clerks of election for each of the election precincts in said district. Only the freeholders who are qualified electors, as herein provided, and residing in said district shall be eligible to vote in said election. The election shall be conducted and the canvass of the votes certified to and returned, and the returns canvassed substantially in the manner and within the time prescribed by general law for holding bond elections, except as herein otherwise provided, and except that the returns of the election from each precinct in each of the counties in said district shall be delivered to the chairman and secretary of the district board instead of to the county officers or official to whom the returns are usually made. The board shall hold a meeting as soon thereafter as is practicable for the purpose of canvassing the election returns and certifying the returns. If a majority of the freeholders who are qualified electors residing in the district shall have participated in the election and a majority of the votes cast in the election are in favor of the issuance of the bonds, then the district board shall be authorized to issue and sell the bonds, in the manner as herein authorized, in the amount specified in the resolution calling the election, and to use the proceeds as authorized in this act. If, however, a majority of the freeholders who are qualified electors residing in the district shall not have participated in the election, or if a majority of the freeholders shall have participated but less than a majority of the votes cast are in favor of the issuance of the bonds, then and in either of such cases, no bonds shall be issued.

(3) Prior to the calling of the election, the district board may, by appropriate resolution, call upon the supervisors of elections or other registering officer in each county of the district to call for a reregistration of freeholder electors residing within the district, whereupon the reregistration shall be conducted by the supervisor or other registering officer in the same manner as provided in §97.081, except that the county commissioners of the several counties comprising the district shall not be required to take any action regarding the reregistration. In the event the reregistration be made, then in any election held hereunder after the reregistration, the power to issue bonds of the district shall be based upon the approval by a majority of the votes cast in the election in which a majority of the reregistered freeholders who re-register and are qualified shall participate.

History.—§12, ch. 17023, 1935; §7, ch. 61-269; §2, ch. 65-60.

374.421 Bonds; additional elections.—In the event the issuance of the bonds is not approved by the first election held under this act, the district board shall be authorized to call another election on the question of the issuance of such bonds, such election to be held not sooner than six months after the first election, and further elections may be called and held, but not often-er than six months apart.

History.—§13, ch. 17023, 1935.

374.431 Legality of bond issue; protest.—No proceedings shall be brought by anyone to contest or question the legality or validity of the bond issue after the expiration of the period of thirty days following the publication of the first notice of the board's resolution authorizing the issuance of the bonds, as provided in §374.411.

History.—§14, ch. 17023, 1935.

374.441 Security for bonds.—Any and all bonds issued pursuant to the authority contained in this act, when sold, issued and delivered, shall become and be binding, valid and legal obligations of the navigation district, and for the security and payment of the bonds and the interest thereon, the entire taxable property lying within the district, and the full faith and credit thereof shall be pledged.

History.—§15, ch. 17023, 1935.

374.451 Bonds; validity and incontestability.—This act, without reference to any other act or statute of the legislature of the state, shall be full authority for the issuance and sale of the bonds herein authorized, which bonds shall have all the qualities of negotiable paper and which shall not be invalid because of any irregularity or defect in the proceedings for the issuance and sale thereof, and any and all such bonds shall be incontestable in the hands of bona fide purchasers thereof. All the bonds, regardless of time of sale, shall be of equal rank and without priority of one over the other, except as to the time of maturity as may be fixed in the bonds. No proceedings in respect to the issuance of said bonds shall be necessary, except such as are required by this act. Provided, however, that the district board may, if it deems such action expedient, validate the bonds, in the same manner as is provided by general law for the validation of bonds of counties and municipalities. If the validation proceedings are pursued, they may be instituted by petition filed in the circuit court in and for Duval county, and the proceedings thereon shall be conducted in the same manner and shall have the same effect as is provided by general law for the validation of county and municipal bonds except that notice of hearing on the petition shall be given by publication in one or more newspapers published in each county in the district, once a week for three consecutive weeks, the first publication to be at least eighteen days prior to the date fixed for the hearing.

History.—§16, ch. 17023, 1935.

374.461 Bonds; sale.—The district board, after the approval of the issuance of the bonds at the election hereinabove provided for, shall have the power and authority to proceed forthwith to sell all of the bonds or portions thereof from time to time, at public sale, or upon sealed proposals, to the highest bidder for cash, after due notice thereof shall have been published in a newspaper published in Duval county, once a week for two consecutive weeks, provided, however, that the bonds shall not be sold for less than ninety-five cents on the dollar, plus accrued interest thereon to the date of delivery. The board shall have the right to reject any or all bids, and if no satisfactory bid is received on the day advertised for the sale thereof, the bonds or any part thereof may be sold at private sale at any time within sixty days thereafter, at not less than the highest bid received at the advertised sale, and at not less than the above stated minimum price of ninety-five cents on the dollar, plus accrued interest to date of delivery. The board may, however, sell any or all of the bonds at private sale at any time, whether notice has been published or not, provided that they are sold for not less than par plus accrued interest to date of delivery.

History.—§17, ch. 17023, 1935.

374.471 Sinking fund.—It shall be the duty of the treasurer of the district, as custodian of the funds belonging thereto, out of the proceeds of the taxes levied and imposed as provided in this act, and out of any other moneys in his possession belonging to the district (all of which moneys, so far as may be necessary, are appropriated for the purpose), to pay the interest on and principal of the bonds as the same shall fall due. There is hereby created a sinking fund for the payment of the principal of all of the bonds, and until all of the bonds issued shall have been paid, or until there shall have been accumulated in said sinking fund sufficient funds to pay all of such bonds, the board shall set apart and pay into said sinking fund annually, beginning with the year following the year in which the bonds are issued, out of taxes levied and imposed by this act and other funds of the district at least three and one-half per cent of the total amount of bonds issued and sold hereunder. The sinking fund for the payment of the bonds shall not be appropriated to or used for any other purpose.

374.481 Redemption of bonds, investment of sinking fund.—The board is hereby authorized and empowered to invest the moneys belonging to the sinking fund in bonds issued under the provisions of this act, or in bonds issued by the United States. Whenever necessary or expedient in the opinion of the board, the securities in said sinking fund may be sold and the proceeds used in paying maturing bonds of the district or in calling the bonds for redemption as hereinabove in §374.391 provided, or for the purpose of being invested in conformity with the provisions hereof. Provided, however, that whenever the total amount of money in the sinking fund (computing the bonds held as cash on the basis of their then market value, less the cost of sale), shall exceed the amount necessary to pay bonds maturing during the next ensuing twelve months, the surplus shall immediately be used by the board for the purpose of calling bonds for redemption in the manner as prescribed in §374.391.

History.—§19, ch. 17023, 1935.

374.491 Deposit of funds.—All district funds shall be deposited in a bank or banks to be designated by the board, including federal savings and loan associations. The board shall designate as such depository or depositories the bank or banks that will offer the best inducement as to the payment of interest on daily balances, but before any district moneys are deposited in the depository or depositories, security ample to protect the deposits shall be furnished to the district (without expense to the district), which security shall be in the form either of a surety bond or bonds executed by a surety company or companies authorized to do business in this state, or in the form of a deposit, to the credit of the district, of bonds of the United States or of the district, or insurance for the full amount of the deposit through an agency of the United States. The maximum amount of taxation which the district board shall be authorized to levy in any one year shall not exceed six-tenths mill on the dollar on the assessed evaluation of the district. The amount of such levy to be made each year by the district shall be determined by resolution of the district board; and a certified copy of such tax resolution executed in the name of the board by its chairman and attested by its secretary under its corporate seal, shall be delivered to the board of county commissioners of each and every county in the district and to the comptroller of the state immediately after the adoption of such resolution. The moneys received by the district from such levy shall be used by it as follows:

(a) To furnish the amount needed by the board for the annual administrative and operating expenses of the district which amount shall not exceed the amount which would be raised by a levy of one-tenth mill on the dollar on the assessed valuation of the district.

(b) The balance of the amount raised by such annual levy shall be used for the payment of the principal of and interest on the outstanding bonds of the district becoming due and payable during the ensuing year, and for the establishment of reserves for such purposes. If no bonds of the district be outstanding, then the proceeds of said levy, less the amount needed for the annual administrative and operating expenses of the district, shall be turned over by the district to the canal authority of the state to be used by it in acquiring the necessary right of way for the cross Florida barge canal, as herein provided.

(2) It shall be the duty of each of said boards of county commissioners, each year, to order the assessors of each of said counties to levy and assess, and the county tax collector to collect a tax at the rate fixed by the said resolution of the district board upon all of the real and personal property in said counties for said year and said levies and assessments shall be included in the tax roll and warrant of the tax assessors in each of said counties for such year. The tax collector of each said counties shall collect such taxes so levied by the district board in the same manner and at the same time as state and county taxes are collected and shall pay and remit the same upon collection, within the time and in the manner required by law, to the district board.

(3) The tax assessor, tax collector, and the board of county commissioners of each and every county in said district shall, when requested by the district board, prepare from their official records and deliver to the board any and all information that may be requested from time to time from him or them regarding the tax valuations, levies, assessments or collections in such counties.

(4) If any of the lands acquired by the canal authority of Florida with funds provided by the cross Florida canal navigation district under this act become surplus after the rights of way needs of the canal authority have been met, such land may be sold and the proceeds of such sale shall be paid to the counties comprising said district in direct proportion to the contribution of each county to the cross Florida navigation district.

History.—§21, ch. 17023, 1935; §9, ch. 61-269; §§1, chs. 65-237, 65-405.

At least once in each year the district board shall publish once in some newspaper published in each of the counties of the district, a complete detailed statement of all moneys received and disbursed by the district during the preceding year. Such statement shall also show the several sources from which such funds were received, and the balance on hand at the time of publishing the statement, and shall show the complete financial condition of the district.

History.—§22, ch. 17023, 1935.

377.01 Governor to enter into interstate compact to conserve oil and gas.—The governor of the state is hereby authorized and directed, for and in the name of the state, to join with other states in the interstate compact to conserve oil and gas, which was heretofore executed in the city of Dallas, Texas, on the 16th day of February, 1935, and is now deposited with the department of state of the United States, and which has been extended with the consent of congress to September 1, 1947.

History.—§1, ch. 22823, 1945.

377.02 Form of compact.—The interstate compact to conserve oil and gas referred to in the above section, and which it is hereby proposed to enter and to extend by agreement reads as follows:

AN INTERSTATE COMPACT TO CONSERVE OIL AND GAS

ARTICLE I.

This agreement may become effective within any compacting state at any time as prescribed by that state, and shall become effective within those states ratifying it whenever any three of the states of Texas, Oklahoma, California, and New Mexico have ratified and congress has given its consent. Any oil-producing state may become a party hereto as hereinafter provided.

ARTICLE II.

The purpose of this compact is to conserve oil and gas by the prevention of physical waste thereof from any cause.

ARTICLE III.

Each state bound hereby agrees that within a reasonable time it will enact laws, or if laws have been enacted, then it agrees to continue the same in force, to accomplish within reasonable limits the prevention of:

(a) The operation of any oil well with an inefficient gas-oil ratio.

(b) The drowning with water of any stratum capable of producing oil or gas, or both oil and gas in paying quantities.

(c) The avoidable escape into the open air or the wasteful burning of gas from a natural gas well.

(d) The creation of unnecessary fire hazards.

(e) The drilling, equipping, locating, spacing or operating of a well or wells so as to bring about physical waste of oil or gas or loss in the ultimate recovery thereof.

(f) The inefficient, excessive or improper use of the reservoir energy in producing any well.

The enumeration of the foregoing subjects shall not limit the scope of the authority of any state.

ARTICLE IV.

Each state bound hereby agrees that it will, within a reasonable time, enact statutes, or if such statutes have been enacted then that it will continue the same in force, providing in effect that oil produced in violation of its valid oil and/or gas conservation statutes or any valid rule, order or regulation promulgated thereunder, shall be denied access to commerce; and providing for stringent penalties for the waste of either oil or gas.

ARTICLE V.

It is not the purpose of this compact to authorize the states joining herein to limit the production of oil or gas for the purpose of stabilizing or fixing the price thereof, or create or perpetuate monopoly, or to promote regimentation, but is limited to the purpose of conserving oil and gas and preventing the avoidable waste thereof within reasonable limitations.

ARTICLE VI.

Each state joining herein shall appoint one representative to a commission hereby constituted and designated as THE INTERSTATE OIL COMPACT COMMISSION, the duty of which said commission shall be to make inquiry and ascertain from time to time such methods, practices, circumstances and conditions as may be disclosed for bringing about conservation and the prevention of physical waste of oil and gas, and at such intervals as said commission deems beneficial it shall report its findings and recommendations to the several states for adoption or rejection.

The commission shall have power to recommend the coordination of the exercise of the police powers of the several states within their several jurisdictions to promote the maximum ultimate recovery from the petroleum reserves of said states, and to recommend measures for the maximum ultimate recovery of oil and gas. Said commission shall organize and adopt suitable rules and regulations for the conduct of its business.

No action shall be taken by the commission except: (1) By the affirmative votes of the majority of the whole number of the compacting states, represented at any meeting, and (2) by a concurring vote of a majority in interest of the compacting states at said meeting, such interest to be determined as follows: Such vote of each state shall be in the decimal proportion fixed by the ratio of its daily average production during the preceding calendar half-year to the daily average production of the compacting states during said period.

ARTICLE VII

No state by joining herein shall become financially obligated to any other state, nor shall the breach of the terms hereof by any state subject such state to financial responsibility to the other states joining herein.

ARTICLE VIII

This compact shall expire September 1, 1937, but any state joining herein may, upon sixty (60) days' notice, withdraw herefrom.

The representative of the signatory states have signed this agreement in a single original which shall be deposited in the archives of the department of state of the United States, and a duly certified copy shall be forwarded to the governor of each of the signatory states.

This compact shall become effective when ratified and approved as provided in Article I. Any oil-producing state may become a party hereto by affixing its signature to a counterpart to be similarly deposited, certified and ratified.

Done in the City of Dallas, Texas, this sixteenth day of February, 1935.

History.—§2, ch. 22823, 1945.

377.03 Extension of compact.—The governor of Florida is further authorized and empowered, for and in the name of the state, to execute agreements for the further extension of the expiration date of the said "the interstate oil compact" to conserve oil and gas, and to determine if and when it shall be for the best interest of the state to withdraw from said compact upon sixty days' notice as provided by its terms. In the event he shall determine that the state should withdraw from said compact he shall have full power and authority to give necessary notice and to take any and all steps necessary and proper to effect the withdrawal of the state from said compact.

History.—§3, ch. 22823, 1945.

377.04 Official report of state.—The governor shall be the official representative of the state on "the interstate oil compact commission," provided for in the compact to conserve oil and gas, and shall exercise and perform for the state all the powers and duties as a member of "the interstate oil compact commission"; provided, that he shall have the authority to appoint an assistant representative who shall act in his stead as the official representative of the state as a member of said commission. Said assistant representative shall take the oath of office prescribed by the constitution, which shall be filed with the secretary of state.

History.—§4, ch. 22823, 1945.

377.05 Construction of law.—Sections 377.01-377.05 are hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety. The reason for such necessity lies in the fact that this law will enable the state to cooperate with other states in fostering and encouraging production of oil necessary for national defense and in preventing and discouraging waste of this vital resource. Therefore, this law shall go into immediate effect.

377.19 Definitions.—Unless the context otherwise requires, the words defined in this section shall have the following meanings when found in §§377.06, 377.07, 377.10-377.40:

(1) "Board," "conservation board" and "state conservation board" shall mean the state board of conservation of the State.

(2) "State" shall mean the State of Florida.

(3) "Person" shall mean any natural person, corporation, association, partnership, receiver, trustee, guardian, executor, administrator, fiduciary, or representative of any kind.

(4) "Oil" shall mean crude petroleum oil and other hydrocarbons, regardless of gravity, which are produced at the well in liquid form by ordinary production methods, and which are not the result of condensation of gas after it leaves the reservoir.

(5) "Gas" shall mean all natural gas, including casinghead gas, and all other hydrocarbons not defined as oil in subsection (4) above.

(6) "Pool" shall mean an underground reservoir containing or appearing to contain a common accumulation of oil or gas or both. Each zone of a general structure which is completely separated from any other zone on the structure is considered a separate "pool" as used herein.

(7) "Field" shall mean the general area which is underlaid, or appears to be underlaid, by at least one pool; and "field" shall include the underground reservoir, or reservoirs, containing oil or gas, or both. The words "field" and "pool" mean the same thing when only one underground reservoir is involved; however, "field" unlike "pool," may relate to two or more pools.

(8) "Owner" shall mean the person who has the right to drill into and to produce from any pool, and to appropriate the production either for himself or for himself and another, or others.

(9) "Producer" shall mean the owner or operator of a well or wells capable of producing oil or gas, or both.

(10) "Waste," in addition to its ordinary meaning, shall mean "physical waste" as that term is generally understood in the oil and gas industry. Waste shall include:

(a) The inefficient, excessive or improper use or dissipation of reservoir energy; and the locating, spacing, drilling, equipping, operating or producing of any oil or gas well or wells in a manner which results, or tends to result, in reducing the quantity of oil or gas ultimately to be recovered from any pool in this state.

(b) The inefficient storing of oil; and the locating, spacing, drilling, equipping, operating, or producing of any oil or gas well or wells in a manner causing, or tending to cause, unnecessary or excessive surface loss or destruction of oil or gas.

(c) Producing oil or gas in such a manner as to cause unnecessary water channeling or coning.

(d) The operation of any oil well or wells with an inefficient gas-oil ratio.

(e) The drowning with water of any stratum or part thereof, capable of producing oil or gas.

(f) Underground waste however caused and whether or not defined.

(g) The creation of unnecessary fire hazards.

(h) The escape into the open air, from a well producing both oil and gas, of gas in excess of the amount which is necessary in the efficient drilling or operation of the well.

(i) The use of gas for the manufacture of carbon black.

(j) Permitting gas produced from a gas well to escape into the air.

(k) Abuse of the correlative rights and opportunities of each owner of oil and gas in a common reservoir due to nonuniform, disproportionate and unratable withdrawals, causing undue drainage between tracts of land.

(11) "Product" means any commodity made from oil or gas, and shall include refined crude oil, crude tops, topped crude, processed crude petroleum, residue from crude petroleum, cracking stock, uncracked fuel oil, fuel oil, treated crude oil, residuum, gas oil, casinghead gasoline, natural gas gasoline, naphtha, distillate, condensate, gasoline, waste oil, kerosene, benzine, wash oil, blended gasoline, lubricating oil, blends or mixtures of oil with one or more liquid products or byproducts derived from oil or gas, and blends or mixtures of two or more liquid products or byproducts derived from oil or gas, whether hereinabove enumerated or not.

(12) "Illegal oil" shall mean oil which has been produced within the state from any well, or wells, in excess of the amount allowed by rule, regulation or order of the board, as distinguished from oil produced within the state from a well not producing in excess of the amount so allowed, which is "legal oil."

(13) "Illegal gas" shall mean gas which has been produced within the state from any well or wells in excess of the amount allowed by any rule, regulation or order of the board, as distinguished from gas produced within the State of Florida from a well not producing in excess of the amount so allowed, which is "legal gas."

(14) "Illegal product" shall mean any product of oil or gas, any part of which was processed or derived, in whole or in part, from illegal gas or illegal oil or from any product thereof, as distinguished from "legal product," which is a product processed or derived to no extent from illegal oil or illegal gas.

(15) "Reasonable market demand" shall mean the amount of oil reasonably needed for current consumption, together with a reasonable amount of oil for storage and working stocks.

(16) "Tender" shall mean a permit or certificate of clearance for the transportation or the delivery of oil, gas or products, approved and issued or registered under the authority of the board.

(17) The use of the word "and" shall include the word "or" and the use of "or" shall include "and," unless the context clearly requires a different meaning, especially with respect to such expressions as "oil and gas" or "oil or gas."

History.—§14, ch. 22819, 1945.

377.20 Waste prohibited.—Waste of oil or gas defined in this law is hereby prohibited.

History.—§15, ch. 22819, 1945.

(1) The board shall have jurisdiction and authority of and over all persons and property necessary to administer and enforce effectively the provisions of this law and all other laws relating to the conservation of oil and gas.

(2) The board shall have authority and it shall be its duty to make such inquiries as it may deem proper to determine whether waste, over which it has jurisdiction, exists or is imminent. In the exercise of such power, the board shall have the authority to collect data; to make investigations and inspections; to examine properties, leases, papers, books and records, to examine, survey, check, test and gauge oil and gas wells, tanks, refineries and modes of transportation; to hold hearings; to provide for the keeping of records and the making of reports; and to take such action as may be reasonably necessary to enforce this law.

(1) The board shall provide, by rules and regulations, for ratable takings in all pools on a reasonable and equitable basis.

(2) The board shall have authority to make, adopt, promulgate, amend, and repeal such reasonable rules, regulations and orders as may be necessary from time to time in the proper administration and enforcement of this law, including, but not limited to, rules, regulations or orders for the following purposes:

(a) To require the drilling, casing and plugging of wells to be done in such a manner as to prevent the escape of oil or gas out of one stratum to another; to prevent the intrusion of water into an oil or gas stratum from a separate stratum; to prevent the pollution of fresh water supplies by oil, gas or salt water; and to require reasonable bond conditioned for the performance of the duty to plug properly each dry and abandoned well.

(b) To require the making of reports showing the location of all oil and gas wells, and the making and filing of logs, and the taking and filing of directional surveys, and the filing of electrical logs of oil and gas wells if taken, and the saving of cutting and cores, the cuts of which shall be given to the Florida geological survey, and the making of reports with respect to drilling and production records; provided, that such information, or any part thereof, at the request of the operator shall be held confidential by the board for a period of ninety days after the completion of a well, and, at the option of the board, for a longer period.

(c) To prevent wells from being drilled, operated or produced in such a manner as to cause injury to neighboring leases or property.

(d) To prevent the drowning by water of any stratum, or part thereof, capable of producing oil or gas in paying quantities, and to prevent the premature and irregular encroachment of water which reduces, or tends to reduce, the total ultimate recovery of oil or gas from any pool.

(e) To require the operation of wells with efficient gas-oil ratio, and to fix such ratios.

(m) To require, either generally or in or from particular areas, certificates of clearance or tenders in connection with the transportation or delivery of oil or gas, or any product.

(n) To regulate the spacing of wells and to establish drilling units.

(o) To prevent, so far as is practical, reasonably avoidable, drainage from each developed unit which is not equalized by counterdrainage.

History.—§16, ch. 22819, 1945.

377.23 Monthly reports to board.—Every producer of oil or gas in the state shall submit to the board, on forms prescribed by the board, a monthly report of the actual production from each and every oil and gas well operated by him, said report to be submitted not later than the twenty-fifth of the month, and to cover the period of the preceding calendar month. Said producer shall submit a duplicate copy of said report at the same time to the state comptroller; and said reports shall be submitted through the medium of the United States mails, and it shall be unlawful for the same to be transmitted or received in any other way.

History.—§17, ch. 22819, 1945.

377.24 Notice of intention to drill well; permits; abandoned wells and dry holes.—

(1) Before any well in search of oil or gas shall be drilled, the person desiring to drill the same shall notify the board upon such form as it may prescribe and shall pay a fee of fifty dollars for each well. The drilling of any well is hereby prohibited until such notice is given and such fee has been paid and permit granted.

(2) Each application for the drilling of a well in search of oil or gas in this state shall include the address of the residence of the applicant, or each applicant, which address shall be the address of each person involved in accordance with the records of the board until such address is changed on the records of the board after written request.

(3) Each abandoned well and each dry hole shall be plugged promptly in the manner and within the time required by regulations to be prescribed by the board, and the owner of such well shall give notice upon such form as the board may prescribe, of the drilling of each dry hole and of the owner's intention to abandon, and shall pay a fee of fifteen dollars. No well shall be abandoned until such notice has been given and such fee has been paid.

(4) Application for permission to drill or abandon any well may be denied by the board for only just and lawful cause.

(5) No permit to drill a gas or oil well shall be granted within the corporate limits of any municipality, unless the governing authority of the municipality shall have first duly approved the application for such permit by resolution.

(6) No permit to drill a gas or oil well shall be granted at a location in the tidal waters of the state, abutting or immediately adjacent to the corporate limits of a municipality or within three miles of such corporate limits extending from the line of mean high tide into such waters, unless the governing authority of the municipality shall have first duly approved the application for such permit by resolution.

(7) No permit to drill a gas or oil well shall be granted on any improved beach, located outside of an incorporated town or municipality, or at a location in the tidal waters of the state abutting or immediately adjacent to an improved beach, or within three miles of an improved beach extending from the line of mean high tide into such tidal waters, unless the county commissioners of the county in which such beach is located shall have first duly approved the application for such permit by resolution.

(8) For the purposes of this section and law, an improved beach, situated outside of the corporate limits of any municipality or town, shall be and is hereby defined to be any beach adjacent to or abutting upon the tidal waters of the state and having not less than ten hotels, apartment buildings, residences or other structures, used for residential purposes, on or to any given mile of such beach.

(1) The nature, character and location of the lands involved; whether rural, such as farms, groves, or ranches, or urban property vacant or presently developed for residential or business purposes or are in such a location or of such a nature as to make such improvements and developments a probability in the near future.

(2) The nature, type and extent of ownership of the applicant, including such matters as the length of time the applicant has owned the rights claimed without having performed any of the exploratory operations so granted or authorized.

(3) The proven or indicated likelihood of the presence of oil, gas or related minerals in such quantities as to warrant the exploration and extraction of such products on a commercially profitable basis.

History.—§1, ch. 61-299.

377.242 Permits for drilling or exploring and extracting through well holes or surface extractions.—The state board of conservation shall be vested with the power and authority:

(1) To issue permits for drilling or exploring for oil, gas and related products which are to be extracted from below the surface of the land only through the well hole drilled for gas, oil and related products, provided that no permit shall be required for preliminary geophysical tests and other exploratory operations prior to actual drilling, which are now permitted by the board for oil and gas and related products.

(2) To issue permits to explore for and extract minerals which are subject to extraction from the land by means other than through a well hole.

History.—§1, ch. 61-299.

377.243 Conditions for granting permits for extraction through well holes.—Prior to the application to the board for the permit to drill for oil, gas and related products, referred to in §377.242(1), the applicant must own a valid deed, or other muniment of title, or lease granting said applicant the privilege to explore for oil, gas or related mineral products to be extracted only through the well hole on the land or lands included in the application.

History.—§1, ch. 61-299.

377.244 Conditions for granting permits for surface exploratory and extraction operations.—

(1) Exploration for and extraction of minerals under and by virtue of the authority of a grant of oil, gas or mineral rights, or which, subsequent to such grant, may be interpreted to include the right to explore for and extract minerals which are subject to extraction from the land by means other than through a well hole, that is by means of surface exploratory and extraction operations such as sifting of the sands, dragline, open pit mining or other type of surface operation, which would include movement of sands, dirt, rock, or minerals, shall be exercised only pursuant to permit issued by the board upon applicant complying with the following conditions:

(a) Applicant must own a valid deed, or other muniment of title, or lease granting applicant the right to explore for and extract oil, gas and other minerals from said lands.

(b) The applicant shall post a good and sufficient surety bond with the board in such amount as the board may determine is adequate to afford full and complete protection for the owner of the surface rights of the lands described in the application, conditioned upon the full and complete restoration, by the applicant, of the area over which the exploratory and extraction operations are conducted to the same condition and contour in existence prior to such operations.

(2) The provisions of this act shall not apply to the exploration and removal from lands of peat, muck, marl, limestone, limerock, kaolin, fuller's earth, phosphate, common clays, gravel, shell, sand and similar substances; it being the legislative determination that the mining and extraction operations, and the grants of authority under which these activities are conducted for said substances exempted from the provisions of this act, are dissimilar from the exploratory and extraction operations and the grants of authority under which these activities are conducted for substances which come within the purview of the regulatory provisions of this act.

History.—§1, ch. 61-299.

377.245 Provision for distribution of earnings to lessees or owners of the fractional undivided mineral rights not owned by applicant for permit under §§377.243 and 377.244.—Lessees or owners of the fractional undivided oil, gas or other mineral rights in lands described in permits issued under the provisions of §§377.243 and 377.244, not owned by the applicant named in said permits, shall, as to all productive wells or surface mineral operations on said lands, be entitled to and be paid their pro rata part of the earnings after costs of exploration and operation have been allocated. The board shall prescribe such reasonable and appropriate rules and regulations as shall be deemed necessary and proper to implement the provisions of this section and all other sections of this act.

History.—§1, ch. 61-299.

377.246 Provisions to be cumulative and supplemental.—These provisions contained in §§377.241 through 377.244 shall be cumulative and supplemental to all other provisions contained in chapter 377, on the same subject. These provisions shall also be cumulative and supplemental to all other provisions of law relating to submerged or sovereignty lands or relating to the powers of the trustees of the internal improvement trust fund.

History.—§1, ch. 61-299; §2, ch. 61-119.

377.25 Production pools; drilling units.—

(1) No rule, regulation or order of the board shall be such in terms or effect (a) that it shall be necessary at any time for the producer from, or the owner of, a tract of land in the pool, in order that he may obtain such tract's just and equitable share of the production of such pool, as such share is set forth in this section, to drill and operate any well or wells on such tract in addition to such well or wells as can without waste produce such share, or (b) as to occasion net drainage from a tract, unless there be drilled and operated upon such tract a well or wells in addition to such well or wells thereon as can without waste produce such tract's just and equitable share, as set forth in this section, of the production of such pool.

(2) For the prevention of waste and to avoid the augmenting and accumulation of risks arising from the drilling of an excessive number of wells, the board shall, after a hearing, establish a drilling unit or units for each pool. A drilling unit, as contemplated herein, means the maximum area in a pool which may be efficiently and economically drained by one well, and such unit shall constitute a developed area as long as a well is located thereon which is capable of producing oil or gas in paying quantities.

(3) Each well permitted to be drilled upon any drilling unit shall be drilled approximately in the center thereof, with such exception as may be reasonably necessary where it is shown, after notice and upon hearing, and the board finds that the unit is partly outside the pool or, for some other reason, a well approximately in the center of the unit would be nonproductive or where topographical conditions are such as to make the drilling approximately in the center of the unit unduly burdensome. Whenever an exception is granted, the board shall take such action as will offset any advantage which the person securing the exception may have over other producers by reason of the drilling of the well as an exception, and so that drainage from developed units to the tract, with respect to which the exception is granted, will be prevented or minimized, and the producer of the well drilled, as an exception, will be allowed to produce no more than his just and equitable share of the oil and gas in the pool, as such share is set forth in this section.

(4) Subject to the reasonable requirements for prevention of waste, a producer's just and equitable share of the oil and gas in the pool, also sometimes referred to as a tract's just and equitable share, is that part of the authorized production for the pool, whether it be the total which could be produced without any restriction on the amount of production, or whether it be an amount less than that which the pool could produce if no restriction on amount were imposed, which is substantially in the proportion that the quantity of recoverable oil and gas in the developed area of his tract or tracts in the pool bears to the recoverable oil and gas in the total developed area of the pool, insofar as these amounts can be practically ascertained; and, to that end, the rules, regulations, permits and orders of the board shall be such as will prevent or minimize reasonably avoidable net drainage from each developed unit, that is, drainage which is not equalized by counterdrainage, and will give to each producer the opportunity to use his just and equitable share of the reservoir energy.

History.—§19, ch. 22819, 1945.

377.26 Location of wells.—Whenever the board fixes the location of any well or wells on the surface, the point at which the maximum penetration of such well into the producing formation is reached shall not unreasonably vary from the vertical drawn from the center of the hole at the surface; provided, that the board shall prescribe rules, regulations and orders governing the reasonableness of such variation.

History.—§20, ch. 22819, 1945.

377.27 Drilling units.—

(1) When two or more separately owned tracts of land are embraced within an established drilling unit, the owners thereof may validly agree to integrate their interest and to develop their lands as a drilling unit. Where, however, such owners have not agreed to integrate their interests, the board shall, for the prevention of waste and to avoid the risks involved in the drilling of unnecessary wells, require such owners to do so and to develop their lands as a drilling unit.

(2) Should the owners of separate tracts embraced within a drilling unit fail to agree upon the integration of the tracts and the drilling of a well on the unit, and should it be established that the board is without authority to require integration as provided for in subsection (1) of this section, then, subject to all other applicable provisions of this law, the owners of each tract embraced within the drilling unit may drill on their respective tracts; but the allowable production therefrom shall be such proportion of the allowable for the full drilling unit as the area of such separately owned tract bears to the full drilling unit.

(1) The board, in order to prevent waste and avoid the drilling of unnecessary wells, may permit or require the cycling of gas in any pool or portion thereof and is also authorized to permit or require the introduction of gas or other substance into an oil or gas reservoir for the purpose of repressuring such reservoir, maintaining pressure, or carrying on secondary recovery operations. The board may require pooling or integration of tracts when reasonably necessary in connection with cycling operations.

(2) All orders requiring integration, pooling, cycling, repressuring pressure maintenance, or secondary recovery operations shall be made after notice and hearing, and shall be upon terms and conditions that are just and reasonable, and will afford to the owner of each tract the opportunity to recover his just and equitable share of the oil and gas in the pool without unnecessary expense, and will prevent or minimize reasonably avoidable drainage from each unit which is not equalized by counterdrainage. The portion of the production allocated to the owner of each tract included in an integrated or pooled unit formed by an integration or pooling order shall, when produced, be considered as if it had been produced from such tract by well drilled thereon. In the event such integration or pooling is required, the operator designated by the board to develop and operate the integrated or pooled unit shall have the right to charge against the interest of each other owner in the production from the wells drilled by such designated operator the actual expenditures required for such purpose, not in excess of what are reasonable, including a reasonable charge for supervision, and the operator shall have the right to receive the first production from such wells drilled by him thereon, which otherwise would be delivered or paid to the other parties jointly interested in the drilling of the well, so that the amount due by each of them for his share of the expense of drilling, equipping and operating the well may be paid to the operator of the well out of production, with the value of production calculated at the market price in the field at the time such production is received by the operator or placed to his credit. In the event of any dispute relative to such costs, the board shall determine the proper cost. In the event a dry hole should be drilled, no liability for any part of the cost of drilling said well shall attach to any person or persons by reason of the integration order of the board.

History.—§22, ch. 22819, 1945.

377.29 Agreements in interest of conservation.—Agreements made in the interest of conservation of oil or gas, or both, or for the prevention of waste, between and among owners and operators, or both, owning separate holdings in the same oil or gas pool, or in any area that appears from geological or other data to be underlain, by a common accumulation of oil or gas, or both, or between and among such owners or operators, or both, and royalty owners therein, of the pool or area, or any part thereof, as a unit for establishing and carrying out a plan for the co-operative development and operation thereof, when such agreements are approved by the board, are hereby authorized and shall not be held or construed to violate any of the statutes of this state relating to trusts, monopolies, or contracts and combinations in restraint of trade.

History.—§23, ch. 22819, 1945.

377.30 Limitation on amount of oil or gas taken.—

(1) Whenever the total amount of oil or gas which all the pools in the state can produce exceeds the amount reasonably required to meet the reasonable market demand for oil or gas in this state, then the board shall limit the total amount of oil or gas which may be produced in the state by fixing an allowable for the state among the pools on a reasonable basis and in such a manner as to avoid undue discrimination, and so that waste will be prevented. In allocating the allowable for the state, and in fixing allowable for pools producing oil or gas, the board shall take into account the producing conditions and other relevant facts with respect to such pools, including the separate needs for oil and gas and shall formulate rules setting forth standards or a program for the distribution of the allowable for the state, and shall distribute the allowable for the state in accordance with such standards or program, and where conditions in one pool or area are substantially similar to those in another pool or area, then the same standards or program shall be applied to such pools and areas so that as far as practicable a uniform program will be followed; provided, however, the board shall permit the production of a sufficient amount of natural gas from any pool to supply adequately the reasonable market demand for such gas for light and fuel purposes if such production can be obtained without waste; and provided, further, that if the amount allocated to a pool as its share of the allowable for the state is in excess of the amount which the pool should produce to prevent waste, then the board shall fix the allowable for the pool so that waste will be prevented.

(2) Whenever the board limits the total amount of oil or gas which may be produced in any pool in this state to an amount less than that amount which the pool could produce if no restriction were imposed, which limitation may be imposed either incidentally to, or without, a limitation of the total amount of oil or gas which may be produced in the state, the board shall prorate or distribute the allowable production among the producers in the pool on a reasonable basis so as to prevent or minimize reasonably avoidable drainage from each developed unit which is not equalized by counterdrainage, and so that each producer will have the opportunity to produce or receive his just and equitable share, as above set forth, subject to the reasonable requirement for the prevention of waste.

(3) After the effective date of any rule, regulation or order of the board fixing the allowable production of oil or gas, or both, for any pool, no person shall produce from any well, lease or property more than the allowable production which is applicable, nor shall such amount be produced in a different manner than that which may be authorized.

377.31 Hearings before board.—

(1) The board shall prescribe its rules of order or procedure in hearings or other proceedings before it under this law; but in all hearings, the rules of evidence as established by law shall be applied; provided, however, that the erroneous ruling by the board on the admissibility of evidence shall not of itself invalidate any rule, regulation or order.

(2) No rule, regulation or order, including change, renewal, or extension thereof, shall, in the absence of an emergency, be made by the board under the provisions of this law, except after a public hearing upon at least seven days' public notice given in such manner and form as may be prescribed by the board. Such public hearing shall be held at such time, place and in such manner as may be prescribed by the board, and any person having any interest in the subject matter of the hearing shall be entitled to be heard.

(3) In the event an emergency is found to exist by the board which, in its judgment, requires the making, changing, renewal or extension of a rule, regulation or order without first having a hearing, it may do so and such emergency rule, regulation or order shall have the same validity as if a hearing with respect to the same had been held after due notice. The emergency rule, regulation or order permitted by this section shall remain in force no longer than thirty days from its effective date, and, in any event, it shall expire when the rule, regulation or order, made after due notice and hearing with respect to the subject matter of such emergency rule, regulation or order becomes effective.

(4) Should the board elect to give notice by personal service, such service may be made by any officer authorized to serve process or by any agent of the board in the same manner as is provided by law for the service of summons in civil actions in the circuit courts of this state. Proof of the service by such officer or agent shall be by the affidavit of the person making personal service.

(5) All rules, regulations and orders made by the board shall be in writing and shall be entered in full by the secretary in a book to be kept for such purpose by the board, which book shall be a public record and be open to inspection at all times during office hours. A copy of such rule, regulation or order, certified by the secretary, shall be received in evidence in all courts of this state with the same effect as the original thereof.

(6) Any interested person shall have the right to have the board call a hearing for the purpose of taking action in respect to any matter within the jurisdiction of the board by making a request therefor in writing. Upon the receipt of such request, the board shall promptly call a hearing thereon, and, after such hearing and with all convenient speed and, in any event, within thirty days after the conclusion of such hearing, shall take such action with regard to the subject matter thereof as it may deem appropriate.

History.—§25, ch. 22819, 1945.

(1) The board, or any member thereof, is hereby empowered to issue subpoenas for witnesses, to require their attendance and the giving of testimony before it, and to require the production of books, papers and records in any proceeding before the board as may be material upon questions lawfully before the board. Such subpoenas shall be served by the sheriff or any other officer authorized by law to serve process in this state. No person shall be excused from attending and testifying, or from producing books, papers and records before the board or a court, or from obedience to the subpoena of the board or a court, on the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture; provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed as requiring any person to produce any books, papers or records, or to testify in response to any inquiry not pertinent to some question lawfully before the board or court for determination. No natural person shall be subjected to criminal prosecution or to any penalty or forfeiture for, or on account of, any transaction, matter or thing concerning which he may be required to testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, before the board or court, or in obedience to its subpoena; provided, that no person testifying shall be exempted from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed in so testifying.

(2) In case of failure or refusal on the part of any person to comply with any subpoena issued by the board or any member thereof, or, in case of the refusal of any witness to testify or answer as to any matter regarding which he may be lawfully interrogated, any circuit court in this state, on the application of the board, may issue an attachment for such person and compel him to comply with such subpoena and to attend before the board and produce such documents, and give his testimony upon such matters as may be lawfully required, and such court shall have the power to punish for contempt as in case of disobedience of like subpoena issued by or from such court, or for refusal to testify therein.

History.—§26, ch. 22819, 1945; (2) §23, ch. 29737, 1955.

(1) Any interested person adversely affected by any statute of this state with respect to conservation of oil or gas, or both, or by provisions of this law, or by any rule, regulation or order made by the board thereunder, or by any act done or threatened thereunder, and who has exhausted his administrative remedy, may obtain court review and seek relief by a suit for injunction against the board as defendant, or the members thereof by suit in the chancery court in the county or counties wherein the property involved is situated, or in the chancery court of Leon county. Such suit shall have precedence over all other causes, proceedings or suits on the docket of a different nature, and the attorney representing the board may have the case set for trial after ten days' notice to the plaintiff or his attorney. Such trial shall be de novo, the burden of proof shall be upon the plaintiff, but the court shall not be bound by the findings of fact by the board, and all legal evidence with respect to the validity and reasonableness of the order of the board complained of shall be admissible. The statute, provision of this law, or the rule, regulation or order complained of shall be taken as prima facie valid, and such presumption shall not be overcome, in connection with any application for injunctive relief, including temporary restraining order, by verified complaint or affidavit of, or in behalf of, the applicant. The right of review accorded by this section shall be inclusive of all other remedies, but the right of appeal shall lie as hereinafter set forth.

(2) No temporary restraining order or injunction shall be granted against the board, or members thereof, or against its attorneys, agents, employees or representatives restraining the board or its members, attorneys, agents, employees or representatives from enforcing any statute of this state relating to conservation of oil or gas, or any of the provisions of this law, or any rule, regulation or order made thereunder, except after due notice, served upon one of the members of the board or its secretary, and after a hearing at which it shall be shown to the court by legal evidence that the act done or threatened is without sanction of law, or that the provisions of this law, or the rule, regulation or order complained of, is invalid or unreasonable, and that if enforced against the complaining party, will cause an irreparable injury. If the board shall so request at such hearing, it shall be entitled to a trial on the merits within ten days after the granting of any temporary order, and, if the plaintiff is not ready for trial at such time, the court shall be authorized to dissolve the temporary restraining order.

(3) No temporary injunction of any kind against the board, or any member or members thereof, or against its attorneys, agents, employees or representatives, shall become effective until the plaintiff shall execute a bond in such amount and upon such conditions as the court may direct. The bond shall be made payable to the governor of the state and his successors in office, shall be approved by the judge of the court, and shall be for the use and benefit of all persons who may be injured by the acts done under the protection of the injunction. All persons claiming injury must bring suit within six months after the date of the final determination of the validity, in whole or in part, of the rule, regulation or order, the enforcement of which was enjoined; otherwise, recovery of such person under the terms of the bond shall be barred and denied.

(1) Whenever it shall appear that any person is violating, or threatening to violate, any statute of this state with respect to the conservation of oil or gas, or both, or any provision of this law, or any rule, regulation or order made thereunder by any act done in the operation of any well producing oil or gas, or by omitting any act required to be done thereunder, the board, through its counsel, may bring suit against such person in the circuit court in the county of Leon, state, or in the circuit court in the county in which the well in question is located, at the option of the board, to restrain such person or persons from continuing such violation or from carrying out the threat of violation. In such suit, the board may obtain injunctions, prohibitory and mandatory, including temporary restraining orders and temporary injunctions, as the facts may warrant, including, when appropriate, an injunction restraining any person from moving or disposing of illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product, and any or all such commodities may be ordered to be impounded or placed under the control of a receiver appointed by the court if, in the judgment of the court, such action is advisable.

(2) In the event the board should fail to bring suit within ten days to enjoin any actual or threatened violation of any statute of this state with respect to the conservation of oil and gas, or of any provision of this law, or of any rule, regulation or order made thereunder, then any person or party in interest adversely affected by such violation, and who has notified the board in writing of such violation, or threat thereof, and has requested the board to sue, may, to prevent any or further violation, bring suit for that purpose in the circuit court of the county of Leon, in the state. If, in such suit, the court should hold that injunctive relief should be granted, then the board shall be made a party and shall be substituted for the person who brought the suit, and the injunction shall be issued as if the board had at all times been the complainant.

(3) If any such defendant cannot be personally served with summons in that county, personal jurisdiction of that defendant in such suit may be obtained by service made upon him or any employee or agent of that defendant at any place in Florida and by the board mailing copy of the complaint in the action to the defendant at the address of the defendant then recorded with the board.

History.—§30, ch. 22819, 1945.

377.35 Suits, proceedings, appeals, etc.—In all proceedings brought under authority of this law, or of any oil or gas conservation statute of this state, or of any rule, regulation or order made thereunder, and in all proceedings instituted for the purpose of contesting the validity of any provision of the law, or of any oil or gas conservation statute of this state, or of any rule, regulation or order issued thereunder, and in all proceedings instituted for the purpose of contesting the validity of any provision of the law, or of any oil or gas conservation statute, or of any rule, regulation or order made thereunder, review may be had pursuant to Art. V, state constitution, the Florida appellate rules and chapter 120.

History.—§31, ch. 22819, 1945; §22, ch. 63-512.

377.36 False entries and statements; incomplete entries, etc.; penalties.—Any person who, for the purpose of evading this law, or of evading any rule, regulation or order made thereunder, shall intentionally make, or cause to be made, any false entry or statement of fact in any report required to be made by this law, or by any rule, regulation or order made hereunder; or who, for such purpose shall make, or cause to be made, any false entry in any account, record or memorandum kept by any person in connection with any provision of this law, or of any rule, regulation or order made thereunder; or who, for such purpose, shall omit to make, or cause to be omitted, full, true and correct entries in such accounts, records or memoranda, of all facts and transactions pertaining to the interest or activities in the petroleum industry of such person, as may be required by the board under authority given in this law, or by any rule, regulation or order made hereunder; or who, for such purpose, shall remove out of the jurisdiction of the state, or who shall mutilate, alter, or, by any other means, falsify any book, record, or other paper pertaining to the transaction regulated by this law, or by any rule, regulation or order made hereunder, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be subject, upon conviction in any court of competent jurisdiction, to a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment for a term of not more than six months, or to both such fine and imprisonment.

(1) Any person who knowingly and willfully violates any provision of this law, or any rule, regulation, or order of the board made hereunder, shall, in the event a penalty for such violation is not otherwise provided for herein, be subject to the payment of liquidated damages to the board of one hundred dollars a day for each and every day of such violation, and for each and every act of violation, such liquidated damages to be recovered in a suit in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county where the defendant resides, or in the county of the residence of any defendant, if there be more than one defendant, or in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county where the violation took place. The place of suit shall be selected by the board, and such suit, by direction of the board, shall be instituted and conducted in the name of the board by counsel for the board. The payment of any damages, as provided for herein, shall not have the effect of changing illegal product into legal product, illegal oil into legal oil, or illegal gas into legal gas, nor shall such payment have the effect of authorizing the sale or purchase or acquisition or the transportation, refining, processing, or handling in any other way, of such illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product, but, to the contrary, liquidated damages shall be imposed for each prohibited transaction relating to such illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product. The payment of any such damages shall not impair or abridge any cause of action which any person may have against the person violating any provision of this law, or any rule, regulation or order, for an injury resulting to him from such violation.

(2) Any person knowingly and willfully aiding or abetting any other person in the violation of any statute of this state relating to the conservation of oil or gas, or the violation of any provision of this law, or any rule, regulation or order made thereunder shall be subject to the same damages as are prescribed herein for the violation by such other person.

History.—§33, ch. 22819, 1945.

377.38 Illegal oil, gas and other products; handling, sale, use, etc., prohibited.—

(1) The sale, purchase or acquisition, or the transportation, refining, processing or handling in any other way of illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product is hereby prohibited.

(2) Unless and until the board provides for certificates of clearance or tenders, or some other method, so that any person may have an opportunity to determine whether any contemplated transaction of sale, purchase or acquisition, or of transportation, refining, processing or handling in any other way, involves illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product, no liquidated damage shall be imposed for the sale, purchase or acquisition, or the transportation, refining, processing or handling in any other way, of illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product, except under circumstances hereinafter stated. Liquidated damages shall be imposed for the commission of each transaction prohibited in this section when the person committing the same knows that illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product is involved in such transaction, or when such person could have known or determined such fact by the exercise of reasonable diligence or from facts within his knowledge. However, regardless of lack of actual notice or knowledge, liquidated damages as provided in this law shall apply in any sale, purchase or acquisition, and to the transportation, refining, processing or handling in any other way, of illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product, where administrative provision is made for identifying the character of the commodity as to its legality. It shall likewise be a violation for which liquidated damages shall be imposed for any person to sell, purchase or acquire, or to transport, refine, process or handle in any other way any oil, gas or any product without complying with all applicable rules, regulations or orders of the board relating thereto.

History.—§34, ch. 22819, 1945.

377.39 Seizure and sale of illegal oil, gas and their products.—

(1) Apart from, and in addition to, any other remedy or procedure which may be available to the board, or any liquidated damages which may be sought against or imposed upon any person with respect to violations relating to illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product, all illegal oil, illegal gas and illegal product shall, except under such circumstances as are stated herein, be contraband and shall be seized and sold, and the proceeds applied as herein provided. Such sale shall not take place unless the court shall find, in the proceeding provided for in this subsection, that the commodity involved is contraband. Whenever the board believes that illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product is subject to seizure and sale, as provided herein, it shall, through its counsel, bring a civil action in rem for that purpose in the circuit court of the county where the commodity is found, or the action may be maintained in connection with any suit or cross action for injunction or for liquidated damages relating to any prohibited transaction involving such illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product. Any interested person, who may show himself to be adversely affected by any such seizure and sale, shall have the right to intervene in such suit to protect his rights.

(2) The action referred to above shall be strictly in rem and shall proceed in the name of the state as plaintiff against the illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product mentioned in the complaint, as defendant, and no bond or bonds shall be required of the plaintiff in connection therewith. Upon the filing of the complaint, the clerk of the court shall issue a summons directed to the sheriff of the county, or to such other officer or person as the court may authorize to serve process, requiring him to summon any and all persons without undertaking to name them, who may be interested in the illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product mentioned in the complaint to appear and answer within thirty days after the issuance and service of such summons. The summons shall contain the style and number of the suit and a very brief statement of the nature of the cause of action. It shall be served by posting one copy thereof at the courthouse door of the county where the commodity involved in the suit is alleged to be located and by posting another copy thereof near the place where the commodity is alleged to be located. One copy of such summons shall be posted at least five days before the return day stated therein, and the posting of such copy shall constitute constructive possession of such commodity by the state. A copy of the summons shall also be published once each week for four successive weeks in some newspaper published in the county where the suit is pending and having a bona fide circulation therein if such a newspaper is published. No judgment shall be pronounced by any court condemning such commodity as contraband until after the lapse of five days from the last publication or posting of said summons. Proof of service of said summons, and the manner thereof, shall be provided by general law.

(3) Where it appears by a verified pleading on the part of the plaintiff or by affidavit or affidavits, or by oral testimony, that grounds for the seizure and sale exist, the clerk, in addition to the summons or warning order, shall issue an order of seizure, which shall be signed by the clerk and bear the seal of the court. Such order of seizure shall specifically describe the illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product, so that the same may be identified with reasonable certainty. It shall direct the sheriff to whom it is addressed to take into his custody, actual or constructive, the illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product described therein, and to hold the same subject to the orders of the court. Said order of seizure shall be executed as a writ of attachment is executed. No bond shall be required before the issuance of such order of seizure, and the sheriff shall be responsible upon his official bond for the proper execution thereof.

(4) In a proper case, the court may direct the sheriff to deliver the custody of any illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product, seized by him under an order of seizure, to a receiver or conservator to be appointed by the court, which receiver or conservator shall act as the agent of the court and shall give bond with such approved surety as the court may direct, conditioned that he will faithfully conserve such illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product, as may come into his custody and possession in accordance with the order of the court; provided, that the court may in its discretion appoint any member of the board or any agent of the board as such receiver or conservator.

(5) Sales of illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product made under the authority of this law, and notices of such sales, shall be in accordance with the laws of this state relating to the sale and disposition of attached property; provided, however, that where the property is in the custody of a receiver or conservator, the sale shall be held by said receiver or conservator, and not by the sheriff. For his services hereunder, such receiver or conservator shall receive a reasonable fee to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale or sales to be fixed by the court ordering such sale.

(6) The court may order that the commodity be sold in specified lots or portions, and at specified intervals, instead of being sold at one time. Title to the amount sold shall pass as of the date of the act which is found by the court to make the commodity contraband. The judgment shall provide for payment of the proceeds of the sale into the general revenue fund, after first deducting the costs in connection with the proceedings and the sale. The amount sold shall be treated as legal oil, legal gas or legal product, as the case may be, in the hands of the purchaser, but the purchaser and the commodity shall be subject to all applicable laws, and rules, regulations and orders with respect to further sale or purchase or acquisition, and with respect to the transportation, refining, processing or handling in any other way, of the commodity purchased.

(7) Nothing in this section shall deny or abridge any cause of action a royalty owner, or a lien holder, or any other claimant, may have, because of the forfeiture of the illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product, against the person whose act resulted in such forfeiture. No illegal oil, illegal gas or illegal product shall be sold for less than the average market value at the time of sale of similar products of like grade and character.

History.—§35, ch. 22819, 1945.
cf.—§377.19(12), (13) Definitions "Illegal Oil" and "Illegal Gas."

377.40 Negligently permitting gas and oil to go wild or out of control.—

(1) In order to protect further the gas fields and oil fields in the state, it is hereby declared to be unlawful for any person to permit negligently any gas or oil well to go wild or to get out of control. The owner of any such well shall, after twenty-four hours' written notice by the board given to him or the person in possession of such well, make reasonable effort to control such well.

(2) In the event of the failure of the owner of such well, within twenty-four hours after service of notice above provided for, to control the same, if such can be done within the period or to begin, in good faith upon service of such notice, operations to control such well, or upon failure to prosecute diligently such operations, then the board shall have the right to take charge of the work of controlling such well, and it shall have the right to proceed, through its own agents or by contract with a responsible contractor, to control the well or otherwise to prevent the escape or loss of gas or oil from such well, all at the reasonable expense of the owner of the well. In order to secure the board in the payment of the reasonable cost and expense of controlling or plugging of such well, the board shall retain the possession of the same and shall be entitled to receive and retain the rents, revenues and income therefrom until the costs and expenses incurred by the board shall be repaid. When all such costs and expenses have been repaid, the board shall restore possession of such well to the owner; provided, that in the event the income received by the board shall not be sufficient to reimburse the board, as provided for in this section, the board shall have lien or privilege upon all of the property of the owner of such well, except such as is exempt by law, and the board shall proceed to enforce such lien or privilege by suit brought in any court of competent jurisdiction, the same as any other like civil action, and the judgment so obtained shall be executed in the same manner now provided by law for execution of judgments. Any excess over the amount due the board which the property seized and sold may bring, after payment of court costs, shall be paid over to the owner of such well.

378.01 Creation of flood control district.—Any contiguous body of land in this state may be created into a district for the following purposes:

(1) To cooperate with the United States in the manner provided by congress for flood control, reclamation, conservation and allied purposes in protecting the inhabitants, the land and other property within the district from the effects of a surplus or a deficiency of water when the same may be beneficial to the public health, welfare, safety and utility.

(2) To plan, construct, operate and maintain works of the district as hereinafter defined.

(3) To determine, establish and control level of waters to be maintained in all canals, lakes, rivers, channels, reservoirs, streams or other bodies of water owned or maintained by the district, and to maintain such waters at the levels so determined and established by means of dams, locks, flood gates, dikes and other structures; and to regulate the discharge into or withdrawal from the canals, lakes, rivers, channels, reservoirs, streams or other bodies of water owned or maintained by the district, or which are a work of the district.

(4) To have general control and supervision over canals, lakes, rivers, ditches, channels, reservoirs, streams or other bodies of water which are owned, maintained, or which are a work of the district, insofar as the quality of water may affect the public health, welfare, safety and utility of said bodies of water. To prevent the deposit, directly or indirectly, in any of the canals, lakes, rivers, ditches, channels, reservoirs, streams or other bodies of water which are owned, maintained, or which are a work of the district, by any person, firm, company, corporation or association, in this state, or the managing agent of any person, firm, company, corporation or association in this state or any duly elected, appointed, or lawfully created officers of any county, city, town, municipality, or municipal government, or any person or persons in their employ or under their control, management or direction, of any rubbish, filth or poisonous or deleterious substance or substances, liable to affect the health of persons, fish or livestock, providing nothing herein shall be construed to affect in any manner the responsibility, powers, duties and functions vested in the state board of health under any other provision of law.

(5) In effectuating this chapter, the standards of the state board of health shall be used by the district in determination of quality of water and substance or substances to be prevented from entering the waters of the district. The said authority to control and supervise the quality of water and to prevent deposits in the waters mentioned shall be concurrent with the state board of health; provided, however, that said authority to control and supervise the quality of water and to prevent deposits in the waters mentioned shall not be exercised unless and until the state board of health after study and determination of a specific request of the district has certified to the district that the quality of any water under the jurisdiction of the district is injurious to the health of persons, fish or livestock.

(6) In order to make the greatest beneficial use of the waters of the district, it is hereby declared that there shall be the fullest cooperation and exchange of information between the district and the state board of health in the making of any surveys, investigations and inquiries to be made for the purpose of determining whether or in what manner the use of the waters may affect the public health or welfare.

works of said districts, for the acquisition of lands for water storage areas, for highway bridge construction, for administration and promotion. Said sum or sums shall be available as money is required for said purposes and may be a grant to said districts. Also subject to the provisions of this chapter there shall be available to any navigation district or agency created under chapter 374 or by special act of the legislature out of said water resources development account upon approval of the State Board of Conservation a sum or sums of money not exceeding in the aggregate the total estimated amount required to cover the costs allocated to the district for constructing the works, for highway bridge construction, for the acquisition of land for rights-of-way, for water storage areas, for administration and promotion. The resolution shall show the total estimated cost allocated to the district or agency for providing the works, for land for water storage areas, for rights of way, for highway bridge construction or for administration and promotion of said district or agency and shall pledge that said money shall be applied solely to the purposes specified. 378.11 Objections to creating district.—Any owner of real estate within the proposed district may file his objections with the clerk of the circuit court of the county in which said real estate is located, in writing, not later than the day named in said notice. If there be more than one county in or partly within said district, the clerk of the circuit court of each county shall forward, within five days after the rule day named in said notice, all objections filed with him to the clerk of the circuit court of the county having the largest population as determined by the last census, state or federal, and thereafter the circuit court of said county shall maintain and have original and exclusive jurisdiction coextensive with the boundaries of the said district without regard to county lines for all purposes of this chapter.

378.12 Court to set date for and to hear objections.—

(1) Within five days after the clerk of the circuit court of the county having jurisdiction of the subject as described in §378.11 shall have received the objections transmitted to him by clerks of the circuit courts of other counties, if such there be having lands in said district, said clerk shall notify the senior circuit judge of the circuit court of the judicial district in which said county is situate that objections, or no objections, have been filed and shall deliver all such objections, if any there be, to said judge, or such other judge as may be designated by him, and thereupon the court shall have jurisdiction of the subject. Such objections, if any there be, shall be heard by the court either in term time or vacation in a summary manner without unnecessary delay on a day to be named by the judge thereof.

(2) Notice of said hearing shall be published in a newspaper in each county having lands within said proposed district once each week for two consecutive weeks, the last notice to appear not less than one nor more than two weeks prior to the date of said hearing.

(3) Upon the hearing, which may be adjourned from time to time, for good cause shown, of the said objections, if any have been filed, if the court shall be of the opinion that the establishment of the said district and the improvements to be made thereunder will be for the advantage of the owners of the real property therein or that the same would be in the interest of the public health, convenience or welfare, and that the benefits to accrue to property and to the inhabitants of said district will be of value greater than the estimated cost to be borne by said district as set forth in the petition, he shall overrule said objections; and in case all such objections are overruled, or in case no such objections have been filed, the court thereupon shall, by its order duly entered of record, declare and decree said district a public corporation of this state, for a term not exceeding the time mentioned in said petition, and shall adjudge the costs against the district to be paid by it in the manner provided in this chapter. Any person aggrieved by the final order of the circuit court may appeal therefrom to the appropriate district court of appeal in the manner and within the time provided by the Florida appellate rules.

(4) Immediately after the district has been declared a corporation by the court, the clerk thereof shall transmit to the secretary of state to be filed by him a certified copy of the findings and decree of the court incorporating said district. (3) Members to compose said board shall be appointed by the governor subject to confirmation of the senate at the then or next succeeding legislative session. (3) The chairman and members of the board shall receive no compensation for such services, but while officially on work for the district shall receive their actual traveling expenses, and subsistence and lodging, not to exceed the statutory amount allowed state officers and employees, and for other expenses in the actual amount incurred therefor.

(3) Provided, however, that no obligation or taxes of any subdistrict shall be or become an obligation of the major district, nor shall said subdistrict have authority over the works of the major district, nor the major district over the works of the subdistrict except for the purpose of prescribing the manner in which said works shall be connected with and make use of the works of the major district as provided in this chapter.

History.—§18, ch. 25209, 1949.

378.19 Cost of organizing district.—

(1) The governing board of the district, as soon as convenient after its creation, shall levy a uniform tax to be assessed and collected in like manner as county taxes, against all real estate within the district not exceeding three-tenths mill on the dollar of valuation as de-terminated for that year by the tax assessor of each county having land in said district for the purpose of paying the expense incurred or to be incurred in organizing said district. The proceeds from said tax shall be applied to the purpose described and any balance or surplus remaining thereafter shall be placed to the account of said district to be used for such purposes as the governing board may direct.

(2) If it should appear necessary to procure funds with which to pay expense of organizing said district before a sufficient sum can be obtained from the collection of said tax, the board may borrow a sufficient amount of money to meet emergencies and may issue interest bearing negotiable notes therefor and pledge the proceeds of the tax imposed under the provisions of this section for the repayment thereof. Said board may issue to any person performing work or services, or furnishing anything of value in the organization of said district, interest bearing negotiable evidence of debt.

378.20 To pay cost of works.—For the purpose of paying the cost of the works of said district, the maintenance, operation, and cost of administration, and such other costs as the governing board may determine to be necessary on account of said district, all real estate in said district benefited or to be benefited by the works thereof shall be subject to the taxes provided for in this chapter, and the governing board of said district is hereby authorized to impose annual taxes against the real property in said district benefited by the works thereof.

History.—§20, ch. 25209, 1949; §1, ch. 61-147.

(1) As soon as convenient after the creation of said district, the governing board shall determine maximum annual benefits on a relative basis to be derived from the works of the district. Relative benefits shall be determined on the basis of one hundred representing maximum. The minimum benefits which may be ascribed as resulting from the works of the district shall be one. Intermediate degrees of benefits shall be expressed in parts of one hundred. Complete absence of benefits shall be indicated by zero.

(2) When maximum annual benefits shall have been determined, the governing board shall annually thereafter impose taxes on a value benefit basis so as to take into account the value of the property, its kind, susceptibility to improvement, and the maximum annual benefits to be conferred thereon by the works of said district. The board shall determine the over-all benefits accruing or which will accrue from the works of said district. In all respects the benefits found for district taxing purposes shall be those resulting from the works of said district only. The governing board may determine areas of benefits by zones, and place in the same zone areas of equal benefit, or follow such other method as may be deemed suitable for that purpose. Areas having equal benefits shall be taxed at an equal benefit ratio.

(3) Each year the governing board of the district shall determine the percentage or part of the maximum annual benefits theretofore fixed, to be applied in arriving at the tax rate for the current tax year, and timely for the purpose shall certify said rate to the tax assessor of the county in which the real estate subject to the tax is situate. The basis of value shall be that determined by the tax assessor for county taxing purposes of the county in which the real estate is situate.

(4) The base millage to be applied in determining the tax rate is hereby fixed for all property in said district as three-tenths mill on the dollar of assessed value. The annual tax rate shall be ascertained by multiplying three-tenths mill by the part or percentage, as determined by the board for that year, of maximum annual benefits theretofore determined. The amount of the district tax for any year on each piece or parcel of real estate shall be arrived at as follows:

The value of the property as assessed for county purposes multiplied by three-tenths mill, multiplied by the part or per cent of maximum annual benefits as determined by the governing board of the district. In no event or circumstance shall the tax rate of said district as herein authorized for any year exceed a millage in excess of three mills on the dollar of the general county assessed valuation as determined for that year by the tax assessor of the respective counties having lands in the district.

NOTICE is hereby given to all persons who are owners of real estate within.....District that for the purpose of determining amounts of taxes to be assessed annually upon all real estate within said district which will be benefited by the works of said district, the governing board thereof has ascertained benefits which will accrue and has shown the same on a list with the property affected thereby or on a map of said district filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of each county having lands in said district, where any person interested therein may examine the same and procure information therefrom. Based on the part or percentage to be determined each year by said board, of the maximum annual benefits to be hereby determined, taxes will be imposed on said real estate at a tax rate to be ascertained by multiplying three-tenths mill by the part or proportion for that year of maximum annual benefits.

Any owner of real estate in said district may file his objections, if any there be, to the benefits as ascertained by the governing board as the same affects real estate owned by him. Such objections shall be in writing, and filed with the board not later than ten days prior to the.....day of....., 19....., on which last named day the board will hold a hearing at the office of the board, at which any person having filed objections in the manner specified, or the representative or attorney for such person, may appear and be heard orally in support of his filed objections.

In such case the board shall afford opportunity to be heard on the petition and dispose of the same in a manner similar to that provided in §378.23 in reference to determination of benefits by the board; or the governing board of the district may on its own account adjust benefits to any property in the district. If such adjustments be upward, then a hearing shall be held in the manner provided in other cases.
